27 British Soldiers Die In Train Blasted By Bombs

JERUSALEM, March 1 (AP)—The Stern Gang said today it set the triple blast which wrecked three railroad sleepers yesterday, killing 27 British troops and injuring 33.

"This is our answer for last Sunday's Ben Yehuda Street crime," the Jewish underground group declared. It referred to the Jerusalem bombing which killed 54 Jews Feb. 22.

The British Mandate Government told the Jews that continuation of "murder and condoned terrorism can only lead to forfeiture by the community of all rights in the eyes of the world to be numbered among civilized people."

The statement accused the Jewish agency of excusing itself of responsibility for terrorist acts such as yesterday's train bombing through "calculated innuendoes, falsehoods and propaganda."

The Jewish agency, the representative of the Jewish people in all matters pertaining to the building of a Jewish national home, has asserted earlier in a statement that it "abhors incidents such as yesterday's train bombing."

Hagana, Jewish militia, said it had "unconfirmed reports" that British troops had arrested 24 Jews at Mikve Israel, near Tel Aviv, last night and had "turned them over to an Arab mob as retaliation" for the train attack.

A police source in Jerusalem said it had reports the 24 Jews were taken by soldiers from a spirits factory at Mikve Israel and released in all-Arab Jaffa.

Lt.-Gen. G. H. A. MacMillan, commander of British forces in Palestine, said three mines shattered the wooden troop cars near

4 Dead, 2 Missing In River As Car Plunges Off Road

PORT COLBORNE, March 1—(CP).—Two men and two women are dead and another man and woman are missing today after the automobile in which they were returning from a gay tavern party made a wrong turn late Saturday and plunged into the Welland ship canal.

All four dead were drowned. Their bodies were recovered Sunday when the car was hoisted from the bottom of a 15-foot deep canal weir at Humberstone, a mile north of here.

Dead are:

William D. Rogers, 45, of Welland, owner and driver of the car.

Arthur Morningstar, Rogers' nephew, of nearby Crowland.

Frances Garner, 36, of Welland.

Mrs. Melvin Keeler, 38, Miss Garner's sister, of Crowland.

Missing are Mrs. Harry Rivett, about 38, mother of nine children, of Crowland and James Hart of Welland.

An eyewitness account of the tragedy was given by Mr. and Mrs. Jack McKay, residents of a dead-end street leading to the weir.

They saw the car turn into the street and speed toward the canal shortly after midnight. There was a blinding flash of light as the car hit a guy wire on the canal bank. The wire flew up and short-circuited a hydro connection. Then the car splashed into the water and sank.

For a time both firemen and police who were called by the McKays could see the car's lights still burning under the murky, frigid water. Its roof was torn off.

After the bodies were removed, police checked a report that Hart and Mrs. Rivett also were members of the party being driven home in the car.

Mrs. Rivett and Mr. Hart did not appear at their homes in Crowland and Welland, respectively, today, and police feared they were in the ill-fated automobile. It is believed their bodies might have escaped from the vehicle and floated away in a strong current.

"Times" Editor Dies At Age 57

DAR-ES-SALAAM, Tanganyika, March 1 — (CP).—Robert McGowan Barrington-Ward, 57-year-old editor of the Times of London, died Sunday while en route home from a vacation in Kenya. Barrington-Ward, who died aboard the liner Llangibby Castle, was buried later in the day. He was a member of a talented Cornwall family. One brother was a King's Counsel, another a British railways executive and two were distinguished students.

The Times editor was graduated with honors from Oxford and studied law at Lincoln's Inn. During that period he served for a year as editorial secretary on the Times staff.

He worked eight years on the staff of the London Observer under the editorship of the late J. L. Garvin before rejoining the Times in 1927 as an asistant to editor Geoffrey Dawson.

He became deputy editor in 1934 and was credited with a large share in shaping the policy of the newspaper.

He succeeded Dawson in 1941 and was generally considered one of the worthiest men ever to occupy the senior editorial chair in Fleet Street.

In London, the Times reported his death "We announce with the deepest regret. . . ."—a phrase reserved for the deaths of the most distinguished persons.

The Times added: "No editor in a long line has given to his work greater integrity and honesty of purpose." No mention was made of a successor.

Polecat Snubbed

YONKERS, NY, March 1—(AP).—The ferryboat John J. Walsh of the Yonkers-Alpine Line chugged off three minutes ahead of schedule yesterday because Skipper Russell Peterson scented trouble. As his vessel lay at Alpine, NJ, Peterson saw a skunk on the dock making for the boat. Since passengers or vehicles were approaching the boat Peterson signalled for a hurried takeoff, just beating the polecat by a nose.

Believe Hiscox Took Own Life

TORONTO, March 1.—(CP).—Police said today that information gathered during the week-end from underworld acquaintances of Hubert Hiscox convinces them that he took his own life when trapped in the office of a north-end construction company early Saturday. Hiscox was killed in a nitroglycerine explosion while apparently attempting to open the office safe.

Hiscox was said to have told friends that if he were caught again he would kill himself rather than spend another term in Kingston Penitentiary.

Detectives who investigated the blast said they believed he ran back from the safe about 25 feet and deliberately detonated a bottle of nitroglycerine.

The fatal blast did not result from the detonation of explosives placed in the safe hinges.

Hiscox is believed to have been a member of the notorious Polka Dot gang of which the four remaining members are serving prison terms.

Bread Retailer Pressured

Claims Had To Charge Higher Price

OTTAWA, March 1 — (CP). — Hughes Cleaver (L—Halton), member of the Commons price committee, said today a bread retailer had charged his supply would be cut off if he did not maintain retail prices set by bakers.

His claim followed denials in in the committee evidence last week that bakers resorted to this practice to keep up the selling price of their products.

Mr. Cleaver said a retailer had told him over the week-end he had wanted to sell bread at 12 cents a loaf—two cents less than the baker's indicated selling price—and he had been told that if he did, he would get no more supplies.

The committee member urged that witnesses be brought before the committee to give evidence on this alleged practice.

At today's opening, Health Minister Martin, committee chairman, announced an opportunity would be given to consumers' organizations to be heard. This would probably be around March 11 or 12.

He said several groups, including the Canadian Consumers' Association, were "pressing hard" for a hearing.

At today's outset commission counsel H. A. Dyde suggested that the committee, in continuing its inquiry into bread prices, direct particular attention a recent one-cent increase in the loaf price, rather than to a three-cent boost undertaken last September.

Danger of Foreign Coup Fades In Br. Honduras

BELIZE, British Horduras, March 1—(Reuters).—Diplomatic advices from Guatemala last week deferred to the strong probability of an airborne attempt to seize Belize and the rest of British Honduras by a bloodless coup, it was disclosed here today.

Five Dakota aircraft were known to be at an airfield near the border, and it was feared they might be used to ferry troops in to Belize airfield, where no force was immediately available to counter such a move.

Before the arrival three days ago of the British cruiser Sheffield, there were no guns or fully-equipped men to defend the airfield.

Diplomatic reports from Guatemala suggested the attempt was planned to take place before today, when the Guatelaman Congress opens.

The time for such a move, however, is past. Any move by the Guatemalans would immediately produce bloodshed and violence, which they are not expected to risk.

Any airborne attempt would certainly be routed by British forces now patrolling there.

An official said he does not think a landing from the sea is a serious possibility.

Invasion of land would have to come down the narrow swamp-lined road linking the two countries, now strongly guarded, and the whole population has been put on the alert to repel any attack.

The cruiser Devonshire arrived here today from Kingston, Jamaica.

60 Arrested In Greek Mutiny

ATHENS, March 1 (Reuters)—Sixty seamen and non-commissioned officers of the Greek Royal Navy have been arrested for attempting to organize a rising and to seize boats to join the Greek Communist guerrillas, it was authoritatively reported here today.

They will be tried by a military court.

Arrest of 100 other Greek sailors in the last few months was also disclosed today. They were held on charges alleging sabotage plans on board two destroyers.

Athens newspapers said today Greek forces had chased guerrillas from 16 villages near the Albanian border.

"Violent hand-to-hand fighting" occurred in many sections, the accounts said. Informed military sources said the operation, on a loose 30-mile front, is the most extensive ever undertaken in Epirus.

The drive started Saturday.

To Appeal Conviction

WELLAND, March 1 —(CP)—Counsel for Edwin Farrington, 20, and Norman Kindy, 17, Stamford township youths sentenced to hang April 28 for the murder of 57-year-old James Bell, said today they would serve notice of appeal from the conviction.

During the week-long trial ending Feb. 3, statements made by the pair to American and Canadian police were ruled inadmissable as evidence.

23 Lives Lost In Plane Crash

RIO DE JANEIRO, March 1 — (AP).—Only three of 26 persons aboard survived the crash of a Brazilian Air Force transport near Belem, an Asapress News Agency dispatch said today.

The plane carried six crew members and 20 passengers, including two women and six children. The Asapress dispatch said the survivors were a sergeant, a woman and a child.

The plane was en route from Rio de Janeiro to Cayenne, French Guiana, when it crashed in the jungle. It had been missing since Saturday night. The crew had asked for emergency landing instructions in a radio message heard at Belem.

Combined High Command Still Alive In Washington

WASHINGTON, March 1. (AP)—The United States and Britain are retaining in these days of uncertain peace the combined military high command that operated during most of the war.

Quartered in one of the most heavily-guarded sections of the Pentagon Building, with all but specially-approved visitors barred, is the headquarters of the "combined chiefs of staff."

The only official description of the day to day work is terse and not particularly illuminating: "The combined chiefs of staff consider and decide questions deriving from the wartime co-operation of Great Britain and the United States."

However, it is known that the agency provides a clearing house for a direct exchange of ideas on equipment, weapons and tactics of all military branches of the two powers.

The combined chiefs are neighbors of another highly-secret group of officers. Along an adjacent corridor are the offices of the "armed forces special weapons project" dealing with guided missiles, atomic weapons and other less-known instruments of destruction.

The combined chiefs are seven men, four from the United States, three from Britain. The American members are Admiral William D. Leahy, chief of staff to the president; Admiral Louis E. Denfeld, chief of naval operations; Gen. Omar N. Bradley, army chief of staff; and Gen. Carl Spaatz, air force chief of staff. British members are Admiral Sir Harry Moore, Gen. Sir William Morgan and Air Chief Marshall Sir Guy Garrod.

The organization was created in February, 1942, as the result of an agreement between the late President Roosevelt and former Prime Minister Churchill.

Train Hits Jigger; 2 Men Killed

Approach Not Seen Through Storm, Smoke; Bodies Badly Crushed

COBOURG, March 1 (ENS)—Walter Henry, 64, and John Hambly, 51, CPR employees, were instantly killed on Saturday when their jigger car was struck by an eastbound CPR freight about four miles east of here.

At the time of the collision, smoke from a CNR passenger train on the adjacent tracks, hung low over the area, and this, coupled with the noise of the train and a driving sleet storm, prevented the men on the jigger from seeing or hearing the oncoming freight.

The engineer on the freight said later that he didn't see the jigger car until it suddenly appeared out of the smoke, too late for either to stop.

The impact smashed the car to bits and the bodies of the men were almost unrecognizable. Identification was made from copies of orders found on the men.

The engineer was W. Woodruff, conductor was A. Gibb and fireman, L. Breen, all of Toronto. Coroner Dr. W. Wilkins was called to the scene and the investigation was conducted by Provincial Constable Don Nicol of Cobourg. An inquest will be held.

The funeral of Mr. Henry was held this afternoon with interment at Blackstock. He was born at Cannington and was with the CPR for 38 years, of which 36 were as section foreman. He came to Cobourg in 1911. Mr. Henry on the night before his death had filled out his papers for retirement pension and would have retired at the end of October of this year.

Mr. Henry was married twice. His first wife died several years ago. Surviving from his first marriage are two sons, Ross of Cobourg and Henry of Norwood and two daughters, Mrs. Delbert Friar of Cobourg and Mrs. Kenneth Wood of Simcoe. Also surviving are his second wife and a three year old son, Lynn. He has a sister, Mrs. James Henry at Blackstock and two brothers, Meredith of Kingston and Talmadge of Enniskillen.

Mr. Hambly will be buried tomorrow at Orangeville. He was a signal maintainer with the railroad and had been on the CPR for 27 years, working at Orangeville, Agincourt, Guelph Junction, Titchburne and Cobourg. He had been at Cobourg for six years.

He is survived by his widow who was Emma Lynn of Madoc, and a son, Walter of Cobourg; two brothers, Alfred and Allan at Orangeville and two sisters, Mrs. Rena Herman and Mrs. Mary Smart, both of Toronto.

'Stop The Reds' Papers Demand

LONDON, March 1.—(AP). — London's morning newspapers almost unanimously called today for action now to stop Russian expansion.

Strikingly similar editorials appeared in newspapers of both the Right and Moderate Left.

The Conservative Daily Graphic said:

"The United States should tell Russia, explicitly and forcibly, that if she moves another mile forward in Europe, then atom bombs will rain on the Soviet Union."

The Daily Herald, Labor, headlined its leading editorial: "Peace or war?"

"The Soviet policy is sinister," it declared, "and the western peoples would be reckless if they ignored its implications. But we would add this: The western democracies should not be content with closing their ranks in the anticipation of conflict. They should simultaneously make a renewed effort to enlist Russian co-operation in the world-wide partnership which was planned in the San Francisco charter."

Th Conservative Daily Mail urged speed in organizing the European recovery program and economic and military pacts with the United States.

Pie—In The Face

CHICAGO, March 1 (AP).—Anthony Stacy, 48, complained to police that Marie Bochantine, 33, a waitress, serves pie like a tennis professional. He signed an assault charge against Mrs. Bochantine. "I walked into the restaurant and ordered pineapple pie, but she threw it at me as though I were across the street," Stacy told police. "The plate broke on the counter and cut my face." Mrs. Bochantine said, "I just got fed up with irritable customers."

Two Attendants In Asylums Fired For Cruelty

TORONTO, March 1 (CP). — Two attendants of Ontario hospitals have been discharged during the last two years because of cruelty to patients, Hon. Russell Kelley, Ontario Minister of Health, said to-day.

"Last year I brought in all the superintendents of Ontario Mental Hospitals to a meeting where I asked particularly if there was any cruelty toward patients by attendants," Mr. Kelley said. "The superintendents all said there was no cruelty so far as they knew. They were then told that if any cruelty were found to exist the attendant responsible was to be discharged immediately. So far two attendants have been discharged because of their action toward patients."

Mr. Kelley was answering the charges made here yesterday at a Bathurst Street United Church Forum by D. M. LeBourdais, former member of the staff of the Canadian National Committee for Mental Hygiene, that attendants in Ontario Hospitals had been guilty of cruelty to patients.

Mr. Kelley said there is a definite ruling applying to all Ontario hospitals that under no conditions must cruelty of an attendant be allowed or condoned.

"There is no excuse acceptable. We have 2,000 employees in mental hospitals in Ontario and it is humanly impossible to be responsible for all of them. All one can do is advise superintendents that if anyone is found being cruel, they must be discharged immediately."

Streetcars Collide

TORONTO, March 1 —(CP)—Three Toronto persons were injured and several others shaken up when two street cars collided at Bathurst and Davenport Sts. in west-end Toronto today.

Police blamed slippery streets for the collision which held up traffic for half an hour and caused many workers to be late reporting at their places of business.

What Crash, Buddy?

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1 (AP)—A country correspondent telephoned the Chronicle last night to report that a motorcycle cop had fallen off his machine in nearby Napa county. "Where was he going?" asked Editor Larry McManus. "Oh," said the correspondent, "he was going to the airplane crash."

(The Chronicle and The Associated Press are still trying to find the plane crash.)

Urged Spend 10 Billion On Air Power

Impending Tragedy Of Aggression Said Very Real

WASHINGTON, March 1. — (AP).—Congress heard a call from its own aviation experts today to make the United States supreme in the air because the political and industrial phases of "the next war" have already begun.

"Civilization stands vulnerable to annihilation," the 10-member Congressional Aviation Policy Board declared.

The six Republicans and four Democrats who reported on a seven-month study said the United States needs 35,000 fighting planes and must be ready to spend nearly $10,000,000,000 a year to make air power the "dominating factor in maintaining world peace."

"To defend ourselves in the age of atomic bombs, of radioactive dust, of bacteriological contamination and guided missles — to mention some of the new and terrible weapons—we must have air power that is supreme," they said.

"It is folly to pretend that the world does not live under a sense of impending tragedy. Deliberately and continuously we are faced with the possibility of aggressive attack . . .

"The political phase of the next war has been actively engaged in since VE-Day—and the industrial phase is clearly recognizable."

The best answer, would be a "Magna Carta of world defence" written in the United Nations, to whose inspectors modern weapons could be surrendered. However, because it is "tragic but true" that no such answer is in prospect, the policy board said these first steps must be taken.

1. Immediate action to resolve the conflict that is delaying a unified military plan.

2. Build toward a 70-group air force with 20,541 planes and a naval air arm with 14,500 planes —about double the present total.

3. Give top research priority to applying atomic power to aircraft.

Canada Needs Critics—Davies

TORONTO, March 1 —(CP)—Robertson Davies, editor of the Peterborough Examiner, said today that one of Canada's chief needs is a group of trained, experienced and intelligent critics capable of helping in the artistic development of the country.

Addressing the Canadian Club of Toronto, Mr. Davies, a playwright and author, said there is a surprising amount of artistic activity of all sorts in Canada but there is need for critics who can encourage the good, discourage the bad and act as informed go-betweens for artists and public.

Ignorance and indifference showed by Canadian publications led Canadians to look to the United States and Britain for criticism of the arts. In many cases good Canadian critics were considered "too good" for criticism and were therefore placed in some other position.

"But you can't be too good to be a critic," said Mr. Davies.

Nab Female Nazi Party Chief

Was Believed To Have Been Suicide In 1945

FRANKFURT, March 1—(AP).—Arrest of Frau Gertrud Scholtz-Klink, 46, head of the women's branch of the Nazi party throughout the war, was announced today by agents of the United States Army. She was long thought to be dead.

She was apprehended near Teublingen, in the French zone, yesterday on a secret tip. With her was a one-time aide of Heinrich Himmler, S.S. (Elite Guard) Col. August Heissmeyer, to whom Frau Scholtz-Klink was married in 1940. He also was arrested.

The agents said Heissmeyer was carrying a poison vial but made no effort to use it.

Frau Scholtz-Klink, who was reported to have taken her own life at Konstanz in April, 1945, was wanted by the United Nations War Crimes Commission.

She was known for her exhortations echoing those of Adolf Hitler to German women to bear many children, the agents said. In 1940, when she married Heissmeyer, she had four children. Heissmeyer at that time had six.

Officials said she was regarded as a close associate of Hitler and was director of women's party work, for 12 years, until the end of the war.

'Will Of People' Czech Leader Tells Reporters

PRAGUE, March 1. (AP)—New cabinet ministers told foreign reporters today the events last week giving Communists control of the Czechoslovak government were the will of the people.

Vaclav Kopecky, Communist information minister, told a press conference questioner "no figure is available" on the number arrested or how many persons were expelled from their positions. He declined also to identify the western powers Premier Klement Gottwald asserted were behind "reactionaries" in the former government.

The cabinet will meet tomorrow for the first time. The Communist leaders already have made broad promises to farmers and workers.

One minister told the reporters constitutional elections would be held in the prescribed time before parliament is due to adjourn June 7. Alois Nuemann, National Socialist minister of posts, said however the crisis and the crush of legislation might cause a legal postponement. Kopecky said foreign correspondents would be allowed to report the election.

Kopecky said the Czechoslovak public is indignant at stories in the foreign press about the setting up of the "people's republic."

"Nowhere has so revolutionary a change taken place in so peaceful a manner as the Czechoslovak evolution," he said.

Vlado Clementis, under-secretary of state for foreign affairs, told a Communist youth audience yesterday the foreign press "has started a campaign against us." He said it was the worst since that of Paul Joseph Goebbels, Hitler's propaganda minister.

Communist premier Klement Gottwald, addressing a farmers' rally, promised up to 120 acres for each of those working the land. He urged the output of more food to help workers fulfill an industrial two-year plan.

Julius Duris, minister of agriculture, laid down a broad farm aid program of land. Loans and subsidies to be accomplished by independence day, Oct. 28.

The Communist-controlled government radio had predicted Saturday that 130,000 farmers would take part in the rally. Less than a quarter of that number did.

Rude Pravo, Prague Communist newspaper, printed Gottwald's statement that the Communist party, in a drive for more members, had raised its goal from 1,500,000 to 2,000,000.

Most officials were pledging legislation for farmers and workers before the election. They did not say when the election would be.

A Prague movie house named "Cinema Freedom" withdrew on Saturday an American film on underground resistance to German occupation. The movie, which had run only one day, starred Charles Laughton and was called "Crushed Country."

(Laughton said in Los Angeles the movie, shown in the United States as "This Land is Mine," was a "strong picture against occupation of any kind.")

Believe 12 Men Adrift On Ice

PORT COLBORNE, March 1.—(CP).—A fresh search today is expected to reveal whether any fishermen were cast adrift during the week-end when strong north winds opened great rifts in Lake Erie's offshore ice.

A hunt yesterday for 12 men said to have trapped on the ice was abandoned as darkness fell and searchers decided fears that fishermen still were on the lake were groundless.

But reports that men were marooned on the icepans took on new credence last night when flares were seen a mile out on the ice from Morgan's Point, about six miles from here. Flashlight signals from the shore appeared to be answered by winking flares for more than half an hour and then the flares flickered out.

As no one knew how many men were on the lake or where scattered groups were fishing, it was virtually impossible to determine whether all the men had reached safety. However, no one was reported missing on either side of the lake, which is about 14 miles wide at this eastern end.

Korea Election Set For May 9

SEOUL, Korea, March 1—(AP). — The United States announced plans today to proceed with a general election May 9, under United Nations observation, to name delegates for establishing a Korean government.

Lt.-Gen. John R. Hodge, United States commander in South Korea, made the announcement as Koreans in the American zone celebrated the 29th anniversary of their futile proclamation of independence from the Japanese.

Hodge's statement gave no details, but obviously was in line with a decision reached Thursday by the UN little assembly to conduct such an election.

K. P. S. Menon of India, chairman of the UN Korean commission, and Dr. Victor Hoo of China, an assistant secretary-general of the UN, are expected to return here from Lake Success this week to confer with army authorities on election plans.

California Shaken

LOS ANGELES, March 1—(AP).—An earthquake of moderate intensity awakened residents throughout a pie-shaped belt of Southern California early today but apparently caused no damage. Its greatest force was felt in the San Bernardino Valley, 40 to 60 miles east of Los Angeles. The 'quake was felt at 12.13 a.m. PST, with an aftershock a minute later. The tremor, which shook homes and rattled windows, was the second in 12 days. A severe 'quake jolted the Los Angeles area Feb. 19.

Finns Debating Russ Plan In Long Session

HELSINKI, March 1. (AP)—President Juho Paasikivi opened discussions within the Finnish government today on Prime Minister Stalin's proposal for a Finnish-Russian treaty of friendship and mutual aid.

Paasikivi conferred at the presidential palace for 3½ hours with Premier Mauno Peekaya, foreign minister Carl Enckell, vice-foreign minister Reinhold Svento and Lt.-Gen. Aaene Sihvo, commander in chief of the Finnish army.

Press and radio here published yesterday the text of Stalin's letter to Paasikivi, dated Feb. 22 and closing, "With deep respect." The letter proposed negotiations in Moscow or Helsinki toward a "pact of friendship, co-operation and mutual assistance" against "possible German aggression."

Well-informed sources said that now the letter is published, getting the pact has become a point of prestige for the Soviet Union. They said they believe President Paasikivi feels this way:

To turn down the Soviet bid would aggravate Russian-Finnish relations to a dangerous degree. To accept it could mean Finland might get as favorable conditions as possible toward keeping national independence.

(K. A. Fagerholm, Social Democratic Speaker of the Finnish parliament, said in Stockholm last night, "we do not want to see .....events of the kind now occurring in some other countries who have closed agreements with the Soviet Union."

("A change in the government is conceivable, however, as a consequence of what has happened."

(He and other Finnish leaders are visiting Sweden for a "Finland's Week" celebration planned by Swedish welfare groups.")

Helskini opinion generally is that negotiations with Russia are unavoidable and probably will take place here.

Political circles noted that Paasikivi, 78, and fluent in Russian, has Stalin's confidence because of peace talks in Moscow in 1941 and 1944.

Rehovot, 15 miles southeast of Tel Aviv. They were jammed with soldiers returning from leave in Cairo. A fourth mine failed to go off. Had it exploded, MacMillan said, the toll might have been 50 or more.

Sappers who dismantled the dud said it contained 100 pounds of explosive and was connected by a 40-yard wire to an electric plunger.

The three sleepers were 15 miles southeast of Tel Aviv when they were blown up. The blast ripped the tracks and hurled pieces of wreckage into nearby orange trees. It was the fourth attack on the Cairo Express.

The explosion climaxed a day of scattered violence in the Holy Land.

Jewish informants in Tel Aviv said six Jews were killed when a Hagana reconnaissance patrol was ambushed in the town of Salama near Tel Aviv. British police recovered the bodies.

Eight Jews, reported to be Sternist, robbed the Jerusalem municipality office of £800 (3,200).

In Haira, 800 Jews were taken from illegal ship, Builders and Fighters, when the Royal Navy intercepted Saturday night, and shipped to Cyprus aboard a British transport.

Most of the passengers were said to be from Romania, Bulgaria and Poland.

Two Jews were shot aboard a bus in a convoy attack by Arabs in the Judean hills. Two others were slain by snipers in Jerusalem, police said.

Sunday's communal fighting and sabotage throughout the Holy Land claimed 67 lives all told.

Two Arabs and two Jews were shot fatally during the night in various incidents.

A Jewish agency source said the agency was planing a protest to the Palestine Government against the alleged disarming of the Jews at Mikve Israel yesterday and their reported surrender to the Arabs. Eleven Jews were reported slain by the Arabs. Police said, however, that the Jews' guns had been returned to them.

5 Dead, 5 Hurt As Trains Crash

HANNA, Alta., March 1—(CP). —Five men were killed and five injured here Saturday night when a Canadian National Railways snowplow crashed into the rear of a yard engine in the railway yards here.

The dead, all CNR employees, are: E. W. Lloyd, Hanna, engineer of the yard engine; A. Ochronowich, Kindersley, Sask., section man; S. Blazenko, Alsask, Sask., section foreman; N. A. Ravion, Manengo, Sask., section foreman; J. Slobodnik, Arengo, Sask., sectionman.

The west-bound wedge-type plow was reported to have been pushing snow as it entered the yards with a number of section men riding in the cupola. Some observers thought vision of the engineer may have been obscured by the flying snow.

As it rammed the rear of the yard engine, part of the locomotive tender rode up onto the blade of the plow and smashed into the cupola, killing four of the men.

Fireman Fred Socoka was trapped in the wreckage for more than two hours before being freed by CNR workmen using acetylene torches to cut through the tangled wreckage.

Gun-Toting Sailor Shoots Juke-Box Patron Who Fed Nickels For Hour On Same Tune

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP). —Continual playing of the tune "Civilization" on the juke box in a Manhattan bar early today led to the shooting of three persons.

The victims, police said, were red-haired Josephine Ostoloco, 20, who had fed nickels for the same song for an hour, a seaman who objected and the bartender, Nesesio Calasen 47.

Police said Filipe Torres, 30, the sailor, shot the woman and then the bartender when the latter tried to pick her up from the floor. Torres was wounded and seized later in a gun duel with police on a subway platform.

Bullets flew when the woman changed a $1 bill at the bar and walked toward the juke box after she had played "Civilization" over and over again.

The victims were reported in serious condition.

Police said Torres seized a patron of the bar and forced him to accompany him as a "hostage" as he escaped.

The unidentified man, possibly also wounded in the subway gunfire, jumped over a turnstile and escaped.

Three-Month Term For Third Offender

George Alex, no fixed address, was sentenced to three months in jail when he pleaded guilty today to a charge of being drunk in public as a third offender. Commenting the extensive record of the accused on similar liquor counts, Magistrate W. R. Philp told him that the time he had already spent in jail "just because of liquor' was too much. He suggested that Alex "go on the wagon."

Vagrant Told Curb His Actions

"You had better behave yourself," Magistrate Philp told Everett Stone, 1454 Bloor St. West, Toronto, charged with vagrancy, "or you may find yourself in more serious trouble."

The accused pleaded guilty to the charge. Inspector James Reid stated that Stone had frightened two girls of the city by bothering them and later following them.

He was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 12 days.

Burglars Fooled

DETROIT, March 1.—(CP). — Burglars who thought Giles Kavanaugh, the man who collects millions of dollars in local income taxes, should be a soft touch, got nothing but two piggy banks containing about eight dollars, the collector of internal revenue said today.

Kavanaugh, whose home has been robbed three times in as many years, pointed out for the benefit of future thieves that income tax receipts go straight to the bank. He keeps nothing but small change at home.

$20,000 Fire

SMITHS FALLS, Ont., March 1—(CP).—This fire-scarred town was hit again yesterday when flames enveloped the newly-constructed garage building on Russell Street, burning nine motor vehicles and causing more than $20,000 damage. The latest blaze jacked up Smiths Falls fire losses to more than $1,000,000 in the last 14 months.

Work Picture Improves Across Canada

OTTAWA, March 1 — (CP). — Nearly 200,000 Canadians were looking for jobs in mid-February but "marked improvement" in the employment picture may be expected within the next few weeks, Labor Minister Mitchell said today.

Issuing his monthly statement on manpower, the minister said the peak in seasonal unemployment had been reached with 198,000 unplaced applicants registered with the National Employment Service at Feb. 12. The figure was 2,000 above the total at the same time last year, in contrast to the situation over the last 12 months when "applicants have consistently been "below the previous year's level."

Mr. Mitchell said February had seen the usual seasonal slump in employment aggravated by temporary factors, such as gas and power shortages and shortages of supply in several industries.

This combination of circumstances jumped the unplaced applicants from 166,000 in mid-January to 198,000 in mid-February. Of the new 32,000, some 24,000 were men and 8,000 women.

Unfilled vacancies went from 36,000 to 33,000 in the same period, the latter figure including 17,000 for men and 16,000 for women.

In the Maritimes, there were 25,000 unplaced applicants and 2,000 unfilled vacancies Feb. 12. Although the total looking for work was 3,000 less than the same time last year, the situation "is not bright and there is little prospect of improvement until spring."

In Quebec there were 56,000 unplaced applicants and 10,000 unfilled vacancies.

In Ontario, there were 54,000 applicants and 15,000 vacancies. Cold weather and gas and power shortages caused many plant shutdowns. However, signs of increased production were evident particularly in iron and steel. Forecasts indicate even greater expansion that the record 1947 levels in many manufacturing industries. Labor demand was light in logging, agriculture and mining for seasonal reasons. A record building program was indicated for 1948.

Unplaced applicants and unfilled vacancies (in brackets) in National Employment Service offices at Feb. 12, were:

Halifax, 3,280 (491); Montreal 17,503 (5,345); Hamilton 3,925 (1,152); London 1,523 (738); Oshawa 1,666 (152); Ottawa 3,918 (566); St. Catharines 1,698 (140); Toronto 12,331 (6,997); Windsor 5,041 (120).

Escapes Police Youth Fined

LINDSAY, March 1 (ENS). — Jack Finley, 17, of Bobcaygeon, was placed on suspended sentence for two years and fined $15 and $17 costs in police court here Monday, on a charge of escaping from the custody of PC W. G. Milton, of Lindsay, after that officer arrested him in Bobcaygeon Saturday night. Finley was arrested along with Arthur Bennett, 17, and Robert Flynn, 19, of Bobcaygeon and Buckhorn respectively on a charge of consuming liquor in a public place. All three pleaded guilty.

PC Milton said he spotted the youths drinking outside the Bobcaygeon arena and on placing them under arrest ordered them into a waiting cruiser. When they reached the cruiser Finley broke into a run and the officer said he ran after the accused down Highway 36. The officer said he shouted a warning and Finley stopped after going 100 yards. In court Finley told Magistrate E. A. Gee he found the beer along the roadside and denied having purchased it.

"It's amazing how much beer is found along roadsides," commented Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan. "We have definite information that this lad purchased the beer from a bootlegger," asserted PC Ralph Taylor of Lindsay.

Hydro Question Paramount In Legislature

TORONTO, March 1. (CP)—The fourth session of Ontario's 22nd Legislature opens Wednesday with the prospect that the affairs of the province's vast publicly-owned hydro-electric system will be a dominant issue.

Premier Drew, whose Progressive Conservative party has 66 members in the 90-seat House, already has announced that his government will recommend to the Legislature adoption of a frequency standardization program for the Hydro-Electric Power Commission which generates the power used in most Ontario municipalities.

At present the 42-year-old half-billion dollar utility delivers 25-cycle power to the busy industrial and farming areas of central and southwestern Ontario and 60-cycle power elsewhere. The government's recommendation is for standard 60-cycle frequency. Gross cost of conversion — which, among other things, would end flickering lights blamed on 25-cycle frequency—is estimated at $191,000,000.

So far there has been no indication from any of the opposing parties in the house as to their attitude toward standardization. The Liberals hold 11 seats in the House, the CCF eight, Liberal-Labor (supporting the Liberals) two, Labor-Progressive two and Labor one.

Charges Cruelty In Asylums

TORONTO, March 1—(CP).—D. M. LeBoudais, Toronto author and lecturer and former member of the National Committee on Mental Hygiene, said in an address last night that overcrowding and understaffing of Ontario Mental Hospital has resulted in cruelty toward patients.

"People have been killed in our mental hospitals, more than the public knows," he told the Bathurst United Church forum. "You see patients with broken jaws and other injuries and attendants will say the victim was in a fight with another patient. The attendants won't snitch on each other because superintendents of the hospitals are getting cagey and will fire them for ill-treating patients."

Hospital staffs generally were doing a fine job in face of great obstacles but some doctors and nurses in Ontario mental institutions has been underpaid for so long that most have lost interest, he said.

Americans Buy Groceries In Border City

FORT ERIE, March 1.—Canadian housewives may not like the high prices of food, but to the American housewife Canadian grocery stores are handing out bargains. Thousands of Americans are crossing the border daily to buy their food in this country, leaving behind them much-needed United States dollars.

In Fort Erie, business has been booming for several months due to the influx of Buffalo housewives on shopping tours. Practically every day in the week they traipse across the border in cars, buses and on foot to load up with such essentials as butter, eggs, meat, bread and other groceries.

Food is the main item purchased by the Americans, but men's tweeds, woollens and several other articles are also in demand. In Buffalo food prices are considerably higher, according to the visitors. Butter sells at 93 to 96 cents a pound, eggs at 70 to 75 cents a dozen, while meat prices are from 10 to 35 cents higher in the States.

"Buying food in Canada, we can make a considerable saving," one visitor stated. "I figure I can save two dollars on a five-dollar purchase. It costs me 25 cents to cross the border each way and the cost of gasoline used in the trip is not much more than driving to the shopping area in Buffalo."

In one chain store, the turnover of business allotted to the American buyers is considered to be about 50 per cent. Other grocery stores report similar increases in business.

American housewives are shrewd shoppers, seldom buying all their groceries at one store. On Saturday they could be seen moving from one store to another to pick up bargains wherever possible.

In an effort to lure the visiting shoppers into their stores, grocers of Fort Erie South have lowered their prices in comparison to the main business section in Fort Erie North. Several stores cut the price of butter to 70 cents, and one sold large grade "A" eggs at 49 cents on Saturday. Grocers in the other district retain ceiling prices.

Muskrat Homes Broken Into; Man Fined $50

COBOURG, March 1 (ENS).—William J. Stevenson of Cobourg was fined $50, and costs, by Magistrate R. B. Baxter on Saturday when he pleaded guilty to spearing muskrats. The charge was laid by Game Overseer Victor Harris. Harry Deyman, member of the Northumberland Fish and Game Association, prosecuted the case.

Provincial Constable Don Nicol told the court that he and Constable H. Pearse of the Cobourg Police Department went to the marsh on the Carr farm and found that muskrat houses on Lake Ontario at that point had been broken into with a home-made spear.

A search of Stevenson's home revealed bloodied papers in the basement and a knapsack with blood and fur sticking to the interior of it. When Stevenson was questioned, he admitted spearing four muskrats on February 17. The home-made spear had been made by him where he was employed. Constable Nicol pointed out that once the muskrat home was opened up, there was the danger that the rats would die because they would not go to another dwelling.

"There is no excuse for that kind of behavior," the magistrate told Stevenson. "It was out of season, and furthermore it is illegal to spear."

Seeks High Mountain

CHICAGO, March 1— (AP). — Milton Reynolds, Chicago millionaire flying enthusiast, set out yesterday to see if he can find a mountain higher than 29,000-foot Mt. Everest. With a small group of scientists and his plane crew, pen manufacturer Reynolds took off from the Municipal Airport on the first leg of a flight to China.

NEW YORK, March 1 — (AP). — Plans to establish fellowships to enable American newspapermen and women to study abroad were announced yesterday by directors of the Reid Foundation, established by the late Ogden Reid, editor of the New York Herald Tribune.

Further Delay Foreseen In Passing Vet Increases

OTTAWA, March 1—(CP).—The question of when disabled war pensioners and widows will get their new increases in rates may be brought to a head in parliament this week. The Commons is expected to be confronted with the problem of whether or not it wants to send the enabling legislation to the special committee on veterans affairs. If the bill does go to the committee it will mean that the raises, retroactive to Oct. 1, will be held up just that much longer.

The motion for establishment of the committee was originally expected to come before the House before this. But when Opposition parties manifested a desire to use it as the basis of a debate, Prime Minister Mackenzie King placed other items ahead of it because he considered them more urgent.

It was Mr. King who first announced the increases in December and then announced upward revisions recently after considerable protest from all parties, including his own.

Increases announced for student veterans being put through by order-in-council, thus by-passing the House. But officials say it may be April before administrative machinery has the raises, retroactive to Jan. 1, on the way to recipients.

Labor Code

The new federal labor code will be introduced in parliament within 10 days, but the government has not much hope that it will be passed before the end of March. That will mean another extension of emergency industrial relations legislation, which runs out March 31, will have to be sought.

This will be included in a general bill of the government to extend its emergency powers.

The Labor department is particularly anxious to see the code adopted as soon as possible, particularly in view of urgings of the Ontario government. Ontario has decided to take the code as its model for labor legislation, but it wants to see it passed by parliament before the legislature moves on it.

However, though the code has been ready for months, two factors have delayed its introduction. First is the Commons' preoccupation with emergency legislation. The second is the desire of the government to let labor organizations have their say on it first.

The unions will have their annual sessions with the cabinet shortly. Right after that, the code —known as the Industrial Relations and Disputes Investigation Act—will be brought down by Labor Minister Mitchell.

Art Reynolds Named Church Sports Head

An amalgamation of executive officers of the Church Hockey League and the Church Softball League will be tried for a year, it was decided at a general meeting of both bodies. Ted Naish was chairman for the session, being a long-time efficient worker for church sports.

The following slate of officers was selected for 1948: Sports director, Art Reynolds; first assistant director, Fred Agnew; second assistant director, Jerry Parnell; secretary, Harris Glen; treasurer, John Buckley. An executive committee will be picked of not less than three members—though not more than one from any church —by the officials elected. The executive went on record thanking the CPC employees for showing an active interest in sports.

Scrap Old Parties Seaman's Union Says

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP) — The Canadian Seamen's Union Saturday condemned both old-line parties and called for workers to unite at the polls to elect a government "truly representative of labor and farmers."

At the concluding sessions of the biennial convention here, it was explained that if voters eliminated all old-line candidates, they could choose from the labor men which filled the requirements best as a labor-farm candidate.

The union also demanded that the election act be changed to provide voting facilities for members at sea on polling day. The resolution also requested that voting franchise be given to all person over 18 years.

Warning Voice From Canada At Lake Success

By WALTER O'HEARN

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y. March 1 —Whether Canada decides to quit the United Nations Korea commission or not, the warning that she might do so was made very clearly by Lester B. Pearson. It is difficult indeed to see how Canada can continue to serve on a commission which will be carrying out a task in terms which Canada views as plainly unconstitutional.

That task is to set up a national government of Korea in these areas of the country which are administered by the Americans, south of the 38th parallel and populated by two-thirds of the Korean nation. An American resolution making it "incumbent" on the commission to do so was passed 31 to 2 (with 11 abstentions) by the "Little Assembly" half an hour after Mr. Pearson had spoken.

As the Korea commission had only reported to the "Little Assembly" for "advice," others besides the Canadian delegate are wondering at the terms of these rather iron-bound instructions.

Australia and Canada were the only countries to vote no on the American resolution but the abstainers included the Scandinavian member and all the Arab states except Lebanon. Therefore it can be assumed that a large majority of the "Little Assembly" —25 per cent of the countries represented there normally—have grave doubts of the wisdom of the American plan.

Mr. Pearson made it very plain that he realized the American resolution would go through and that he regarded it only as "advice" and not mandatory on the commission. "If the commission should accept that advice," he added 'then a situation would be created which would have to be taken into account by the governments represented on the commission, some of whom feel the gravest doubts that the measure proposed is constitutional."

This was taken by most observers to mean that Canada was not bolting the Korea commission and shutting the door, but as a warning that she might do so.

It should be remembered that Mr. Pearson for several days has argued that the set of General Assembly instructions under which the Korea commission has operated cannot be altered or added to by the "Little Assembly." Mr. Pearson knows as much as any man living about the limitations of this "Little Assembly" (more properly styled the interim committee of the General Assembly). He was chairman last Autumn of the drafting sub-commission which drew up the rules for this agency—an agency, he said, which was born amid so many doubts and misgivings.

The Soviet delegate to the economic and social council, Amazasp Arutiunian may find himself very embarrassed when he returns to Moscow. In the course of the world economic survey undertaken by the council, his country has given a glowing report of itself. So glowing indeed that some delegates are suggesting behind the scenes that the Soviet Union should be assessed for 24 per cent of the UN's annual budget—which would mean an increase of almost 300 per cent of its present assessment. This idea has been propounded in jest but it may gain ground. Russia at the present time pays less for the upkeep of UN than Britain, far less than the United States and only about twice as much as Canada, although the population of the U.S.S.R. is fifteen times greater than our own. An increased assessment would hardly be popular in Moscow for all that the Kremlin appreciates the propaganda value of glowing economic reports.

New Insurance Law Aimed At Motorists

VICTORIA, March 1—(CP). — British Columbia's new motor vehicles insurance law becomes effective today, making all motorists liable in accidents causing death, injury or property damage.

It is estimated the law will mean the carrying of personal liability and property damage insurance by 90 to 92 per cent. of the 190,000 drivers in BC as compared with 50 to 55 per cent. in recent years.

The onus is on the motorist. He can carry insurance — a three-point plan giving protection up to $11,000—or deposit bonds with the superintendent of motor vehicles here.

The "no-insurance-man" can take his chances. If he is in an accident, his car will be impounded until judgment is satisfied and proof of financial responsibility furnished. Impounding charges will be paid by the owner.

Teacher Dies

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP). — Jessie Ann Mitchell, a teacher in Ontario public and high schools 40 years, died Saturday. A native of Galt, she celebrated her 86th birthday a week ago. She obtained her early education in Elora, Ont., and taught in public schools in the Elora district and in high schools at Watford, Port Hope, Gananoque, Arnprior and Cobourg.

Seal Drive To Aid Crippled Children

COBOURG, March 1 (ENS).—Bert Baulch of Brantford, field secretary of the Ontario Society for Crippled Children, spoke at the weekly luncheon of the Rotary Club here to explain the Easter seal campaign which will run from March 1 until Easter Sunday. Proceeds are for the work of the society and it is planned to sell 55 million Easter seals throughout the province. The Rotary Club of Cobourg is participating in the campaign.

The Society for Crippled Children was brought into being in this province by Rotary. This year interest in the work of the society has never been more widespread, with more and more citizens willing to assist by generous contributions. More district nurses are needed, the first resident vocational training school in Canada will be started in this province. In 25 years, 14,000 crippled children have been looked after, with 35,000 cases being turned up in the surveys. Surveys had revealed that most people did not realize how many cases were in need of attention. Many cases were discovered which, had they been detected earlier, would have resulted in being cured much more readily, Mr. Baulch said.

SCOTT'S SCRAP BOOK —By J. R. Scott

MORE CANADIANS READ MACLEAN'S THAN ANY OTHER CANADIAN MAGAZINE

HOUSE OF LOST WEEK ENDS

Canada's well-heeled tipplers come to Pinehill San. For $9 a day they can go on the wagon or sober up for another bout.

Is the alcoholic ward the bizarre and forbidding place described in some current fiction? To find out, Pierre Berton went to Pinehill San, known to alcoholics from every province in Canada. In this issue of Maclean's he tells what he saw: the D.T.'s, the "chronics," the addicts, the drunks who just want to get sober, men and women from every trade and profession, many too far gone to be cured. He describes the treatment, the needles, the "ectro-shock," the special rooms for the D.T.'s, how patients are handled from the day they come until they leave.

This authentic first-hand report on "The House of Lost Week Ends" appears in March 1 Maclean's. Get your copy today!

The Odds Are Against Marriageable Young Women

In this country the percentage of males never dropped below 51 per cent. of the total population. Women have therefore always had a slight edge on men; each woman had always one man and a bit to choose from in the matrimonial market. That situation has changed, at least in the age groups where marriage is most frequent.

* * *

According to the 1941 census there were in Canada 565,212 males and 554,823 females between the ages of 15 and 19; 517,956 males and 514,470 females between the ages of 20 and 24; 488,340 males and 478,650 females between the ages of 25 and 29. Now, more than five years later, the fifteen-year-olds are 21, the 29-year-olds are 35. Therefore these groups represent almost all the marriageable people in Canada. According to these figures there were 23,565 more males than females in those age groups. The figures are not valid today.

* * *

Unhappily, 41,992 members of Canada's armed forces were killed during the war, most of them after the census was taken, almost all of them men, and almost all of them between 20 and 34 years of age. That has changed the balance in the marriageable age group from 23,565 more men to about 18,000 more women. Another important event was the marriage of Canadian men to non-Canadian women. The total number of war brides who have been brought to Canada is 69,000. That means 69,000 fewer Canadian men will become husbands of Canadian women. To offset that, of course, several thousand Canadian women have married non-Canadian men. Nevertheless the debit balance is now at least 75,000 against women in the marriageable age groups. In other words, 75,000 marriageable Canadian girls are unlikely to obtain husbands, even if they want to.

* * *

They can do a little to help themselves. They can marry older men or younger men (in a strongly competitive market). Girls from eastern Canada can go west where the percentage of males to females has always been two to eight per cent. higher than the average for Canada, or north where the odds are even better. They can choose foreign husbands, either by emigrating or by marrying an immigrant. Those are the remedies for your changed situation, girls and women between the ages of 21 and 35—unless you begin an immediately successful campaign for polygamy.

The Longs Return To Louisiana

It is doubtful if there has been, in recent years at least, a more flamboyant and controversial figure in United States politics than the late Huey Long of Louisiana. His turbulent career in state politics and in the United States Senate ended with his assassination in the State Capitol of Louisiana in 1936, and the "Louisiana scandals" which followed his death swept the Long machine out of power. Just why the scandals had this effect has always been a minor mystery, since they did no more than officially confirm what everyone had known for years, and since Louisiana has a record of being more than ordinarily tolerant of political skullduggery. Nevertheless, in 1940, Sam Houston Jones defeated Huey's brother, Earl Long for Governor, and in 1944 Mr. Jones backed Cowboy Singer Jimmie Davis, who defeated Mr. Long for a second time.

Earl Long has now reversed the decision by defeating Mr. Jones handily to gain the Democratic nomination for Governor of Louisiana. In most states, this would mean no more than that, but in Louisiana it means that Earl Long will be the next Governor, for Louisiana is a one-party state. So a Long machine will now take over again in Louisiana, following a campaign in which one of Huey's sons campaigned for his uncle and apparently demonstrated that he had inherited some of the late "Kingfish's" remarkable ability to please the back-parish voters.

Anyone who recalls the late Huey Long's career will admit he was colourful, no matter how unpleasant the colour may have appeared at times. In describing him as a controversial figure, however, it should be noted that the controversy was rather one-sided. Majorities in the parishes of Louisiana (for electoral purposes the state is divided into parishes) thought Huey was just about the best thing that ever happened to the state; the rest of the United States was more or less of the opinion he was the worst thing that could happen to any state. This adverse outside opinion never weakened the Long machine; the late Huey knew his people well and gave them what they wanted. No student of the ethics of politics would accuse the Long regime of "good" government—but it was popular.

It will be interesting to watch developments in Louisiana, to see if the return of the Longs means the return of the brand of political rule which made the late Kingfish notorious. If it does, it will be a serious blow to the reform elements which have been working to house-clean politics in the state and in its greatest city, New Orleans.

Skating On The Canal

In late February and early March when the sun is bright and the winter shows signs of waning, our December delight in winter sports fades. All but enthusiasts, children and idiots are surfeited with winter. That may account for the few people who took advantage of the excellent skating ice on the canal last week. The opportunities are rare—perhaps a few days in early December if heavy frost has come before heavy snows, a few days in February after a good thaw and subsequent frost.

Last Tuesday night the conditions for skating were ecstatically pleasing. The ice on the canal was smooth, for no rough winds had disturbed the melted water as it froze again. There was a veneer of light snow which cushioned the ice but did not impede the skates. The canal was almost deserted, the countryside above the Warsaw Road bridge was quiet, clean and gracious in the light of a benign full moon.

With what awareness of rhythm, easy freedom and harmony between his inner self and the outer world the skater glided along the reaches of the canal. There were no constricting rink boards to fence him in, no sudden turns for the inexpert to manipulate, no spectators to hoot when he fell, no artificial lights to make the night garish and shut out moon and stars and tree-lined hills. There seemed to be no limit to his careening pleasure—he could skate to Nassau, even to Lakefield, perhaps (a pretty fancy) to Georgian Bay. It seems unkind now to recall such delights when fresh snow has made them impossible. Perhaps the new moon on the tenth will bring another good evening.

Globe-Trotting

Living in an inland province, Ontario people have had few physical manifestations to support their dreams of far countries and exotic shores. Haligonians or Montrealers can wander down to the docks and wallow in signs beside the piers: "London and Liverpool". "Le Havre, Amsterdam and Oslo", "Rio de Janeiro, Melbourne and Sydney". We here in land-locked isolation could only go to bed with an illustrated travel book and our dreams have not been very exciting. There are no fog-horns of passing ships to give our sleep a jag.

Times have changed. Our papers are advertising T.C.A. overnight trips to Ireland and B.O.A.C. "speedbirds" to Cairo ($1018.80 return). Planes leave for wonderland daily from Toronto—humdrum Toronto, mind you. Why, that's just next door; we can almost smell it here. A short railway hop and we are on the plane and flying to romance.

We have now even more direct access to castles in Spain—the telephone right at our elbow. The new telephone book offers us three minutes of communion with Switzerland, Norway, Australia or Venezuela for nine dollars. We can whisper sweet nothings to Bermuda for seven-fifty or gossip at tea-time with Little Tooting in Surrey for nine dollars. Now when we crave a really romantic night's repose we go to bed with the telephone book.

NOTE AND COMMENT

We read of a California radio announcer who talked for 72 hours without stopping. An interesting point: did he say anything?

Holdups are increasing in Canada, we read. Better add some simple "Hands up!" exercises to your daily dozen.

"Of Cabbages and Kings"

By PETER ELIOT

"ARNOLD and Marguerite Bennett began their married life in lodgings (reminisces Mrs. Belloc Lowndes in her delightful 'Merry Wives of Westminster' — a book of pleasant and quiet stories of literary people in England's past twenty years) at the edge of one of the beautiful forests which form a girdle round Paris, but soon they took a small house near Fontainebleau. From there I received an immensely long letter in which was set out the whole plot of 'The Old Wives' Tale'. He told me the day on which he would begin writing the story; explained how it would be interrupted by a visit to Switzerland, where he wished to consult a doctor, and finally he gave the date on which he would return to France and take up again the thread of the novel. His letter ended, as it often did in those days, on a sad, even angry, note, for he said that after he had finished the book which was going to give him so much trouble, and take so much of his time, he did not suppose that anyone, apart from myself, and a few hundred others, would care to read it.

"BARRIE had one curious trait in common with Henry James. This was of saying and writing, and I think even believing, that he lived a hermit's life. While not caring for general society, he hated and feared solitude. Whereas, however, Henry James looked with curiosity and interest at almost all those with whom life brought him in contact, Barrie did not like meeting strangers."

"After Ethel McKenna's death, Hugh Walpole's closest woman friend was Clemence Dane, and I believe she did her best to stop the publication of Maugham's book, 'Cakes and Ale', for in that novel is a chapter containing a picture of Walpole as seen through the eyes of a cold realist." (Incidentally, this reminds me of Bernard Shaw's 'Major Barbara'—the Greek scholar Gilbert Murray is the youngish—and very pedantic—professor of Greek.)

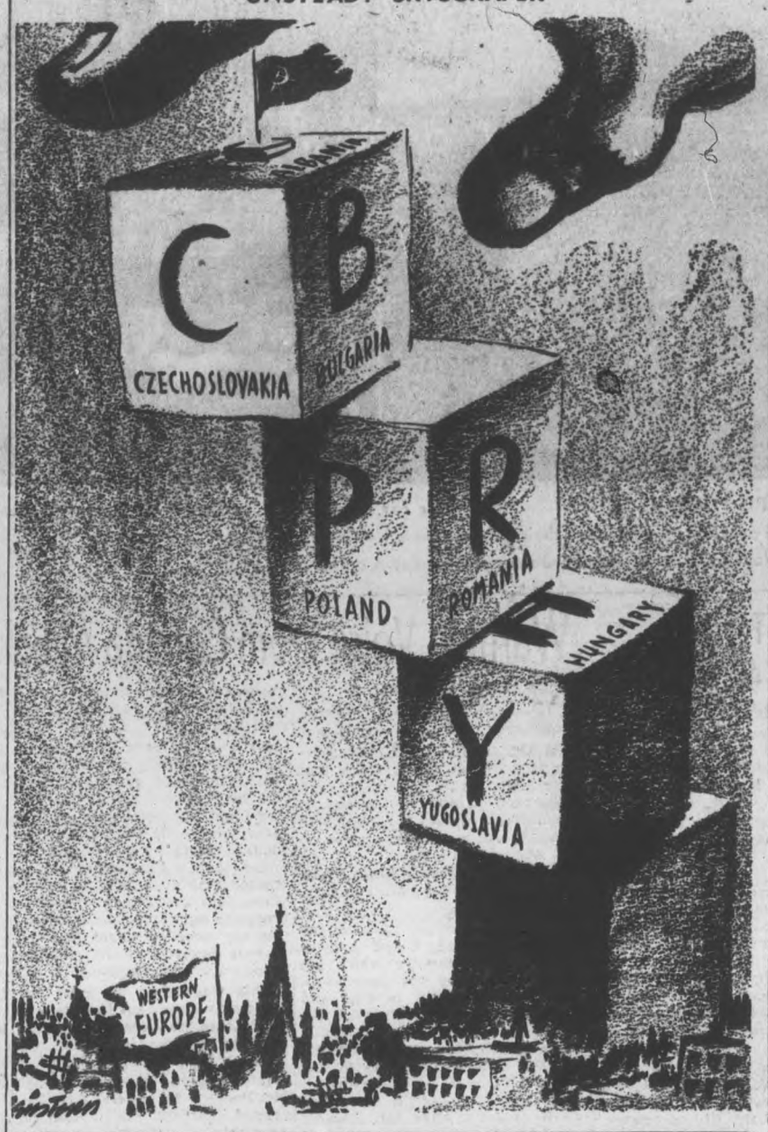
"IN the nineties, and for long afterwards, two critics dominated the London literary world. The one was Edmund Gosse, the other Robertson Nicoll. Of the two, Gosse appeared to be the most influential. But the man who could make a reputation overnight was Robertson Nicoll. A good review signed by his pen-name, 'Claudius Clear', brought at least temporary fame to the fortunate new author whose work he had praised."

"I only once saw Henry James really angry (she continues). In the early summer of 1914, Hugh Walpole, who had been having trouble with his eyes, told me he was going to Russia, as he had friends in St. Petersburg, and intended to have what he called 'a Russian Year'. When war started early that August, he had made all his plans to leave England, and he did not allow what had just happened to affect those plans.

The following winter, Henry James and I happened to meet in the house of a well-known London hostess, who spoke with scorn of the fact that immediately on the outbreak of war Walpole had left his country.

Henry James was so angry that, suddenly seizing my arm, he muttered, 'Let you and me who are friends of Walpole leave this house!' And when we were in the street I saw he was still shaken with what seemed uncontrollable anger. He was hurt when I said that I had thought it strange Walpole had not stayed in England. He said I felt 'that way' because, being French, war was in my blood, while to the average Englishman the thought of war was alien from every point of view."

❖ ❖ ❖



BOOK readers will be interested to know that the Reprint Society of Canada is attempting something which, though novel, is badly needed in the present world of letters. Books are mainly chosen now, not on their own merits, but because of a high pressure advertising campaign. While many books of real worth find their way into book club monotony lists many more of no value at all are sold because of lewd or sensational titles, or of some peculiarity of the author's—promises of better things to come in the pages that follow. The Society's choice of 'Yes, Farewell' by Michael Burn (a war novel written while the author was a prisoner of war) reminds me of a good illustration of this point.

"GROSSMITH—a contemporary of Gilbert's—was not the only person (writes Hesketh Pearson, in his clever duo-biography, 'Gilbert and Sullivan') who suffered from nerves on the opening night of each new production. Gilbert, who had combined the patience of Job with the discipline of a sergeant-major throughout the rehearsals, behaved like a frightened child on the evening of the first performance. Wrought up to the highest pitch of excitement and dread, he went from dressing-room to dressing-room, wishing the actors good luck, asking them how they felt, reminding them of points he had already stressed a hundred times, wondering whether they were sure of their words, begging them to do their best, and making a general nuisance of himself. Then he had a last look round the stage, fussed over the scenery and properties, and worried the life out of the stage-manager.

The moment the curtain went up he left the theatre and wandered about the streets in a condition of indescribable anxiety until eleven o'clock struck, when he returned to the theatre to hear the result and to take his bow before the curtain. 'What I suffered during those hours', he once admitted, 'no man can tell. I have spent them at the club; I once went to a theatre alone to see a play; I have walked up and down the street; but no matter where I was, agony and apprehension possessed me.' Strangely enough, he never saw his productions after the final dress-rehearsal, and with a single exception he never witnessed any of his operas as a member of the audience."

Letters To The Editor

TORONTO'S BRIGHT LIGHTS

Sir: In view of the current shortage of electric power in Southern Ontario and the methods used by the Hydro to curtail the use of electricity I would like to present the following comparison.

Peterborough at night, is like a death town with all lights out except a very few essential ones in restaurants etc. In Toronto, which I visited on Monday of last week, several streets, Bloor and St. Clair, to mention two, are as bright as day with the new street lights. As one drives along Bloor St., one is dazzled with neon lights and vast strings of lights around Used Car lots and many stores, apparently closed, were ablaze with fluorescent lighting.

It rather seemed to me that Toronto could reduce the amount of power used in this way and then, possibly, there would be enough power left for all without these annoying cut-offs.

Yours truly,
J. M. WISHART, M.D.

EDUCATIONAL OPPORTUNITY

Sir: Your editorial on my recent educational address in the Normal School suggests the following comments, and I express my appreciation in advance for the space which will give them publicity.

It seems to me that you confuse education with educational opportunity. The subject of the address was "Free Education to the Limit of Ability", and made no claims for higher education for the intellectually unfit. To say, as you do, that the University of Toronto has "a disgraceful 17,000" enrolment misplaces the adjective: it is the lack of facilities for their education that is disgraceful. Assuming that all of them have achieved the scholastic status for enrolment, how can it be said that "they lack the necessary mental and imaginative power" to benefit from further training? Many, of course, will drop by the wayside as they reach their limit or neglect their opportunity, but until they do so they have every right to the opportunity.

The writer has taught in all four types of secondary schools, in Lindsay Collegiate Institute, Upper Canada College, and at the Central Technical School and the Eastern High School of Commerce in Toronto. While the purposes of education in these schools differ, there is but little difference in method or results. Those with inherent abilities and a willingness to use them are successful, but it is entirely erroneous to say that the children of the well-to-do are the brightest or that the material wealth of the parents makes them "our most able, energetic, and intelligent citizens". It is, on the other hand, frequently found that children of wealth who are permitted to drive to school in their Cadillacs and Packards are not only irresponsible but insolent, and have a high resistance to any attempt to educate them. If any class is cluttering up the halls of learning, whether secondary or college, it is the children of wealth who by tutoring and other high-pressure methods are kept at school.

Finally your editorial is inconsistent in admitting in one breath that the statistics quoted are accurate, and in the next saying that they "distort" the truth. I would hereby cite two independent sources in that connection. In an article on Higher Education in Canada the Dominion Bureau of Statistics shows that more students of exceptional ability are precluded from universities by economic status, in Ontario alone, than are attending schools of higher learning in all Canada. Similarly the famous report of the Harvard Committee in the United States, entitled "General Education in a Free Society", concludes that as many students of college calibre are precluded as are at present in attendance, and that half of them are prevented by financial reasons and the other half by environmental causes arising largely from low economic status. If it is "dangerous" thinking to point out the defects of democracy we are at least in good company, and it would appear that the results are dangerous only to those monopolists who would restrict to the privileged few what are obviously the rights of all.

Sincerely yours,
EDWIN C. GUILLET.
736 O'Connor Drive, Toronto.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Moreover the Lord spake again unto Ahaz, saying, Ask thee a sign of the Lord thy God; ask it either in the depth, or in the height above. But Ahaz said, I will not ask, neither will I tempt the Lord.

And he said, Hear ye now, O house of David; Is it a small thing for you to weary men, but will ye weary my God also? Therefore the Lord himself shall give you a sign; Behold, a virgin shall conceive, and bear a son, and shall call his name Immanuel. (Isa. 7: 10-14.)

Now when Jesus was born in Bethlehem of Judaea in the days of Herod the king, behold, there came wise men from the east to Jerusalem, saying, Where is he that is born King of the Jews? for we have seen his star in the east, and are come to worship him. When Herod the king had heard these things, he was troubled, and all Jerusalem with him.

Then Herod, when he had privily called the wise men, enquired of them diligently what time the star appeared. And he sent them to Bethlehem, and said, Go and search diligently for the young child, and when ye have found him, bring me word again, that I may come and worship him also.

When they had heard the king, they departed; and, lo, the star, which they saw in the east, went before them, till it came and stood over where the young child was. And when they were come into the house, they saw the young child with Mary his mother, and fell down, and worshipped him: and when they had opened their treasures, they presented unto him gifts; gold, and frankincense, and myrrh. (Matt. 2: 1-3, 7-9, 11.)

Say Television Doesn't Worry Film Actors

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 1 (AP). —Does television present a danger to the movies?

This question is being debated over teacups and beer mugs in Hollywood these days. To get some divergent views on the subject, I have called another session of the AP Hollywood Forum. The meeting will please come to order.

Humphrey Bogart: "Television presents no more danger to the movies than did radio. They won't be able to present daily serials because actors can't memorize a new play each day. Television is good for sports, but not everybody likes sports."

Director John Huston: "The only thing that will hurt movies is bad pictures. The only thing that will help movies is good pictures."

Only An Infant

Lois Andrews (who has a television show on KTLA): "Television is only an infant now, but before long it will be a giant. I believe the film industry chiefs realize this and will protect themselves by entering the television field. If they don't — television will murder them."

Edward Arnold: "It presents the same danger that movies presented to the legitimate stage. But I think people will still want to go out of the home for entertainment. There is one thing to consider, though—what will happen when housewives no longer just listen to soap operas, but sit down and look at them, too. How will the housework get done?

Paul Henreid: "It will undoubtedly take more customers away from the movies, since it provides another reason to stay home. And it will be a bad thing for entertainment, because the closer entertainment gets to the home, the cheaper it becomes. We can expect the same kind of thing we get on the radio—quiz shows, swing music, and gun dramas."

No Cause for Worry

Wayne Morris: "I don't think there is any worry. Pictures could be done on television the way Alfred Hitchcock filmed 'Rope,' all in one take. But who is going to pay for such an expensive production?"

Red Skelton: "It might slow down pictures for a while, but it won't bring any disaster. People will still want to go to theatres, even if they can have a full-length feature in their homes. They like to dress up and step out, particularly those who don't drink, don't dance and don't go to night clubs."

Writer-Director Claude Binyon: "Television is too technically imperfect to present any danger now. It has not found the secret of entertainment values."

Robert Cummings (a frank actor): "I don't know."

CONFER ON HOCKEY GAMBLING—Jack Adams, left, manager of the Detroit Red Wings professional hockey team, is shown conferring with Clarence Campbell, president of the National Professional Hockey league, who arrived in Detroit, Mich., from Montreal for gambling investigation. The two are discussing the stories of gambling involving hockey players. Campbell declared that any National Hockey league player found guilty of gambling through the offices of Detroit racketeers, as alleged, will be banned for life.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Defence Minister Claxton last night denied suggestions that the RCAF Flyers, Olympic hockey champions, are being "railroaded" into the Allan Cup playoffs.

"There never was any suggestion of the Flyers playing in the Allan Cup," he said, commenting on a Paris dispatch that the Flyers "fear" an attempt to 'railroad' them into the Allan Cup competition.

Mr. Claxton said at Ottawa that one of the RCAF stars, George Mara, already is home in Toronto and the main body of the team was expected 'about March 20."

Rugby Moguls Agree To Five Imports

TORONTO, March 1 (CP). — Football will present slightly altered face next season, with revived official interest in developing junior talent in prospect as the major change, but the way was paved to-day for a radical swing to the gridiron left in the ensuing year.

A hint of possible things to come was given in the lineup of voting strength at the Canadian Rugby Union's annual meeting here Saturday. The Western Canada delegates, rebels from the CRU in pre-war days over attempts to play an Americanized game, found a new supporter in the Quebec Rugby Football Union on several issues.

The new allies couldn't muster enough strength to override the more conservative Ontario forces, but they accepted defeat on one issue only after the chair cast the deciding vote against them. And next year, a Western Canada representative will hold the chair.

As it was, the CRU's six affiliated leagues represented at the meeting made these concrete decisions:

1—The rule permitting any team to use five United States imports, adopted two years ago on a trial basis, was renewed for another two years.

2—The deadline for registering United States imports and their arrival in Canada was extended from August 26 to September 1; a US player will not be classed as an import after four years' continuous residence in Canada.

3—A five-man committee was appointed to make recommendations on junior football, including the posibility of holding the first official junior final this season since 1933. This followed complaints of numerous age-limit violations and arguments by Western Canada and Quebec delegates that they must continue to import US players to compete with player-rich Ontario unless more junior talent pools are built.

The CRU's rules committee, meeting in closed session, decided on two major changes in playing rules:

One will permit unlimited substitution of players, instead of allowing only two players on each team to re-enter the game in any one quarter.

The other concerned the much-amended blocked-kick rule. If the kicking side recovers its own blocked kick on third down, it will be awarded the down over again with a 25-yard penalty from the point of recovery. Last season, the penalty was 10 yards.

The major test of the voting strength came on a motion sponsored by the Western Interprovincial Union that the number of US imports be increased from five to six.

It was supported by both the Western Intercollegiate and Interprovincial Unions and the Quebec RFU. The vote was deadlocked at 3-all when the Big Four, the ORFU, and the Eastern Intercollegiate voted against it.

Frank Lennard, ORFU delegate, voted for the second time as chairman to defeat the proposal 4-3.

Under the CRU executive setup, the executive rotates one notch annually. So E. K. Phillips of Saskatoon became president.

There was no evidence of a bloc, but the ORFU sided often enough with the two Western circuits to show they saw eye-to-eye at least.

Even if the three leagues join forces to push through changes in import, residence, and similar legislation at the next annual meeting, they could bring about no immediate changes of the actual playing rules. The eight-man rules committee is independent of the CRU executive.

Citation Takes Flamingo Stakes At Hialeah Park

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP). — The Kentucky derby is a couple of months away but many racegoers will provide you with the name of the winner of the run for the roses today—Citation, Warren Wright's sensation three-year-old colt.

Citation enhanced his rapidly-growing reputation by streaking to a six-length victory in the $50,000 added Flamingo Stakes at Hialeah Saturday.

The win was the magnificent colt's 12th in 13 starts and overshadowed Talon's winning of the $100,000 Santa Anita handicap at Arcadia, Calif.

Citation, going to the post as a 1 to 5 favorite, shortest priced starter in the 19-year-history of the Flamingo, toured the mile and one-eighth in 1:48 4/5. Only Brevit's 1936 time of 1.48 1/5 bettered this time in the Flamingo.

The victory added $43,500 to Citation's earnings.

At Arcadia, Talon really had to step to grab the $100,000 handicap the six-year-old Argentine galloper won by a nose from On Trust in one of the closest windups of the 11 runnings of the event.

Eddie Arcaro was aboard Talion who returned $6.90, $4.10 and $3.10.

Four Collegiate Cage Teams Get Wins As One Eliminated

Four of the five P.C.V.S. boys' basketball teams won games in three gyms on Friday night. The one loss meant elimination for the scrappy Senior "B" team as Cobourg seniors won at home 53-19. At Port Hope the Junior "B" boys stayed in a tie with Oshawa Junior Bs by defeating the home team 52-16 as Oshawa was winning in Lindsay.

In the games played at P.C.V.S the two home "A" teams advanced to the district finals in the senior and junior series by easily defeating Whitby seniors 48-6 (round 78-25) and Uxbridge juniors 59-14 (round 101-33). The first game of the tripleheader was an 18-14 win for the P.C.V.S. bantams over Bowmanville. As this was the first of the points to count two game district finals in the bantam series, Peterborough has but a four point lead to take to Bowmanville for this afternoon's return game.

At Cobourg, the home team was much too good for the Senior "B" boys, who only the week before had handed Cobourg its first defeat of the season by a narrow one point margin. As in the game here, Bevan and J. Jamieson were the scoring aces, the former counting B buckets and the latter 7. This time P.C.V.S. had no answering attack and counted only two hoops in each half. However twenty-one fouls were called on Cobourg and of the twenty-two free throws P.C.V.S. sank eleven. Ted Payne had two of the four field goals and three of the eleven foul shot scores.

No Doubt

At Port Hope, the P.C.V.S. Junior Bs left no doubt of supremacy and led 33-5 at half time. Garth Jopling had a game total of 12 points with Spike Batchelor having 11. Ten of the thirteen P.C.V.S. players figured in the scoring summary.

The closest game of the night for the P.C.V.S. teams was the bantam final. Bowmanville bantams played good basketball and extended the home team all the way. P.C.V.S. led 10-6 at half time and had forged ahead 16-8 when their attack stopped functioning to leave the round decision strictly up to today's game in Bowmanville. Cunningham and Young with six and five points respectively led the Peterborough attack. Davey had six and Chant four for Bowmanville.

Both the A games were started with substantial leads favoring the home teams as a result of games played in Whitby and Uxbridge the Saturday before. Don Griffin was deadly accurate early and counted four first quarter hoops. His game total was seven for fourteen points. Neil Thompson also had fourteen points on seven hoops, while Al. Northcott had ten.

Led the Way

A 20-2 half time score in the senior game was built up chiefly by Richardson and McKee with eight points each. The latter maintained that scoring pace through the second half for five more hoops for a game total of eighteen points. Hugh Dibben found his scoring eye in the last quarter and ran in seven quick buckets for 14 points. The Senior A team now opens the district finals against Cobourg here Friday evening. The Junior A team's oponent is still in doubt as Oshawa and P.C.V.S. Junior Bs are tied for first place in the Eastern "B" group.

The teams:

Cobourg Seniors: Bevan 17, J. Jamieson 14, B. Jamieson 2, Bulger, McGuire 8, Hoselton 2, Craig 2, McMullan 8, Calnan, Hircock, Holman. Total 53.

P.C.V.S. Senior B.—Payne 7, Masters 1, Hill, Archibald, Chapman 2, Manbeck 3, Taylor 3, Thomson 1, Hempstead 2. Total 19.

Port Hope Juniors—G. Beebe 3, Trawin, Kearns, Ballet 3, Ross, Carson, Anderson 6, Plummer, H. Beebe, Harwood, Brooks 2, Jorden 2. Total 16.

Bantam Game

P.C.V.S. — Braund, McIlraith, Brown 2, Cunningham 6, Jameson, Young 5, Pulley, Hendren 1, Doughty 2, Cooke, Ash 2. Total 18.

Bowmanville: Chant 4, Davey 6, Stutt 3, Allin 1, Taylor, Maguire, Piper, White. Total 14.

Referees—Edger and Dinsdale.

Junior Game

P.C.V.S. 'A'—Griffin 14, Lee 6, Northcott 10, Sergeant 6, Thompson 14, Grafstein 6, Dinsdale 3. Total 59.

Oshawa Juniors Tie Series With Windsor

(By The Canadian Press)

The question of whether Oshawa Generals or Windsor Spitfires will go into the final round of the Ontario Hockey Association Junior A playoffs still awaits settlement. The fourth game of their best-of-seven semi-final series served only to tie the round at two games each.

Generals handed Spitfires a 4-2 defeat in their encounter Saturday, with Eric Pogue scoring two goals and an assist for Oshawa. The teams clash again in Windsor tonight and will return to Oshawa for the sixth game.

Barrie Flyers and Galt Rockets launched their best-of-five semi-final series in Barrie Saturday night and the visitors went home with a 3-2 victory. Harry Pidherny scored the winning goal at 15:10 of the last period.

Big Leaguers Start Training

NEW YORK, March 1 (AP). — Major league baseball clubs today knuckled down to the serious business of getting into shape for the 1948 season by beginning their spring training programs.

Banned by a major league rule from starting spring training before March 1, the players will be forced to round into playing form quicker than usual.

All clubs were scheduled to hold workouts today and the athletes will have few breathing spells between now and the start of the regular season.

Beginning Saturday when Chicago Cubs and Chicago White Sox meet at Los Angeles and Cleveland Indians and New York Giants battle at Tucson, Ariz., the clubs will play a total of 378 "Grapefruit league" games.

With the exception of Brooklyn Dodgers, all of the club nines are doing their training in the United States. The Dodgers are getting ready for the National League campaign at Ciudad Trjillio in the Dominican Repubic.

Five American and four National League teams are going through their paces in Florida while two from each circuit are conditioning in California and one from each league in Arizona.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Main mat bout at the Brock Arena this Wednesday night is between the Masked Marvel and Earl McCready. A no time limit go, winner take all. Supporting it is the semi-final betwixt big Bill Kusisto and villainous Nanjo Singh—he and the Whip drew 13,000 to Maple Leaf Gardens last week. And the prelim has Jan Gotch in against Don McIntyre. The main event ought to be a hot tussle as the Mask hasn't been beaten here yet. But McCready held him to a draw in their last meeting, and then in a team bout the Marvel's side won out, though Earl pinned the Mask during the hectic affair. Yeah, plenty of grapple action for another big crowd of fans.

Bob Hesketh writes in the Tely: "You'd have to take off your socks and shoes to count the number of times this office has been assailed with requests for skiing info at Peterborough. The truth of the matter is that the place has become so ski conscious—the reason for the hush—that they want no invasion of the Sunday skier, have got all they can handle with the local addicts. They are sponsoring a junior ski school looking after about 400 juveniles. Teaching is carried out by 15 members of the club. A meet is planned for early next month. Don't be surprised if the enterprising folk at Peterborough aren't still slat-sliding right up until mid-May. They probably store the stuff in burlap sacks and drag it out when it's needed."

Petes Versus Legion

Petes play Legionnaires in Lindsay at 8.30 tonight, second game of their four-in-seven OHA senior "B" group finals. Petes edged out a 4-3 nod in Omemee in the opener and Legion are out to even the count this eve. Hefty demand for reserve seats and a right large crowd will go from here. Both sides of the arena are reserved at old prices, with both ends of the rush variety. Bus service and no doubt the bobbing tail-lights on cars over the highway hills will resemble a moving string of rubies going and coming. Ha, poetry it gives now!

* * * * * *

Anyway, that's the setup and the ice should be okay. It held up pretty well in Omemee the other night and we hope the whole series can be run in this area, without having to transfer to Quinte ice. Legions will probably try a different style to start the game this evening, swarming in there and trying for that first goal—as the Petes have been getting an early jump on them regularly this semester and then holding on to gain a close decision. Should be a redhot scrap between the warmish local rivals, and anything might happen. Next number will be back in Omemee on Wednesday and then in Lindsay again next Friday.

Church hockey and softball executives are combining this year to handle both sports, they decided at a meeting the other evening. Officials are: Sports director, Art Reynolds; assistants, Fred Agnew and Jerry Parnell; secretary, Harris Glen; treasurer, John Buckley; and an executive committee to be named. It'll consist of at least three members, not more than one from any one church. Ted Naish was chairman of the meeting and they expect to have a good year again. Appreciation was expressed for the CPC employees' interest in minor athletics. More on 'em again as they get lined up for the softball season a couple of months hence.

Concerning The Cagers

CGE lasses play Lock Works at eight tonight in a round-robin cage playoff in the YWCA. Togs, using some juniors, dropped an exhibition decision in Bella Villa on Saturday, and will be heading into LOBA playdowns next week. Toronto men hoopsters didn't come down Saturday, owing to poor driving, for their tilt with Marines, but the Jones' crew took a close City Loop win o'er the Payne pack. PCVS senior "B" basketeers were eliminated in Cobourg 53-19 over the week-end, but the other four PCVS crews won out. Junior "B" bunch were victors in Port Hope 52-16 to remain tied with Oshawa, bantam PCI-ers have an 18-14 edge on Bowmanville in the first of district finals, junior "A" boys rubbed out Uxbridge 101-33 on the round to go into district finals, and the senior "A" squad erased Whitby 78-25 to reach district finals. Nice work for the teams piloted by Bev Goulding.

UP AND DOWN SPORTS' RIALTO: Don't forget the annual open meeting of the men's City Softball League at 7.30 tomorrow night in the "Y"....Orm Weir had 11 points for Queen's as they beat McGill cagers 51-49 in an intercollegiate fixture...Angy Defelice, Belleville junior "B" puckist, has decided to sign with Philadelphia Rockets....Automatics and Industrial Control made CGE Shop Hockey Loop finals....OHA most valuable player choice is for every club this season....Waterloo beat Brantford 6-3 in the first of their senior "B" group finals....Preston rubbed out Port Colborne in bantam "B" and will meet the Chatham-Woodstock winner in OMHA semi-finals; our Lions go into finals ....Some dope on PMHA round-robin playoffs shortly; probably on Omemee ice since they closed up the city rinks Sat'day....Legion-Petes' fray tonight is Lindsay for sure, not Belleville....Some grid dope in on the morrow.... POME: March came in like a lamb, instead of a mad March hare—and when it goes out we haven't a doubt that all district rinks will be bare.

Rugby Playoffs For Juniors To Be Official

TORONTO, March 1 — (CP) — Football moved towards reversing its short-sighted policy on developing homebrew talent by appointing a committee Saturday to study means of revising official East-West Junior playoffs by next season.

Delegates of affiliated leagues at the Canadian Rugby Union's annual meeting voted unanimously to appoint the five-man committee after statements on the floor made it evident age-limit violations were rampant, in Ontario at least, due to lack of supervision.

The issue was touched off by last season's unofficial junior final at Vancouver when the Blue Bombers defeated Hamilton Tigers, the East's Big Four representative. Eddie McLean, Ontario Rugby Football Union delegate, charged that his league was "sold down the river" in that affair.

Though the CRU had decided not to sponsor an official junior final last season, it "stepped in at the last minute" and arbitrarily ruled against Hamilton Wildcats, ORFU representatives, making the trip because the team had five over-age players. He produced birth certificates purporting to show that two Tigers who played in Vancouver were over age.

Percy Robinson, CRU secretary, confirmed that the Union had ruled against the Wildcats but said the final was not recognized by the CRU because no official Eastern champion was declared.

It was decided the new committee would undertake to untangle the entire junior situation. It will discuss means of policing age-limit regulations, financing and feasibility of reviving East-West junior playoffs, reporting its recommendations to the CRU by June 15.

The last official East-West final was held in 1932 when University of Toronto defeated Moose Jaw 8-6, and the next year the CRU sponsored its last official junior final when Toronto Argonauts defeated Montreal Westwards 14-6.

T. H. C. Alison, Toronto Argonaut president who was appointed committee chairman, said "if we concentrate on developing our Canadian talent, we may be able to do without imports that much sooner."

Other committee members include McLean, Insky, Dr. J. J. O'Connor of Toronto and Jess Fitton of Toronto, acting secretary.

Curling Finals Attract 4,000

CALGARY, March 1. (CP) — Close to 4,000 fans from all parts of the Dominion today are expected to crowd into the Calgary arena for the opening day's play of the Canadian Curling Championship with 10 provincial rinks participating in a nine-round playoff.

Enthusiasm, never quiet since the visiting rinks first arrived here during the week-end, grew tremendously last night with the announcement of the draws for the competition which winds up next Thursday night.

After each team early today went through an eight-end practice round, the skips paraded their players to the arena for a brief ceremony before they lined up for the opening round, which pits Prince Edward Island against British Columbia; Quebec vs. Northern Ontario; Alberta vs. Nova Scotia; Saskatchewan vs. Manitoba, and Ontario vs. New Brunswick.

Adams Satisfied With Enquiries On Hockey Bets

CHICAGO, March 1 (AP). — Weston Adams, president of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, said last night that "several players" on the team had told him they knew convicted gambler Tamer.

"Several told me they knew him, but knew nothing of his background," Adams was quoted as saying. "They emphatically denied ever making any bets with him. They met him just as they met countless others who go to hockey games.

"While in Chicago I've been checking some things contained in recent stories about betting. Anything I may have found out was entirely satisfactory and entirely in the favor of hockey."

Tamer, a gambler and bank robber parolee, is being held at the Jackson, Mich., prison as a parole violator. He was reported to have had telephone conversations concerning the placing of bets with a member of the Bruins and New York Rangers. The Detroit Times said a member of the Blackhawks also was included in the scandal.

Charges of an alleged gambler-player tie up in the National Hockey League will be aired at Lansing, Mich., tomorrow in the office of state governor Kim Sigler.

Adams and his coach, Dit Clapper, said they would attend. Bill Tobin, president of the Blackhawks, said he did not plan to go to the hearing "unless I am called upon."

Tail-End Hawks Break Even Share Cellar

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

With the league leaders matching strides over the week-end, the most decisive National Hockey League results were those which saw the fifth - place Montreal Canadiens losing two games, and the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks splitting even.

For the first time in many a moon, the lowly Black Hawks are no longer alone in the NHL cellar. They're tied for fifth place with the Canadiens. But both are still seven points behind Boston Bruins, who hold the fourth and last qualifying position for the Stanley Cup play-offs.

Canadiens now have just nine games left to overcome that seven-point deficit if they are to enter the cup round. Chicago has only eight games left.

For the tail-enders, it's just about hopeless. Canadiens still have two games against Toronto, one against Detroit, two against Boston, two against Rangers and two against Chicago. The Hawks have one game left against Toronto, two against Detroit, two against Rangers, one against Boston and two against Canadiens.

The Montreal and Chicago clubs fought hard over this vital week-end but it was no go. Saturday, the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs beat Chicago 4-3, while the second-place Detroit Red Wings were easily trimming Canadiens 5-2. On Sunday, the New York Rangers topped Canadiens 5-3 in a bruising struggle at New York, while the Hawks walloped Boston Bruins 5-1 at Chicago.

At Toronto Saturday the Hawks actually rolled up a 2-0 lead before the Leafs got going. Gus Bodnar and Bill Gadsby scored the first two. Then Leafs got four in a row, extending over the second and third periods, with goals for Max Bentley, Nick Metz, Syl Apps and Joe Klukay. Gadsby's second goal was the only other score.

For Captain Sylvanus Apps of the Leafs it was the 194th ogal in NHL play. Apps later won the verdict over Defenceman Ralph Nattrass of the Hawks in a wrestling match which accompanied a third period brawl started by Bashing Bill Barilko of the Leafs and Red Hamill. All four were chased for roughing.

At Montreal Saturday the Canadiens outshot the Wings 21-17, but sloppy passing and great goaltending by Harry Lumley in the Detroit cage kept them off the score-sheet most of the way. The Detroit goals were divided between Bill Quackenbush, Ted Lindsay, Jimmy McFadden, Pete Horeck and Gordon Howe. Maurice Richard and Howard Ripelle scored for Canadiens.

Rangers piled up a 3-0 lead at New York Sunday but Canadiens came right back to tie the score before the second frame was over. The Rangers got the only two goals of the third period. Rene Trudell returned to the Ranger line-up to score the first goal, Ed Kullman scored twice and Tony Leswick and Buddy O'Connor got the others. Murph Chamberlain, Billy Reay and Elmer Lach scored for Canadiens, all within four minutes in the second period.

Week-End Stars

(By The Canadian Press)

Joe Klukay, Toronto forward, whose goal proved to be the winner as Leafs shaded Chicago 4-3 Saturday.

Bill Gadsby, Chicago defenceman who fired two of the Hawk goals.

Jimmy McFadden, Detroit centre who scored once and set up another marker as the Wings beat Canadiens 5-2 Saturday.

Eddie Kullman, New York winger who connected twice as Rangers whipped Montreal 5-3 Sunday.

Roy Conacher, Chicago who scored twice and helped on another counter as Hawks hammered Boston 5-1 Sunday.

Korean Picture Not Bright Letter Reveals

HAVELOCK, March 1 (ENS)—A picture of the difficulties which face the Canadian missionaries who have recently returned to Korea is given in a letter received by Mrs. Annie Anderson from Dr. Florence Murray, a United Church missionary at Seoul, Korea. The letter was in acknowledgment of a parcel of clothing sent to Dr. Murray by the Women's Missionary Society of Havelock United Church. Dr. Murray said: Many thanks to you and any associated with you in the sending of the fine parcel for relief that came recently in your name.... Please convey our sincere gratitude to all concerned..

One young woman came to see us a few days ago was formerly one of our nurses in the mission hospital in Hamheung before the war. She and her husband and three children are refugees from another part of Korea. They were in need of clothing and only had on flannelette blanket as bedding for the entire family. Fortunately we were able to give them some warm clothes for the children and a couple more blankets. Blankets however are very scarce and there are many hundreds of people without bedding.

Now that Mrs. Scott and Mrs. Fraser have got here and are helping with the distribution of relief suplies, Miss A. Sandell has more time for other things and is giving a good deal of effort to translating textbooks of nursing for use in the nurses' training schools. Lack of books is one of the big problems in all the schools and colleges. Lack of fuel is another and at present all of them are closed on account of inability to heat the buildings. They will have to make up time by studying all summer. The same difficulty confronts us in the hospital. We have to wear our coats all the time in the hospital and of course it is impossible to give baths or do various other things in perfectly cold rooms, so our hospital work is not very satisfying just now.

The United Nations commission on Korea is here now and all of us are hoping and praying that some way may be found to put this unhappy divided country back together again and let them have their independence. I am sure you who are friends of Korea and of the unfortunate everywhere will join us in these prayers.

Lawyer Dies

AYER'S CLIFF, Que., March 1 — (CP). — Christopher Charles Robinson, K.C., 64, retired Toronto lawyer who specialized in international law and who was involved in several important international disputes, died at his home here Saturday.

Two Injured

BARRIE, March 1 — (CP). — Two Canadian army officers were injured, neither severely, when their two-seater light plane clipped the top off a tree and crashed near Camp Borden. Injured were Capt. Robert Cross, the pilot, and Lieut. Arthur Potts, a passenger.

Cost of Living Declined Under Portugal's Controls

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LISBON, March 1 (CP). Portugal today is one of those rare countries where the cost of living has gone down rather than up.

Official figures claim a decline of five per cent over the last few months. Unofficial statistics, compiled by independent business interests, go farther and say it is 16 per cent.

The man behind the price-lowering program is dark-eyed, humorous Economics Minister Barbosa, who "moved in" on a dozen or more commodities, and stayed there until he was satisfied that prices were at a proper level.

Wheat, meat, potatoes and many other basic foodstuffs have been dealt with. The system is to fix what is considered a reasonable price level and then make supplies available in such quantities that prices go even lower.

When importation is necessary, as it often is, private merchants handle the transaction. The government makes up the loss by a subsidy to the importers. Barbosa estimates the cost works out at about seven centavos (just over ¼ cent) a month for each of Portugal's 8,000,000 inhabitants.

Portuguese still grumble about high prices, but when pressed, they admit decreases in a wide range of commodities since this time last year.

Barbosa has also tightened up on import licences, restricting the flow of some American goods. It is interesting to note that many Portuguese importers are voluntarily switching to Canadian products and applying to Consul-General Lester Glass for information on goods of every kind.

Trade With Canada

Canada sold nearly $3,000,000 worth of goods to Portugal in the nine months ended Sept. 30, 1947, including heavy equipment like harbor cranes. In return it took goods worth about $900,000, mostly in cork and wine.

In 1946 Portuguese trade figures showed exports of $175,000,000 and imports of $241,720,000. They do not reflect the true balance, however, as many of the imports were from the Portuguese colonies.

Under the rigid control of Chief of Government Salazar, who is also finance minister, the country has had a balanced budget for the last 20 years. Salazar keeps a sharp eye on government departments and limits their expenditures to 90 per cent of their allocations.

At the same time he has been able to modernize transport, extend social services and build new schools. Good roads run to most parts of the country and the Lisbon airport is one of the busiest and most up-to-date in the world.

Salazar's plans anticipate a slow, co-ordinated development of Portuguese industry. Two big hydro-electric schemes are in progress which should be completed in 1950 or 1951.

Existing industry is backward — a factory often consists of a small group of men working in a shed. In anticipation of the day when more power is available, experts are working out a survey which will assist plants which are considered efficient, help reorganize those which are not, and establish new factories where this is considered necessary.

One Arrest Made

HAWKKESBURY, Ont., March 1—(CP)—A 16-day search for thieves who broke into a company pay office at Kilmar Mine, 12 miles from Calumet, Que., and escaped with a $25,000 payroll ended here yesterday when police arrested Doris Demers, 35, of Hawkesbury, and another man, unidentified, of Grenville, Que. Demers is a former employee of the mine.

Want Bass Hatchery

BRUCE MINES, Ont., March 1 (CP)—Establishment of a bass hatchery along the north shore of Lake Huron was urged at a week-end meeting of the Bruce Mines Chamber of Commerce and operators of several tourist camps in this district about 40 miles east of Sault Ste. Marie.

The gathering also called for a one-buck law to curb depletion of the deer population.

Safe-Cracker Dies Dynamiting Vault

TORONTO, March 1 (CP)—A would be safe-cracker, identified as Hubert Hiscox, was killed in an explosion last night while allegedly attempting to break into a safe in the north-end premises of McKay and Muldoon Ltd., police saiad today.

When police arrived at the scene in response to a burglar alarm signal a man could be seen crouched behind an office desk with what appeared to be a battery. An explosion rocked the office and police entered to find Hiscox lying on the floor, his body severely smashed and one hand blown off. He was taken to hospital where he was pronounced dead.

Four Children Perish

BROOKLANDS, Mich., March 1 — (CP). — While Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Garvey were attending a bingo to promote funds for a volunteer community fire department truck, four of their six children, ranging in age from 18 months to nine years died in a fire which destroyed their home here Saturday night.

Gear For Moderns

CHICAGO, March 1 (AP). — A department store let out his imagination today and came up with an "atomic-sola suit" for the 21st century male. The suit does away with collars, neckties, buttons, shoelaces, lapels and pockets. It is made of wrinkleproof, water-repellent plastic and can be cleaned with a damp cloth. In lieu of pockets, the wearer sports a wrist band containing a watch, cigarette lighter and — the store predicts—an electronic communications set that can put the owner in touch with any point in the world.

Rev. A. McLauchlin Dies At Age 62

BELLEVILLE, March 1—(CP). —Rev. Andrew McLauchlin, 62, press representative of the United Church of Canada, died Friday night in hospital here.

Born in Liverpool, England, Mr. McLauchlin was ordained in Toronto after studies at Albert College, Belleville, Victoria University. He graduated in 1915. He had been minister at Bancroft, Pontypool, Keene, Grafton, Almonte and Havelock, retiring from the last church eight years ago because of poor health.

He is survived by his widow, two sons, Rev. W. McLauchlin of Hamilton and W. A. McLauchlin, divinity student at Victoria University, and a daughter, Mrs. Don Rose of Toronto.

MAY UNLOCK NEW ATOM SECRETS — Howard L. Schultz, assistant professor of physics at Yale University, adjusts the new atom-smashing linear accelerator built at Yale under his direction. Yale physicists have already attained energies of one million volts in the new machine, which is expected to unlock new secrets of the atom. Instead of using heavy particles of matter to smash the atom at dizzy speeds, the linear accelator works on the principle of using the electron—the light, negatively charged particle of the atom—to smash the nucleus.

Six Leap Year Babies Born In 2 Hospitals

It is believed thtat Peterborough set some kind of a record for leap-year babies on Sunday when six of the happy-birthday-every-fourth-year tots saw the light for the first time. That is, there were six between the two hospitals. Any others—and there may be others—have not yet been reported.

Civic Hospital and St. Joseph's each had three and the girls and boys numbered three each.

Girls born were daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Grant Gillespie, 37 Manning avenue; Mr. and Mrs. Russell Curtis, 788 Duffus street; and Mr and Mrs. William Roode, 254 Westcott street.

Sons born were those of Mr. and Mrs. Leslie Adams, 750 Payne street; Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hunter, Lakefield; Mr. and Mrs. John Baxter, 555 Bethune street.

Caused Disturbance Youth Fined $5

"Because a man runs a restaurant, does not mean that it belongs to everyone who comes in," John Crowley, 17 Cricket Place, was told by Magistrate Philp in court this morning, when he was found guilty of causing a disturbance and fined $5 and $2.50 costs. He had pleaded not guilty.

Hum Horning, cafe owner, testified that Crowley had been in his George St. restaurant and had moved three times to sit with different girls. When this was objected to, the accused, witness said, had started to argue, had refused to leave, shouted, pounded on the tables, swore, and dared the owner to "come out in the alley and fight."

Walter Douglas, called for the defence, who said he had been in the restaurant, said that the accused had not been causing trouble.

The accused said that he had not caused a commotion and added that the owner was "in the habit" of putting people out if they did not order something to eat.

Train Hits Grader Stalled On Track

TORONTO, March 1—(CP)—About 200 passengers of a Canadian Pacific Railway Toronto-Ottawa Flyer escaped injury yesterday when the train held the track after plowing into a highway grader at Locust Hill, east of here. Sections of the grader were thrown through the air and tore down a telephone pole and switchstand several hundred feet away. Police said the grader stalled on the track when the blade of the plow caught on the track. The train was delayed more than two and a half hours while repairs were made to the engine.

ICY ROADS AGAIN

An accident on the Hunter street bridge, about midnight Saturday, caused damage to the car of Keith Innes, 549 Bolivar street and a truck driven by William MacKenzie, 236 Euclid avenue. Innes' car was proceeding east on the bridge and he stopped when the car in front stopped. The truck slipped on the slippery road and struck the rear. Damages to the car are about $40, and an estimated $8 to the truck, PC J. Morrow investigated.

CELEBRATE GOLDEN WEDDING ANNIVERSARY — Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lawless, 597 Douglas Ave., on Saturday celebrated their 50th wedding anniversary. The happy couple are shown as they prepared to receive the 150 guests who came to congratulate them. Mr. Lawless was a former CGE employee who retired on pension in 1944. Friends and relatives arrived from places such as St. Catharines, Toronto and Kingston as well as surrounding centres.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

DEER FEEDING SUCCESSFUL

Supplementary feeding of deer by the Peterborough Fish and Game Conservation Association seems to be bringing results. William Church on whose property some hay was placed some two weeks ago says some half dozen deer have benefitted by it. A doe and two fawns are reported to have improved since the arrival of the feed.

POLICE STAFFS

Kitchener has 29 police officers and men. Their appropriation for 1948 is $99,891. It was said in their behalf at a meeting this week that Kingston, by comparison, with 5,000 fewer people, has a police staff of 35 and budget of $118,000. Peterborough police requisition for this year is $83,000. The staff is 29 officers and men and also a matron. Authority has been given to engage three additional men.

HIT AND RUN DRIVER

On Saturday night a small tawny-coloured pup ventured to cross Charlotte street at Bethune. Perhaps he had his eye peeled for trains—anyway he didn't see the car until it was too late. The car hit him squarely and the driver kept on going, leaving the dog writhing in the centre of the road. A pedestrian went over to him and carried him to the sidewalk. The pup died before the Humane Society or a vet. could give him aid.

8 BELOW ZERO

March arrived today with a temperature of 8 below zero, which could hardly be described as the approach of a lamb. But, the sun rose brilliantly, and everybody saw his shadow, even if he wasn't particularly interested in it. What if there was a lot of snow to be shovelled out of lanes and off walks. City folks might remember that there is a lot of fall-sown grain under it, and a blanket of snow is an asset while winter is backing off the stage.

Douglas Avenue Couple Observe Golden Wedding

Some 150 relatives and friends from as far away as St. Catharines, Toronto and Kingston gathered on Saturday to share in the celebration of the 50th wedding anniversary of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lawless, 59 Douglas Ave.

The couple received their many guests and well-wishers — from 3 to 5 p.m., and again from 7 to 9 p.m. A special wedding cake baked by their daughter, Mrs. Uzal E. Waterman, in whose home the parents reside, was cut by the hostess.

Mr. Lawless was born in Baltimore, Northumberland county, while Mrs. Lawless, the former Mary Arnott, was born in Trenton. Campbellford was the scene of their wedding, on Feb. 28, 1898. A couple of days later they moved to Peterborough, where they have since resided.

That year Mr. Lawless began to work at the CGE in the armature department, and the skilled process of armature winding remained his job until retirement. Repairs and installation work took him to many power plants throughout Ontario for several years.

600 Employees

"When I first went to CGE there were only 600 employees," he told The Examiner. With a twinkle in his eye, he commented on the difference between plant organization then, and the vast specialization present today: "When I started a fellow had to be everything from a dressmaker to a blacksmith." He retired from the CGE on pension at the beginning of 1944.

Hunting and fishing have always been his chief recreation. An accomplished fly-caster he has landed many a sizeable trout as a result of his skill.

Mrs. Lawless, complete with red rose corsage, obviously enjoyed her role of hostess to the many friends. As a wife and mother she has concentrated on domestic life as both a hobby and a career. Fancywork on tablecloths and quilts have occupied much of her spare time.

The couple have four married daughters: Mrs. Edward Collins (Eve), Mrs. U. E. Waterman (Geraldine), Mrs. Russel Reid (Blanche), all of Peterborough, and Mrs. Jack Armitage (Mayme) of Virginiatown.

Six Grandchildren Act As Pallbearers

Six of her 18 grandchildren were pall-bearers at the funeral Friday from the Anglesey funeral home of Mrs. Mary Rose Girard, who died at St. Joseph's Hospital last Wednesday. They were: Wilfred, Leo, Lucien, Arthur, Roland and Raymond Girard.

Requiem high mass was celebrated at St. Peter's Cathedral by Rev. F. Fitzpatrick, and the prayers at St. Peter's cemetery were read by Rev. P. P. Butler. Mrs. Girard is survived by two sons, Leopold and Albert of Peterborough, and one daughter, Mrs. James Reed of Montreal.

THE SHORTEST DISTANCE

More than one incoming passenger at the CPR station today was a little delayed in reaching home. The taxis available were swamped with an uenxpectedly heavy crowd. They took the only available way out, by filling the cars and dropping the passengers one by one. The choice in some cases was not too efficient. One case is typical of many. A returning citizen, tired from the long train ride from Toronto, decided to have the luxury of a cab at the late hour. He found one, and four other passengers, and, after involuntarily being shown every other section of the city, he was dropped off at his home. The time consumed in the process was 27 minutes, and two miles were clocked by the taxi. The actual distance from the traveller's home to the station was—six blocks, a 10-minute walk at the most.—RB.

HAWKESBURY, Ont., March 1. —(CP).— About 45 persons aboard an Ottawa bound Colonial Coach Lines bus narrowly escaped serious injury last night when the vehicle careen off the highway and crashed into the town's pasteurization plant.

The bush smashed through a cinder block wall of the dairy operated by Olivier Charbonneau and finally halted three feet from the rear wall, beyond which was the Ottawa river, 50 feet below. The building, only pasteurization plant in this town 50 miles east of Ottawa, was destroyed.

Club Postpones Championship Skiing Events

Saturday's snowfall which gave a first-class surface to local hills, resulted in skiing conditions described as "best of the season."

On Sunday more than 160 enthusiasts tackled the slopes at Bethany. The party was made up of district people, no guests being reported. Nobody was injured.

Peterborough Ski Club championship competition consisting of downhill and slalom events was postponed.

Kemp's Slope was also in top shape and more than 100 skiers tried "the boards" there. Most of them were from the Peterborough Ski Club. Jack Holland was back in town from Valcartier, Quebec, where he is instructing. He was busy renewing old acquaintances and giving the locals a few pointers on tips picked up in the Laurentians.

2 Local Sailors On Manoeuvres

Mrs. W. E. Dorrington, Sr., 52 Victoria Ave., has received an air mail letter from her son CPO D. K. (Bunny) Dorrington, which is postmarked Friday, February 27, at Key West, Florida. After 14 years in the Canadian Navy, he is happy to be at sea again making the first cruise with the Canadian Fleet since 1938. He is on board HMCS New Liskeard bound for an undisclosed destination where they will meet the American fleet for manoeuvres. This is an annual peace-time operation which was discontinued during the war years.

In his letter CPO Dorrington mentions that the trip to Key West had been over long and the sailors are suffering from the intense heat. At time of writing he states it was 98 in the shade.

Also on board the New Liskeard is CPO Robert Earl Middleton who formerly resided on Inverlea St., Peterborough, and entered the navy with CPO Dorrington 14 years ago. Though maintaining their friendship through the years, this is the first trip the boys have made together.

FIRE AT HOBBS GLASS

Fire believed to have started from overheated chimney pipes slightly damaged the storeroom of Hobbs Glass, 376 Water St., just after 9.30 a.m. Monday. Upper portions of the north wall and adjacent section of the ceiling were burned. Sections of beaverboard lining the inside of the corrugated iron and brick structure were torn away to ensure that the last spark was extinguished. Two booster pumps were used to put out the blaze.

High School Actors Tend To 'Butcher' King's English

KINGSTON, March 1. (CP) — High school actors have a tendency to "butcher the King's English," Robertson Davies, editor of The Peterborough Examiner, said here Saturday.

Mr. Davies was adjudicating at the final performance of the first annual Secondary School Drama Festival, sponsored by Queen's University Drama Department.

"In many countries, the theatre is considered the model of perfect pronunciation," he told actors and directors from six Eastern Ontario secondary schools.

"Let us endeavor to keep the stage language pure in Canada," urged Mr. Davies.

"Trysting Place," presented Saturday night by Belleville Collegiate players, was criticized generally for lack of attention to details of dress, slowness of pace and lack of assurance.

"Who Gets the Car Tonight," Picton Collegiate production, was found "worse rubbish" than "High School Daze" of Friday night. The players were in many cases inaudible.

A. A. Milne's "Man in a Bowler Hat," produced by Lisgar Collegiate, Ottawa, was held a model for high school drama groups. It was well and intelligently rehearsed, timing was good and the players obviously enjoyed themselves, Mr. Davies said.

Forger Gets Reformatory On Four Charges Passed Cheques For $385

Harry A. Wellman, Niagara Falls, was sentenced to two years less a day definite and six months indefinite when he was found guilty on charges of forgery and false pretenses in writing cheques which had been cashed in the city. He pleaded guilty to one charge and not guilty to the other three. The finding of guilty was made after rather vague protests made by the accused as to the fact that "everything's against me," and "why ask any questions—they'll still lie, and I don't know anybody to prove them wrong." He also alluded to the fact that he could not get legal counsel for financial reasons. The accused, however, declined his right to go on the witness stand, and, in his defence, did not refer directly to the charges.

The Crown presented five witnesses in Police Court who swore as to the identity of the accused as the man who had presented the cheques for payment.

The man whose name had been used on three of the cheques also gave evidence that he had not written them and did not know the accused.

Largest cheque, and the one to which he had pleaded guilty, was for $300 from an insurance company, made payable to a couple in the city. Acting Detective Sergeant John Stevenson testified that the accused had admitted that he had signed and presented the cheque.

First of the three false pretenses charges, to which Wellman had entered not guilty pleas, involved a cheque for $35, which had been cashed at the R. Neill shoe store here.

Coleman Blewett, manager of the store, was first witness. He said the accused had given his name as Harold Spence and presented a cheque made out to that name and signed by Nick Peconi. The witness idenified he accused positively.

Wellman, in his only questioning of witnesses, told Blewett he had never been in the store. When told by the magistrate that he was entitled to ask questions only and not "make a speech to the witness." It was to this witness that Wellman made the comment about "why question them, they'll only lie again." He expressed surprise at "why you are trying to show I'm the one who is guilty." When he alluded to his inability to pay for counsel, he added, "I haven't a chance of getting the facts — they made sure of that by keeping me in jail."

Two store employees, Miss Marlyn Cullens and Miss Lola McCall, also added positive identification of the accused as the man who had cashed the cheque.

Nick Pecconi, whose name had been signed to the cheque, repeated that he had not signed any of them, "had never seen him before in my life", in reference to the accused. He gave this same evidence on each of the three cheques, after being shown the exhibits.

John Baird, partner of the Higgins Hardware, was first witness in the next count against Wellman, concerning a cheque for $32 alleged to have been cashed at that hardware on Dec. 31.

At that time, the witness said his name was John Leohey, R.R. 1, Douro. The cheque was signed "Nick Peconi."

John Lewis, manager of the S.S. Kresge store here, told of the $18 cheque which the accused had cashed at his store.

Had a Record

In a brief statement from the dock, without going into the witness stand, the accused said he had nothing to do with the three cheques and asked if they had been checked by experts to see if the signatures were actually his writing.

Magistrate Philp remarked that Wellman had been convicted on charges of forgery in the past.

"Do you realize the maximum penalty which can be given for forgery?" he asked the accused.

"Not off-hand."

"It is life imprisonment — and it is evident that you do not realize how serious the punishment could be," he was advised.

The sentence for the $300 cheque was two years definite, six months indefinite at Guelph Reformatory. On the Higgins and Neill cheques he received six months definite and three months indefinite for each, on the Kresge incident, four months definite and one month indefinite. The sentense will run concurrently.

Five Flat Cars Carry 2 Tanks

The two tanks ordered by Utilities Commission as containers of the liquid propane that is to be used in the local gas service arrived over the week-end from Salem, Mass. They are each 60 feet long by 10 feet in circumference and are loaded on five flat-cars.

It has recently been published that the Commission has been forced by circumstances of supply of materials to make some drastic change or "go out of the gas business". In that emergency they decided to switch to propane which will be mixed into the present gas flow, but will eventually be sole constituent.

The big tanks have to be transferred from the flatcars, and will be set up outside the gas works at the east end of Simcoe St.

They are not enclosed. Permission for their placement has been obtained from the city council, Fire Chief Smith and City Engineer Chalmers, and similar application was made to the Dominion Board of Transport.

Favor Union Jack As Ontario Flag

A resolution to have the Union Jack made the official Ontario flag will be sent to the Provincial Grand Lodge of the LOL with a request that a petition be sent the provincial government urging this action.

The resolution was passed at a meeting last week of the Duke of Manchester LOL No. 50. Referring to agitation which has developed in some provinces for the adoption of a distinctive provincial flag, the wording notes that "some provinces have already adopted flags for provincial purposes . . . which have the unique distinction of further separating this Dominion from the British Commonwealth of Nations."

The suggested move by the province, it is contended, would be to "tell the Dominion and the world that it is the earnest desire of the vast majority of the citizens of this province to remain and stay within the influence of the British Empire and Commonwealth of Nations."

Much-feted Pair Honeymoon In Kentucky

WASHINGTON, March 1 — (C P) — Flying Officer Clarence Mattusch of the R. C. A. F. and his pretty 26-year-old bride, Anita Cajigas, daughter of an internationally known pathologist, were honeymooning in Kentucky today following a brilliant wedding ceremony here Saturday.

A June-like atmosphere favored the handsome couple whose wedding at the Church of the Epiphany was one of the biggest in Washington circles in some years. It climaxed a romance which began last October when the groom was here as a member of the Canadian Joint Staff Mission.

The bride is the daughter of Dr. Thomas Cajigas, a native of Puerto Rico.

A gala reception for 1,000 guests followed the wedding. President Truman was away, vacationing in Florida, but Mrs. Truman and their daughter, Margaret, headed a guest list which included the most prominent people in Washington.

Mr. and Mrs. Carl Mattusch of Elmira, Ont., parents of the 26-year-old groom, attended the reception with their two daughters and a large group of Canadian friends.

Mattusch, now in the permanent R. C. A. F. as intelligence officer in Ottawa, had as best man, Dr. Tomas Cajigas, jr., eldest brother of the bride.

The couple will live in Ottawa following their honeymoon.

Mrs. F. W. K. Harris Addresses Circle Meeting

Jean Wagar Mission Circle of St. James United Church met at the home of Mrs. Gerald Cuffe, 99 Morrow St. for the February meeting. Special guests were Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, president of the Bay of Quinte Conference and members of Mark St. Church Mission Circle.

Miss Jessie Martin was in charge of the worship period. "Sharing" as the theme, was brought out effectively by the story of an Angola African told by Mrs. Gerald Cuffe. Two duets were contributed by Mrs. W. Hepburn and Mrs. A. Scriver of the visiting group, with Mrs. Stevenson accompanying on the piano. Miss Mabel Dulmage, Christian stewardship convener, gave some very interesting thoughts on stewardship. "An honest stewardship of the Christian life is like a hand with the five major channels being prayer, evangelism, worship, stewardship and service" she said. "Let us render an honest stewardship for the millions yet unsaved."

Mrs. Harris was introduced by the president, Miss Gladys Langton. Her address was titled "What we see through the WMS windows." She traced the growth of the organization which has now 191,000 members supporting 118 missionaries.

Speaking of the young people in Canada she said "More than 750,000 people made changes in their abode during the war years, but only five per cent of them lined up with the church. There is a growing worldliness among our young people and many workers are needed to get them interested in the church and help to hold Canada for Christ." She mentioned the WMS school homes across the prairies where a great work is being done.

In conclusion she said "It is easy to give pity, but not so easy to give love. This we see through WMS windows."

A vote of thanks was given to Mrs. Harris by the group.

Business was conducted by the president, outstanding item being the pageant which Circle Girls are presenting for the evening service on Palm Sunday entitled "The Challenge of the Cross." March meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Walter Seabrooke, Prince St.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, assisted by Miss Martin.

U.N. RESPONSIBLE FOR PALESTINE —This mother shows the stark horror of the situation as she and her family flee from square block of Jewish occupied buildings in the Jewish district of Jerusalem which were blasted recently to rubble. Fifty-two persons were killed in the blast and 88 were injured. Haganah guards said they had accepted a British police driver's okay and had passed the lethal trucks, and much of the onus for the blast has fallen to the British. The United Nations' commission on Palestine will become legal government of the Holy Land when British mandate ends May 15. Gen. Sir Alan Cunningham, British high commissioner, has set machinery in motion for British withdrawal from Palestine.

The bride chose a charming afternoon dress of light grey crepe fashioned with drape and peplum effect and three-quarter length sleeves. Her hat of black felt was a "bowler" style trimmed with satin ribbon and silk veiling and she wore long black gloves. Her shoulder bouquet was of pink roses and white sweet peas. Miss Mary Fair was bridesmaid and wore a lovely crepe afternoon dress in new blue shade with hat to match. Grey gloves and corsage of talisman roses white sweet peas completed her ⅝ ensemble. Mr. John Martell was the groom's attendant.

At the reception held at Hooper's palm room, about 30 guests were received. Mrs. Scott assisted her daughter and was gowned in black crepe with flower-trimmed hat of Milan lace straw and her corsage was of pink roses and white sweet peas completed her silver holders and the wedding cake decorated the bride's table andl spring flowers centred the others.

Of Interest to Women

DOROTHY DIX

DIVORCE TROUBLE

Dull Marriage Preferable To Facing World Alone

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: Lots of women are miserable because their husbands don't get along with their families. Well, I'm telling them there is worse luck than that. Take me. I am 25, very good-looking, a nice figure, a a sweet disposition, easy to get along with. But I also have two children and we live at home with my parents. I work in an office and my mother keeps the children, and let me tell you that this two-families-under-one-roof policy doesn't work.

Dorothy Dix

Right now I am so fed up with this arrangement that I would be willing to marry any nice, desirable, dependable, child-loving, home-owning, tall, dark, handsome, financially well-off man who would ask me. Of course it is a lot harder to get a husband when you are three instead of one, and it begins to look as if I will have to live the rest of my life alone.

So my advice to women is to stick to the moderately good husbands they have and be glad they are no worse.

A FAITHFUL READER.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: These are words of wisdom that every woman who has a husband who isn't the Fairy Prince that she thought she was getting when she married, will do well to paste on her mirror so that she can read them every time she puts on her makeup.

Happier In Own Home

Granted that a husband may have many faults and be hard to live with, but as long as he is a good provider for his wife and children she almost always makes a mistake if she breaks up her home and leaves him. For divorce is not the panacea for her domestic ills that the disgruntled wife thinks it is going to be. Mother doesn't welcome Sally with open arms when she comes home with a bunch of noisy kids. Mothers expect their daughters to stay married when they get married.

As long as Sally was married she had the run of her husband's pocketbook, which is very different from trying to collect alimony. Every divorce expects to make a brilliant second marriage, but while men like to play about with the sophisticated Sallies, they are not so keen about marrying them, especially when they have children to be reared and educated. And if the Number Two husband happens to be allergic to the youngsters, poor Sally has jumped from the frying pan into the fire.

Of course, there are cases in which divorce is an absolute necessity, but, taking it by and large, wives seldom improve their lots by swapping husbands. For if John has one fault, Tom has another, and one is just as hard to put up with as the other. So it is just as well to bear the ills you have as to fly to those you know not of.

Unless, of course, you can find a man who is "desirable, dependable, child-loving, home-owning, tall, dark, handsome and financially well-off."

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 25 years old and am considered very handsome by the fair sex. I hav a fine job and money in the ba I would like to settle down, all the girls I meet seem so ch ish and stupid. There is one g for whom I particularly care, bu she doesn't seem to appreciate me, which proves that she is stupid.

BEWILDERED MAN.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: From your letter I would judge that you are a little shy on modesty, and that is a quality that makes a particular hit with women. They want to monopolize vanity and for men to tell them how beautiful and wonderful and fascinating they are. They get very tired of a man whom they have to flatter and cajole all the time and who acts as if he were God's gift to women.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: What is a girl to do when she has a man friend whom she admires and esteems and is very fond of, but with whom she is not in love, but who is madly in love with her and insists on marrying her? She has tried every way in the world to disillusion him about her, but she can't do it.

These fine people do not deserve to suffer the heartaches of a one-sided love affair. What alternative should this girl take to make things work out well for both of them in the end?

TWO FRIENDS.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: The heart is an unruly member and no one has ever yet found any way to control it. Your friend cannot make herself fall in love with the man, and she will do him a disservice if she marries him without loving him.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, March 2.

Predominance of the feelings, impulses and emotions on this day, fanned into action by stimulating and conflicting planetary influences, may make for a sensational and dramatic state of affairs. Such sidereal forces predispose to strange and unpredictable behavior, with tendency to "tall tales," showing off, and the other tactics for defeating good prospects. Well-regulated emotions, passions or intuitions might be shrewdly channeled into lucrative, happy and thrilling ventures.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves beset by a peculiar, confused and bewildered state of affairs, in which a productive and promising condition might be diverted by wrong tactics, in which the feelings, desires and emotions blot out a balanced use of the mentality and sound judgment. Distortions or exaggerations of facts might divert willing help in crises whereas astute and controlled behavior, motions and ideas could spell sound ventures.

A child born on this day may be endowed with romantic, idealistic and over-liberal tendencies, impelling it to seek pleasure and gratification by rather dubious means.

THE ENQUIRY COLUMN

By MARY MOORE

QUESTION: I am writing to ask a special favour. During the war I got a lovely recipe for a prune loaf. It was really swell, and kept moist for a few weeks. I thought I had put it in my scrap book but on looking found it must have been mislaid. Could you kindly give me a recipe if you have one. I sure would appreciate it. I am a constant reader of your column and enjoy many of your recipes.

Mrs. McG.

ANSWER:

Prune Bread (yeast)

One cup milk, 2 tablespoons shortening, 1½ tablespoons sugar, 1½ teaspoons salt, 1 yeast cake, 2½ cups flour, ½ to ¾ cup stoned, cut, stewed prunes. Heat milk, add shortening, sugar and salt. Dissolve yeast cake in 2 tablespoons lukewarm water. Add to mixture. Add 1 cup flour and beat well. Cover and set in warm place to rise until light, about 1 hour. Add enough flour to make a firm dough. Knead on floured board until smooth and elastic to touch. Cover and stand in warm place to rise until trebled in size. Knead again. Shape into loaf and put in greased bread pan. Cover and stand in warm place to double in bulk. Bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for 50 or 60 minutes.

Prune Bread (baking powder)

One cup dried uncooked prunes, 3 cups sifted flour, 4 teaspoons baking powder, ½ teaspoon baking soda, 1½ teaspoons salt, 2 tablespoons sugar, 4 tablespoons shortening, 2 tablespoons grated orange rind, 2 beaten eggs, 1 cup milk. Rinse prunes, drain and dry. If very dry steam for 10 minutes. Remove pits and put through food chopper, using coarse blade. Sift together flour, baking powder, baking soda, salt and sugar. Cut in shortening with 2 knives until of consistency of coarse meal. Add prunes and orange rind and stir. Combine eggs and milk, add to dry ingredients and mix well. Pour into greased loaf pan about 10 in. by 5 in. by 3 in. and bake at 350 deg. Fahr. for about 1 hour.

I hope one of the above is what you are seeking.

QUESTION I am a constant reader of your column and have tried many of your recipes. In writing to see if you could help me. I have tasted a pudding called Apple Crisp, but I don't know how to make it. Would you please print it for me if you can. Thank you, Mrs. A. P.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

Apple Crisp

Four cups sliced apples, ¼ cup hot water, ½ cup butter, 1 cup flour, ½ cup white or brown sugar, ½ to ¼ teaspoon nutmeg, grated lemon rind is optional. Arrange apples in buttered shallow baking dish or deep pie plate. Pour water over them. Cream the butter well, add the sugar, creaming, then work in the flour. Sprinkle this crumbly mixture over apples, packing it down. Sprinkle with nutmeg. If grated lemon rind is used add it to the flour mixture. Bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for 45 minutes, or at 325 deg. Fahr. for 1½ hours. Serve with cold heavy cream.

✧ ✧ ✧

QUESTION: S. O. S. will you please tell me what you think is wrong at once. I'll be so grateful.

I have been making excellent cakes but in the last 6 months or so I've lost all of them. It's the stove apparently. It's an Electric, 23 years old. Pies are excellent. I put them on the rack right above lower burner; cakes are about center of oven. When I put a straw in cake it comes out clean, and when I put finger on cake it usually comes back as if cooked, but every time the lower half of cake is spongy and half cooked, with big long holes like sponge.

I have tried keeping lower heat medium throughout, and cook length of time given. I nearly always have a big cake, not layers, and angel tin gives same poor results. Do you think lower burner is defective? And what can I do? It is encased, we cannot see wiring and can't be pried open by us.

I would appreciate your counsel. I detest "bought" cakes and have spoiled at least 5 or 7. Always enjoy your page.

Mrs. R. M.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER:

After talking to a gentleman who happens to have been an employee of the manufacturer of your range, and who now owns his own electrical service store the problem seems to be fairly simple.

He and I both assumed that half of the lower element is not working. Now in present day ranges if only half of the element was working this would mean one coil which half covers the whole element; In old ranges this meant either the back half or the front half of the whole element.

If your oven temperature was set at 350 deg. Fahr. this heat would be maintained, but if only half of the element were operating the heat would naturally rise to the sides and top of oven, top of cake would be cooked, but buttom of cake would not have received the benefit of the steady flow of hot air required to raise it evenly from the bottom.

My advice to you after talking to my electrian friend is to have an appliance electrician, not a house-wiring electrician, examine the stove He can do this readily even if element is encased. It is a simple matter to discover what is out of order when he sees it.

Sincerly hoping this informations helps; if it can be of further help please write again.

Vancouver Play Takes Top Place

VANCOUVER, March 1—(CP).—Vancouver Little Theatre's presentation of Sidney Howard's two-act social problems' study, "The Silver Cord," took top honors Saturday night among five plays in the British Columbia regional drama festival.

Three of six awards fell to the Vancouver Little Theatre group: the Hamber award for the winning play; best actor to Floyd Caza for his portrayal of "David" and runner-up best actress to Joy Coghill for her performance as "Mrs. Phelps."

The play, concerned with the effect of a possessive mother on two grown sons, was the only one in the B.C. eliminations to draw all-round "well-polished-performance" tribute from adjudicator Robert Stuart of London.

The Murrin award, for the second-best play, went to New Westminster's Vagabond Players' "Ladies in Retirement," a there-act melodrama by Edward Percy and Reginald Denhame.

Verlie Cooter, who starred in "Ladies in Retirement" was named best actress for her titillating interpretation of "Louisa."

Out of the Shadows

by Gregory Clark

The doctors, the nurses, his mother, his sisters . . . they told him who he was.

He, they said, was a musician. His mother spoke of what a talented little boy he had been—a prodigy. His sisters tried to recall to his memory incidents of his shy youth, his gifted manhood—concerts, dance bands, symphonies . . .

They told him, too, that he had joined the Navy; served in the North Atlantic; off Africa; off the Normandy beaches.

Words without meaning

To his clouded mind it meant nothing. He was in the neuro-psychiatric ward of a great new Veterans' hospital.

One day his sisters took this young man for a walk. Along bright corridors; down an elevator; through a great quiet tunnel.

At its end they came into another building, bearing no resemblance to any hospital. It is more like a comfortable attractively-furnished home, with pleasing decorations, inviting easy chairs and a baby-grand piano. Flowers are there, and girls in a well-remembered uniform. The Red Cross uniform. For this is a Red Cross Lodge.

Guided by his sisters, the young man came slowly out of the tunnel. He glanced vacantly about him. But, all at once, he buttoned his blue jacket—strolled casually across the room as though he had been there a hundred times, although he had never seen it before. He sat down at the piano. His fingers ran lightly over the keys.

Other men in blue

He didn't come out of the darkness immediately. It was days, weeks, before complete sunrise followed the slow dawn.

At first, he played only to himself. Just fragments of song, bits of Chopin, snatches of messroom ballads. Then he noticed—his smile less vacant now—that what he had, he could share. For other men in blue had begun to cluster around the piano.

Long ago this young man left the hospital—cured.

Would any piano have done it? I don't know. But, to me, the piano in itself is unimportant. The significant thing is that this miraculous restoration of a brilliant musician's faculties was accomplished in surroundings planned, for the care and comfort of the afflicted, by the Red Cross. An organization always at hand whenever or wherever Humanity is in distress.

Red Cross Services include: Blood Transfusion, Outpost Hospitals, Aid to Sick and Disabled Veterans, Treatment for Crippled Children, Disaster Relief, Nutrition Services, Home Nursing Courses, Swimming and Water Safety, etc.

84 Priests Held By Chinese Communists

PEIPING, March 1 (AP). — A priest reported today that 84 Roman Catholic missionaries, including five Canadian-born sisters, have been held under arrest by Chinese Communists since November in a town southwest of Tientsin.

Rev. Charles McCarthy of San Francisco told interviewers that the sisters were among seven naturalized Americans who with five American-born sisters were detained in a convent. Members of the order of the Precious Blood in Portland, Ore., they had been allowed no communication with the outside world for three months.

The naturalized Americans were listed as Theresa Martel of Quebec, Lillian Wheeler of Cornwall, Ont., Yvonne Perrault, Canadian address unknown; Gabrielle Forest, Joliette, Que.; Jeanne Lague, St. Gregoire, Que., Dorothy Hearsnep of England, and Margaret Mullen of Glasgow.

The American-born sisters were identified as: Mother Superior Vjiliende Janelle of Manchester, NH; Clara Samson, Manchester; Boela Bisonnette and Stephanie L'Heureux, home towns unknown, and Mary Imperial of Boston.

Father McCarthy said the captives also included 11 Frenchmen and 61 Chinese of both sexes. All 84 were held at Sienhsien, 90 miles southwest of Tientsin. He said 11 French and 19 Chinese priests and brothers are imprisoned in another residence of the Catholic mission.

"The Communists ransacked the entire residence in December and removed a few personal belongings, clothes and furniture that had survived previous expropriation."

The priest said each prisoner was left with only the clothes he wore and one blanket.

Meanwhile, Trappist authorities said of 75 monks seized last July by the Communists at Yangkiapig, 85 miles west of Peiping, three French, one Canadian, one Dutch and 20 Chinese were dead.

Five of the Chinese were put to death by crushing their heads with stones, they charged, while the rest died of natural causes. Many of the latter, however, suffered from privations.

Authorities listed the foreigners who died as Father August Faure, Stephen Mavry and William Cambouieu, all French, Aelredus Drost Dutch, and Albert L'Hereux, Canadian.

Most Rev. Francis Chao, Catholic bishop, arrived from Sienhsien five weeks ago as a refugee and told the United States consulate he was no longer able to provide for the safety of the sisters. He asked for help in trying to liberate them.

Dogged By Ill-Luck

TORONTO, March 1 (CP). —Reuben Dutcher, 42, who was clawed by a lion years ago and escaped with only a gash on his arm, has lost both his legs to Toronto's winter cold. Dutcher, who has been making his living by working for carnivals in the summer and selling newspapers on street corners here in the winter, climbed into the back seat of a car on a parking lot for a nap a few nights ago. He had been put out of his room because he owed rent. When he awoke 12 hours later, both legs were so badly frozen they had to be amputated above the knees.

13 Fatalities Over Weekend

By The Candian Press

A quadruple drowning at Port Colborne, Ont., topped the list of 13 fatalities reported in Eastern Canada during the week-end, a Canadian Press survey showed today.

Trains figured in five other deaths, one man was killed in a nitroglycerine explosion, a woman was fatally injured by a snowblower, one man was burned to death and a body recovered from the Detroit river was identified as that of a man missing since December.

A collision between a Canadian National Railways train and a truck driven by Walter Lane of Georgetown, Ont., resulted in injuries for Lane and death for Arthur Johnston of Norval, Ont., a passenger in the truck.

Shirley Christie, Ottawa school teacher, died Saturday of injuries suffered Friday night in a car-track car near Ottawa in which her 64-year-old father, Ivan Christie, was killed. At Senneterre, Qune., Marc Yvon Dussault, 25-year-old brakeman from Levis, Que., was killed when run over by a train in the C.N.R. switching yards.

Mrs. Ros Claude, 63, was killed in Montreal when struck by a snowblower. Joseph Joudrey, 77, was burned to death in his bedroom at Aylesford, N.S. A body recovered from the Detroit river was identified yesterday at Windsor as that of Forest Wesley Hicks, 38, of Leamington, Ont., missing since December.

Hubert Hiscox, 33, was blasted to death in Toronto by the explosion of a flask of nitroglycerin with which, police said, he was trying to blow open a safe.

Britain Debates Defence; Few Under Arms

LONDON, March 1.—(CP). — Members of the House of Commons, concerned over European political developments and irritated by South American claims to British possessions, will debate problems of defence today with the knowledge that most of Britain's swords have become plowshares.

Total strength of the armed forces in wartime rose to nearly 5,000,000. But by March 31, the Royal Navy strength will be down 145,000, the army to 534,000 and the air froce to 261,00—a total of 940,000.

Under further reductions planned by the government, the total on March 31, 1949, will be 716,000.

The current economy campaign leaves the once-mighty navy at the moment without an operational battleship, fleet carrier or escort carrier. An operational ship is one prepared to serve at any time as an active unit.

The far flung duties of the fleet are at present conducted by two light fleet carriers, 10 cruisers, 18 destroyers, 26 frigates and 26 submarines and smaller vessels.

Research and development receive the highest priority in programs for the three services and navy ships now in reserve are being modernized and re-equipped.

The Conservative Opposition will move an amendment to the defence budget expressing concern "at the apparent absence of comprehensive measures for a coordinated and up-to-date system of national and imperial defence.'

In reply, the government is expected to argue that the current forces are sufficient to protect the United Kingdom and all lines of communication. The government, however, will face suggestions that relations of Britain's reduced strength help little when Argentina and Chile lay claim to Falkland Islands territory which has been considered British for a century, and the security of the British Honduras may be threatened by Guatemala.

CELEBRATE RED VICTORY—A Russian and a Yugoslav observer, top, watch a crowd in the streets of Prague, bottom, celebrate the Communist party coup in Czechoslovakia. This and other celebrations followed Premier Klement Gottwald's declaration of a two-day holiday to mark the occasion. In the meantime, the U.S., Great Britain and France, in a joint statement, condemned the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia as "the establishment of a disguised dictatorship." Premier Gottwald commented on the three-power statement, saying, "We will never take any lessons in democracy from those with Munich on their conscience, who dealt with Hitler to divide us up."

Lindsay Youths Win At Festival

TORONTO, March 1.—(CP).—The Kiwanis music festival, with 15,000 participants, today entered its second and final week.

So smoothly does its program run that adjudicators give detailed criticism to every entry. The comments later are distributed for future guidance to the leader of every band or choral group and each contestant who competes individually.

The 68-piece Barrie Collegiate band, competing for the fourth year, won top honors in two band classes Saturday and went home with two shields and $20 in cash prizes. Ed Hutchings' oboe playing earned Barrie another first.

Other winners included: Kenneth R. Moore, Niagara Falls, Ont., first in two cornet solo classes and, with Donald H. Ritson of Niagara Falls, first in top open cornet duet; Jean Kalbleisch, Stratford, third in piano solo; and Freddie Mills, Guelph, first in cornet solo, 17 years and under class.

Awards also went to two youths, William Perry and Gordon Burke, Lindsay, first in male duet competition; and Joyce and Caroline Gundy, Kingston, first in class for piano duet for performers aged 17 and under.

Vets Want Bill Similar To Doctors

OTTAWA, March 1 —(CP)— The government will be asked to approve bill for the establishment of a central Canadian Veterinarian's Association. Dr. E. F. Johnston, re-elected chairman of the Eastern Ontario Veterinary Association, said here yesterday.

Dr. Johnston, Carp, Ont., veterinary, told delegates to the two-day convention of the association that the new body will provide for licensing of practitioners in all provinces and be similar to the parent bodies of the medical and dental professions.

It will aso define qualifications for the veterinarian's degree, provide for a master register of Canadian veterinary doctors and make allowances for the establishment of trade journals.

The parent body, added Dr. Johnston, will act as advisor and arbitrator for the smaller organizations, such as the Eastern Ontario Association.

Full-Dress Opening For Legislature

TORONTO, March 1.—(CP).—Full-dress military uniforms and a 15-gun salute are included in the ceremonies planned for next Wednesday's formal opening of the Ontario Legislature here.

Hon. Ray Lawson, Lieutenant-Governor of Ontario, His Majesty's representative in the province, will be accorded full military honors by units of the Canadian army, active and reserve.

A five-jeep escort of Royal Canadian Dragoons will escort the vice-regal party to the Parliament Buildings where the Lieutenant-Governor will be received with a royal salute. Mr. Lawson will then inspect a guard of honor consisting of three officers and 50 other ranks of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Chinese Abandon Manchurian Capital

NANKING, March 1—(AP)—Reliable sources reported today Generalissimo Chiang Kai-Shek has decided to abandon the Manchurian capital of Chankchun in a desperate effort to save Mukden from the Chinese Communists.

These sources said the isolated garrisons of Changchun, Kirin and Szepingkai, all lying northeast of Manchuria's largest city, would be withdrawn, presumably by air.

There was no official confirmation of the withdrawal report.

SIGNALS USELESS THEN

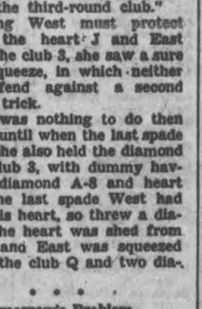
SIGNALING to your partner with high cards and low cards is useless if you know there is no way he can apply the information you give him. In fact it is more than useless in many such cases if the declarer can employ the information to beat your effort. That is true more emphatically against a grand slam contract than at any other time, for then you seldom expect your partner to gain the lead and thus be in position to make the most important use of the facts about which you tell him.

(Dealer: South. Both sides vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
2 ♠	Pass	3 ♠	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♥	Pass
5 NT	Pass	6 ♠	Pass
7 NT	Dbl

That grand slam is a pretty high spot to be in when the defenders hold king-queens in two suits and the Q-10-9 in another. But the declarer proved equal to the occasion, with the aid of the opposition.

West's double, followed by the heart K lead, gave South fundamental information which proved mighty helpful. After counting up eight tricks in spades and four top ones in the other suits, she saw an easy way for the thirteenth if the club finesse would work. But first she scored three spade tricks to see what line she could get from the discards. On the second and third of these, she saw East discard in order the club 10 and 4.



"That certainly places the Q with East," she thought, "also at least five in the suit since she would not bare to fewer than three cards, therefore East is the only defender who can guard against the third-round club."

Knowing West must protect against the heart J and East against the club 3, she saw a sure double squeeze, in which neither could defend against a second diamond trick.

There was nothing to do then but play until when the last spade was led she also held the diamond 10 and club 3, with dummy having the diamond A-8 and heart J. On the last spade West had to hold his heart, so threw a diamond. The heart was shed from dummy, and East was squeezed between the club Q and two diamonds.

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

If South starts with 1-Spade, how would you bid in the West, in trying to prevent the opponents reaching their best contract?

Still in memory you are with us
As you always were before,
—Sadly missed by husband and family.

READER—In loving memory of our dear son and brother Kenneth, who passed away March 1, 1944.
Just a thought of sweet remembrance,
Just a memory, fond and true,
Just a token of affection,
And a heartache still for you.
More and more each day we miss you,
Though our thoughts are not revealed,
Little do they know the sorrow
That is within our hearts concealed.
—Sadly missed and always remembered by mom and dad, sisters Ruth, Helen and Lorraine and brother Earl.

STEWART—In loving memory of our only daughter Betty Stewart, who passed away on March 1, 1947, in St. Joseph's Hospital.
Somewhere back in the sunset
Where loveliness never dies
She lives in the Land of Glory
Midst the gold and blue of the skies
And we who love her dearly
Who passing has brought many tears
Will cherish her memory always
And brighten the drifting years.
—Ever remembered by dad and mother.

Obituaries

MRS. WILBUR BARNARD

Following a month's illness at the home of her daughter, Mrs. M. Perrin, 190 Ontario St., Port Hope, Eliza Jane Soden, wife of Wilbur Barnard, died there today at the age of 79. She was born in Bailieboro, a daughter of the late Thomas Soden and his wife, Mary Jane Ray. Mrs. Barnard had lived all her life at Bailieboro except the last month. She is survived by her daughters: Mrs. Ross Moncrief of Peterborough; Mrs. Meredith Perrin, Port Hope; Mrs. W. E. Thompson, Peterborough; Mrs. Ross Sinclair, Fort William; and sons, Fred of Bailieboro; Keith, Toronto; Joseph of Peterborough, and one sister, Mrs. Robert Fallis, Peterborough; also by twelve grandchildren and three great-grandchildren.

Mrs. Barnard was a member of Bailieboro United church, and was widely known in that community and elsewhere in Peterborough and Durham counties. The funeral will be Wednesday at 2.30 p.m. from the Nisbett funeral home to Little Lake cemetery. The funeral service will be conducted by Rev. Bernard Haywood, assisted by Rev. A. McConnachie and Rev. E. W. Rowland. The body will be transferred in the spring from the vault at Little Lake cemetery for burial in the Baptist cemetery at Bailieboro.

HAROLD WHITFIELD ELLIOTT

Funeral services were held on Wednesday at 2 p.m. in Norwood for Harold Whitfield Elliott, husband of the late Mary Isabella Gardner, who died suddenly Monday afternoon after an illness of two weeks, from which he was apparently recovering.

Born in Asphodel township, youngest son of William Elliott and Ann Patterson, he had resided in Norwood for twelve years after coming from Asphodel, where he spent most of his life. He had been both a farmer and a stone mason. Of a quiet, retiring, helpful disposition, he was highly respected by all who knew him. A member of Norwood United Church, he also belonged to the Canadian Order of Foresters.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. W. J. Boswell (Una Ann) of RR 1, Peterborough; one grandchild, Blaine Boswell; a sister, Mrs. Jas. Graystock (Mabel) of Warsaw, and one brother, George, of RR 1, Norwood.

Four brothers and four sisters predeceased him.

Rev. E. E. Pugsley of Norwood United Church conducted the services, basing his remarks on the 23rd Psalm. A favorite hymn, "Abide With Me," was used.

The pall-bearers were: Andrew McGee, Cecil Jenkins, Russel Graystock, G. A. Brethen, William Montgomery, Armar Weir, nephews and neighborhood friends of the deceased.

Interment was in Norwood Cemetery.

HEAVE-HO!

Four men struggled valiantly for some time before they managed to get a 3,300-lb. safe inside the Imperial Bank on Hunter St. The ton-and-a-half monster did not look formidable or requiring the concerted effort of such a gang.

Leper Colony On BC Coast Home For Three

VICTORIA, March 1—(CP)—The leper colony on tiny Bentinck Island, 18 miles south of Victoria in the Straits of San Juan de Fuca, has now dwindled to three persons and they are finding life lonely.

A small party of newspaper men visited the island recently, with the permission of federal authorities, and interviewed the residents.

Two Orientals and a matronly white woman, formerly a missionary, are Dr. Bertram Jenkins' only patients. He is the medical officer for the colony.

There are 10 neat, rain-washed cottages of sombre hues for the use of lepers, and three of these are occupied.

On the reporters' first visit to a leper's home, they were greeted by a middle-aged, motherly woman. She explained that she had a cake in the oven "for the boys"—the two other patients, a Chinese and a Japanese.

She had contracted the disease while a missionary in foreign service. One day she noticed a slight loss of sensation in her left leg and consulted the doctor. It was leprosy.

"I don't mind being alone or isolated. It is being cast out that hurts" she said. "Why should we not be allowed to live in an institution like a tuberculosis sanitorium? If people knew that we lived normally it might make a difference. Their attitude is so cruel—so wrong."

No leper has ever died of the disease, medical officials said, but are taken of a secondary ailment. Two have died on Bentinck from old age, one over 80.

Hopes for Company

The Chinese said he hoped another Chinese would come to Bentinck "to keep me company." "If I am not here when he come, he read about me up there," he laughed, pointing to a rough piece of beechwood recording in Chinese red letter the history of 10 lepers who have died on the island. He has been on Bentinck 11 years, having contracted the disease in a Canadian shingle mill.

Dr. Jenkins said there had never been a case where leprosy was contracted by a nurse, caretaker or visitor on the island, where no person under 21 is allowed.

Supplies, wood and medical requirements are brought from Vancouver Island by government launches which ply back and forth three or four times weekly. Letters leaving the island are sealed in a container containing formaldehyde fumes for 12 hours.

The third patient is a 26-year-old Nisei (Canadian-born Japanese) and he looks like any healthy youth. The disease affects only one leg and since settling on the isle his weight has risen from 130 to 160 pounds.

The humane and understanding manner with which the lepers are treated by Dr. Jenkins and his staff is reflected in the regard in which they are held by the patients. The lepers feel "at home" as much as their isolated circumstances permit.

Dr. Jenkins said chief handicap was a lack of recreational equipment. Even a small movie projector would be welcomed.

Br. Communists Want Army Cut

LONDON, March 1 — (Reuters). — Defence Minister A. V. Alexander said today that British Communists want Britain and other freedom-loving countries to "deprive themselves of the means of defence against foes without and within while the Soviet Union maintains large forces with which to work its will throughout the world."

Opening a debate in the Commons on Britain's defence policy, he commented on a Communist amendment to a government motion asking for approval of its policy.

The amendment pressed for an immediate reduction of Britain's forces to 500,000 because of the serious economic crisis and the shortage of manpower.

Alexander described the argument as "specious."

Township Opposes Cornwall Move

CORNWALL, March 1 — (CP). — Application by Cornwall City to annex a large portion of land lying on its orders will be heard by the Ontario Municipal Board here tomorrow, it was announced today. On Wednesday the Board will hear another city application, to set up a zoning plan for Cornwall restricting industrial and commercial areas.

The annexation by law, if it is accepted would approximately double the present area of Cornwall. It is being opposed by Cornwall township.

POOR MARKET SATURDAY

A smaller market than the previous week was reported on Saturday. This was believed directly attributable to the heavy snowfall which blanketed this area. Some would-be marketers were said to be snowed in and others wouldn't take the chance of making the trip. Beef and pork were in some demand and there was some selling in the general market. A renewed snowfall caused the market to close early.

Claxton Denies Flyers "Broke"

PARIS, March 1 —(Reuters)— Members of Canada's championship Olympic hockey team wondered today where the money would come from to finance their return to Canada on March 15 as requested by Defence Minister Brooke Claxton.

"To the best of our knowledge, our return was to be financed from proceeds of exhibition games in Britain," Sqdn. Ldr. Frank Watson, manager of the team, the R.C.A.F. Flyers, said. "But if we have to leave for home on March 15 we certainly won't have time for many money-making contests. Why, we won't be leaving Paris until March 6."

At Ottawa, Defence Minister Claxton declined to elaborate on his statement last night in which he said the Canadians would return home "about March 20," that they had done "a great job" for Canada, and denied there was any question of them playing in the Allan Cup competitions.

"They were to play a number of exhibition games, following the Olympics, before returning home," said the minister. "They have played these games. Now they're coming back."

Regarding the Paris dispatch that the team might lack financial means of getting home if the British exhibition games were curtailed, he said simply:

"My comment is that there's nothing in it."

Says Dairy Prices Lowest In World

QUEBEC, March 1.—(CP). — Robert C. Smellie, president of the National Dairy Council of Canada, told the annual meeting today that "despite everything that has, or will be said about the high prices now prevailing for dairy products in Canada, the fact remains that in our domestic market dairy products today are selling at prices lower than almost anywhere else in the world."

Prices in one or two countries might, on the surface, appear lower, but when direct or hidden subsidies, complicated price structurdes and prevailing wage rates and living standards were taken into account "I believe our prices at today's levels will stand in most favorable comparison."

Prices of dairy products were higher than pre-war levels but they had not advanced as much as other basic food products.

As long as the present United Kingdom cheese contract was in effect the wholesale price of butter could not be expected to drop below a minimum of 62 cents a pound "if butter is to continue to be produced in those areas where there is direct competition."

New Morning Paper Starts In Winnipeg

WINNIPEG, March 1 — (CP). — Winnipeg's third Daily newspaper, a morning publication, the Citizen, made its initial appearance in the city today, the masthead carrying the slogan, "owned and controlled by its readers."

The publisher and general manager is J. F. Sweeney, formerly of the Regina Leader-Post. W. H. Metcalfe is managing editor, G. E. Leighton and H. W. Patterson associate editors and Paul Molloy news editor.

Today's inaugural edition, which was sold out shortly after news boys heralded its appearance on the streets, contained 20 pages.

An Expensive Bath

NEEDHAM, Mass., March 1 — (AP). — How much is a bath worth? It cost police patrolman Sydney E. Barton $700 yesterday. Barton filled his tub and leaped into the nice warm water. Two of the tub's legs collapsed. The tub overturned and soon the bathroom was flooded.

Barton wrapped a towel around himself and dashed downstairs through a startled group of arriving dinner guests to shut off the water. The guests then were put to work mopping up.

Barton estimated the water damage at $700.

Mrs. Welch died at her home in Aylmer last August 21 and doctors said the cause was strychnine poisoning.

100,000 Stranded Ferries Stop Running

SEATTLE, March 1.—(AP).— One of the world's largest ferry fleets closed down passenger operations today, leaving an estimated 100,000 persons with only emergency transportation.

Capt. Alex M. Peabody, president of the Puget Sound Navigation Company, said: "We're going to start the orderly liquidation of the company at once The ferries will not run today."

The shutdown was ordered by Peabody after the State Department of Transportation cut a 30-per-cent temporary rate increase to 10 per cent above the rate charged Feb. 15, 1947. He said the company could not operate at a profit with the lower rate.

The 16 vessels halted operations shortly after midnight.

REPORT THREE CHIMNEY FIRES

Stoking of furnaces due to the drop in temperature did not result in any serious fires over the week-end. There were no calls for the fire department on Saturday. Three chimney fires were reported on Sunday, however: at 10.04 a.m., home of Mrs. J. W. Record, 417 Rogers St.; at 11.56 a.m., home of Peter Dillman, 91 Park Hill Rd.; and at 4.54 p.m., home of Gerald Gordon, 184½ Simcoe St.

Full Regalia To Feature GarterCeremony

LONDON, March 1— (Reuters) —Full ceremonial regalia will be brought out for the first time since 1913 when Princess Elizabeth, heiress-presumptive to the throne, and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, are installed April 23 as Knights of the Garter, one of the most ancient Orders of chivalry in Europe.

The ritual of installation into the 600-year-old Order was revived after a lapse of 106 years when the Duke of Windsor, then Prince of Wales, took his place as a Knight in 1911. Garter Chapters were held in 1912 and 1913 in the Chapel of the Garter Knights, St. George's, Windsor, but there has been no similar ceremony since the outbreak of the First World War.

Princess Elizabeth was invested with the Order shortly before her wedding last November. She becomes the fourth lady of the Garter, the others being her mother, Queen Elizabeth, her grandmother Queen Mary, and Queen Wilhelmina of the Netherlands. With their formal installation, she and her husband will be allotted their own special stalls in St. George's Chapel, decorated with their arms and insignia.

The service will be a full dress occasion, with the King and the Queen and other Knights of the Order walking in procession from Windsor Castle to the Chapel along a route lined by men of the Household Cavalry and Foot Guards.

The Order, with its motto "Honi soit qui mal y pense" (Evil be to him who evil thinks), was founded by King Edward III in the 13th century, and is regarded as the highest Order of chivalry in the world.

There are 26 Knights Companion of the Order, including the King. Many foreign royalties, among them the Kings of Sweden, Norway, and Denmark, have been made members of the Order by special statute.

In recent years investiture has taken place at Windsor or Buckingham Palace without formal installation.

Hoodlums Dodge Detroit Police

DETROIT, March 1 — (CP). — Big-name figures in Detroit's underworld today were still successfully dodging police commissioner Harry S. Toy's dragnet for every hoodlum who could not establish an honest means of livelihood.

The investigation of gambling by National League Hockey players which touched off Toy's war on crime is expected to come to a head tomorrow in a hearing before Michigan Governor Kim Sigler at Lansing.

Toy's roundup resulted in 86 small-fry arrests during the week-end. Police let their prize catch go when he insisted he had been through with the rackets for more than eight years.

He was Abe Bernstein, 55, reputed member of the old Purple Gang. He said he is operating a brokerage business here and in New York.

Harold Frost, 550 Sherbrooke St., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days for illegal consuming of liquor.

Gilbert Gilliland, Apsley, was fined $10 and $2.50 or 10 days for being drunk in public.

Bessie May, 36 Anson St., was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for being drunk in public.

New York Bill To Protect Reporters

ALBANY, N.Y., March 1 — (AP)— Senator Thomas C. Desmond said today he expected "substantial support" of a newspaper confidence bill he will introduce in the New York State Legislature tonight.

The Republican announced he had received permission from the Senate Rules Committee to introduce the measure, which would protect newspaper men from being forced to disclose their sources of published information.

Desmond's bill would extend to newspaper men the same protection accorded to doctors, lawyers and clergymen in their confidential relations with clients and parishoners.

Ancient Building Recalls Pioneers of Upper Canada

By DENIS CASE
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 1—(CP)—It's a safe bet that many York County residents do not know that within the shadow of their county administration building in downtown Toronto, men have been hanged for treason, and that up the worn front steps county representatives have attended sessions for more than 100 years.

Those 51 members of the York County Council, representing the six towns, eight villages and 12 townships of York, who go between the grey stone pillars thrice yearly for sessions, are members of a government that has undermany changes in its 156 years of existence.

Containing the Dominion's second largest city and the heart of Canada's economic life, York County has built up a population of 963,173 — more than four times as large as any other Ontario county. The council is the second largest and second oldest municipal government in Canada.

The county was proclaimed by John Graves Simcoe, first lieutentant-governor of Upper Canada, in 1792, and since then has been governed by three separate bodies as its boundaries were reduced from an area now covering about 17 counties to its present size.

The hall, where the council holds its sessions and police court is held daily, is in keeping with the county's tradition. Last remaining building in the large area once owned by the county, it houses the first circular staircase built in Ontario.

Hidden at the back of the three-storey building, the deeply-hollowed steps of the staircase lead to the top floor where once the Ontario Assizes were held. Legend has it that a prisoner, on receiving the death sentence, leaped from the railing as he was led from court, and fell to his death two stories below.

Historic Courtyard

Not far from the hall there are the remains of another structure, the county jail. County officials are not sure whether it is the first or second county jail—what there is left of it. The city has grown around the building and now all that is left are the walls surrounding the courtyard where Lount and Matthews, supporters of William Lyon Mackenzie, were hanged for their part in the Upper Canada Rebellion of 1837.

Across from the hall on the other side of the street is the only other county stronghold — police headquarters. The county constabularly dates back to 1788 when its duties were to police the district of Nassau, now the county itself. At the time the districts of Nassau, Hesse, Luneberg—also known as Lunenberg—and Meckleberg, formed Upper Canada. Laer, in 1794, the districts were re-named East, West, Central and Home and the Nassau police took the name of Home District Constabularly.

When the United Counties were formed in 1851, the United Counties constabularly was named and policed the present area of Peel, York, Simcoe, Ontario, Durham and Northumberland counties — the peak of its authority.

Since 1851 municipalities have formed their own police forces and the duties of the county police have been reduced until now there is a staff of only 12 men and one woman to supervise the one- and two-man stations north to Lake Simcoe.

There is little now to remind one of the county's efforts through three centuries to bring wealth and progress to Canada. Perhaps the best praise for York's accomplishments is simple its motto: "Deeds Speak."

Small Chow Dog Hero, Second Time

PORTLAND, Ore., March 1—Thumper, small Chow dog which last November led mountain rescuers to his lost mistress, was credited with saving his owners from death by fire.

Mr. and Mrs. Mike La Tosh said they were awakened early yesterday by Thumper scratching on their bedroom door. They opened it and found the flames spreading through their apartment. They escaped unhurt.

La Tosh said that last November he and Mrs. La Tosh became separated on Mount Hood when a sudden snow storm came up. After hours of fruitless searching, he and others followed the dog to where Mrs. La Tosh had halted, exhausted.

Critic Claims Plays Lack Contrast

VANCOUVER, March 1 (CP)—Performances of two original one-act plays by Vancouver authors featured the second evening of the British Columbia Regional Drama Festival here last night.

The plays were: "Tender Memory" by Wing Cmdr. W. J. Mooney, RCAF of the West Vancouver Little Theatre Guild, and "Curtain Call" by Alex Hood of the community self-help drama group.

"Fair Rosamund" by Lal Norris, the third play, a classical English drama, was presented by the West Vancouver Guild.

Festival Adjudicator Robert Stuart termed "Tender Memory" as "only an episode," the main action taking place in the Burma theatre of war not in the leading lady's home.

"Curtain Call," he said, was "slightly archaic, lacking teamwork." A lesser character in the play Vale who symbolizes death was credited with the "most convincing performance."

"Fair Rosamund" was on the "dirge side" Stuart contended, with climaxes missed by the main characters. Margaret Humphries, as "Fair Rosamund," mistress of Henry II, was "generally ineffective," he said.

Patricia Mooney, as Rosamund's lady-in-waiting, turned in the "most refreshing performance of the evening."

Mr. Stuart declared all three plays lacked "dramatic contrast."

Nightmare Trip Ends Safely

PICTON, Ont., March 1.—(CP).—Two brothers — Malmourn, 30, and Raymond McIntosh, 28—today are recovering here after spending a grueling night adrift on Lake Ontario in an 19-foot fishing craft battered by huge ice floes.

They left Point Traverse harbor, Prince Edward county, 25 miles south of here, early Friday evening to set nets. Their motor failed and the tiny boat began to drift. As darkness fell, a blinding story roared across the lake, tossing the craft like a piece of driftwood. In desperation, the brothers threw the engine overboard as the stinging water began to swamp the boat.

At 5 a.m. Saturday they bumped into solid ice and crawled to shore and two hours later received warm food and dry clothing at a nearby farmhouse.

"The whole thing was like a nightmare," Raymond said. "After night fell, we ripped up some of the floorboard and wood from the seat to keep the snow off us."

Weather Cold Across Ontaro

By The Canadian Press

Wintry weather gripped most of Canada today after week-end storms in several sections tangled highway travel and communications and were held responsible for at least seven deaths.

A new storm which spread into British Columbia coastal regions last night was expected to bring rain or drizzle to the area from Vancouver northward to the Alaskan Panhandle but no other major disturbances were predicted for inland portions of Canada.

Pressure was high over the Northwest Territories and Northern Ontario. Central and northern Canada experienced unusually low temperatures for this time of year. Today's temperatures were expected to hover around zero in Northern Ontario and in the middle 20s elsewhere in Ontario.

Towel Left In Abdomen For Two Years Souvenir Of Caesarean Birth In Hospital

SAN MATEO, Cal., March 1—(AP). — A towel left in the abdomen of a San Francisco mother during a caesarean operation two years ago has been removed in a recent operation here, Dr. Harold Marks, Community Hospital superintendent, reported last night.

He said the woman was Mrs. Lillian Arthur, 30, wife of Frank Arthur, and the mother of six children. The Arthurs came here from Bremerton, Wash., last year.

The towel, 18 by 12 inches, bore the name of a Bremerton Hospital, Dr. Marks said. It was removed by Drs. Henry Brown, E. F. Hansen and Lawrence Morten, the superintendent added, during the course of an operation for a double hernia.

He quoted the mother as saying she was delivered of twins by caesarean section in the Bremerton Hospital in April, 1946.

At Bremerton, she said, she "suspected that something was wrong and once I jokingly told my Bremerton doctor I thought he had left his hat or scissors inside me." But X-ray examinations, she continued, revealed nothing.

Mrs. Arthur said she had been bedridden much of the time since the birth of the twins, had lost 100 pounds and had received numerous blood transfusions.

Finnish Reds Organize Union Groups

Political Leaders Debate Pact Behind Closed Doors

HELSINKI, March 2—(AP).—Finland's Communists today began organizing factory and trade union meetings to support a military pact with Russia.

The Communist organ Tyoekansas Sanomat said workers favor a friendship and assistance treaty with the Soviet Union because it is the best way to guarantee the interests of Finland and the cause of peace.

The first of the factory meetings being organized by the Communists were held yetserday at Turku and Tampere, two of Finland's most important industrial centres.

The Turku metal workers adopted a resolution recommending acceptance of the pact. The resolution said "We must take a friend's hand if it is offered."

Political leaders held closed sessions to discuss whether Finland should negotiate with the Russians and what the consequences would be, particularly in the West. They hope to have their answers ready for President Juho Paasikivi tomorrow.

The attitude of two important parties — the Agrarians and Social Democrats — is expected to be made clear today.

The 28 Conservatives in parliament already have voiced tentative opposition to the proposal.

Their spokesman, Arvo Salminen, said the Conservatives feel the peace treaty with Russia is sufficient. He added that the party is not opposed to a friendship or cultural agreement, but does not like a military pact.

It was reported that the Communist party voted Saturday to advocate acceptance of the pact.

It is also known that the small Liberal party has decided to oppose the treaty. It has seven seats in parliament.

Some observers predicated Rightist elements in the Conservative, Agrarian, Social Democratic and Progressive parties might vote against the Russian pact to save face, provided there is no danger of the proposal being rejected.

17 Rebels Die In Greek Raid

ATHENS, March 2 — (CP). — The Greek war ministry announced today 17 insurrectionists were killed and 61 wounded at Macronissos yesterday.

The report said the skirmish occurred when "dangerous Communists attempted to disarm the guard during religious services." Four guards were wounded, the ministry reported.

Macronissos is an island on the southeast coast of Attica where a camp has been established for conscripts whose loyalty has been questioned. A brief report yesterday said five "incorrigible Communists" had been killed at the camp during an attack on a priest.

Athens police said more than 1,000 Communist suspects have been arrested in Greece since Friday, including 700 in Athens.

A four-hour general staff conference, attended by Constantine Tsaldaris, deputy prime minister, is expected to be followed by intensification of arrests.

Anti-Soviet Feeling Flares In Scandinavia

Norwegians, Swedes, Danes Demonstrate

OSLO, March 2—(AP).—A wave of anti-Soviet sentiment swept Scandinavia today as resentment mounted against the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia and Russian pressure in Finland. In Norway, Denmark and Sweden the feeling manifested itself in mass demonstrations and press attacks against the spread of Communism over Europe. In Oslo, thousands of students demonstrated last night outside the Czechoslovak Legation. Later they marched to the "People's House" where a Communist youth organization was celebrating the Czech coup.

"Down with Communism," the demonstrators shouted.

Political leaders said anti-Communist feeling was running higher in Norway than at any time since the end of the war. In Denmark, pro-Russian after liberation from the Nazis, the Soviet demand on Finland was denounced in the press. In traditionally neutral Sweden, the press came out strongly for more effective co-operation with the western states.

Western Powers Discuss Union To Block Russia

LONDON, March 2—(AP). — Spurred by the Finland and Czechoslovakia developments, Britain, France and the Low Countries will open conversations in Brussels Thursday on in Europe.

Prime Minister Attlee, in a surprise announcement in the Commons last night, said the discussions will cover all aspects—economic, social, political and defence problems.

"There is this dangerous and chaotic state of affairs in Europe and there is fear in Europe — widespread fear—and that is due mainly to a spread of dictatorships being intensified by events of the last few days," the Prime Minister declared.

His announcement, which came only a few hours after a foreign office spokesman said it would be a matter of weeks before anything concrete would be done to implement Foreign Secretary Bevin's union proposal of Jan. 22, apparently reflected a new feeling of urgency.

The feeling seemed to be sparked by a desire for speeding economic recovery under the Marshall plan and for political unity in western Europe, especially in the light of the Communist victory in Czechoslovakia and the pressure on Finland.

Bevin's proposal called for a close economic, political and military alliance of Britain, France and the Benelux countries —Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—to form the nucleus for a larger, later grouping of western European powers. He termed it a means of combatting "ruthless" efforts by Russia to dominate the continent.

The Brussels talks presumably would be concluded before a meeting in Paris in mid-march of the 16 Marshall plan countries.

Attlee's announcement of the Brussel's conference was made during debate on a defence White Paper which proposed reducing Britains' armed forces to 716,000 members in all services by March 31, 1949—a cut of 224,000. The House approved it.

Tension Grows In Costa Rica

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 2 — (AP). — President Teodoro Picado ordered all Costa Rica's banks closed today and tomorrow as tension heightened in the countries political crisis.

Gunplay broke out here last night shortly after Congress had annulled the victory of newspaper publisher Otilio Ulate Blanco in the Feb. 8 presidential elections. Today the state awaited a general strike order by Ulate's Union National party.

Picado said he would suspend civil rights and invoke martial law if the party goes through with the strike.

Two customs guards were killed in a gunfight at the home of Carlos Valcerde, newly-elected deputy and an ardent supporter of Ulate. Valcerde was critically wounded.

The dead men were first identified as policemen.

Ulate had made his headquarters in the Valcerde home. Police said they found weapons and ammunition there.

They arrested Carlos Ulate, a cousin of Otilio, and Jorge Arguedas Truque, a writer for Ulate's newspaper, Diario de Costa Rica.

The opposition Union National Party, Ulate's organization, said it was ready to call a country-wide sitdown strike to protest the congressional action.

No Definite Plans Speed King Says

LONDON, March 2 (Reuters)—Speed king Sir Malcolm Campbell, commenting on reports that he might make an attempt in July on his own world speedboat record on Lake Gallatly, Kelowna, B.C., in his jet-propelled "Bluebird," stated today that he had not made any definite plans.

Asked if any inquiry he had made to Kelowna meant that he had abandoned any idea of making an attempt on Lake Coniston, Lancashire, Sir Malcolm said:

"It is an inquiry to test the position."

Last year Sir Malcolm took the Bluebird out on Lake Coniston several times, but withdrew the craft for modifications without making any record attempt.

Prague Denies Benes Resigned

PRAGUE, March 2. (AP)—President Eduard Benes remains under the care of his personal physician, and his scheduled return to Prague Thursday still is uncertain, the information ministry said today.

A ministry spokesman termed "stuff and nonsense" a London Evening News story that Benes had resigned and that the Communists now in control of the government were keeping the resignation a secret. Benes is at the presidential country home at Seizimovo Usti, the ministry said.

The people of Prague were awaiting confirmation or denial of persistent rumors that several prominent politicians had disappeared.

The rumors said they included Dr. Hubert Ripka, former minister of foreign trade and wartime minister of information in London, and Prof. Vladimir Krajina, general secretary of the Socialist Party.

Some said that Krajina, who was arrested last Thursday at the height of the government crisis but was later released, had fled to the American zone of Germany.

Efforts to make contact with Ripka failed but it is difficult to check the various reports of politicians disappearing. Many of those who have been expelled from office by action committees do not relish being telephoned by foreign newspaper men and do not answer their telephones.

British Army Attacks Jews, Arabs

Full-Scale War Looming As Army Cracks Down

JERUSALEM, March 2 (AP)—British troops battled beside Jews today against Arab snipers dug in on hillsides commanding the Jerusalem-Jaffa road, a Jewish agency source said.

The British authorities vowed last night to use their weapons henceforth "impartially against whichever side is firing."

The informant said both British police and soldiers moved into the area, about 12 miles outside Jerusalem.

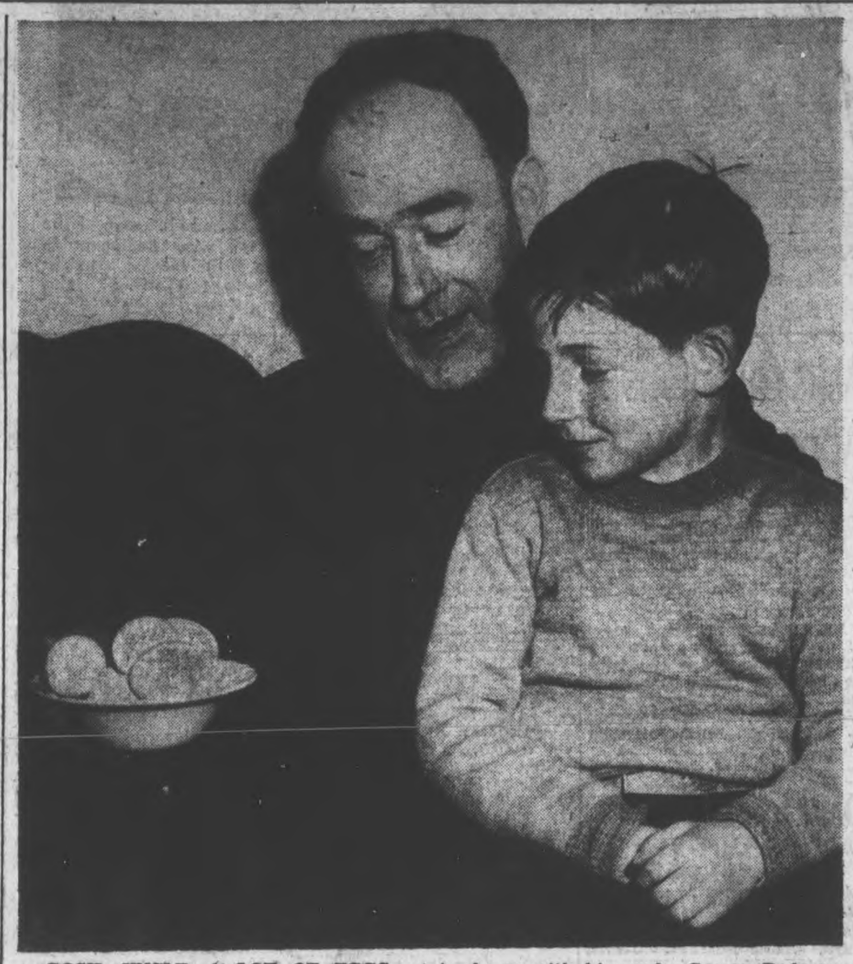
A large-scale battle appeared to be under way. Heavy automatic weapons and grenades were heard, and the Jews were believed to be bringing up mortars.

The British authorities have threatened to use weapons more powerful than those available either to Jews or Arabs to stem the bloody fighting which has raged since the United Nations decision to partition the Holy Land was announced in November.

The new battle is near a point where the Jerusalem-Jaffa road leaves the Judean hills and enters the plain. A three-mile stretch of road has been impassable for weeks because of sniping.

The British crack-down order on Jerusalem came from Brig. C. P. Jones, commander of the British garrison, who told his troops that force must be used impartially against both Arabs and Jews.

"Proolnged firing between the Arabs and Jews within Jerusalem makes life intolerable for its inhabitants," his directive said. "Such disturbances will not continue. Force will be used in incidents of this kind. The Army will, if necessary, use weapons more powerful than those available to Arabs and Jews."



Jones said it is impossible to determine who is the aggressor, so "the Army will therefore use its weapons impartially against whichever side is firing."

Change In Frequency To Pay For Itself

TORONTO, March 2 —(CP)—Frequency standarization of the power system of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario will produce savings of $187,253,600 in the 33 years from 1948 to 1981. This estimate was given today in a summary of expert reports to be submitted later in the day to the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association.

Unlimited Power Bad Business Dairymen Told

QUEBEC, March 2 — (CP). — Unlimited power by a man or a group of men "has always followed the same pattern," Walter D. Jones to-day told the National Dairy Council of Canada.

"When once entrenched it becomes intolerant, brutal, ruthless and corrupt," said the Toronto executive, who is chairman of the Canadian section of the International Chamber of Commerce, in an address prepared for delivery. He emphasized that balance was just as important in government as in nature and that Communism "which does not tolerate a balanced opinion in its political economy is fundamentally wrong."

After reviewing the aims and principles of the International Chamber, Mr. Jones told of the rise and aims of Communism, saying: "Whether we like it or not we cannot ignore the fact that

Canadian Doctor Hailed; Hypnotized Mother Who Has Painless Childbirth Of 7-Lb. Baby

LONDON, March 2 (CP). — Dr. A. P. Magonet, youthful graduate of Dalhousie medical school, Halifax, was credited by a London newspaper today with having made British medical history when he hypnotized a 25-year-old mother and brought about the painless birth of a seven-pound baby.

The Daily Mail reported that the baby was born last weekend to Mrs. Joyce Carter, wife of a civil servant, in a southeast London nursing home. The mother was quoted as saying: "I felt no pain at all."

The doctor, who was said to have developed hypnotic power to relieve patients of strain, sat at Mrs. Carter's bedside Saturday night, talking in a low voice until she began to doze off. He assured her that she was losing consciousness and that when she awoke the baby would be born.

Sunday morning the baby was born and the mother said: "It was wonderful. I remember the doctor talking about Olsen and Johnson (American comedy team now performing in London) while he was putting me to sleep . . . the next thing I remember is opening my eyes and being told I had a daughter.

"It could only have happened because I had such confidence in the doctor. He told me how he had treated other kinds of patients by hypnotism . . . I'm out of my trance now—but my husband is still in a daze."

The Daily Mail, which said the Canadian doctor had been in Britain since 1939, recalled that "one of his most famous cases" was the treatment of Bomer Eric Boon before his fight in London last December against champion Ernie Broderick for the British welterweight title.

The doctor gave Boon a course of six hypnotic sleeps in preparation for a bout after his handlers decided the fighter had an "inferiority complex." The doctor told the fighter repeatedly "you will win"—but this one "case" he lost.

Boon found hypnotism couldn't keep Ernie's educated left fist out of his face and the champion retained the title with a 15-round victory on points.

7-year-old Scottish Boy Makes Trans-Ocean Trip

"Gie easy wi' yer bawbees, Auntie," was the advice of little Angus Campbell Chalmers as he was taken on a clothes-buying spree in men's furnishing stores Monday by his aunt, Mrs. George Rodger, 88 Douro St. Young Angus, age 7½ years, saw no reason to relax buying caution in a new country for he could hardly be called a native, yet. Last Wednesday morning, he left his home in Largs, Ayrshire, on the misty Clyde, by taxi to the gigantic Prestwick airdrome where airliners from all points of the globe land and take off with monotonous regularity. He was met at the administration building by Dr. Uri and his mother who were also air-emigrating to Canada and would "keep an eye" on Angus as far as Montreal. He recalls passing books and things through an office, presumably customs, and receiving them again just before boarding the giant BOAC airliner at 9 p.m. for take-off.

Even though he was a small boy that would naturally have been worn to a frazzle with the day's excitement, he stayed awake at times through the night as the ship roared west over the Atlantic. By the time the craft touched down at Dorval Field in Montreal, Angus pronounced the experience as "graand". He was met by Auntie Jessie, Miss Jessie Chalmers of Kingston, at the air-

Bullitt Urges Aid To China

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP) —William C. Bullitt, former United States ambassador to Russia, advised Congress today to vote $100,000,000 for 'military supplies to China."

Bullitt testified to the House of Representatives foreign affairs committee, considering the administration's request for $570,000,000 aid for China.

The administration's program contemplates only economic help for the Chinese.

Bullitt said:

"China is the key to the entire Far East. If our government should permit the Communists to take over China, it would have failed to bar the way to attack on our country by overwhelming masses of Stalin-driven slaves. We cannot successfully oppose Communist conquest of the world by opposing Communism in Europe only."

Czech Pattern Starts In France

PARIS, March 2.—(Reuters. — An interior ministry spokesman agreed with a report in the Paris paper France Soir today that the French Communists had set up 'defence committees like the Action committees in Czechoslovakia" in 70 French aircraft factories and other strategic branches of industry.

The paper quoted a report stated to have been published in the Cominform (Communist Information Bureau) bulletin in Belgrade, and said that the committees were being formed "on the lines of those in Czechoslovakia."

The ministry spokesman said "the setting up of so-called defence committees throughout the country by the French Communist party comes as no revelation to us."

The newspaper quoted the Cominform bulletin as saying Communist activity in France included "a defence union in different branches of national economy and defense committees among the different blocs of the population.

"These organizations are aimed at defending French economic and political independence in face of the enveloping tendencies of Anglo-American Imperialism."

Police Nab Pianist; Recover Gun

Restaurant Diners Rush For Doors As Shooting Starts

TORONTO, March 2 (CP)—A trail of broken homes and shattered romances was revealed by police today as Mrs. Margaret (Mickey) Meredith, pretty 25-year-old former army show songstress, lay near death. Her brain was pierced by a bullet which police charge was fired by her former lover, a part-time piano player who doubled in coal heaving.

The Montreal - born pianist, Leslie Davidson, who police said lived with Mrs. Meredith after becoming separated from his wife, was arrested last night, an hour and 40 minutes after horrified diners in a downtown restaurant witnessed the point-blank shooting of the waitress, estranged from her husband and daughter of divorced parents.

Police arrested Davidson in a west-end club where he was banging out a melody and charged him with attempted murder. Shortly after the new year, police said Davidson and Mrs. Meredith quarrelled and last week they were told he beat her up after she refused to go back to him.

In magistrate's court today he was remanded to March 10 and a mental examination was ordered.

Police said the man who shot the girl loitered around the restaurant for an hour before the Strike Paralyzes Deep-Sea Ships

VANCOUVER, March 2 (CP). —A strike of about 750 engineers and radio officers on 150 Canadian deep-sea ships on both the Atlantic and Pacific coasts began at midnight, Jack Holmes, president of the Canadian Communications Association, announced early to-day.

He said the strike would tie up practically every deep-sea Canadian ship operating from both coasts. Vessels at sea would tie up when they returned to port.

Officials of the CCA representing the radio officers, and the National Association of Marine Engineers, met last night to set the time when the strike would begin.

Mr. Holmes said no officers would "sign or clear except through their associations." The officers had voted overwhelmingly for strike action following a breakdown in final negotiations with shipowners for a new agreement.

EXTRA!

ST. ANDRE, Que., March 2. (CP)—The Maritime Express, bound from Halifax to Montreal, was derailed here about noon today when seven passenger coaches left the track. It could not be immediately ascertained if there were any casualties. St. Andrew is about 17 miles from Riviere du Loup in Kamouraska County on the Canadian National Railways main line.

Refuel Big Planes At Sea

Move Permits Heavier Pay Load

LONDON, March 2—(Reuters) —Four weeks of tests over the Atlantic have led some British air experts to expect the refuelling of planes in the air to become regular routine.

Aviation ministry officials are cautiously optimistic. Much depends on the final results of the trials, which will continue at least through April, when weather conditions are usually at their worst.

The refuelling service is being operated by the government-owned British Overseas Airways Corporation and a firm named Flight Refuelling Limited. It provides tanker aircraft which meet at rendezvous with freight-carrying Liberator planes and pass to them the 1,000 gallons or more of fuel needed to complete the long non-stop crossing between London and Montreal.

It is argued that refuelling in flight has these advantages:

It enables an aircraft to take off from a shorter runway, because it need not carry its full load of fuel. It increases the possible payload and increases the range of an aircraft.

The increased payload is the main commercial argument. It is calculated that a passenger aircraft could save the weight and space needed to carry 2,000 gallons of fuel and so add to its passenger-carrying capacity by 16,000 pounds, or 80 persons.

2 Start Cancer Treatment

Australian Cancer Cure Gets Test

SYDNEY, Australia, March 2.—(CP).—John Braund, 78-year-old Sydney layman who claims to have discovered a cancer cure, expects to make his first examination of two Canadian women cancer sufferers within the next few days, it was learned today.

Mrs. Ruth McIntyre, 33, and Mrs. Anne Northam, 36, both of Vancouver, flew the Pacific to take the treatment last week. They have visited Braund three times for treatment which has consisted so far of bathing their feet in hot water and massaging their toes. This process is part of the Braund method and the projected examination is to determine what effect it has had.

Despite the fact that medical men in Canada have declared both women are incurable, Braund, without examining them, has told reporters he can give them "many more years of life, if not a complete cure."

Braund is co-operating to a degree with a medical board set up by the New South Wales government to investigate his methods but a spokesman for the medical board said today the board is finding it difficult to get Braund's patients to submit to examination by board physicians.

With co-operation from Braund and his patients the committee expects to announce its findings within a few weeks.

Says Soviet Spy Ring Active In U.S.

Scientist Chief Under Fire In Committee Room

WASHINGTON, March 2 — (AP). — A report charging that the head of the United States government's bureau of standards is "one of the weakest links in our atomic security" spurred two Congressional committees into action today.

Dr. Edward U. Condon, 46-year-old scientist so accused by a House of Representatives un-American activities sub-committee, retorted:

"This is gratifying information because I'm absolutely reliable and therefore we have nothing to worry about. The country can relax."

To an accompanying charge that he "knowingly or unknowingly entertained and associated" with alleged Russian spies, Condon commented:

"That's just too vague to talk about. I certainly didn't do it knowingly."

The House group contended that the bureau of standards, as the testing ground for some of the country's top secrets, "has become the target of espionage agents of numerous foreign powers."

In its formal report made public last night, the committee noted that Condon had been appointed head of the bureau Nov. 5, 1945, on the recommendation of Henry Wallace, then secretary of commerce.

Rap Wallace

Discussing Communists, the report said:

"In this country they haven't gotten as far as they did in Czechoslovakia, but they got pretty far, because they got a man as vice-president of the United States, and he is now their candidate for president, and he is the same man who recommended Dr. Condon as director of the bureau of standards. . . .

"The situation as regards Dr. Condon is not an isolated one.

"There are other government officials in strategic positions who are playing Stalin's game . . . the evidence before our subcommittee . . . indicates very strongly that there is in operation at the present time in the United States an extensive Soviet espionage ring.

"To permit this ring to continue, in view of the high atomic prizes which they are seeking is folly, and can only lead to ultimate disaster."

Meanwhile, from hospital where he is under treatment for a stomach ailment, Representative J. Parnell Thomas (Rep.-N.J.) indicated he may call a bedside meeting of the full un-American activities committee.

Asks Questions About Money

HAMILTON, March 2.—(CP).—Alderman W. H. Warrender, in a letter to Board of Control yesterday, asked an investigation of the disposition of money collected by the Canadian Appeal for Children.

He made his request in view of the recent Soviet coup in Czechoslovakia and a statement he said was made recently on the Warsaw radio that aid from the Soviet Union was preferred to that offered by the Marshall plan.

Subsidize Home Building Suggested In the Commons

OTTAWA, March 2 — (CP). — The Government's housing policies came in for criticism and defence as the Throne Speech debate, touching on a half-dozen themes, was resumed yesterday in the Commons.

The debate, expected to be concluded this week, also produced protests against the Government's embargo on beef cattle shipments to the United States and a suggestion that the Dominion undertake the building of a paved trans-Canada highway.

Speakers included Rupert Aylesworth (PC—Frontenac-Addington), John Blackmore (SC—Lethbridge), R. W. Gladstone (L—Wellington South), Leopold Langlois (L—Gaspe), Joseph Burton (CCF—Humboldt), W. Chester S. McLure (PC—Queens), Alistair Stewart (CCF—Winnipeg North), Hon. George Black (PC—Yukon) and Marcel Boivin (L—Shefford).

The House opened with an announcement by Trade Minister Howe that the Government will continue until July 31, 1949, its present support prices of 61½ cents a bushel for No. 1 feed oats and 90 cents a bushel for No. 1 feed barley, both in store Fort William-Port Arthur.

Mr. Langlois and Mr. Stewart injected housing into the Throne Speech debate.

The Quebec member defended the Government's policies and took issue with a statement by Premier Duplessis of Quebec that the Federal Government was responsible for the housing shortage because it was allowing essential materials to be exported.

Official figures showed, he said, that imports of essential materials were greater than exports while the shipment of lumber out of the country still was being rigidly controlled.

Mr. Stewart urged the Government to embark on a program of subsidized dwellings to provide decent living quarters for those earning depressed wages and called for the establishment of a government department devoted to problems in the housing field.

Dr. Black charged that war veterans living in the Yukon Territory were receiving "shabby" treatment from the Veterans' Department in the administration of the Veterans' Land Act. Departmental officials had ruled that the Act did not apply to the territory.

Mr. Aylesworth called for the lifting of the embargo on beef shipments to the United States and said its removal would lower prices in the US and assist the United Kingdom, which now had to pay world meat prices on the Chicago market.

Mr. Blackmore also urged the removal of the beef embargo, arguing that producers in Western Canada were getting 15 cents a pound for their beef when they needed 17 cents to make a profit. If beef prices were not increased, producers would be forced into bankruptcy.

Mr. Boivin stressed the need for higher income tax exemptions and said he thought immigration would lead to unemployment.

Snow In New York

NEW YORK, March 2. (AP)—A light snow which powdered the streets of New York with more than 1½ inches before 9 a.m. today raised the total snowfall for the winter to 58.4 inches. It was the second highest total on record in the city.

The weather bureau, in its 64 years of record taking, recorded more snow only during the winter of 1892-93, when a total of 77.6 inches was reached. The mark set today eclipsed the snowfall of 58.3 inches of 1898-99.

shooting, repeatedly asking her to go out with him again.

Finally, as she answered a telephone call, he strode over to her. She hung up the receiver and he demanded: "Who were you talking to?"

"None of your business," the waitress replied.

"Okay, this is it!"

He tossed his right arm around her neck and whipped out a large black revolver from his coat with his left hand. Its muzzle held firmly to her head as he pressed the trigger.

With a scream she fell, face up and bleeding. For some seconds he stood over her. Then he fired two more shots into the floor, bolted into the kitchen, menacing the staff with the gun, and out a rear door.

The score of customers in the restaurant scrambled for the door as the gun sounded. Police Constable Gordon Sayers, who heard the shooting, rushed into the restaurant and through to the kitchen, but the assailant had gone, scaling a 10-foot iron gate to get to the street.

Police said they found a big, black revolver in a garbage can in an alley near the club where they arrested Davidson. They said Mrs. Meredith had become estranged from her husband more than a year ago and the couple's four-year-old son is believed living with the father in Vancouver.

Mrs. Meredith joined the Canadian Women's Army Corps as an entertainer in 1942, police said, and had often sang at dance halls in Toronto.

cost of which is estimated at $191,000,000, would be completed in the next 15 years.

Gross cost of the changeover—which would convert the 25-cycle area of Southern Ontario to 60-cycle power—was estimated at $30,586,200 to the municipal hydro commissions, which distribute power to consumers, and $170,418,300 to the Ontario Commission, which generates it.

The delegates received a summary of three expert reports—by Stone and Webster of the United States on technical matters, including costs and savings; by Clarkson, Gordon and Company of Toronto on financial matters; and by H. Hobson, former chairman of the Central Electricity Board of Great Britain, in capacity of consultant.

The Stone and Webster report placed the net expenditure for conversion at $119,007,000 deducting from the gross figure of $191,004,500 an amount of $71,997,500 made up of $17,065,200 for expenditures which might be capitalized, and $54,932,300 as the estimated value of extended life of equipment due to rebuilding.

It gave the following breakdown for the $$187,253 savings to Commission, municipalities and consumers to 1981: $32,466,300 for reduced capital expenditures to supply the growth of load from 1948 to 1963, the period of conversion; additional revenue from sale of secondary or surplus energy conversion, $14,240,000; savings in the 18-year period after conversion was estimated at $108,147,300 for reduced capital expenditure and $32,400,000 for sale of surplus.

port and spent the day with her in Montreal before proceeding with her to Aunt Jeanie's in Oshawa, where they spent another 24 hours before coming to Peterborough to Aunt Margaret's. His aunt and uncle, Mr. and Mrs. George Rodger, and their sons, Robert and George, were themselves emigrants to Peterborough one year ago, where they established a home on the second floor flat of a relative's house, Angus Chalmers, 88 Douro St.

Young Angus had looked forward to coming to Peterborough for many months, at least to be here for Christmas, but the fickle finger of fate said "No." He nursed a bad case of mumps during the festive season and was unable to come over until this was well cleared up. He left his father's home at 54 Seymour St., Largs, Ayrshire, with much reluctance for he was greatly attached to his father, Campbell Chalmers, who plied a cobbler's trade at his modest home. Campbell was formerly a small-holdings farmer until he became a World War I casualty at the battle of Loos which cost him both legs.

The young lad from Largs recalls these things in a very mature fashion, and it is a safe bet that he will fit into the swing of things Canadian very quickly. The dry snow and all the sports with it are a novelty to him. He explained how he had already mastered skiing (sliding) in his new high-cut leather boots and was definitely more concerned with diving into snow banks with his new neighborhood friends than answering questions put to him by a "nosey" reporter. Today he reports to the King George School to resume his studies and woe betide the school bullies that try to badget red-headed Angus for he is the type that could "gie them wha' for."

CALGARY, March 2—(CP).—Theo (Frenchy) Damour and his Trail, B.C., quartet today maintained its unbeaten record by defeating a three-man Ontario crew 11-4 on the third draw of the Canadian curling championship.

Check Landlord Health Dept. Order

TORONTO, March 2 (CP). — Frank Turner told suburban Scarborough Council last night that his landlord had adopted his own electricity conservation campaign which forced the tenant to live under primitive conditions in a three-room flat for which he was paying $55 a month.

Turner said the hydro was cut off for periods of from 1½ hours to half a day; that the furnace went out during the night, and there was no chimney for the furnace. He said he warmed food for his three-year-old son by holding it to his body. Council asked the Health Department to take immediate action

Milk Prices To Be Aired In Legislature

TORONTO, March 2 — (CP).— Milk prices in Ontario and how to reduce them—a question close to the heart of every budget-conscious housewife—are expected to provide a subject of legislation scheduled for introduction at the fourth session of Ontario's 22nd Legislature which opens tomorrow.

The legislation is being drafted with a view to reducing retail milk prices through cuts in distribution costs without affecting prices paid to the producer.

Agriculture Minister Thomas L. Kennedy will introduce the measures designed to cut costs by such means as staggering delivery on an every-second-day basis and by establishing zones for distribution.

The province's proposed labor bill is expected to spark a debate from among the 24 Opposition members in the 90-seat House. Some opposition quarters object to the bill because its enactment would not have any effect until the Dominion labor code is adopted by Ottawa.

Labor Minister Daley has forecast legislation to apply pending federal labor legislation to all Ontario industry.

The Opposition will come from among the 11 Liberals, eight CCF, two Liberal Labor members, two Labor Progressive party representatives and one Labor member.

Premier Drew's Progressive Conservative government, with 66 members is expected to present other legislation dealing with financing the change of hydro from 25 to 60 cycles, if approved by the House, and with civil service salaries.

There is also speculation that the government will introduce some form of housing legislation.

Legislature opening will be marked by the formality of military honors to be accorded Lieut.-Governor Ray Lawson who will be escorted to Queen's Park by the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

Thomas Peyde, Progressive Conservative victor in the Huron by-election two weeks ago, will move the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. It will be seconded by William E. Hamilton, Wellington South Progressive Conservative.

The prospect of an early spring suggests that the session may adjourn till Fall when it rises for the Easter recess, allowing farmer members to get back to their planting.

Breeders' Assn. Formed At Lindsay

LINDSAY, March 2—(ENS)—A unit of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association was organized for Victoria County at a meeting of district farmers here Monday. Following an address by G. W. Keffer, president of the Association, the meeting voted for the establishment of a unit in this county.

J. A. Murphy and James Graham, both of Lindsay, were elected chairman and vice-chairman. Members of the executive are: T. J. Newman, Lorneville; Thomas Callaghan, Reaboro Walter J. Reeds, Reaboro; Clayton Taylor, Dunsford; Walter Bagshaw, RR 1, Lindsay and Richard Westaway of Cameron.

Fifteen cattlemen in the association following Monday's meeting, representing a total of 329 cows. The unit must secure 1,000 cows within a radius of 12 to 15 miles of Lindsay before members will be served by the Association.

M. H. Winter, agricultural representative for Victoria County, says he is confident they will easily reach this figure. He said the MCBA will probably put a qualified technician in this county to look after breeders' requirements in the line of artificial insemination.

It is estimated that $100 per year would look after the average member's breeding requirements, whereas it would cost much more for a farmer to keep a bull for the same period.

Norman Porter, vice-president of the MCBA in Maple, Ontario, addressed the meeting. He said providing the required number of cows were signed up, the Victoria County unit will probably be working by June.

To date Holstein, Jersey, and Ayrshire breeders have enrolled.

SAUNDERS TAKES OVER HYDRO JOB—Ex-Mayor Robert Saunders, of Toronto, undeterred by the fact that he hasn't yet been sworn in as chairman of the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission, moved into his new job yesterday. Introduced by Premier Drew, he was welcomed by Vice-Chairman George Challies (right). Mr. Saunders' first big task will be to present the commission's 25-to-60-cycle proposals to the Ontario Municipal Electric Asociation meeting in Toronto today.

Population Growing Across Canada

By The Canadian Press

Canadians are so accustomed to thinking of their country as sparsely populated that they seldom realize the relatively big population change which has taken place within their own life times.

The population today is estimated at 12,582,000 against 5,371,315 in 1901. An increase of 6,850,685 is not huge compared with the population figures in the United States, but it is a doubling of population and things are possible with 12,000,000 operating a country that would be out of the question with 5,000,000.

As one of Canada's economic disadvantages is lack of a home market, this building up of domestic consumers is vitally important to its industries.

The early dreams of large population have not yet been realized, but there are indications that Canada may now be entering its greatest population increase.

Agriculture Minister Gardiner recently called for a program envisaging a population of 25,000,000 by 1963, and declared Canada should set an immigration goal of 500,000 a year.

Dana Porter, Ontario's Planning Minister, predicts an increase of 1,000,000 in 10 years for Ontario.

Many others have spoken in favor of aggressive immigration, and several movements of considerable numbers of people have been in progress over the last year.

Market activity yesterday was mixed. New York enjoyed a general forward swing but Toronto and Montreal were very quiet on narrow price changes. Corporation bond prices quoted in Toronto were 50 cents to $1 lower. Commodity markets in the United States were strong while grains at Chicago were up sharply with Winnipeg coarse grains reacting similarly. Livestock markets in Canada were firm.

Campbellford Council Reduces Police Force To Two Members

CAMPBELLFORD, March 2 — (ENS). — At a regular meeting Monday night the economy-bent town council raised their grant to the Campbellford Fair Board from $100 to $200 and dismissed one policeman, Constable Cecil M. White, his services to end April 30.

Resignations from Constables White and Wilfred E. Cargin which were asked for by a resolution passed at the February meeting, were automatically rejected when the resolution was rescinded because Chief Constable George H. Hardy's resignation had not been received as requested.

Chief Hardy, a veteran of more than 18 years police service here, asked for consideration in a letter to the council. As a member of the Police Association, he stated, he would with two more years of unbroken service, be eligible for pension if the Association's pension scheme was approved. Counsellor Walter Burgess, chairman of the police committee, said he had learned from representatives of the Police Association that approval of the pension scheme was imminent.

Councillor Peter Macmillan said he would not support anything except the resolution, and while he was in favor of Hardy getting every consideration until the pension scheme was definite, the council resolution should stand.

"We are not dismissing Hardy. We are only asking for his resignation," said Macmillan.

"When you ask for someone's resignation you are firing them," maintained Councillor Kingston. "It was with the idea of rehiring two of the force that I made the original resolution," Kingston said, "but at that time I was not aware of the pension scheme."

Mayor Donald said the council should have fired one policeman in the first place and never made the resolution asking for all their resignations.

Councillor Kingston made a motion to rescind the resolution and Councillor Macmillan asked for and was granted permission to leave the table. Councillor Davidson seconded the motion and it was carried.

A petition, signed by 80 business men and women, asking the council to retain the three policemen on the force was received and filed on a motion by Councillor Kingston, second by Councillor Davidson.

Mrs. Walter Warner Hostess To WMS

HASTINGS, March 2—(ENS) Mrs. Walter Warner was hostess to 11 members of St. Andrew's WMS and three visitors, for the monthly meeting. The short devotional period opening the meeting included the repeating of Psalm 119 and the Apostle's Creed followed by prayers by Mrs. C. Dodd. Mrs. A. Sherwin read the Scripture passage.

At the April meeting, the roll call will be a verse containing word 'blessing'.

Mrs. C. Dodd gave the topic: On This Foundation We Build. The meeting closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The hostess served lunch; and the sale of articles brought in by the members proved most successful.

Gets New Trial

HAMITON, March 2 (CP)—Frank Bluske pleaded not guilty today to charges of wounding Norman Smith, and assaulting Percy Smith at a card game March 9, 1947.

At the general sessions last year, Bluske was convicted on charges of armed robbery and assult, and was sentenced to 20 years, to run concurrently. He appealed these convictions and was granted a new trial.

Asked today if he was ready for his trial, Bluske said he was never ready for trail.

"I'm not guilty," he said. "I never expected to be tried on these charges."

Coke Oven Workers Strike In Sheffield

SHEFFIELD, YORKSHIRE, England, March 2 (Reuters)—A strike of coke oven workers in south Yorkshire today made hundreds of steel and cutlery workers in Sheffield idle. Fears were expressed that if the strike develops it may threaten production of steel, Britain's number two priority export.

The strikers, who quit Saturday at 11 of 24 coking plants in sonth Yorkshire, demand a reduction of the work week from 48 to 42 hours, without loss of pay.

It is estimated that if the strike continues between 25,000 and 30,000 workers may be made idle or put on short time.

The stoppage has halved the flow of gas to the Sheffield and district gas company, resulting in suspension of supplies for industrial purposes, except in a few cases where cessation would spoil material in process of manufacture. Domestic consumers are not affected.

SARNIA, March 2 — (CP) — Charles Houston, spokesman for a delegation of merchants told city council last night, "there are places on the east side of East St. where a 10 or 12-year-old child could drop out of sight in mud and water." The delegation was assured that all possible action would be taken immediately to ease the situation.

Radio's Battle Is Torrid One

WASHINGTON, March 2 — (AP). — Radio's battle for the right to broadcast its own editorial opinions, now being waged before the Federal Communications Commission, ran into opposition today.

The C.I.O. ranged itself beside James Lawrence Fly, former F.C.C. chairman, in support of the "no-editorial" rule which now binds the industry.

A union spokesman said the C.I.O. is ready to tell the F.C.C. hearing that radio is "big business, dependent on advertising." If broadcasters were allowed to take sides, he contended, they would reflect a commercial point of view.

As the hearing opened yesterday the heads of three United States networks—NBC, ABC and CBS—asked a reversal of the ban. Radio should enjoy the same freedom as the press, they argued, with no regulatory strings attached.

The hearing on whether to change the F.C.C.'s "Mayflower decision" may last a week or more. That disputed ruling forbade the Mayflower Broadcasting Corporation of Boston — and by implication, all other radio stations and networks — to "advocate the causes" of its owner in politics or controversial matters.

Niles Trammell, president of the National Broadcasting Company, testified yesterday that the Mayflower rule is "censorship." As such, he said, it violates not only the constitutional right of free speech but the communications act which created F.C.C.

Cobourg Rate Set At 53 Mills

COBOURG, March 2—(ENS)—Cobourg's tax rate will be 53 mills this year, between six and seven mills more than last year and highest in history. Council last night set the public school rate at 53 mills and the separate school rate at 52 mills. The increase is due to increased municipal and teachers' salaries, sewer and water main debentures and a boost in street expenditures.

Total uncontrollable estimates for 1948 are $123,268.71. Total controllable estimates amount to $123,268.71. Total to be raised is $249,887.87. Amount to be raised by taxes is $172,062.35. Truman Wants Trade Act Extended

WASHINGTON, March 2 (CP) —President Truman today asked congress to extend the reciprocal trade agreements act for three years, until June 12, 1951.

Truman said in a message that the trade agreements act has been in effect for 14 years and has become "an essential element of United States foreign policy."

The act gives the President power to work out tariff-cutting agreements with other countries.

Truman's request for continuance of the law, which expires June 12, appears certain to run into strong opposition.

Tarnishing The R.C.M.P.

The Royal Canadian Mounted Police force has a proud and bright reputation. Nevertheless, last month the R.C.M.P. were the threatening instruments in dragooning respectable people like Dr. Charles Whitton, O.B.E., a magazine publisher and a well-known journalist, half way across the country. They were the police who made surprise raids on the offices of the New Liberty Magazine in Toronto. It was the R.C.M.P. who raided the Edmonton home of Mrs. E. P. Griffith, secretary of the Imperial Order of the Daughters of the Empire. It was the R.C.M.P. who raided the Central Office of the I.O.D.E. in Edmonton. This seems like scandalous use of an honoured police force. It is. It is more than that—it is dangerous, alarmingly dangerous.

* * *

The R.C.M.P. acted this way because they were so ordered by the Government of Alberta, and because the Federal Department of Justice weakly stood by and allowed that Provincial Government to follow its dictatorial course. The incidents mentioned above were preparatory to the prosecution of the writer and publishers of an article entitled "Babies For Export" which appeared in New Liberty Magazine. The case is before the courts now, so it is not permissible to discuss its merits at this time. However, in the interests of public security and personal freedom, it is the duty of this and every Canadian newspaper to condemn the tactics of the Albertan Social Credit Government, which made the R.C.M.P. the tool of dictatorial policy.

* * *

In Alberta, as in several other provinces which do not have their own Provincial Police, the R.C.M.P. take on the functions of a provincial force through arrangements with the Federal Department of Justice. So it has happened that it was the R.C.M.P. who made the raids, who were forced into the role of a Gestapo. As the Kingston Whig-Standard remarks: "A few more instances of unwarranted invasion of private premises by the R.C.M.P., and Canadians will begin to feel that the shining and honourable reputation of one of the world's greatest police forces is becoming unpleasantly tarnished".

* * *

Police forces exist for the maintenance of law and order, not as political instruments. There is nothing inherently wrong with having the R.C.M.P. perform the duties of Provincial Police, but no police force, certainly not the R.C.M.P., should become the tools of jaundiced, peevish politicians bent on white-washing their administration even at the sacrifice of citizens' private rights and the freedom of the press. The Government of Alberta has shamefully abused its position, misused the Criminal Code, and despicably employed the R.C.M.P. The Federal Department of Justice must act immediately to prevent any recurrence of the scandalous methods of the Albertan Government. Civil liberties in Canada have been bought at too high a price to be sold up the Great Slave Lake by tin-pot demagogues in Alberta.

Don't Put Miss Scott On a Stamp

The suggestion is made from many quarters that the Post Office Department should issue a stamp with a picture of Barbara Ann Scott on it. We are against any such plan, and we do not think that our opposition can be attributed to mere curmudgeonliness, either. It has long been the excellent rule in our Post Office Department not to put the portraits of any living persons save the reigning sovereign and some members of his immediate family on our stamps. Some of our Canadian heroes and statesmen have appeared on stamps, but not until their place in history was secure. Miss Scott's interesting achievement in the field of fancy skating does not create a situation which demands that this admirable and wise custom be broken.

Put Miss Scott on a stamp because she is the best Canadian skater and what follows? Surely there should be a Mary Pickford stamp to do honour to the only Canadian ever to be called The World's Sweetheart, a Marie Dressler stamp to recall Canada's Funniest Woman, an Edward Johnson stamp to do homage to Canada's finest tenor, and Heaven alone knows how many stamps to glorify hockey-players who have done something-or-other which is considered worthy of note in hockey circles.

Canada is very happy in the possession of a Royal Family, whose portraits on its stamps mean a great deal more than the picture of some one who is not, by tradition and training, an epitome of the state. Republican countries must adorn their stamps with national heroes, and when those heroes are truly heroic (Lincoln and Bolivar occur to us at once as examples) the custom is a fitting one. But to adorn a stamp with a picture of a girl of nineteen, whose future is uncertain, would show an exuberance of magnanimity and a paucity of common caution.

Corruption From The Pulps

An odd and perhaps discouraging incident took place recently in a British Columbia jail. It was decided to move 14 of the prisoners, all of whom were lads between 14 and 20 and all of whom had exceptional records for good conduct, to a new institution organized on Borstal lines. But a few days before the transfer these model prisoners carried out a well-planned escape, and went on a crime binge.

When they were captured and brought back to jail they offered the excuse that they had been corrupted by pulp literature about gangsters!

No doubt people who have a bee in the bonnet about crime literature will seize this chance to raise an outcry against it. But as we have said many times in these columns, there are millions of people who read stories about crime who never become criminals, or even harbour suppressed ambitions to become criminals. Boys who can be corrupted by crime books must be tottering on the brink of corruption in any case.

We should like to add to this our belief that criminals have a livelier sense of humour than they are given credit for, and when they encounter reformers who have no sense of humour at all they cannot resist the temptation to have a bit of fun with them. Furthermore, every wrong-doer knows that it is good policy to give a reformer the answer he wants. If a reformer asks a boy why he is a criminal and the boy says "Because I was corrupted by wicked books" he becomes, in a sense, the reformer's pet. But if he answered, with more truth: "Because I have the instincts of a hoodlum and because I want to get more from the world than my inferior talents can normally command" he would not be nearly so interesting.

Reformers, though well-meaning, are sometimes lacking in ordinary intelligence: criminals have just enough low cunning to tickle reformers in the right place.

Prettifying Hansard

Mr. Stanley Knowles, the C.C.F. member from Winnipeg North Centre, has protested against the prettifying which, he says, goes on in the Revised Hansard. In the course of revision he asserts that members delete things from their speeches of which they are ashamed.

The object of revising Hansard is to allow members to do a little polishing on their speeches, and we do not think that anyone minds very much if an M.P. touches up his English before it is printed in the final record. But we think that Mr. Knowles does well to protest against deletions, for it is important that the public, and posterity, should know precisely what has been said in Parliament, and who said it.

We have protested before in these columns against the way in which a hubbub in the Commons, in which the words "Swindlers", "Crooks", "Sawed-off runt", "Booze artist" and even more colourful expressions may clearly be heard, is rendered in Hansard thus;

SEVERAL MEMBERS: Oh, oh!

We feel that the public should know what has been said in its highest legislative assembly. Nor do we like the idea that some Mrs. Grundy in the employ of the Hansard offices should delete spicy remarks from the record. Offhand, we can think of two or three wisecracks which were made in Parliament which, though somewhat indecent, had the true Canadian flavour about them. We agree with Mr. Knowles that this gelding and prettifying of Hansard should stop.

The Czech Communists Unmask Themselves

By LELAND STOWE

WHEN I was in Prague some fifteen months ago all responsible observers agreed that the Czech Communists "were different". They were more independent of Moscow than any other European Communists. They were more moderate and reasonable. They were Czechs first, and Communists only secondarily. This is how their leaders had acted up to then, and they gave every appearance that these distinctions were accurate. I believe this remained true up to the day the Truman Doctrine was ineptly announced as a thinly-veiled anti-Communist crusade—but not very long after that.

When I mentioned Communist Premier Klement Gottwald to non-Communist Czechs they would say: "Oh, Gottwald. That is something different." Even his sharpest political opponents had marked respect and exceptional confidence in Gottwald. But after the extraordinary events of this past week it is doubtful whether anyone in Czechoslovakia, except Communists and the stooge section among the Socialists, can have much confidence in Gottwald or his party. The Czech Communists have unmasked themselves with remarkable lack of subtlety or reticence. They have shown their teeth so plainly it is not necessary for Gottwald to declare, "The better to eat you with, my dears."

THE gravity of the present menace to Czechoslovakia's free parliamentary system cannot be exaggerated, even if it is apparent. But the methods and deceit to which the supposedly moderate, respectable Czech Communists have stooped can be too easily overlooked by the average scanner of news who is not closely familiar with that country's political parties and economic set-up. More than any other European country where Communists are a potent factor, Czechoslovakia offers a perfect and absolutely justified test of Communist good faith. What we are now seeing in Prague is a final, most convincing demonstration that there is no such thing as good faith for a Communist party, once its way to complete domination is blocked by solid parliamentary practices and traditions.

Examine what the Czech Communists have just done and are doing, and no other conclusion can be reached. Their tactics are identical with those already used by fellow-Communists in Hungary, Bulgaria, Rumania and Poland. But these other countries had never known real democracy. At least an alibi could be offered that powerful reactionary forces in Poland and Hungary had learned little or nothing and were conniving for another chance at top-dog. But the Czech people and system are as deeply democratic as Sweden; in some ways more so than the United States.

Nevertheless Communist Premier Gottwald declared that "domestic reactionaries will stop at nothing to gain the support of foreign reaction." This might be true of the so-called Slovak Democrats; but they are a minority group and Slovakia is now under strong Communist-commanded police control. Bohemia holds the major portion of the population, and ultra-conservatives in Bohemia are so scarce and weak they do not possess a party.

GOTTWALD denounced the Czech National Socialist and Catholic People's parties (along with the Slovak Democrats) as "the general staff of reaction." One cannot fully grasp the brazenness of the Czech Communists' assault on their country's democracy without knowing the record of these two parties. The Czech National Socialists (miles removed from Germany's recent brand) are the party of President Benes, the nation's staunchest democrat and one of the most distinguished champions of parliamentary freedoms in the world. In American terms Benes's party is moderate and liberal — if anything left of centre.

The Catholic People's party? Well, in Prague I was told: "This Catholic party is unique in the world. It contains no big industrialists, bankers or land-owners as has always been true in Poland, Hungary, Italy and Spain. It is definitely progressive." An important spokesman of the People's party assured me: "Our Catholic party is not a Church party. It is really a party of the proletariat. We are based on the common people. We have always fought for social reforms."

These two parties not only made every effort to co-operate with the Communists in a mutual coalition government. They voted for a sweeping nationalization of sixty per cent. of Czechoslovakia's industry — they were as "reactionary" as that! They stuck with this coalition loyally until the Communist packing of top police posts with their own party members became a menace to future free elections. Yet regardless of their progressive principles and co-operative record, Gottwald branded the Czech National Socialist and People's parties as "the general staff of reaction". This makes the Communists' definition of a reactionary far clearer than ever before. Any party which is not a doormat or a stooge for Communist domination is "reactionary".

Sooner or later a showdown with the Communists over the survival of democracy in Czechoslovakia probably had to come. It has come, significantly, within a year after the Truman Doctrine was announced—much sooner than any responsible authority expected when I was in Prague. The imminence of new elections probably hastened the Communists' discarding of velvet gloves for iron fists.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE greatest remaining barrier to Communist domination is the character, experience and enormous personal prestige of Eduard Benes. If Benes (whose health is precarious) should suddenly die, the chances for Czech democracy would be reduced to a desperate glimmer. In this crisis Benes has already spoken with superb courage and most exceptional astuteness. He is literally worshipped by his people, including a large part of the rank-and-file Communists themselves. Nobody knows better than President Benes the cruel responsibilities and the kind of adversaries which he faces. His wisdom, his will-power and his heart are great. Yet he must also battle grimly for the physical strength to carry on and carry through.

Czechoslovakia's chapter as a test of Communist good faith has ended. Another more bitter chapter, and one of world-wide significance, has opened. In the presidential palace, high above the Vltava, a worn and tired little man musters all his skill and energy in defence of the heritage of Thomas Masaryk.

THE WORK OF MERCY NEVER ENDS . . .

Fraser In Elephant Land

(AN EDITORIAL IN THE OTTAWA EVENING CITIZEN)

THE case of Mr. G. K. Fraser, who now sees in Canada's National Film Board not one "white elephant" only but "herds" of them, is indeed a sad one. But it is an encouraging sign that the Progressive Conservative member for Peterborough West finds that these pachyderms which so trouble his imagination are at least "doing good work in some fields," even if they are "running riot in others."

Mr. Fraser complains that the Film Board, with a government grant last year of approximately $2,000,000, represents "socialization of the worst kind"; that it competes with commercial photographers and "robs" them of their right to take pictures.

Actually, the board normally leaves the coverage of news events to the commercial companies, participating only when special reasons dictate the presence of its cameramen. And specifically to avoid the charge of unfair competition, the board has established a rate for use of its still pictures equivalent to that of the commercial photographers. Indeed it is usually attacked because it does charge for its pictures; the complaint being that it should issue them free. As for the accusation that the board competes in taking passport pictures, such pictures as are taken are those of government officials going abroad on official missions. There is no reason why they should pay for their own pictures, nor why, having its own equipment the government should foot the higher bill of a commercial photographer.

The fact is that far from representing extravagance, the many-sided work of the Film Board is done at considerably less cost than if commercial companies were employed. Nor does it appear that Mr. Fraser's elephantine distortions have much support even in his own constituency. After commenting on the "excellent" financial record as disclosed in the Film Board's annual report for 1947, the Peterborough Examiner in a recent editorial observed: "The people of Peterborough County can make such a reckoning (of the board's services to Canada) as well as any community in the country, for we make good use of the board's services here.

"They have brought information and intellectual stimulus and entertainment to people who are outside the range of our libraries; during its last year of operation the local Film Council gave 659 showings to a total audience of 88,000 people in this district . . . . twice recently the Film Board has sent representatives to this city to make records of some of our local activities, in order that other Canadian communities may see what we are doing and, if they choose, follow our example. If the Film Board is as valuable to other Canadian areas as it is to Peterborough County it is certainly one of the most efficacious and cheapest educational agencies in the country."

A Slippery Question

To a request at Woodstock that he oppose the manufacture and sale of margarine in Canada, Agriculture Minister Gardiner said: "I will never allow anyone to commit me to anything." The fact that K. R. Daniel, Progressive Conservative member for Oxford, gave a similar answer to the same question, shows that politicians of all parties are not anxious to discuss the oleo question. — St. Thomas Times-Journal.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Behold my servant, whom I uphold; mine elect, in whom my soul delighteth; I have put my spirit upon him: he shall bring forth judgement to the Gentiles . . . . I the Lord have called thee in righteousness, and will hold thine hand, and will keep thee, and give thee for a covenant of the people, for a light of the Gentiles; to open the blind eyes, to bring out the prisoners from the prison, and them that sit in darkness out of the prison house. (Isa. 42: 1, 6, 7.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And John calling unto him two of his disciples sent them to Jesus, saying, Art thou he that should come? or look we for another?

When the men were come unto him, they said, John Baptist hath sent us unto thee, saying, Art thou he that should come? or look we for another? And in that same hour he cured many of their infirmities and plagues, and of evil spirits: and unto many that were blind he gave sight.

Then Jesus answering said unto them, Go your way, and tell John what things ye have seen and heard; how that the blind see, the lame walk, the lepers are cleansed, the deaf hear, the dead are raised, to the poor the gospel is preached. And blessed is he, whosoever shall not be offended in me. (Luke 7: 19-23.)

Gentleman Farmers

The "hobby farm" of the urban business man is a disrupting influence in farm life, declares Arthur Haas, chairman of the Ontario co-operative committee of the C.C.F. He argues that the dirt farmer is antagonized because he can't compete, and the newcomer is generally unwelcome because he doesn't take part in community activities.

Like a lot of other theories advanced by C.C.F. spokesmen, no proof is cited for the simple reason that the argument cannot be supported. On the other hand, literally hundreds of examples could be quoted in Ontario and other provinces where city men have gone into the country and have made a real contribution to farm life.

Some of our best prize livestock, grain and other agricultural products have come from these so-called "hobby farms" of city men. Practical farmers have welcomed this competition, and it has been good for both classes and profitable, too.

This new and growing "back-to-the-land" movement is one of the healthiest developments in years. It brings city and country people closer together again, where each will gain a better understanding of the other's life and problems. The C.C.F., which counts so much on pitting one class against another, may not welcome it, but the responsible citizen certainly does.—Financial Post.

Police Capture Fleeing Youths

BROCKVILLE, Ont., March 2 — (CP). — Two youths, apprehended after a mild 80-mile-per-hour highway chase on Saturday, pleaded guilty yesterday to charges of assault with intent to rob.

Evidence disclosed the youths, Patrick Swan, 21, Regina, Sask., and Nick Cooper, 20, Montreal, drove into a filling station about 15 miles east of Brockville, requested the attendant to fill up the tank and then pointed a black toy revolver at the attendant, taking from him a flash light and a set of car keys.

The youths who fled along Highway 2 and were chased by police said they had no money to pay for the gasoline when they held up the attendant. Magistrate G. A. Wright remanded them for a week.

Meanwhile, Montreal district police officers said they would go to Brockville to lay charges of armed robbery and auto theft against the pair, believed to have held up and stolen a taxi belonging to Arthur Charron of Montreal.

U.S. May Loan Money To Franco

LONDON, March 1 — (AP).—Spanish Republican sources declared to-day United States policy is being revised to permit private loans to Generalissimo Franco's anti-Communist government of Spain. These informants, who are opponents of Franco, declined to be quoted by name. But they said they had learned from the underground sources that Spain soon will try to borrow $200,000,000 in the United States and that Franco is confident the money will be granted. The reported change in the official attitude of the United States was attributed to a fear that without help the Franco government might fall and open the way for a pro-Communist regime.

WINDSOR, March 2 (CP). — Provincial Police believe a series of gasoline station break-ins across Ontario and Quebec will be cleared up with the arrests by Windsor police during the week-end of three men, Phillip Macdonald and Gerald Paquette of Montreal, and James Reilly, address unknown.

Provincial police said they believed Macdonald and Paquette, who both had worked in Montreal restaurants, stole the Quebec car and travelled throughout Ontario. Reilly told police he was picked up by the two Montreal men at Belleville.

THE FINEST CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD MADE EVEN FINER!

A Product of General Motors *Available with certain models at extra cost.

Sixes and Eights with the Famous GM Hydra-Matic Drive*!

Today, Pontiac announces a series of notable advancements in the car that has already won the wholehearted endorsement of more than a million owners and friends.

Foremost among these advancements is the great General Motors Hydra-Matic Drive.* Pontiac is the lowest-priced car in the world to offer (as an option) this great mechanical masterpiece—which shifts gears automatically, and completely eliminates the clutch pedal.

Coupled with this great engineering triumph is a striking improvement in beauty and luxury. New exterior smartness extends from the new radiator grille to the streamlined rear bumper.

Interiors, too, are remarkably improved. Upholsteries are more beautiful and provide new attractiveness and charm. Instrument panels are finished in a smart design, and an adroit use of chrome moulding adds a deft touch of modernity.

Engine and chassis retain, basically, the same engineering masterpieces which have become synonymous in the automotive industry with goodness and dependability.

A wide range of Pontiacs is produced in many body types and striking colours, with six and eight cylinder engines, and with wheelbases of 116" and 119". This triumph of engineering stands alone in its field for beauty — for performance — for comfort — and for dependability. Again for 1948 — IT IS TRULY THE FINEST CAR IN THE LOW-PRICE FIELD.

Legionnaires Even Final Series With Petes At One Game Apiece

Playing in peak form before 1,400 fans in Lindsay last night, the Legionnaires defeated the Petes 6-3 to even their OHA Senior "B" group finals at a game apiece. It is a four-in-seven series, unless the OHA orders it cut down to a five-game one, and the next number is in Omemee tomorrow night.

After a scoreless first frame, Legion took a 1-0 lead to end the second. They struck fast in the third to pile up the count with five counters, but the Petes fought back fiercely to tally three and threaten right up to the finish. It was a fast, exciting struggle throughout, not too rough—though 17 penalties were handed out. The ice was good all the way.

Led The Way

Bill Crowley and Bob Greenlaw led the Legion scorers with three points apiece, this line—including Joe Rochetta with two—being in top form every stanza and a constant threat. Ernie and Ace Nicholls, along with Johnny Godfrey were in on two apiece, and Ross Nicholls shone in goal. The whole team clicked well all the way. The Petes battled hard and were always dangerous, but were outlucked or outguessed by the goalie in close repeatedly. Ray Harding was his usual starry self between the pipes and robbed Legion frequently with great saves. Bun Kingdon led the losers at bat with two scoring points but the rest all worked hard throughout.

Play was plenty fast in the first heat, with Legion having an early margin on play as they peppered Harding. N. Vitarelli and Crowley teamed up for a hot stab early and then Ned went off with Heal for high-sticking. Ernie Nicholls came close but Petes pressed when Dootch Vitarelli got it for interference. With all back, a Tompkins-Kingdon try made Ross jump, with Burns then testing Ray. Horton went off for tripping and Doug Mortimer followed for a similar offence. Ron just got back when he got it again for holding. Ned Vitarelli followed for hooking but returned and play was hot and even near the end, with Blewett getting a penalty for high-sticking.

Scored One

They started in careful fashion [illegible] second, and Freddie Mortimer was gated for holding. Legion pressed and got one in but it was after the whistle. Ernie came close and play was redhot up and down. Halfway through, Bob Greenlaw scored from Rochetta as they were banging away on Harding's doorstep in a scramble. Horton and Crowley were waved over for holding and Bill drew a misconduct for objecting too strenuously. Tompkins tore in fast for a neat try and later Ross robbed Garvey. Horton pulled a good rush as the Petes tried hard for the equalizer. Doug Mortimer went over for tripping and Heal followed for slashing near the close.

The third was wide open and redhot all the way. Rochetta nearly notched one and then Godfrey batted one home on a passout with Ernie and Ace Nicholls drawing assists. Doug Mortimer got the nod for interference and the Petes poured in with five forwards, but Ross was tough to beat. Bob Greenlaw took Crowley's pass on a fast breakaway to tear in and pull the goalie out for a score to make it 3-0. Then Crowley counted from Greenlaw neatly on a partial breakaway with one to beat and it was 4-0. Godfrey went over for hooking and Kingdon broke the goose egg on Fred Mortimer's assist in close. Burns batted one in at close range on a neat passing play with Ernie and Ace Nicholls to make it 5-1. Tompkins and F. Mortimer came close and, with Doug Mortimer off again for tripping, they roared in and tallied again, Blewett from Heal on a fine rush and smart work in close. Crowley got it back on a partial breakaway, aided by Rochetta and Godfrey. Jopling went off for holding but the Petes added another, Garvey flipping it home smartly on Kingdon's pass near the end.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, R. Creighton and Jopling; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and F. Mortimer; alternates, Heal, J. Creighton, Blewett, Montgomery, Garvey, Bueton and Horton.

CPC Take Over Top Spot In Loop

Canada Packers displaced Commercials from top spot in the YMCA Men's League last night when they whipped Tip Tops 8-4. These two teams were rolling for double points due to a postponed game and the extra count put the Packers in first place.

Commercials downed Quakers 4-2 to drop back into second place after leading the league for weeks. Artists blanked Jay Bees 6-0 and B'nai B'rith beat Aberdeens 4-2 in the other games.

The score sheet of the Commercial-Quaker contest was misplaced so we will be unable to print the individual scores. However we do know that Bob Wyllie of Commercials had the high single game score of the night a neat 312 and the only 300 score rolled.

Benny Swartz, who has been rolling large scores the last few weeks turned in top effort with a 778 mark. He was followed by Bob Dyer with 733 and his Dad, Reg. Dyer with 714. Looks like the Dyers would have monopolized the 700 field if Benny hadn't come through.

Artists had high team score for three games of 3246 and Tip Tops best single 1109.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

Prexy Pat Calladine has called the annual meeting of the men's City Softball League for tonight at 7.30 in the YMCA, and everyone interested is invited. Main business, we suppose, will be reading of the 1947 reports, election of officers for 1948, and appointment of delegates to the annual OASA meeting in Kingston on Good Friday. Entries won't be called for yet, but those wanting in should be represented to see what's going on. The loop had its most successful season ever in '47 and expects another big semester this coming summer. Not a snowball's chance of getting that new softball diamond in the south end of Riverside Park this year, so play will be at the Bowl once more, sharing it with the girls.

* * * * * *

Harry (Hilly) Yudin is president of the Panthers Foot-Ball Club—a senior "B" entry in the ORFU—for this year. Don Hendren is first vice-president, and Dave Wilson second vice-prexy. Ken Cox was named secretary, Joe Cooke treasurer, and Dick Ouimet manager. An executive committee includes Doug Delaney, Don Coughlin, Stan McBride, Russ Scriver and Bill Shadgett. The latter, and Don Hendren, are expected home from hospital this spring. And that's fine news. The club has some $3,500 worth of equipment and Dick Ouimet was given the green light to obtain half a dozen new players to build up the squad. The coach will be chosen later.

* * * * * *

They're Dispossessed

PMHA-ers are up against it again—nothing new for minor hockeyists here in a rinkless community. They were eased out of the Lakefield arena some time back by a raise in rent, and now the city has closed the open-air rinks before they had finished their playoffs. Only hope now is to obtain Omemee ice for remaining games, and that'll cost a bit, too. Despite this, our bantam Lions have battled their way into Ontario finals, showing we have the class in Peterborough even if we haven't a covered arena. But that should be rectified for next winter. Let us hope.

* * * * * *

"It would have been a breeze with Percy Nicholls in our lineup all season," a Legion puckist told us last night, referring to play against the Petes. We wouldn't go that far, at all, but unquestionably Percy would have been a strong factor for Legions every game. A husky and scrappy player, he can check well, skate and pass with any of them and has a bullet shot. But Percy heeded the call of the west early in the season and left the Legion lineup to fly to the coast where they say the average weekly salary for players in that loop is 90 bucks. A lot more than a guy can get playing hockey around this borough, one must admit.

* * * * * *

All Sewed Up Again

Legionnaires and Petes are all even again as they hit into the third game of their senior "B" group finals. On account of the Legion took a 6-3 win in Lindsay last night before 1,400 noisy fans. A swell scrap on fast ice, with both sides stepping a mile a minute throughout. Despite 17 penalties, it wasn't a rough game as both sides were after a victory. Legion had a little margin on play most of the way as they hustled their heads off to even the series. And the Petes were always smart and dangerous but couldn't seem to click in close. Maybe Goalie Nicholls had a lot to do with it. He and Ray Harding turned in a dandy showing in the nets and there were no soft counters registered.

* * * * * *

So the scene shifts to Omemee tomorrow eve. Third game of the big series and another sizzler a cinch, rating another big crowd. Rumor still persists that the series may be cut by the OHA to a best-of-five, and if so it's all the more reason for fans to try to see this redhot sawoff ere it's o'er. Frank Buckland was to phone the OHA prexy this morn and get the official word on it—and we may hear before this column is finished. Anyway, the Legions and Petes aren't sparing the horses these playoff jousts but are shooting the works and some fine hockey is being served up. Quite a bit of dough being wagered, too, we hear. Anyone's series yet and it's apt to go right to the limit before one squad hangs 'em up for the season and the other prances gleefully into provincial playdowns.

Hitting That Basket

PCVS bantam cagers bowed out to Bowmanville last gloaming 21-11, as the boys of Bowman Villa swept the district finals 35-26 in a good series. But there are still several smart PCI hoop teams around the scene. And at the YW last night, CGE colleens copped a 23-17 verdict over Lock Co. in a tidy tilt, a round-robin playoff. Next games in this scramble will be there on Friday. Men's basketball booked for the Collegiate at 8.15 on Thursday night, Toronto Riverdale Grads coming down to play the Marines "A" crew. They couldn't make it last Saturday due to bad roads and are putting themselves out for this joust—and it ought to be an interesting struggle. Nothing further on week-end hoop activity.

Bowmanville Boys Oust PCVS Cagers

Bowmanville high school bantams won the Lake Ontario district title yesterday afternoon on their own floor when they defeated PCVS bantams 21-11, to win the round 35-26. In addition Bowmanville won the right to represent the Lakeshore district in the forthcoming OABA eliminations and tournament.

PCVS went ahead early on Cunningham's field goal and foul shot by himself and Brown to stretch the Peterborough lead to eight points on the round. However Chant and Davey found the range for Bowmanville and had reduced the Peterborough round lead to two points by halftime as BHS led 9-7 at that point.

Davey continued his excellent shooting in the second half as he and his team mates caught the PCVS team and then passed it. The 3-2 zone BHS used, gave PCVS a lot of trouble on the smaller Bowmanville floor and only Cunnigham once and Young once scored for Peterborough in the second half. The teams:

BHS—Chant 5, Davey 11, Stutt 3, Allin, Tayor 2, Maguire, Piper, White. Total 21.

PCVS — Braund, McIlraith, Brown 1, Cunningham 7, Jameson, Young 3, Pulley, Hendren, Doughty, Cooke, Ash. Total 11.

Referees, W. DeGeer and T. DeGeer, Bowmanville.

Electrics Take 23-17 Win Over Lock Co.

CGE defeated Lock Co. 23-17 last night at the YWCA in their Girls Basketball League round-robin playoff fixture. They rolled up an early lead and were in front 10-5 at the halfway mark, but the Lock Co. crew held their own in a tight second half. A lot of keen basketball was dished up all the way with both sides hustling for the verdict.

Irene Stewart, T. Stewart and Marg Kennedy went best for the Electrics; while June Johnson, Yvonne Harvey and Betty McIlwain were outstanding. The losers had more free throws than the victors, but could only cash in on three of them, as CGE clicked on one. The next game will be Friday. The teams:

CGE: B. Stewart 2, I. Stewart 8, T. Stewart 7, M. Perrin 2, J. Meadows, M. Kennedy 4.

Lock Co.: Y. Harvey 4, J. Johnson 8, B. McIlwain 3, J. Reynolds, A. Firth, W. Floyd 1, M. Knox, B. Cooke, J. McIntyre 1.

Referees, A. Northcott and T. Payne; timer, A. Neiman.

Norwood Goes Into Finals Of Trent Loop

NORWOOD, March 2 (ENS).—Sweeping Tweed into the discard here last night in TVL semi-finals, Norwood advanced into Trent Valley League finals before a good-sized crowd. They play Marmora in Madoc on Wednesday in the first of the finals and are back here on Friday. Last night's score was 14-5 to give Norwood the two-game series by 23 to 14. It was a fast, clean fixture on good ice, and the homesters were sparked to the easy victory by Ralph Hamilton. He turned in another outstanding performance, though a marked man, and scored seven goals and assisted on two more. The teams.

Tweed: Goal, Cournyea; defence, Leal and L. Gehan; centre, B. Gehan; wings, Rivers and Meraw; alternates, Long, Prout, Alexander, Rashotte and Cotton.

Norwood: Goal, Morrison; defence, Hamilton and Pettersen; centre, Scott; wings, Brown and Payne; alternates, Bud Webb, Puffer, Rod Webb, Wight, Fennell, Martin and Aldred.

PCVS Skiers Capture Title At Secondary School Meet

Amid a blizzard of wet, sticky snow, the Ontario Interscholastic Ski Meet was held at Bethany on Saturday afternoon with PCVS coming out on top, scoring 142 points.

Representatives of some seven collegiates and high schools braved the skiing conditions described as "terrible" to participate. Second in standing was Collingwood with 116 points, Cobourg 100, and St. Peter's High School 42.

The PCVS team coached by Carl Duffus won the School Cup emblematic of the Interscholastic championship for best slalom and downhill. Jane Gillespie, PCVS, won the girls' award while G. Charles, Cobourg, took the boys' top honors.

Results of the boys' downhill: M. Crowley, St. Peter's, 34 secs.; G. Charles, Cobourg, 35.1 secs.; Ian Blaiklock, PCVS, 36.4 secs.

Boys' Slalom: J. Emery, Cobourg, 33 secs.; J. Keith, Collingwood, 35 secs; G. Charles, Cobourg, 35.1 secs.

Girls' downhill: J. Gillespite, PCVS, 40 secs.; S. Brophy, Collingwood, 53.3 secs.; Kay Robinson, Collingwood, 60.4 secs.

Girls' Slalom: A. Strickland, PCVS, 38 secs.; J. Gillespie, PCVS, 40 secs.; S. Brophy, Collingwood, 43.4 secs.

Despite the adverse conditions, the 30 participants enjoyed Saturday's competition.

The Slalom course was laid out by Jack Holland, expert ski instructor, who was in Peterborough over the week-end from Valcartier.

Mask-McCready Bout Should Be A Sizzling Go

Considerable interest has been aroused by the unusual conditions of the Earl McCready - Masked Marvel match which goes on here Wednesday night in Brock Arena ring. Both McCready and the Unknown have agreed to a two-out-of-three falls No-Time-Limit match. But in addition McCready offered to make it a Winner-take-all affair to which the mystery-man has also agreed. That means that McCready, by winning, can pick up both purses. It also means that the Masked Marvel, by a loss, will lose more than his head covering. The action is expected to be fast and furious.

Masked Marvel

Bill Kusisto who showed his superior mettle here against Lee Henning last week will be back on Wednesday's card against the wild Hindu, Nanjo Singh. Singh drew some 13,000 people to see him wrestle Whipper Watson in Toronto last Thursday. He is a bit of a fanatic at times.

In the third bout Jan Gotch meets Don McIntyre.

Bentley, Poile At Heels Of Bud O'Connor

MONTREAL, March 2 (CP).—Buddy O'Connor of New York goes into the final three weeks of the National Hockey League campaign with a four-point edge in the scoring race, but both Max Bentley of Toronto and Chicago's Norman (Bud) Poile are red hot threats for top honors as well.

Official league statistics released to-day show O'Connor with 53 points on 23 goals and 30 assists. Max Bentley is four off the pace with 49, while Poile who has been moving steadily up the ladder since being traded to the Hawks by Toronto early this season, now has 48.

O'Connor, the playmaking wizard who is making his best bid for scoring honors in seven seasons under hockey's big top, appears an even-money bet at this stage to walk off with the points crown and the $1,000 bonus that goes with it. Buddy has 10 more games to play, while Max Bentley and Poile each only have nine.

Poile, a favorite for the right-wing spot on the all-star team, was the biggest gainer during the week, collecting five points. Max Bentley earned three and O'Connor tow.

The next four players on the list have to be rated a chance to take the jackpot as well. Montreal's Elmer Lach and Doug Bentley of Chicago are tied for fourth spot with 46 points apiece, while Gaye Stewart of Chicago and Jimmy McFadden of Detroit share sixth place with 45 points.

Ted Lindsay of Detroit still tops the goal-getters with 28 markers, with Max Bentley having 26. Doug Bentley of Hawks and O'Connor head the assists column with 30 each.

Bill Barilko, aggressive Toronto defenceman and Canadiens' Kenny Reardon are running one-two for badman honors of the circuit, with 133 and 121 minutes spent in the cooler respectively.

Young Harry Lumley of Detroit has the best goals-against average among the loop's netminders and also leads in the race for the Vezina Trophy, which goes to the goalie who has played the most games for the team having the fewest goals scored against it.

Lumley has allowed 120 goals in 51 games, an average of 2.31 goals per game.

Quebec — Fernando Gagnon, 118, Quebec City, knocked out Hubert Gagnier, 124, Montreal (2).

Juvenile Crime Film Coming; Bogart To Star

HOLLYWOOD, March 2 —(CP)—Richard Whorf got the acting bug again during his recent repertory appearances in New York. He has told his studio, M.G.M., that he wants an acting role. Whorf gave up film performing a couple of years ago and has directed several films, including "Till the Clouds Roll by," Metro's biggest 1947 grosser . . .

Humphrey Bogart tells me his first picture with his new independent outfit at Columbia will be "Knock On My Door." He feels the film will be timely, since it deals with juvenile delinquency. He will play a defence counsel and the company is seeking a baby-faced deliquent of 19. Bogie will spend the rest of the year at Columbia, since he has only one film yearly at Warners, and "Key Largo" is it . . . .

Road From Morrocco.

George Raft arrives in New York March 12, having finished African locations of "Outpost in Morrocco." He'll return here to finish interior scenes from the picture. . . .

Anna Sten's return to the screen in "Let's Live a Little" will be a far cry from her dramatic efforts for Sam Goldwyn. One of her first scenes was a cold cream-tossing duel with Robert Cummings . . . .

Frank Morgan will have to forego his hope of joining his wife in Jamaica. He has been assigned to a lead role in "The Story of Monte Stratton" . . . . William Saroyan's new play, "Jim Dandy, or fat man in a famine," will hit broadway in October with Canada Lee a star. It will be Saroyan's first show with music and ballet.

First Return.

Al Jolson takes his air show to New York in May. It will be his first return since his latter-day triumphs. . . . Robert Ryan and wife are expecting their second child in a few days . . . .

Maureen O'Hara is unofficial press agent for John Agar. After seeing him in "Fort Apache," she predicts he'll reach even greater fame than his wife, Shirley Temple . . . . The Jack Carson show is one of the airlanes' funniest. . . . Alan Hale, jr.'s, role in "One Sunday Afternoon" is the same his father performed in "Strawberry Blonde." . . . Glen Tryon, the former comedy star, is acting as gag writer on "Let's Live a Little."

FIESTA TIME — Fiesta Fantasy, annual ball of students attending the Ontario College of Arts, is to be held tomorrow night. Loretta Suddes (left) will dress as a Spanish senorita. Months of preparation were necessary to make decorations for the Royal York ballroom, which will resemble the marketplace of a Latin-American town. Stop World War Before It Starts —Vandenberg

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP) —Senator Arthur Vandenberg (Rep. Mich.) urged the Senate yesterday to "light the beacon" of economic aid to Europe before "aggressive Communism" knocks on the new world's door and threatens its freedom.

Beginning debate on the $5,300,000,000 Marshall aid plan, the chairman of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee told his colleagues:

"This act may well become a welcome beacon in the world's dark night. But if that beacon is to be lighted at all, it had better be lighted before it is too late."

Across the Capitol, the House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee decided it will wrap foreign aid for Europe, China, Greece, and Turkey into "a single package."

The administration has asked $570,000,000 aid for China and $275,000,000 in military assistance for Greece and Turkey.

Vandenberg asked that CoCngress "help stop World War III before it starts" by approving the European recovery program.

Says Russ Pact Directed Against USA

NEW YORK, March 2 (CP). — The New York Times, in an editorial today on Russia's demands for a mutual assistance pact with Finland, brands Prime Minister Stalin as acting "in the familiar style introduced by Hitler" and calls Stalin Hitler's "erstwhile partner and eager imitator in enslaving other countries."

It says the demand on Finland "could only mean the end of that country's independence and a first step toward its ultimate sovietization."

It is significant, the editorial says, that Stalin specifically invoked the Russian treaties with Hungary and Romania as models for the proposed Finnish pact. These treaties are directed against Germany and against "any other state which would directly or in any other form unite with Germany in a policy of aggression."

"Since Germany is included in the European recovery program, and since that program is denounced by Russia as a measure of American 'imperialist aggression,' the pact is also directed against the United States . . ."

Petitioners Ask Greater Use Of Morrow Park

The name of Rev. E. C. Moore, rector of St. George's Church, header the list of more than 860 petitioners from the Braidwood Ave. section of the city asking the city council Monday night for means of obtaining broader public use of Morrow Park.

Others in the first page of names were: Mrs. Moore, Mr. and Mrs. Bert Pitchford, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Smith, Mr. and Mrs. Alex Ferguson, Mrs. Fred O'Grady, Mr R. G. Shouldice.

The body of the petition asked the council to secure by conference the co-operation of the trustees of Morrow Park and the Exhibition Board "to assure that in the immediate future the Park may be permitted to be used for the greater and fuller enjoyment of the citizens that at present, and also as the site for the Peterborough Memorial Community Centre."

If that permission is not obtained, the petition asks that "action be taken whether in the courts or by purchase to secure possession of the grounds from the trustees of the R. A. Morrow Trust for use as a public park and for such other use as will benefit the citizens, including its use as the site for the Memorial Community Centre."

The first communication the council had received from the residents of the Braidwood section of the city stressed the need of projecting George St. through the park. That was a month or more ago. The council asked the Trust for a meeting. It was held Monday night, and, according to the first petition, the council placed its emphasis on the street convenience, leaving the Memorial Centre idea in the background.

Extension of George Street Through Morrow Park Goes To Court For Decision

Members of the Morrow Trust expressed to the finance committee of the council Monday night their willingness to join in an application for a judicial declaration of the Trust's authority to permit extension of George St. through Morrow Park, the exhibition grounds, on Lansdowne St.

"Then if the court says we have the power, it will be up to us to say whether we will exercise it," said Mr. T. J. Carley, KC, one of the members of the Trust. The others with him were: Col. Frank Bradburn, R. M. Glover and Herbert Bradburn. The fifth member is Mr. Harold Morrow who created the Trust to carry out the terms of his gift of the park for public use as a memorial to his father, the late R. A. Morrow.

Mr. Carley's remark seemed to be mainly a statement of procedure. He had previously indicated disposition toward the council's enquiry in the affirmation: "We are willing to do whatever we can."

The sentiment of the discussion was condensed by Ald. Hugh Waddell in the words "The Trust have very fairly agreed to go on an application," and Mr. Glover said he felt certain that the Exhibition Board would be a third party to a motion asking for a Supreme Court decision.

"I think we are now in sufficient agreement so that we do not need another meeting of these two bodies," Ald. Waddell suggested as the next step was proposed. It was understood that the council and its solicitor, Mr. W. F. Huycke, KC, would draft the application, and that Mr. Huycke should then submit it to the Trust and its solicitor, Mr. B. D. Hall, for their assent. In the meantime, Ald. Swanston said the council would consult the Exhibition Board.

The first stage of the conference covered familiar ground. Mr. Carley said that trustees could only do what their trust instrument directed. "In the first paragraph Mr. Morrow said we were to keep the land in one block The Trust deed does not give us the power to put a street through the Park, we simply cannot do it, no matter how much we might like to do so. The instrument does not give the Trust much discretion."

Herbert Bradburn mentioned that opinions had been obtained from three good firms of solicitors in Toronto "so that we would be in a position to know what could be done and what could not be done," on some of the matters which had been proposed to the Trust.

"We are as much in sympathy with the Trust as they are with the council," Ald. Raine said. "They have a duty to perform, but we also have a trust from the people. The people on the south side of the Park require a road through it as a convenience. And it looks to me as a logical request. We, as a council, feel that it is our duty to find some way of getting a road through there."

"We are willing to do anything that can be judicially approved within the orbit of the Trust," Mr. Carley said, "I think we are all willling to do so, but we cannot be put in the position of breaking a trust and paying for it, too. That is where we would be."

Mr. Glover recalled that prior to Mr. Morrow's gift of the park for public purposes, the Exhibition Board used to rent the grounds at $600 a year. Long a member of that Board, he said: "For the benefit of the people south of the park we opened the gates to them and knocked a hole through the south fence so they could go through to McGill St., because at that time we were permitted to do so as tenants. Now, the Exhibition Board is tied to two weeks' operation. The rest is in the hands of the Trust."

Ald. Herbert Young asked the question to which the conversation was gradually leading: "What about taking the question to the Supreme Court for an opinion?"

Mr. Carley replied that in the absence of Mr. Huycke he would not trespass on the duty of the City Solicitor.

The Trust was plainly avoiding the position of telling the council what to do, or what the trustees thought should be done.

He said that if Mr. Huycke thought that something could be done in that direction and a court's approval was obtained "we'll give it every consideration."

Erect Suitable Fence

Referring to the high fence and its "concentration camp" appearance, in a recent allusion by a deputation to the council, Mr. Carley said the Trust had in mind erecting a new gate bearing the name Morrow Memorial Park, and also putting a suitable fence around the property. With shrubbery and other planting, the objectionable appearance would be removed. "We're not proud of it as it is."

As to preserving title to a road strip, Ald. Raine said the park could be closed now and then. "Probably one Sunday in the year," Mr. Carley remarked. He also mentioned the cost of constructing the proposed road, maintaining it and assuming liability for it, and Ald. Swanston said there was no doubt the council would be willling to take over those details.

Mr. Herbert Bradburn switched the discussion back to the course of action. "I think you will have to get a judicial ruling," he said.

"That would be the safest thing for the trustees to have," said Mr. Carley. "We would know whether it would be within the terms of the Trust to do it."

"It would be nice if the Trust would start the application," Ald. Swanston suggested.

Mr. Carley did not agree to that, but he did say "we could all be represented on the motion."

Mr. Glover: "The Exhibition Board has been willing all the way to do anything they could."

Ald. Raine: "It is up to us to find some way with your co-operation."

Ald. Swanston said the legal committee of the council could look into the question "and see what they think is best to do."

Mr. Carley commented that there was no use asking for anything directly against the Trust agreement.

Ald. Grant Miller referred to numerous questions to aldermen by citizens as to why Morrow Park was not secured for the Memorial Centre, and some had proposed expropriation.

"That is for you to decide," said Mr. Carley, "but bear in mind that you will have to pay for it if you expropriate."

"I'd like to see us get a site for the Centre, but my first thought is of a road for the benefit of the people in that new south end of the city," Ayd. Raine stated.

Herbert Bradburn: "Let's get this straight. What is the major concern of the council? A road or the Memorial Centre?"

Ald. Swanston: "Our major concern is about a road. "I'll admit they are still looking for a site for the Centre, but Mr. Morrow himself told Mayor Ovens that he did not and could not approve of the Centre going there at all."

"If there was any move for the Centre going there, the only way as Ald. Grant Miller has said would be by expropriation," Ald. Swanston said.

Col. Frank Bradburn: "Mr. Morrow told Mayor Ovens he did not want the Memorial Centre there. The park was given to him by his father, and in turn he was leaving it as a memorial to his

Gets 4 Months For Passing Bad Cheques

Robert B. Simmons, no fixed address, was sentenced to four months indefinite in reformatory on each of three charges involving false pretences of passing worthless cheques, sentences to run concurrently.

The 21-year-old navy veteran, told Magistrate W. R. Philp, KC, that the reason he was in the dock was because he had a previous record and, for that reason, had difficulty getting work. He said that he had been employed at one post from July of last year until January. Then, his employer had found out about the record, he said, and had "fired" him for it. The same thing had happened at the next job he had secured, and his foreman had suggested that he tell his next prospective employer of his past.

"I tried that too, but it didn't work so well, so here I am."

He also said, in reply to the magistrate's remark that it was not entirely these circumstances which had forced him to it, that he had to sell his sweater for two dollars on the first night he spent in Peterborough to pay for lodging. He had not eaten until after he had cashed the first cheque mentioned in the charges.

The largest cheque involved was for $154, given to a jeweler in payment for a diamond ring the youth had ordered and for an electric razor which Simmons took with him, according to the evidence of Acting Detective Sergeant John Stevenson. The cheque had been worthless, investigation found.

The accused, said the witness, had also obtained a small radio from a dealer by tendering a cheque for $25, which also turned out to be worthless.

On the third charge, the offence referred to had been committed in Brantford, and the accused agreed for trial here. It involved a cheque for $48.

WIDE CHOICE

Recent "D.C.'s" (Displaced Canines) which have found their way to the city pound show a pleasing variety as they wait patiently for their owners to rescue them. There is, at present, one huge St. Bernard "pup", a beagle and a little spaniel with a red harness.

Retail Workers In Canvass Lead Campaign

First reports on Monday's receipts for the Red Cross and Community Fund show that the Women's Division under Mrs. W. E. Fanning has collected $443, while the Retail Division under W. C. Hughes has bitten into its objective by $2,274.75. No word has been received from either the Special Names Division or the Industrial.

Tabulations are not complete but they indicate the campaign got off to a good start and the canvassers and workers have swung into action effectively, already producing results.

Campaign headquarters say there are 90 women workers, including captains and canvassers who are calling on the residential areas. There are 91 Retail workers and some 20 canvassing the 110 Special Names.

Objectives for the various divisions are Special Names, $18,000; Retail, $13,000; Industrial, $25,000; and Women's, $4,000.

The campaign ends Friday. This year the amount has been raised to $60,000 and it is believed that the support of all interested citizens will be needed to put it "over the top."

"MAYOR" SWANSTON

Ald. Max Swanston was chairman of the council Monday night as acting mayor in the absence of Mayor Wm. Ovens who was out of the city.

HISTORY REPEATS

Treacherous driving conditions tend to make accidents occur in a monotonously similar way. One on Saturday night, about 7.45 on George street, was almost the same in circumstances as several others in the past few days. Slight damage was caused the car of Alex N. Thomson, Keene, when the rear was struck by the car of Francis J. Crowley, R.R. 6, Peterborough. Report of PC. C. J. McGillen stated that the Crowley car had skidded on the ice when it was braked to stop in a traffic line. There was no damage to it.

UNEMPLOYMENT INSURANCE BENEFITS

Splendid example of the benefits of Unemployment Insurance was quoted by W. B. Mellis, manager of local National Employment Service office, from a Government letter received that showed 20,000 workers in the Windsor area received insurance benefits for 11 days during the gas shortage industrial shutdowns caused by February's cold weather.

Labor Council Would Use Amplifiers At Factory Gates

"I think they have a point there," said Ald. Herbert Young Monday night in reference to a petition from the Allied Labor Council for permission to use sound trucks or amplifiers at factory gates.

"But I think they should be limited to locations at the plant gates," Ald. Young said. "That is really what they request in their brief."

Ald. Raine moved that the brief be sent to the legal committee. Ald. Gordon Armstrong seconded that motion, and it was adopted. The brief was read by W. R. Cambers of the Labor Council's deputation. It recalled that an anti-noise by-law included a clause: "No person shall within the city limits make or permit to be made the following noises in so far as they are calculated to disturb the inhabitants of the city, Namely: Noises from or caused by sound amplifiers or radio or other loud speakers placed outside any building or on any motor vehicle, etc. . . ."

Mr. Cambers said unions had the privilege of using sound trucks at factories until last summer "and it was not abused". Chief Constable Thompson said then that there had been no complaints from any owners, tenants or other people living in the vicinity of the industrial plants where the sound equipment had been used.

"In this regard we would refer the council to the wording of the bylaw which states "in so far as they are calculated to disturb the inhabitants of the city". It is our contention that the lack of complaints in the past should place our activities with respect to the use of sound equipment outside of the jurisdiction of this fact,—since they have not nor are they calculated to disturb the inhabitants of the city."

Mr. Cambers said the Allied Labor Council, representing more than 6,000 organized workers, and comprising with their families a majority of the citizens, requested that the statute be amended to permit the use of sound amplifiers by local unions at factory gates as in the past.

"We have never at any time been directly informed that we might not use sound equipment in the manner we propose," Mr. Cambers read from the brief. "Nor, even though the act provides for penalties have we ever been warned, summonsed or charged or fined. However, when we last sought to rent equipment from the dealer from whom we had previously rented equipment (Dit Clapper), were told we could no longer rent it, since the police had ordered that the equipment could not be used for the purposes we proposed, namely a plant gate meeting and announcements. We did not press the matter at that time, but feel that with the warmer weather approaching and the possibility of our desiring to hold open-air meetings again that we should now seek from this City Council their support for ruling."

The brief suggested that the bylaw be rescinded, or amended, or that the local unions be declared outside the scope of the bylaw.

Lacrosse Club Seeks 20-Yr. Lease On Bowl

Writing to the council in behalf of the Peterborough Lacrosse Club, Ken Kingston proposed Monday night lease for 20 years of Miller Bowl property at a nominal charge of one dollar a year.

According to the present tenancy the club could be required to give up possession on one month's notice from the city. Mr. Kingston substitutes that if the site is needed for some vital purpose that the city move and rebuild the Bowl on some location suitable to the Lacrosse Club. If removal should take place that it be outside the playing season between May 15 and Nov. 1. The letter was referred to the finance committee.

Educational System Emptied of Religion

His Excellency Bishop Berry Addresses Rotary Club

"I think we have too many people today who have left God out of their calculations . . . If we have too many of them the current against the nation is too strong. We will be divided on fundamentals and will never be strong. That I think is the case in the recent spying and betrayals in Ottawa, Montreal, Toronto and elsewhere."

The speaker was the Right Rev. Gerald Berry, DD, Bishop of Peterborough, who addressed the Rotary Club Monday afternoon on the subject "Education For Citizenship."

He attributed a deficiency in the present secular education as responsible for the presence of spies and traitors in the country.

"Disclosures of spying in Canada were made public and sensational arrests made," he said. "Still more sensational was the fact that native Canadians were ready to carry out an 'inside job' similar to that this week in Czechoslovakia."

Posing the question why men who were not motivated by greed and who were "very learned in their fields" should seek to betray their country, he said it was due to a detericoration in values caused by the increasing divorce of morality from education in the schools.

A scheme of values is mainly obtained from the family circle, the church, and the school, he said; and he focussed his attention on schooling, particularly university training.

"This is a collapse in adult life, not as a result of passing temptation or impulse; it was over a period of months. They violated not only the laws of the country by passing along secret matters to a foreign power, but also a specific oath of secrecy."

"In schools it is necessary that they pass along some scheme of values, some canon, or form to decide what is right or wrong.

His Excellency then launched a heavy verbal attack on Deweyism, which he felt had been a harmful influence on education. "Dewyism has done a lot for American and Canadian schools. It has taken much of the respect for tradition, but it has detracted from the scheme of values in both countries. It has created a vacuum, emptying the educational system of all religion."

President Hutchins of Chicago University and Sidney Smith and Vincent Massey of University of Toronto have all made clear "that the University is being pushed to do far too much technical education that does not really belong to its proper function which is to teach men to think and provide the leaders of the next generation."

Walter Lippmann was quoted from an address he gave the American Association for the Advancement of Science in 1940 entitled "Education Without Culture." Said Lippmann: "By separating education from the classical religious tradition, the school cannot train the pupil to look upon himself as an inviolable person because he is made in the image of God. . . . The graduate of the modern schools knows only by accident or hearsay whatever wisdom mankind has come to in regard to the nature of men and their destiny. . . . For the more men have become separated from the spiritual heritage which binds them together, the more has education become egoist, careerist, specialist, and a-social."

Schools have introduced projects on the Dewey plan, he said. "Fundamentally his philosophy is based on atheism."

"Fortunately not many teachers in Canada carry out to their logical conclusion the teachings of Dewey and his followers."

The speaker cited the eminent British educationalist, Sir Richard Livingstone, who said that it was "the sight of problems being faced" that inspired youth to learn.

Elaborating Bishop Berry said "It is enthusiasms in action that appeal. Education should not just provide information but ideals to be conquered; it should strike enthusiasm in the heart."

Another educationalist Whitehead, was quoted: "Moral education is impossible without the habitual vision of greatness."

"If we are going to be Canadians, conscious of the grand thing it is to be a Canadian, we must find some spark of enthusiasm to light up the heart."

Bishop Berry was introduced by James Dutton, Sr., and thanked by John Black. President Charles Cummer was in the chair.

Two new members, Tom Taylor and Leslie A. Mountney were introduced to the club.

Welsh Honor Patron Saint Ideals Fitting UN Motto

"Cymru Am Byth" (Welsh Forever) was the theme of gatherings throughout the land Monday, March 1, as the patron saint of Wales was honored on St. David's Day. More than 60 attended the 18th annual banquet of St. David's Welsh Society in Peterborough, held in the evening at the YWCA. Mrs. Jos. Henderson, local president, received, and opened the program with a welcome to all. Mr. Walter Flowers, chairman, introduced the guest speaker, Mr. John Londerville, MA, who had chosen the subject, "St. David and the United Nations."

Accepting St. David as a historical, rather than a mythical figure, because of his influence on history, Mr. Londerville said "St. David presented a mirror and pattern to all. His motto was 'all to all" so that he might gain all to God. In his life there is a lesson to the United Nations, for he expressed in action the fact that 'God is love!'"

Three ideals on which St. David based directions for living to his people were set forth by Mr. Londerville as rules which the United Nations would do well to follow closely. The first he called "Mutuality," and described it as a synonym for love, not representing self-love, selfishness, nor reckless self-sacrifice, but the mutual feeling that directs "all for all." It is such a spirit that UN requires in handling all its activities such as reconstruction and trade agreements. "We have all seen that no man can be an island, he must be part of the continent," said the speaker. "Therefore, covet the spirit of mutuality and its saving grace."

St. David sought to teach his people culture and it has become a hereditary characteristic with them, so the second ideal was titled "Education in Values." As a teacher, Mr. Londerville declared he was not in favor of the modern tendency to let education stem from practicality and thinking power. He believes students should receive a firm foundation of historical knowledge and facts and that such an education is most important. "The UN can last only on the education of the people," he said.

"Forceful humility" was practised by St. David in his daily life," the speaker pointed out. "He walked humbly and meekly among the Welsh people—but not weakly, as he showed when he struck out determinedly as paganism threatened." Turning then to the United Nations, there is the question, "Shall the UN use force?" "Most of us hate and fear war and we are cowards at heart; but when we are pushed too far we will rise up and fight," said Mr. Londerville.

"Force, I think, is necessary," he continued. "With an army drawn from the free peoples of the world to support the rights of men as determined by the majority, there is just cause to fight." Referring to the great powers who have attempted to control settlement of world affairs for the past several years, he said, "It looks as though they are to fail. Certainly they have not produced anything yet." And there are many in Europe now who have this thought in mind, it seems, and they are suggesting that the smaller powers unite against aggression.

"I urge you to support Canada's Army," said the ex-army officer. "It is foolhardy to pin your hopes on disarmament. We owe it to ourselves to be prepared to uphold the ideals from the life of St. David which we are recommending to the United Nations. Maintaining those three ideals in common will preserve our way of life, as the Welsh people have maintained their cultural heredity and have infused much of it into the community where they live."

"We are not only honoring St. David to-day," said Mr. Londerville, in conclusion, "but wishing God-speed to the ideals of the United Nations."

Songs In Welsh Highlight St. David's Day

Substituting for the leek, national emblem of Wales, a profusion of golden daffodils stood tall and straight in table bouquets, fitted handsomely into corsage sprays and made boutonnieres, Monday evening, for the celebration of St. David's Day with a banquet at the YWCA.

Welsh people are noted for a traditional background of music, and it is said they sing constantly going to and from work in the mines of Wales. So it was fitting that Miss Margaret Flowers should play delightful Welsh melodies during every lull in proceedings. Welsh songs have beautiful words too, and they were heard when the ladies' chorus sang "Ar Hyd Y Nos" (All Through the Night) and "Llwynon" (The Ash Grove). Choristers were Mrs. E. Pearse, Mrs. W. Flowers, Mrs. Wm. Davies, Mrs. C. Armstrong, Mrs. M. Kilborn and Mrs. D. Shewen. Then all joined in the Welsh national anthem, "Mae Hen Wlad Fy Nhadav" (Land of My Fathers).

Highlighting the musical program were solos by Mrs. C. Armstrong wearing the unique Welsh costume which is still seen throughout her native country. The numbers she chose were "Clychau Aberdyfi" (Bells of Aberdovey) and "Deck the Halls." Mrs. M. Kilborn's solos were presented in English but titled "Little Welsh Mother" and "Land of Wales." Again in the Welsh tongue Mrs. W. Davies gave "Mentra Given" (Lady Mine) and "Y Deryn Pur" (The Gentle Dove).

Not to be outdone, six men joined in a chorus, singing "Gwyr Harlech" (March of the Men of Harlech) and "Pen Caelfaria." Messrs. Harry Flowers, Morris Parry, Tom Davies, Arthur Davies, John Parry and Walter Flowers took part.

A toast to Wales was proposed by Mr. T. Davies. "Thousands are celebrating tonight and are thinking of some little spot in Wales" he said. "We are a people of destiny with a history that spans centuries. Wales was the only free state on earth when the Roman Empire was under rule of paganism. Our creed, as set forth in our National anthem, is "Worship God, be just to our neighbors and die for our country:"

Response was given by Mr. M. Parry who outlined the geographical history of Wales, listing among their industries the coal, coppec and tin mines, and mentioning the various skills of the people, not forgetting their music.

Mr. Wm. Tinker proposed the toast to Canada, saying "It is a wonderful country of peace and plenty, in sharp contrast to many others." He named a few of the vast resources it offers, and spoke too of the rising culture of the people as their painters, poets and writers are becoming more widely known, In reply, Mrs. J. Henderson read a poetic description of Canada.

Toasting Peterborough Welsh Society, Mrs. B. Jones explained it had been organized in 1931 to foster good fellowship among the Welsh citizens. Every worthy project that has come up since then has been helped as far as possible. Parcels are now being sent regularly to needy Welsh families. During the war they went to British and Welsh alike. Mrs. M. Pakenham replied, asking for full cooperation of all adherents in keeping up the aims and objects and increasing what has already been done.

Recitations by Mrs. Aikenhead were much enjoyed, particularly "Yiddisha Love" and "Mrs. 'Arris at the Telephone."

A letter of greeting from Toronto St. David's Society was read by Mrs. G. Reader. Greetings from Local Council of Women, with which the Society is affiliated, were brought by Mrs. W. Addyman.

Mrs. E. A. King, convener of the banquet was tendered a vote of thanks. Attractive place cards depicting a Welsh lady in native costume were the artistic work of Mrs. Doris Shewen. Yellow and green streamers crossed the tables and there were bright green candles in crystal holders.

Of Interest to Women

riot to a bewildering and bemused culmination.

With sudden uprooting, radical change, revamped plans and objectives, it might seem a ruinous and disruptive program. Yet at base there is a structure of solidarity, wisdom, good sense, conservation to warrant the prospect of sensational moves with erratic and irregular performance or seeming defeat, turning into secure, enduring and far-reaching crises and gratifications.

A child born on this day may have exceptional ingenuity, talents and versatility; while romantic and impulsive, yet has a sterling and dependable character at its core.

Cakes Carrying Bread Sales Manager Claims

OTTAWA, March 2 — (CP). — The question of combines in the bakery industry was due for scrutiny today by the Commons Price Committee—at the suggestion of a spokesman for the industry itself.

R. P. Sparks of Ottawa, executive secretary of the industry's national council, told the committee yesterday he was "most anxious" to give them information on the matter, and the members tacitly consented to hear him.

Earlier, the investigators seeking light on higher commodity prices had been told by Mr. Sparks that the same situation as regards bakers' combines existed now as in 1930, when a Combines Act investigation gave them a clean bill.

Mr. Sparks went on to say that today consumers are "obtaining even better value than ever for their expenditures on bakery products."

Further, he expressed belief that bakers generally were not making profits on bread but actually were taking "a substantial loss." He indicated sales of cakes and other products were carrying bread.

If present trends continue, he said, most bakers will be worse off than they were before they increased bread prices at the time of simultaneous price decontrol and removal of flour subsidies.

He explained that bread profits depended on high volume of sales and higher prices already had driven down volume to some extent. For this reason, bakers "were very reluctant to see the price of bread increase further.

Mr. Sparks was preceded to the witness stand by James M. MacDonald of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of General Bakeries, Ltd., who said his company had been losing money on the overall sale of all its products in Montreal and Toronto before it jumped the price of bread by one cent early in February.

Since then, he calculated, it was showing a net profit of between one-third and one-half of one per cent on sales, without allowing for corporate expenses, interest and taxes.

Hughes Cleaver (-Halton) challenged these figures, and he sought such general bakeries expenses as executive salaries to clarify the company's claaims.

An agreement over procedure on this point ensued, with the committee finally voting 6 to 2 to have "all" information produced for its counsel and the members. But it left until later the question of whether such information should be placed on the public record.

Mr. Cleaver also precipitated another furry when he said a retailer had informed him a bakery threatened to cut off his supplies because he was selling below the retail price indicated by the baker.

Two Progressive Conservative members—Karl Homuth, Waterloo South, and Donald Fleming, Toronto Eglinton, questioned the propriety of a member making a statement before proof was offered. Mr. Cleaver demanded the calling of witnesses on this point.

LEAP YEAR COURTSHIP
Women Conceal Methods Of Pursuing Husbands

❖ ❖ ❖

TWO LADS, who describe themselves as "Curious Young Men," desire to know if there is available a record furnishing a reasonably correct per cent of the present-day marriages wherein the woman does the pursuing and proposing. Also they want to know how many of the marriages wherein the woman pops the question have been truly happy and successful ones. They are trying to find out whether marriages have a better chance of success when the man follows the old role of Romeo and the woman his clinging Juliet, or whether it makes for happiness in marriage for the woman to take the initiative in the courtship.

Dorothy Dix

Well, sons, naturally there are not statistics on the subject, for there are two secrets that no woman ever tells. The first is her age. The second is how she got her man. You can ask every married woman of your acquaintance what her husband said when he proposed, and every one of them will tell you that she has forgotten, which you can believe or not as you please. But the one thing you can bank on is that if at the crucial moment the timid lover showed signs of weakening and backing out, his sweetie exclaimed: "Oh John, this is so sudden!" and fell into his arms.

So there are no available figurres to show how many women have promoted their marriages, but I would say that a conservative estimate is about 99 per cent of them. For in the great majority of cases it is the woman who sees the man she wants for a husband before he sees her, and who sells him the idea that she is the maiden he has been looking for all of his life.

Best for All Concerned

And this is no reflection on the female sex. On the contrary, it redounds to their credit. They are only fulfilling the career for which Nature created them and that keeps the world going. It would certainly be a lonesome old place, with weddings as scarce as hens' teeth, if we had to depend on men doing all of the courting.

Also, it is to men's advantage for women to pick out their husbands, for it enables them to get what they wanted, and a contented wife is always a good wife who is breaking her neck to please her husband. A disgruntled, fault-finding, nagging wife is almost invariably a woman who married her opportunity instead of her heart's desire.

Of course, most men believe that they are great lovers who could teach Clark Gable tricks in how to sweep a woman off of her feet, and undoubtedly many girls do respond to the whirlwind tactics in courtship. Then, there are many smart girls who play hard to get, which also works with men who flatter themselves that they have an irresistible technique that no maiden can resist. But there are no figures on this, either. And there is no method by which to tell which course ends in a happy home and which in the divorce court.

The ideal marriage is one in which the husband and wife cherish an equal devotion to each other, but this state of bliss seldom happens in real life, where, as a cynic once said, "in marriage one loves and one permits oneself to be "loved." This is not wholly true, but it is true enough to cause many a heartache.

So, it seems to me that in marriage women should have the privilege of choosing their mates and putting forth every effort to win them, because a woman's happiness is so much more centered in her husband, her children, her home than a man's is. It is Leap Year, girls; go to it.

THE STARS SAY . . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Wednesday, March 3.

Benign auguries are for a day of thrilling adventure, tension, excitement, in which the mentality, emotions, feelings and aspirations are keyed to the Nth degree of desire and expectancy. And although the activities, inclinations, and forces may be pitched to the romantic idealist pitched to the romantic idealistic or unrealistic, yet is found a deep, profound and dependable undercurrent for the sound, practical, worthy and enduring, for the laying of firm foundations even in the widst of fantastic and chimerical vision and goals. With diligence, reflection and calmness, great dreams could come true.

Those whose birthday it is are confronted by a year of dramatic exciting, adventurous and bewildering events or experiences, in which the feelings, emotions, energies and impulses seem to run

TODAY, Canada's merchant navy ranks fourth in the world—next to those of the United States, Britain and Norway. Our ocean-going tonnage is now four times as great as before the war. In 1939 we had only 35 regular ocean-going ships on our register. Now there are 153. The total of all our ships of over 1600 gross tons (including upper lakers, canal freighters and coastal passenger vessels) is now 386—representing over a million and a half gross registered tons of merchant shipping! That maritime achievement is typical of the tremendous industrial and commercial developments which have created new and greater opportunities for all Canadians right here at home in our own country today.

G. H. WOOD raised sufficient money in 1923 to buy a tiny Toronto soap plant employing two workers. Since then his energy, industry and consistent emphasis on salesmanship have built his company into the biggest sanitation products organization in Canada, manufacturing 176 separate items.

Mr. WOOD says: "I've always felt that business success comes from a combination of initiative salesmanship and harmony between labour and management; and nowhere is that combination more certain of achieving results than right here at home in our own country now".

Between the wars, Canada built no sea-going ships of any size. Today we have 17 major, fully equipped yards, with over 100,000 tons of shipping under construction, including vessels for European and South American countries.

Only one-eighth of the total cargo entered and cleared at Canadian ports was being carried by Canadian ships before the war. Last year our own ships were handling well over half of this tonnage.

Oshawa Beaten By Windsor In Overtime 4-2

By The Canadian Press.

Toronto's final hopes for a senior amateur hockey title died last night when their Senior A Ontario Hockey Association entry—Marlboros — lost their fourth straight game to the veteran Hamilton Tigers 3-2. The defending champion Tigers won the best of seven semi-finals 4-1.

In the other senior tilt of the night Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen moved into a two-game lead in their best of five semi-finals by defeating Owen Sound Mercurys 6-3. The winner of this series will meet Hamilton for the senior championship.

In the junior loop, Windsor Spitfires took a 3-2 lead in games by handing Oshawa Generals a 4-2 overtime setback. Barrie evened their best of five series at one game each by edging Galt Rockets 3-2.

The youthful Marlie crew gave a good account of themselves last night for the most part despite their loss and held the smooth Tiger team in check until seconds before the end of the middle session. Then the Conick brothers co-operated for a goal and that spelled the end of the Marlies.

Marlies failed to match the team play and strong defensive play of the Tigers who made sure of every move and put up a strong defence in front of Goalie Art Childs.

The initial period went scoreless and at the end of the second the Tigers held a 2-1 lead. Tom Smellie and Ab Conick scored for Hamilton, while Ray Hannigan connected for Marlboros.

The Tigers hit for another in the third to go two up on a goal by Johnny Conick before Marlies came back with their final counter by Bill Ford.

Both teams suffered injuries during the game with Clare Shillington of Hamilton getting a severe gash in the neck after he had tripped Ray Hannigan whose skate caught in his neck. Goalie Howe Harvey of the Dukes twisted his ankle early in the first period and could hardly hobble around the net. However, he continued in the game and was the oustanding player for the Toronto team.

Kitchener Wins

Kitchener and Owen Sound were tied at 1-1 at the end of the first period, Kitchener was leading 3-1 at the end of the second, and then the Dutchmen counted three times in the final frame to get their 6-3 win over the Mercurys. The teams battled hard and in rugged style from beginning to end.

The third game is at Waterloo Wednesday.

Windsor led the Generals 2-1 at the end of the first and the Generals knotted the count at 2-2 at the end of the second and third before Spitfires took two goals in overtime play to win 4-2.

Jim Hay and Gord Haidy scored the first-period Windsor goals while Gerry Scott sniped the Oshawa marker. Joe Lafrance then tied the game for Oshawa in the second frame. The score stayed at 2-2 until 2:26 of overtime when Bert Giesebrecht slapped home a 25-footer. A penalty shot gave Gord Haidy his second goal of the night a little later.

A battle royal broke out in that overtime period as seven majors were handed out for fighting. Windsor drew four majors while Oshawa had three and a penalty shot against Pete Piquette.

The teams move to Oshawa on Wednesday for the sixth game of the series.

Barrie Flyers came from behind a 2-0 second period lead to edge Galt and even the series. With Galt leading 2-0 going into the third period, Rusty Aikin and Jerry Reid rapped in two goals within 13 seconds and then Reid added the winning marker with three minutes left to play.

Harry Marchand and Pete Tkachuk were the Galt marksmen. The tilt was fast, with hard-checking by both sides at 21 penalties were called, 14 to the Barrie Flyers.

Byers Edge Whitby Wings

OSHAWA, March 2.—Toronto Byers took a two-game lead in their best-of-five OHA Junior "B" group final series with Whitby Red Wings, edging Wings, 3-1, last night. The third game will be at Whitby Wednesday.

Hall, Edwards and Weatherill were marksmen for the winners, who counted a goal in each period. Ken MacDonald snared the Wing tally in the opening frame.

Seven minor penalties and two majors were issued, the majors going to MacDonald and Hawkshaw for fighting.

Whtby— Goal, Dalby; defence, MacDonald, Corner; centre, Williams; wings, Arnold, Trimm; alternates, Hanna, Simpson, McCloskey, Hooker, Yuill.

Byers — Goal, May; defence, Weatherill, Hall; centre, Watt; wings, Keeble, Hawkshaw; alternate, Gee, Pankoski, Gault, Hinde, Edwards, Mathin, Fidler, Moore (sub-goal).

Officials—Jack McEachern, A. Bellemer, Toronto.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Bill Durnan, 33-year-old Montreal Canadiens goalie, who was booed lustily by the crowd at Saturday's National Hockey League game at Montreal against Detroit and later threatened to quit hockey, will be in the net when the Habitants meet Leafs at Toronto, Wednesday, club officials said last night. Following the 5-2 loss to Detroit Saturday when Durnan was given a ride by the fans after fanning on a couple of soft shots, the four-time Vezina trophy winner was reluctant to accompany the team to New York for Sunday's game against Rangers.

Toronto Maple Leafs crashed the movies yesterday, as big lights and cameras were set on them at practice. It all had to do with the National Film Board's educational movie tracing the history of hockey in Canada. Leafs and Canadiens have the leading player roles and the "shooting" will continue during Wednesday night's game between them. Further scenes will be featured at Kingston, site of the game's hall of fame, and at Montreal Forum.

Mitchell Ronning, St. Paul, Minn., ski jumper, is in critical condition in Iron Mountain, Mich., as result of injuries suffered last Sunday in a fall at the Pine Mountain slide. Hospital authorities said he fractured three ribs and suffered a collapsed lung.

By scoring 10 points during two games last week, Carl Liscombe of Providence Reds boosted his total points to 101 — an American League record. Liscombe's 101 points surpasses the mark of 99 rung up by Wally Kilrea for Hershey Bears in the 1942-43 season. He has a 14-point lead over his nearest competitor Cliff Simpson of Indianapolis.

Curlers from many parts of eastern Ontario and the United States will take part in the Seigniory Club's 12th annual granite bonspiel which opens for four days March 4. Thirty-two rinks representing clubs including Galt, Hamilton, London and Kingston will play.

Sugar Jim Henry, New York goalie, is in hospital for observation. He collapsed three-quarters of an hour after last Sunday's hockey game in which the Rangers defeated Montreal 5-3. Henry finished out the game apparently in good shape but slumped over as he sat on the bench.

At least 26 players were still unsigned today as the 16 major league clubs began the second day of their 1948 spring training program. Heading the list are Stan Musial, St. Louis Cardinals first baseman and Harry Walker of Philadelphia Phillies, National League batting champion.

Of the 26 recalcitrants, 16 are members of National League teams and 10 of American League clubs.

Annexing seven more points last week, George Agar of Houston today stretched his scoring leadership to 12 points over his nearest competitor in the United States Hockey League. Ray Powell of Kansas City was in second place with 74.

Joe Louis received a cigaret case last night — but he doesn't smoke. "I much appreciate it just the same," said the world heavyweight champion, when told that 250 members of a London boys club had contributed a penny each to buy the gift. Louis, appearing thrice daily in an exhibition at London, was giving too. Joe turned over his income from BBC appearances to aid funds for two ill British boxers — Arthur Danahar and Jock McAvoy.

Bud O'Connor Tops Scorers

TORONTO, March 2 — Ted Lindsay of Detroit, with 28 goals, continued to be the league's most prolific scorer. However, with only nine games left to play, he is far from the record of 50 goals established by Maurice Richard of Montreal in the 50-game 1944-1945 season.

Buddy O'Connor of New York, the league's point leader, continued to dominate the playmakers, with 30 assists. Two Leafs, Max Bentley and Jim Thompson, were tied for second, with 26 assists each.

19 Boxers Died In Two Years

By DON HUNT

Canadian Press Staff Writer

MONTREAL, March 2 (CP)—The big question in boxing circles these days is how many more fighters must die before men vested with the control of the sport shake off their stuff-shirt irresponsibility and start protecting the fighters.

On Friday, Feb. 21, Sam Baroudi, youthful negro pugilist, bit the dust for the last time in the ring and from all reports, the dusky fighter was not in the best condition. Then last Friday, a second negro, Leroy Decatur, 20-year-old lightweight became the second victim in seven days.

Irked by these reports, Baz (Montreal Star) O'Meara delved into the records books and found that there were nine deaths in boxing last year and 10 during 1946.

Baz came up with this suggestion: "The men who control boxing should buy apparatus and hire medical experts for the express purpose of examining the heads of fighters — to determine what, if any, damage has been caused by minor and major hemmorrhages. A conscientious boxing commission could disenfranchise any fighter who continues to fight in the face of almost certain death."

Boxers today have too many fights and not enough rest between bouts, O'Meara said. "Baroudi appeared in over 23 pro fights in little over a year while Decatur had 40 amateur bouts behind him, all closely bunched, before joining the tougher monied ranks."

Wuxit Fixed?

Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League was in Montreal over the week-end and the hockey "betting scandal" again hit the headlines.

The N.H.L. prexy, who left for New York 24 hours after his arrival here, gave the impression that the names of the players involved—if any—would be released shortly.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 2.—(AP). — It isn't the work, but the lack of it that makes relief pitching a tough chore—that's the theory advanced by Philadelphia Athletics' Russ Christopher, who was a "holdout." For a regular starting assignment. The long, lean right-hander who became a "fireman" last season, signed up just in time for the start of training and then only with the understanding that he will be a starter. Connie Mack thinks Christopher may change his mind and Russ concedes: "If they give more pay I'll go back on relief—it isn't going into the tough situations. A starting pitcher gets into them, too. But it's the condition and the legs—a regular pitcher has three or four days between games to do some running and gets his legs into condition. When they may use you every day, you don't get a chance to do your own running."

You Can't Lose

Talk of the Athletics camp on the first day was Leland Lou Brissie, the big youngster from Ware Shoals, S.C., who is pitching only because he was able to argue army doctors out of amputating his left leg. Lou was badly shot up in Italy and has to wear a big guard to protect his sensitive shins. Watching him warm up yesterday, scout Ira Tomas commented:

"If his leg holds up, Brissie can be another Lefty Grove." And more conservative Connie Mack added: "I look for him to be a great pitcher — but maybe not this year."

Sunshine State Stuff

Al Simmons, the A's coach, figures training will be tougher than usual under the new March 1 starting deadline since the pitchers don't get their usual head start on the hitters—Al was hard pressed to round up enough throwers for a good batting practice yesterday.

Cleaning the Cuff

Palm Beach probably is the only place where they make the Duke of Windsor start a golf round from the 10th tee. That's where he's slated to start today, teamed with pro Bobby Locke and Stephen Sanford, in the Seminole Club pro-amateur tournament....Last word: A couple of hours after the Flamingo race a weary cashier at the $5 show window made a mistake, then apologized: "I've been paying out $5.25 for tickets on Citation so long that I forget there is anything else."

Flyers Due Home Ahead Of Time

OTTAWA, March 2.—(CP). — The Canadian Amateur Hockey Association was agreed to an arrangement whereby the RCAF Flyers, Olympic hockey champions, will return to Canada ahead of schedule, Defence Minister Claxton said last night.

An original plan for the Flyers to play exhibition games in Britain until April 10 has been shelved because "it is our desire to get them home while people still remember they are Olympic champions," Mr. Claxton sad.

"Also, if they stayed longer, people would be saying they are playing just for expenses or that they are being exploited for commercial purposes," he added.

The team will leave Britain March 31 and before that date will be able to complete a series of games arranged with John Ahearne, overseas representative of the CAHA, Mr. Claxton said.

Earlier yesterday, CAHA secretary George Dudley of Midland, Ont., said curtailment of the Flyers' exhibition tour would be "a black eye to Canada."

The defence minister said he later talked with Mr. Dudley by telephone and was informed the arrangements for the March 31 return are satisfactory to the CAHA secretary.

Gagnon Wins Another Crown

QUEBEC, March 2 — (CP).— Fernando Gagnon, sleek 23-year-old Quebec fighter, to-day needed but one more championship to match the record of veteran Dave Castilloux of Montreal who five years ago wore three Canadian crowns simultaneously — featherweight, lightweight, and welterweight.

Bantamweight champion since July, 1946, Gagnon last night wrested the featherweight title from Hubert Gagnier of Montreal after scoring a clean-cut knockout at 1:54 of the second round of a scheduled 12-round bout here. Gagnon weighed 118¾, Gagnier 124¾.

Gagnon scored his 44th kayo in 61 fights with a vicious blow to the right side of Gagnier's face opening the skin beneath his eye. The Montrealer sank to one knee, blood trickling from his face.

Gagnier previously had carried the fight while his smaller opponent contented himself with scoring hard lefts and then running away.

Gagnier kept boring in at the start of the second round until Gagnon softened him up for the kill with a right to the face. Gagnier blocked a second blow, but the third hit home and he went down.

Plane Crashes House

LIVERMORE, Calif., March 2—(AP)—A private plane crashed into a house near here early today killing its two occupants. A family of three escaped injury although the bedroom in which they were sleeping was demolished. The plane bounced on across a road, exploded and burned.

Hockey Moguls Probe Betting At Lansing Meet

LANSING, Mich., March 2. —(AP).—Reports of a betting scandal in professional hockey and hints of new evidence in a long-unsolved slaying drew Michigan's top law enforcement officials and leading hockey men to a "tell-all" conference with Governor Kim Sigler today at 2 p.m. EST.

The conference resulted from published reports that Detroit Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy had obtained information of gambling by unidentified professional hockey players.

But the scope of the inquiry broadened to cover the 1945 slaying of the late State Senator Warren G. Hooper, as well as general hoodlum activity in the State.

President Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League, Manager Jack Adams of Detroit Red Wings and the Boston Bruin coach, Aubrey (Dit) Clapper, were on hand.

"A lot of innocent boys are being kicked around for what one or two possibly did," Clapper said. 'Everything I say is being twisted."

Earlier Clapper was quoted as saying several of his players told him they were acquainted with James Tamer, reported to have placed bets on league games for two NHL players while on parole from Southern Michigan prison.

The Bruin coach insisted, however, that his club's personnel "emphatically denied ever making bets with Tamer." Members of New York Rangers, another club mentioned by Toy, also have denied connection with the reported gambling.

Direct Express Famed Pacer Dies

DEL MAR, Cal., March 2.—(UP).—Direct Express, one of Americas leading pacers, dropped dead yesterday while working out on the Del Mar track in preparation for Grand Circuit harness racing next month.

The pacer had a mile mark of 1.59¾ and last fall won the $25,000 National Pacing Derby at Roosevelt Track, N.Y. He was owned by Fred Freenly of Harrington, Del., and was in winter training for the start of the Western harness meet at Santa Anita, April 2.

Direct Express was a son of the famed Billy Direct, a pacer who set a world record of 1.58 flat while in competition. Billy Direct dropped dead last fall.

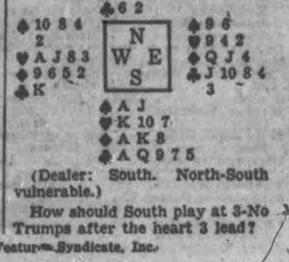
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

ATONE FOR YOUR SINS

IF YOUR own smart Alecky bidding had apparently egged the opponents into a better contract than they probably would have reached if you had acted more sanely, you are in grave danger of losing your partner's confidence. The case is likely to be so desperate that you must come across with something spectacular if you are to restore the entente cordiale with that important person across the table from you. In brief, to atone for your sins, you must perform a near-miracle.

(Dealer: South. North-South vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♠	2 NT	3 ♠	4 ♥
4 ♠	4 NT	5 ♣	Pass
Pass	Dbl	Rdbl



West—what might be called a "ground and lofty tumbler" among bidders—made his two bids of No Trumps as barriers against his opponents, hoping they would double and make him run out in Clubs, then double the Clubs. When they didn't fall for it, he decided their bidding as high as they did was partly because his own haywire bidding made them think his hand was weaker defensively than it actually was. That's why he doubled them—that coupled with his partner's single bid which indicated some probable defensive ability.

When North redoubled, West decided that stern measures were necessary in the play, especially since he was subjected to severe glares from across the table. So he started by leading the singleton Q of his partner's heart suit. When that was won in the dummy, the spade J was sent to his A.

Now West put on his thinking cap. If he could only get East in the lead, a heart ruff would beat the contract. The only high card out of sight which could make South's bidding completely sound was the diamond A, so he doubtless held it. East's only chance therefore to have a high card was the club K. Hoping for that, West led the club 2. When the K won and the heart J was ruffed, the winning partnership was restored.

Freighter Helpless In St. Lawrence Gulf

HALIFAX, March 2.—(CP). — The Nova Scotia tug Grenadier has cleared Sydney to aid the 1,900-ton British freighter Stuart Prince, drifting helplessly near the islands of St. Pierre-Miquelon, off Newfoundland, the RCAF reported here today.

The United States coastguard cutter Dexter, meanwhile had been diverted on a trip from Argentia, Nfld., to Boston and was standing by the craft, disabled by engine trouble, until the Grenadier arrived.

There was no indication that the Stuart Prince was in any immediate danger.

MOBILE EXERCISE PLANNED

Weather permitting, the next mobile exercise planned by 50th HAA, Prince of Wales Rangers, RCA, will be held on Sunday. The unit plans to travel from the city to Lakefield and return to the Market Square for demonstrations.

Bancroft Bride On Aquitania

HALIFAX, March 2 — (CP). — The last of 64,000 European girls who succumbed to the blandishments of Canadian servicemen during second world war years arrived here today aboard the lined Aquitania en route to new homes across Canada.

With lifeboats and parts of her superstructure ice-coated from high winds and spray, the liner carried 1,271 passengers besides the last seven war brides.

When the British brides stepped down the gangplank with their five children, they brought to an end a giant immigration plan that reached its peak in 1946.

Just as the larger groups which preceded it flocked to all parts of the country, this last bevy will see its members scatter to homes in Alberta, Saskatchewan, Ontario and Quebec.

Mrs. Theresa Authorson and child will go to Bancroft, and Mrs. Marjorie O'Brien, Zurich, Ont.

Grant Refused VON Branch

LINDSAY, March 2 — (ENS) —The Lindsay branch of the Victorian Order of Nurses has decided to postpone the completion of a VON unit here for the time being. A VON branch was formed in Lindsay late last year. It was from Town Council to be supplemented by an appeal to the public, as it was anticipated that from $4,500 to $5,000 would be required to operate.

However, at a meeting last week to strike the tax rate for 1948, Town Council filed the request from the VON for a grant. Council hoped to strike the mill rate at 37½ for 1948 and consequently cut down the estimates. In 1947 Council approved the establishment of a branch here. At a meeting of the VON Monday, President James Mackey and other officers expressed disappointment that completion of the unit would have to be postponed.

Bancroft Man Loses Father

TILBURY, March 2.— Well-known in Western Ontario newspaper circles, William Alfred Hutton died Sunday at the age of 82. A former editor of the Tilbury News, school principal and customs official, Mr. Hutton had been living in retirement at his home here.

A native of Delaware, Mr. Hutton spent his boyhood at Napier, where his father, the late John Hutton, was clerk of Metcalfe township and postmaster. He was educated at Strathroy Collegiate and Ottawa Normal School. Before moving here in 1891 he was principal of Delaware and Glen Willow public schools. From 1891 to 1900 he was principal of the Tilbury public school.

Employed for several years as a customs official, he was also active in local sports circles.

Surviving are his widow, Stella; two daughters, Mrs. J. Drummond of Toronto, and Mrs. L. E. Hornick of Kirkland Lake; two sons, J. W. Craig Hutton, principal of Bancroft public school, and Harry H. Hutton, director of extension at Queen's University.

Children's Aid Asks PensionForEmployees

Mr. James Dutton conveyed to the council Monday night the request of the Children's Aid Society that its nine employees be included in the civic pensions plan. A strong advocate of the plan during his aldermanic days, Mr. Dutton said he was happy that the council had put it into effect, "and as a citizen I wish to congratulate the council on that accomplishment." The CAS letter from Mrs. Agnes Wharry with the information that Mr. Dutton was presenting the society's request was referred to the finance committee.

Rambling Reporter

A LUCY SCOT

When a Scotsman loses money it's news. And Monday it was news to Mr. Jack Withers of 547 Douglas Ave., and was only made known to him when the sum of $19 was returned by the finder, who incidentally is his boss, Mr. Earl Francis, night foreman of the plastic department, CGE. Mr. Withers was on his way to report for work at three o'clock and when walking along Frank St. his roll of bills amounting to $19 fell from his pocket and spread itself along the way. Mr. Francis was proceeding in the same direction in his car when he noticed the currency and got out and collected it, thinking as he did so that it might belong to Mr. Withers whom he glimpsed in the distance.—M.L.

WELL REPRESENTED

During the entertainment part of the evening's program at the Queen Alexandra Home and School Club meeting Monday night, the service clubs were well represented. As Rotarian Jack Smith rose to lead a sing-song Charles Saunders called out, "I protest, a Rotarian can't sing from a Kiwanian song book." "Why we even have some Lions here to roar," shouted back Jack. Then Morris Duke, accompanying at the piano cut in, "Yes and don't forget B'nai B'rith, either. —D. W.

MEATY BUT BRIEF.

It may never rank with Caesar's classic report on Gaul, "Veni, Vidi, Vici," nor with the capsule-form message coined in the recent war. "Sighted sub: sank same," but a sign in a Charlotte St. Chinese laundry shop takes some beating for a terse tale of temporary misfortune and its business consequences. It says. "Sick, Sorry—Close."—D.W.

Charge Patients Beaten In Asylum

BATTLE CREEK, Mich., March 2. (CP)—Charges that "kidney beatings" and "stomach pummelings" were inflicted on mental patients in the Veterans Administration Hospital here brought suspension to four attendants today and the announcement that "others will be suspended within 48 hours."

The action was taken after a report was submitted to the hospital manager, Dr. Roger P. Hentz, by a regional investigating bureau.

Testimony disclosed in a week's inquiry that at least a dozen patients were mistreated and beaten. Dr. Hentz said a transcript of the testimony would be forwarded to the United States district attorney at Detroit to determine whether there will be a prosecution for assault on a government reservation.

father to be used by the public. Regarding the roadway, as far as I'm concerned I would say yes."

Incidentally, Mr. Carley said that a man could do as he wished with his property, within the law. "How much do you think communities will get in gifts if every gift was switched around to meet the contingencies of a situation? The agricultural society was a special interest of Mr. Morrow. He wished to promote it. I think they have an opportunity to do quite a bit for agriculture and industry in this district. At any rate Mr. Morrow did not want the park known as a Community Centre. He wanted it to be a memorial to his father."

Col. Bradburn said that if the agricultural society dropped it, the grounds would make a beautiful park.

Mr. Carley: "But the agricultural society is very much alive."

Ald. Dodds: "If the city did get it, the park would still be under the Trust."

Mr. Carley: "The city wouldn't own it, but you would have the full use of it. As for the Trust, it would only be a matter of whether you kept the park up as it should be."

City Clerk Outram remarked that it would be cheaper for the city to buy a 100-acre farm and give it to the Exhibition Board. Then the city could get the property as a park.

Mr. Carley: "If it was a city park, I don't see why you couldn't have a secondary rink there, as long as you did not call it a memorial."

Ald. Waddell: "May we assume that the Morrow Trust will be a party to an application to the Courts?"

Herbert Bradburn: "For the use of a road."

Mr. Carley: "Yes, if the Court said we had the power. Tell Mr. Huycke what you want. He can put it in legal language, and it will be taken up by the solicitor for the Trust."

Ald Doug Millier said the area south of Lansdowne St. had changed a great deal since Mr. Morrow set up the Trust. "I appreciate that he gave it with good intention, but it cuts off thousands of people from easy access with the rest of the city."

Doctor Testifies Woman Died In Convulsions

ST. THOMAS, March 2—(CP). —Dr. E. W. Kierluk of Aylmer was the first witness at the trial here today of Joseph Vernon Welch, 25, charged with the murder of his wife, Florence, at her home in nearby Aylmer last Aug. 21.

Dr. Kierluk testified that he was called to the Welch apartment by the accused on the morning of Aug. 21 and assisted by Mrs. Kierluk, a trained nurse, spent the next half hour in an endeavor to save the life of Mrs. Welch, who was in the throes of several convulsions, gasping for breath. At one time artificial respiration had to be used.

Twice during that half hour, Dr. Kierluk said, he had to send Welch out for a drug. The drug Welch brought back the first time had not been in proper form. He also had Welch help him and Mrs. Kierluk handle Mrs. Welch, who on account of the severity of her convulsions, was difficult to control. Welch was also told by Dr. Kierluk to call an ambulance but the women died before the vehicle arrived.

Asked how Welch acted before and at the time of his wife's death, Dr. Kierluk replied, "Very much upset, so much so that I had to get him out of their apartment and over to my office."

Dr. Kierluk recalled a visit to his office by Mrs. Welch on Aug. 7, when he gave her 90 iron tablets with directions to take three a day. This treatment he said was for a deficiency of iron in her blood.

Selection of jury occupied only 25 minutes.

Defence counsel, George A. McNabb, challenged 15 and Crown Prosecutor Walter N. Martin, KC, asked four to stand aside.

Welch appeared calm and collected in the dock and pleaded "not guilty."

18 Companies Face Charges

TORONTO, March 2 —(CP)— Minutes of meeting of the Canadian Dental Trade Association were read in court today as the trial of 18 dental supply companies began on a charge of conspiring in restraint of trade.

Minutes of the semi-annual meeting of the association, held in Montreal Oct. 23, 1945, recorded that members were told "competition is not within our ranks." Eleven of the 18 accused companies were reported present at the meeting.

D. L. McCarthy, special crown prosecutor, told the jury the C. D. T. A. regulated prices at which dental goods should be sold by member companies.

Peter Wright, assistant crown prosecutor, said the association had appointed a commitee, called "the welfare committee," to supervise preparation of a price book. After 1938 it became known as the "Toronto Dental Dealers," he added.

Acquit Whitby Man On Serious Charge

WHITBY, March 2 — (CP). — Harold Phillips, 25, of Whitby, was acquitted today on charges of rape of a 42-year-old woman and indecent assault of her 17-year-old daughter.

Mr. Justice A. M. LeBel directed the Supreme Court jury to bring in a verdict of not guilty after the defence produced a writ issued by the husband of the woman defendant against another man in 1939 for seduction and alienation of his wife's affections.

Pope Pius 72 Today

VATICAN CITY, March 2 — (AP). — Papal banners flew today from Vatican City in honor of Pope Pius' 72nd birthday and the ninth anniversary of his election as Pontiff.

Both events will be observed formally March 12, anniversary of the Pope's coronation, with a papal mass in the Sistine Chapel. Most of the Vatican offices were closed today, but the Pope went about his usual duties.

TORONTO—W. C. Davidson, a former alderman, was elected alderman for Ward 7 by city council yesterday to fill out the unexpired term of E. C. BRAMPTON — Doctors and nurses fought yesterday to save the lives of two triplet girls born Saturday to Mr. and Mrs. William Pickels of suburban Chinguacousy. One of the trio weighed five pounds, but the other two had to be placed in incubators. Hospital authorities said yesterday that one of the girls was very weak.

TORONTO — Mary Fortuk said she lived with Peter Dumbala for the 10 years before she discovered the paper she signed in 1937 wasn't a legal marriage license and now she's claiming damages from Peter Dumbala for money she placed in the home and for services as a "housewife." In Supreme Court here yesterday, she said 'it was not until after he told me to get out and said I wasn't his wife that I found out I wasn't really married all this time."

OSHAWA—Robert Flintoff, 62, died in hospital last night after firemen had rescued him, his clothing ablaze, from a rooming house at Athol and Albert Sts. Firemen found Flintoff clinging to a stair railing. Bedding in his room caught fire.

Boy 18 To Hang SS Teacher 20 Would Wed Him

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 2 — (AP)—Jeanne Lucas, 20-year-old Methodist Sunday school teacher sought a way today to marry her teen-age boy friend who is under sentence to die Thursday for murder.

Miss Lucas flew here from Pittsburgh today to beseech Governor Jim McCord to commute the death sentence of 18-year-old Daniel Budzynski to life imprisonment.

That failing, the neatly-dressed brunette said she was ready to marry Budzynski in the death-house of the state prison, where he is scheduled to die in the electric chair for the slaying of a Memphis clothes dealer and pawn broker.

"I love him," Miss Lucas said yesterday.

It is her third visit to Nashville in her efforts to marry the childhood sweetheart she met at a Christmas party eight years ago.

She applied for a marriage license immediately after her arrival yesterday. Today she plans to ask Governor McCord to waive the three-day waiting period required by law.

Both families oppose the marriage but Miss Lucas said it was "one of Danny's last requests."

Governor McCord said he was studying Danny's case and would have a decision on the commutation of sentence today or tomorrow.

Under Tennessee law, she would not be permitted to divorce Danny if the death sentence is commuted to life imprisonment.

"But that makes no difference," she insists. "I love him that much."

Election Looms In New Brunswick

By The Canadian Press

Three more provincial legislatures—Ontario, New Brunswick and British Columbia—are scheduled to open their 1948 sessions today, leaving Nova Scotia, due to open March 11, the lone provincial house not sitting in Canada's nine provincial parliaments.

The fourth session of Ontario's 22nd Legislature is expected to deal with milk prices and how to reduce them, a new labor bill and a change in electrical frequency from 25 cycle to 60 cycle, among other matters.

Rumors of a provincial election attend the opening of the Fredericton House and some observers say the announcement will probably come about two weeks before prorogation. The sitting is expected to last about six weeks with a week's recess for Easter. Premier John McNair heads the 36 Liberal government members and there are 11 Progressive Conservatives and one Independent.

At Victoria, financial problems, despite higher revenues in British Columbia's history, face legislators. Expenditures, boosted by inflation, have overtaken income. Premier Byron Johnson, heading into his first session as head of the coalition administration, has had the legistive program under advisement for many days, consulting Finance Minister Herbert Anscomb.

May Take Over Swank Polo Club

LONDON, March 2 —(CP) — Whether Hurlingham Club, Polo Ground and rendezvous for Britain's upper crust, will have to make way for a large-scale housing development will be decided shortly by Lewis Silkin, Minister of Town and Planning.

Already part of the club's south London grounds has been taken over for building purposes by Fulham council, and work on the first of seven blocks of apartments will start there shortly. The council claims the remaining space is vitally needed.

At a recent public inquiry club members fought for retention of the 60 remaining acres, which include the club house, tennis courts, croquet lawns, a swimming pool, a lake and landscaped paths.

Witnesses described it as a "mecca" for polo players, much as Lord's is for cricket and Wimbledon for tennis.

Throneless Carol Casts Eyes Toward Canada For Home

By STUART UNDERHILL

ESTORIL, Portugal, March 2—(CP).—Ex-King Carol of Romania may soon apply for an entry permit to enter Canada, say the gossips of this Portuguese seaside resort where three throneless monarchs while away their exile.

Members of Carol's household with whom I talked here were non-committal about the report, indicating he had not yet made up his mind to seek a change of residence. Whether Canada would welcome him is another matter.

Within easy visiting distance of Carol live Umberto of Italy and Don Juan, Count of Barcelona, Pretender to the Spanish throne. The latter is the only one who seems to have a ghost of a chance of ruling again, at least in the near future, and bettors would think twice before placing their money on him.

The spot these three have chosen lies within an hour's drive of Lisbon, where the low hills curve in a basin fronted by the sea. Big, expansive villas sit squarely among the palms and and pine trees.

For entertainment they have year-round golf, tennis and riding, and swimming and sun-bathing most of the year. Spring comes early to Estoril; in mid-January, geraniums, flaming cactus plants and a multitude of wild flowers give a promise of the blaze of color that lights up the public gardens running from the seafront to the big casino.

Even in January sun-bathers stretch out in sheltered spots along the esplanade, hiding from the cool breeze that sweeps in with the Atlantic rollers.

Royal Status?

Carol is insistent that he and his fellow-exiles retain royal status. At a recent press conference concerning the abdication of his son, Michael, a reporter asked his aide, Marshal Urdarianu, which of the two now would be considered the "ex-king."

"There is no such thing as an ex-king," said Urdarianu tartly. "If one is born a king, one remains a king. There are only kings without thrones."

Sharing Carol's big white hillside villa is Magda Lupescu, his long-time mistress whom he married in South America recently before they moved to Estoril. He now likes her to be known as Princess Elena of Romania.

Umberto of Italy, whose father Victor Emanuel died recently in Alexandria, making him heir to the throne if it is ever restored, lives not far away.

Recently some Canadian film board pictures were given at private showing at his villa. Those who saw the show that that during one scene portraying a skiing action in the Laurentians, Umberto hurried moist-eyed from the room, overcome by the recollection of his skiing days in northern Italy.

Measles Kill 7 Toronto Children

TORONTO, March 2—(CP)—Measles have taken the lives of seven children—four boys and three girls—in this area in the last 30 days, the city health department said today.

"As far as deaths are concerned, this is by far the worst epidemic year in the history of the city," a health department official said.

Thirty-eight new measles' cases were reported in the last 24 hours, bringing this year total to 4,005. In 1935, for the same number of days, 4,129 cases were reported. No deaths resulted from 59 cases last year.

ANNUAL MEETING AND BANQUET of South Simcoe Junior Farmers' Association, held at Toronto, was attended by more than 200. Ross Beattie, assistant agricultural representative and vice-president of Ontario Junior Farmers, is shown checking banquet tickets for Secretary-Treasurer Doris Nicol, while the newly elected president, Jack Walker of Stayner, looks on.

Russia Works From Within Without Armies

By STUART UNDERHILL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

The nightmare of 'it has all happened before" spread over Britain as black newspaper headlines reported the Communist push toward western Europe.

Justly or unjustly, most people think back to the days of 1938-39 when Hitler was snapping up pieces of Central Europe. A newspaper vendor summed up popular feeling when he wrote on a blackboard by his stand:

"Russians only 500 miles from channel ports!"

Today's spread of Communism is, of course, different in operation from the Nazi expansion. Communists work from within, seizing key positions. As far as arms and men are concerned, there is no foreign intervention.

But as far as popular opinion in Britain is concerned, Communism and Russia mean the same thing.

With France believed high on the list for a Communist push, historians are recalling that this is the 100th anniversary of the French revolution of 1848. Three February days—from the 24th to the 26th—saw rioting and bloody fighting on the barricades that brought down the Orleans monarchy.

The outcome of that revolution shook Europe and shaped the course of history. A Communist success in France today would have the same effect. If Britain managed to remain aloof from that turmoil 100 years ago, today she is watching with concern the sturdy efforts of Premier Robert Schuman to establish a stable government with the moderate "third force."

Adding to the feeling of uneasiness in Britain, is the knowledge that British military strength has rapidly diminished since the end of the war. Nobody is in the least belligertn, but all would feel better if Britain could speak with more authority.

Evenis in Europe are not the only factors contributing to the general unhappiness. The squabbles with Latin-American countries over the Falkland Islands and Honduras have depressed and irritated Britons.

"And now—Honduras," said the Evening Standard wearily in a headline last week, as if this were the last straw.

A lot of people who had to look Honduras up on the map agreed that it was.

Negotiations did not include wage discussions but were purely a matter of contract terms between company and union.

To Develop Wales' Anthracite Fields

LONDON, March 2 — (CP) — Anthracite fields in Wales, traditional supplier of Eastern Canadian coal needs, may be developed on a large scale as part of the National Coal Board's long-term program for re-organizing British mines.

Sir Charles Reid, in charge of reorganizing plans for the nationalized industry, is known to take a keen intrest in the Welsh fields and surveys are in progress to determine what markets can best be supplied.

"South Wales anthracite exists in first class geological condition," he told a press conference here, 'and in my mind there's no reason why it can't be produced at a price cheap enough to carry any market.

"If we got a permanent market in Canada at a reasonable price I'm sure anthracite could be made into a first class proposition."

Censorship Hits British Newsmen In Guatemala

GUATEMALA CITY, March 3 — (Reuters). — Guatemala has clamped down a total censorship on all British newspaper correspondents' dispatches and this message was smuggled out of the country after cable and telephone facilities had been cut.

Changes in the Guatemalan cabinet, involving five ministers and a move to the left, were believed imminent today but were not expected to bring about any slackening in the campaign for the seizure of British Honduras.

The President, Dr. Juan Jose Arevalo, banned the independent newspaper, La Nora, which in an editorial demanded the invasion of Belize, the Honduran capital, and accused the army of being "frightened of taking on the job" after hearing the President call from his palace balcony for "America for the Americans." Some 10,000 Guatemalans marched on the British Legation yesterday.

Arevalo had declared that he would call, at the Pan-American conference to be held at Bogota shortly, for the abandonment of all European colonies in America.

United States representatives here show no signs of dropping their "neutral" attitude, but it was learned that the United States was planning major air manoeuvres in the Caribbean in two weeks' time.

Blame Socialists In Czech Coup

LONDON, March 3.—(AP). — Britain's ruling Labor party maintaiend today that the Communist victory in Czechoslovakia would have been impossible without the aid of Socialists who play ball with the Communists.

The party's executive committee issued a statement last night declaring that last week's events in Prague constituted "a warning and lesson to Democratic Socialists."

It said the Communist minority in Czechoslovakia chose to "impose a dictatorship" rather than risk defeat in free elections and added:

"No clearer demonstration could be possible that Communists consider as enemies all those who do not surrender unconditionally to their slightest whim.

"But Czechoslovakia teaches us something more," the statement continued. "Communists cannot achieve their aims without support from a minority within the camp of Democratic Socialism . . .

'Any attempts to achieve Socialism by means which deny democracy and human rights . . . must lead inevitably to a dictatorship . . .

"Czechoslovakia is an acid test of sincerity. Those who seek to condone this crime show that they are false to the principle of Democratic Socialism for which the Labor party stands."

Plan Veto-Free Agency To Curb Russ Expansion

WASHINGTON, March 3—(AP).—A new, veto-free world agency with power to curb Russian expansion was proposed last night. The idea was offered as an amendment to the Marshall Plan by a group of Republican senators.

They called for the United States to take the lead in creating a supreme international council apart from the United Nations.

The chief job of this "supreme council" would be to combat either "aggression or subversion in any form."

Senator Joseph Ball (Rep.—Minn.) announced he would offer the plan formally when debate resumes today on the $5,300,000,000 European recovery program.

The super - agency proposal emerged from a meeting of 14 Marshall plan "revisionists." The text of the amendment does not mention Russia by name. But the intent is obvious.

Senator Owen Brewster (Rep.—Maine), who attended the meeting, defined the proposed new agency as an "offensive-defensive alliance." He said it would provide for "effective collective security without the paralyzing power of veto."

Ball, who drew up the blueprint for the supreme council is chairman of the revisionist group's steering committee.

During yesterday's Marshall Plan debate, Ball assailed the spread of "Russian tyranny" and said Western Europe must be offered a means of political security as well as economic stability.

Ball's amendment would direct the President and Secretary of State to open immediate talks with other members of the UN. The aim would be to try to win agreement among as many countries as possible on the new power-backed super agency.

Specifically the agreement would provide:

1. That a supreme council should be set up. It would consist of 11 members, just as does the UN Security Council. Those countries holding a permanent seat on the Security Council would receive the same position in the new group — but only by signing the agreement.

2. Each supreme council member would have one vote. Decisions of the council would be made when seven members, including a majority of the permanent members, agreed.

3. All signers of the agreement would promise to make their armed forces and resources available whenever the supreme council decided they were needed to preserve peace or to defend a member state against "aggression or subversion in any form."

Czech Ministers Resign Posts

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP). — Dr. Frantisek Nemec, Czech minister to Canada, announced today he has resigned his post and will remain in Canada as a private citizen.

He said practically all his staff also has resigned and will remain in Canada. He made this decision known to the government at Prague about 11 a.m. EST today.

Four other members of the legation staff in addition to himself would stay in Ottawa in private life, he added.

Dr. Nemec said the military attache, the chancellor and a messenger were the only three who would continue to take orders from the Russian-dominated government that has taken over their homeland. Walking out with him are Dr. Vladimir Moudry, first secretary, Dr. Karel Bala, commercial attache, and two women who are minor members of the staff

Once an underground fighter against the Germans, Dr Nemec happily announced his resignation to a press conference and said the reason was that "I do not agree with the methods by which the new government has been formed. . . . I was, am and

Costa Rica Chief Jailed

Charged With Complicity In 2 Deaths

SAN JOSE, Costa Rica, March 3—(AP).—Otilio Ulate Blanco, whose election as Costa Rica's President was voided by Congress Monday, was behind bars today, charged with complicity in the killing of two customs guards.

Ironically, his arrest was personally directed by the War Minister, Gen. Rene Picado Michalski, who supported Ulate during the turbulent Feb. 8 elections. He is a brother of the present President, Licencido Teodoro Picado Michalski.

Army troops arrested Ulate and six political lieutenants in a private home here last night. Ulate, a Costa Rican newspaper publisher, had been sought since the customs guards were shot Monday night when they tried to enter the home of Carlos Valverde.

Valverde, a newly-elected parliamentary deputy and follower of Ulate, was critically wounded.

Police said Ulate was known to have used Valverde's home as a hide-out after the elections touched off rioting in this central American republic.

Three choices had been given Ulate at his arrest, Picado said. He was allowed to choose between taking refuge in the Venezuelan Embassy, accepting house arrest while his followers were jailed, or going to an army jail with them.

"I prefer to stay with my friends who have been loyal to me," Picado said Ulate told him.

Ulate's arrest climaxed elections which resulted in wild rioting in San Jose, charges of fraud in the balloting, and high political tension.

Congress annulled Ulate's election Monday by a vote of 27 to 19, unholding claims of "scandalous fraud" brought by Ulate's government - backed opponent, former President Rafael Calderon Guardia.

Finn Leader Impatient Over Delay

Political Groups Slow To Reply On Stalin Treaty

HELSINKI, March 3 — (AP)— President Juho Paasikivi was described by responsible sources to-day as growing impatient at parliament's delay in informing him of its views on a suggested military pact with Russia.

Political leaders are said to be in favor of negotiating on the pact, but emphasize that acceptance of Prime Minister Stalin's proposal would not necessarily follow.

The 78-year-old president, who has had years of experience in dealing with the Russians, was said to fear that undue delay might irritate them and destroy a favorable basis for negotiations.

Government circles said they thought Paasikivi might urge the parliamentary groups to-day to speed formulation of their attitude toward the pact. Stalin's letter proposing the agreement was handed to Paasikivi last Friday.

Parliamentary groups have spent hours discussing the proposed defence and mutual assistance pact plus its consequences for Finland. More such meetings are scheduled to-day.

Chairmen of the party blocs told reporters they had no intention of employing delaying tactics, but that the question was so serious it required careful consideration.

Conservative party papers condemned Communist - organized worker meetings in support of the pact as useless and extra-parliamentary tactics.

No demonstrations have been reported yet in Helsinki, but the Communist papers carried accounts of such meetings in small towns under the sponsorship of the far left "Popular Front" bloc.

The Popular Front was the first parliamentary bloc to send its recommendation to the president. It issued a statement last night urging acceptance of the pact.

Spokesmen for the three major parties in the government bloc indicated they feel that under the circumstances Finland must negotiate.

19 People Die In Plane Crash

LONDON, March 3 (CP)—An official inquiry began today into the cause of the crash in thick fog last night of a Dakota aircraft of the Belgian Sabena Air Line at Heathrow Airport here, in which 19 persons were killed.

Sabena and London airport officials inspected the wreckage and the pile of charred personal belongings which lay beside the broken plane as three important questions still remained unanswered:

1. Why did the pilot of the airliner, which had come from Brussels, attempt to land at London airport when other aircraft were being diverted to Blackbushe Airport in Surrey?

2. Why did the plane miss the Costly Cut-off

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP).—Hydro power was cut off; storekeeper George Papson lit a candle; a cat knocked over the candle; the store caught fire and the cat was burned to death. That's briefly what happened when Papson's dry goods store was gutted by fire today, following the regular morning power cutoff in his west-central Toronto district.

Protect Church When Voting Catholics Told

VATICAN CITY, March 3 — (AP).—The Sacred Consistorial Congregation of the Roman Catholic Church issued a decree today informing Catholics that they may vote only for candidates who will "respect and defend the rights of the Church."

(Vatican sources said the decree applies to Catholics throughout the world. The Pope himself serves as prefect of this congregation. Its members include James Cardinal McGuigan of Toronto and Francis Cardinal Spellman of New York.)

Throughout Italy Catholic prelates, following the lead of Alfredo Ildefonso Cardinal Schuster, immediately made clear that the decree precluded a vote by Catholics for Communist or Extreme Left candidates. The Consistorial Congregation is the high legislative and administrative body of the Church.

A pastoral letter by Cardinal Schuster two weeks ago ordered priests on his diocese to refuse absolution of Communists.

The Cardinal's letter also warned Catholics that a vote for Communist candidates was "gravely illicit for the faithful."

The letter was attacked by the Extreme Left as a violation of Italy's electoral laws. There was a possibility that it might be discussed in today's session of a central committee of major political parties formed to help maintain an electoral truce for the April 18 elections.

Major Highways Open To Traffic

TORONTO, March 3 (CP)—All major Ontario roads were open to traffic this morning, the highways department reported, following snowstorms of the past days which deposited as much as 14 inches in some districts. Most roads were snow-packed and Highway 12, north from Whitby was described as "rough."

In the Galt area some north and south county roads were blocked with drifting snow carried by an east wind but all main arteries were open.

Weather was clear and cold throughout southern and central Ontario this morning and the weatherman's forecast for the next two days was "clear and crisp."

Heavy snowfalls which during the past few days paralyzed provincial traffic seemed to be at an end.

Develop Oil Resources MP's Request

Future Fuel Supply Uncertain Members Declare

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP). — The Commons yesterday heard requests from the Liberal and the Progressive Conservative benches that the government undertake the development of Canadian oil resources to ensure the country a continuing supply of fuel.

The suggestion was advanced during the throne speech debate by Donald Brown (L — Essex West) and N. J. M. Lockhart (PC —Lincoln) as they pointed to growing gas and fuel oil shortages across the country indicating possibly greater scarcity in the future.

Speakers included J. L. Gibson (Ind—Comox-Alberni), Dr. W. G. Blair (PC — Lanark), Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), Garfield Case (PC—Grey North), Rev. J. H. Matthews (CCF—Kootenay East), Joseph Blanchette (L—Compton) and T. V. Grant (L—Kings).

External Affairs Minister St. Laurent said the government is considering what action to take with regard to the $1,400,000 remaining from the $12,000,000 Canadian credit extended to Czechoslovakia, site of a Communist coup last week.

Health Minister Martin said the question of whether new old age pension and national health insurance legislation will be introduced at this session is a matter of government policy which will be announced in due course.

As the throne speech debate continued, Mr. Hamel dealt with national unity and said that while the two main races in Canada had the same conception of this country, they did not give the same significance to Canadian citizenship.

He held that the English-speaking minority received equal rights in Quebec but that French-speaking Canadians did not receive similar treatment in the other provinces.

Mr. Brown touched on the natural gas shortage in western Ontario and urged the government to appropriate money to expand the development of gas and oil resources and to investigate the possibilities of producing oil from coal. The United States government already was seeking oil and fuel substitutes.

Mr. Lockhart, calling for a government declaration on a national fuel policy, said that if the United States decided to shut off shipments of oil to Canada, this country would be "in an awful pickle."

Mr. Gibson urged the government to enlarge the increase recently announced in pensions of disabled veterans and widows by another $10,000,000 and called for a stronger defence of free enterprise against charges being made in the chamber by C.C.F. members.

Nazi Testifies Against British Officer

HANOVER, Germany, March 3 —(Reuters).—Dr. Horst Mahnke, a former SS man, testified today he was punched and burned with lighted cigarets during a 10-hour interrogation at the Bad Nenndorf camp in the British zone of Germany.

Mahnke was the first witness at today's resumed court-martial of Lieut. Richard Oliver Langham of the British Royal Armored Corps, who is accused of "disgraceful conduct" at the camp.

The trial began yesterday after a case against Capt. F. E. Edmunds, formerly of the British intelligence corps, had been dropped following a ruling by the Lord Chief Justice in the British courts on the validity of proceedings against officers who had been demobilized.

Mahnke said he was arrested by the British security service on Jan. 28, 1946, and after a brief period in an American interrogation camp was taken on April 11 to Bad Nenndorf.

He added that shortly after going to sleep that night, he was awakened and taken to an interrogation pen where he met three British officers—Edmunds, Langham and a Captain Van Rije.

Mahnke said his first long interrogation began at 2 p.m. on April 18, 1946, when a number of soldiers entered his cell and ordered him to strip naked. He said he was compelled to run around the interrogation cell with uplifted hands, punched in different parts of his body and lighted cigarets were placed against his flesh.

When Langham arrived, he said, "I could hardly stand and I was bleeding in several places. I replied to Lieutenant Langham's question whether I wanted to confess by saying I had nothing to confess and did not want to incriminate myself by telling falsehoods in order to put an end to this treatment."

Thereafter, he said, the treatment was continued by between four and seven soldiers.

Many Buried In Debris Of Buildings

Ten Other Arabs Killed Tuesday In Judean Hills

HAIFA, Palestine, March 3.—(AP).— A dynamite-laden truck which police said was planned by the Jewish underground Stern gang exploded in an Arab residential district today, killing 11 Arabs and wounding 27.

The police announcement said "many children" were included in the casualties. The explosion occurred near the Central police station.

The blast wrecked the seven-storey Salameh building and shook the whole Haifa port area.

Force of the detonation crumpled the front half of a building housing the Arab section of the government welfare office, and shattered the front of another house.

Eye-witnesses said two army-type trucks came up the street. They said the leading one was driven by a man in Arab dress who parked the vehicle by the Salameh building.

The driver left the truck and got into the second machine. The witnesses said it carried four men in uniform apparently acting as an escort.

The escort truck rolled away and "a short time later there was a terrific boom."

Army bulldozers and rescue workers dug into a litter of rocks and plaster, fearing other victims might be buried.

Jewish sources said the Stern gang declared the attack was aimed at the Salameh building because it housed Arab military headquarters.

Bursts of heavy sniper fire crackled through the district.

MANY BURIED

12-Hour Storm Does Little Harm

Snow that drove across the district from 8 a.m. Monday for the following 12 hours put a 4¾-inch blanket over average surfaces and whipped into drifts, making heavy going on city streets and main highways. Snowplows were busy through the night and transport operators report heavy going as far south as Welcome but trucks came through on schedule. Bus terminal officials report ¾-hour delayed on buses coming in from Port Hope and Lindsay and points east on Number 7.

Weather forecast, valid until midnight Wednesday, seem to be out of kilter somewhat as last night's snowstorm is supposed to have dribbled out into snow flurries lasting through the day. Instead, the conditions are CAVU, in weatherman's parlance, ceiling and visibility unlimited.

Minister Knows Nothing Of Charge

HALIFAX, March 3 — (CP). — Rev. Frank Lawson of Halifax, Moderator of the Halifax-Lunenburg Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, declined comment today on a charge by the Cape Breton Presbytery that he had violated "the confession of faith of the Presbyterian Church."

He said he had neither heard the charge nor seen it in the newspapers.

H. B. McCurdy, Sydney, N.S., lay member of the Presbytery, said the large laid against Mr. Lawson arose from his "denial of the virgin birth of our Lord which is a violation of the confession of faith of the Presbyterian Church."

Mr. Lawson is pastor of St. David's Church in Halifax.

The charge will be dealt with by the general assembly of the church in Toronto in June, Mr. McCurdy said.

He said the charge was based on "documented evidence" from the Kitchener Record, a Canadian Press dispatch "which appeared in the press" and Rev. Gerald L. Stover of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago.

Tighten Defences Against Communism

Reaction Similar To That Of 1938 When Hitler Started Assault

By DEWITT MACKENZIE.

The revulsion of the non-Communist countries of Europe to the Bolshevist rape of Czechoslovakia is reminiscent of the violent reaction to Hitler's assault on that same little republic 10 years ago as he got his conquest off Europe under way—both reminiscent and significant.

Toward the close of 1938 I arrived in London looking for the solution of an important problem. This was after I had attended the Munich conference, followed Hitler into Czechoslovakia, and made a grand swing of the Balkans and back through Italy and France to England. I sought out a distinguished British source and placed my problem before him:

"I sense a decided hardening of the British and French attitude toward Germany, but I can't put my finger on it. I shall be grateful if you will tell me whether I am right and, if so, what that hardening means."

"You are quite right," he replied. "We have decided that appeasement goes out the window. We shall use our armies if necessary."

The Right Idea

That was to say, of course, that the two powers would use their armies to keep Hitler in hand if he started a rampage. It was the right idea, but a couple of years too late.

Now with the Communizing of Czechoslovakia we have reached a crucial point in a fresh world conquest which the democracies have been trying to halt by appeasement. The first reaction to the Red assault on the small democracy was the joint note of condemnation by the United States, Britain, and France. This has been followed by a wave of anti-Soviet sentiment which has swept Scandinavia.

At the same time there has been a sudden decision to speed up the implementation of Foreign Secretary Bevin's proposal for a "Western Union" of Europe. England, France and the so-called Benelux countries—Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg — scheduled to meet tomorrow in Brussels to begin discussion of this project. Under Bevin's plan these countries would serve as the nucleus of a larger grouping of Western European democracies.

Consolidation for Benefit

In short, this would provide for a consolidation of Western Europe for mutual benefit which would include defence against Bolshevist aggression.

eBanwhile Turkey, another strategically situated country upon which Moscow has trained its big guns, has erupted into action. Fifty-six alleged Communists went on trial yesterday in Istanbul charged with forming a society to "establish the supremacy of one class over another."

This is part of a general anti-Communist house-cleaning which was started more than a year ago.

So we are witnessing an all-around tightening of the defences against Bolshevism in Europe. It not only is encouraging, but gives definite promise that the line can be held against the Reds if appeasement is discarded.

,000 More Men To Be Hired By Hydro In '48

TORONTO, March 3.—(CP).—W. Ross Strike, second vice-chairman of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission of Ontario told delegates to the annual meeting of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association yesterday that no cause for alarm existed during the current power shortage.

Mr. Strike, resident of Bowmanville and past president of the organization, said the province was bothered with a seasonal problem that was aggravated by light rainfall last autumn.

The meeting of the Electric Association is being held in conjunction wtih the Association of Municipal Electric Utilities. A major item on the agenda is consideration of an Ontario government proposal to convert 25-cycle areas of the province to 60-cycle power.

Mr. Strike saaid materials had been exceedingly difficult to obtain during the war years and the post-war years and that "seasonal difficulties for a year or two" would continue to be a bother to Ontario consumers.

He was followed by R. L. Hearn, general manager and chief engineer of the Hydro-Electric Power Commission, who told the meeting the Commission will "move forward with confidence and vigor" during the coming year. He said the budget for 1948 was almost double the expenditure of 1947.

Projects already undertaken to expand the Hydro-Electric system —and those in the planning stage —amounted to $320,000,000 he said.

The commission will need 6,000 to 7,000 more employees to carry out its 1948 program, said the general manager. In 1947, number of employees increased from 9,000 to 13,000.

A. W. Manby, assistant general manager for administration, attributed the electricity shortage to the fact sub-normal rainfall in the central part of Canada had reduced the potential both in Quebec and Ontario.

He said his department was watching closely the breakup of ice in Lake Erie because ice floes could cause extreme damage at the dams.

Officers whose names will be proposed at today's sessions are:

President, J. E. Teckoe, Jr., Galt; vice president, J. C. Keith, Windsor; directors elected from the membership at large, V. A. McKillop, London; R. S. Reynolds, Chatham; O. H. Scott, Belleville.

Others named are: Niagara district, E. M. Ashworth, Toronto; Georgian Bay district, R. Butter of Owen Sound; Central Ontario, Royal Quick, Brighton; Eastern, M. W. Rogers, Carleton Place; Northern, H. R. Martindale, Sudbury.

Firemen Answered 34 Alarms In 2 Months

LINDSAY, March 3 (ENS)—So far in 1948, the number of fires in Lindsay has more than doubled over that of the same period last year, according to Fire Chief Clifford Campbell. Firemen have answered 34 calls here during January and February as compared with 15 last year. Of the 34 all but 8 have been chimney fires. He said fire damage in Lindsay during 1947 amounted to more than $40,000.

Polish Treasures Seized Political Intrigue Revived

OTTAWA, March 3—(CP).—A tangled mass of political intrigue has been revived here with confirmation of a report that the Polish treasure, a $1,000,000 mystery since their disappearance in 1946, have been seized by the Quebec government.

The report, about which Quebec Premier Duplessis declined to comment, is that his government "impounded" the ancient tapestries, goblets and swords from their convent hiding-place in Quebec City and will retain them "pending a decision as to ownership."

Federal Government sources confirmed the report and said a statement may be made to-day. An official announcement may also be made to the Quebec Legislature.

Dr. Alfred Fiderkiewicz, former Polish Minister to Caanda, who first disclosed the treasures' disappearance, has himself been swallowed up in their confused story, repléte with a romantic password, a mysterious "man with a tumor," and old-world political jealousies.

One report late last fall was that he smuggled himself into Italy after "jumping" the Polish foreign service and was living there while awaiting transportation to the United States, where he practised medicine before the war.

From the start, the treasure trouble seemed rooted in politics —an undisguised rift between the Poles of wartime government-in-exile and representatives of the present Communist regime.

Dr. Fiederkiewicz admitted "politics is behind all this." He said Dr. Waclaw Babinski, his predecessor as Polish Minister in Ottawa, was one of the men responsible for taking the treasures from wartime hiding-places in a shrine at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que., and the Precious Blood Convent here.

Others he named were "The man with a tumor behind his ear"—identified later as Joseph Polkowski, a legation employee before Communist domination of Poland—and Adam Zurowski, a former First Secretary.

Polkowski, quiet-spoken middle aged architect accused by Dr. Fiderkiewicz of being "the man with a tumor" who used the password "Holy Virgin of Czestochowa" to get treasures from the Ottawa convent, denied the allegation.

Zurowski, the third man named by Dr. Fiderkiewicz, could not be traced at the time of the disappearance.

The treasures, chiefly tapestries made in the 16th century for the royal castle of Wawel in Cracow, were spirited into France shortly after Germany invaded Poland in September, 1939. As France collapsed in June, 1940, they were transported to Britain and then to Canada.

Custodians at that time were Dr. Stanislaus Swier-Zaleski, official keeper of the Cracow collection—and Polkowski.

In March and May, 1945, two treasure-laden trunks were removed to a downtown Ottawa bank, 24 to St. Anne de Beaupre and eight to the Ottawa convent. The two are still in the bank.

When Dr. Fiderkiewicz told his story to Lester B. Pearson, undersecretary of state for external affairs, more than a year ago, the reply was that Canada accepted no responsibility because the Dominion never agreed to take charge of the treasures.

But the external affairs department said it would "consider whether any help could appropriately be given in this matter."

For months there was no development. Last October a Polish foreign official disclosed his government had formally asked Canada to turn the treasure mystery over to the RCMP.

An unidentified Ottawa lawyer was reported about that time to have entered the picture as representative of persons who knew where the treasures were hidden. The lawyer, according to the Polish foreign office official, wished to reach some agreement with the Polish government.

The conditions:

1. That the treasures be put on exhibition in Canada and not be returned to Poland for five years. At the end of that time the question of their return would be reconsidered for final decision.

Pre-War Pomp To Mark Opening

TORONTO, March 3.—A partial return to the pomp of pre-war legislature session openings will mark the appearance at Queen's Park today of Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson to read the throne speech at the fourth session of Ontario's 22nd Legislature.

The Lieutenant-Governor will be escorted to the Parliament Buildings by a five-jeep escort of the Royal Canadian Dragoons.

A 15-gun salute will herald his arrival after which Lt.-Gov. Lawson will inspect a guard of honor.

The throne speech, touching off what is expected to be a short if not uneventful session, is understood to promise legislation dealing with such measures as milk price reduction, establishment of a provincial labor code, the changeover in southern Ontario from 25 to 60-cycle hydro power and civil service salaries.

In the benches of the red-carpeted chambers will be the 66 Progressive Conservative members of Premier Drew's government, 11 Liberals, eight CCF'ers, two Liberal Labor members, two representatives of the Labor Progressive party and one Labor member.

The privilege of moving the address in reply to the throne speech, which usually goes to one of the new members, will be given to Thomas Pryde, recently-elected Progressive Conservative representative of Huron. The monument maker from Exeter will take his seat for the first time.

The reply will be seconded by William E. Hamilton, Wellington South Progressive Conservative.

Quits At Washington

WASHINGTON, March 3 (AP). —Juraj Slavik, Czech ambassador to the United States, resigned his post today to "fight for a free Czechoslovakia."

Slavik announced at the embassy that he is sending his formal resignation to the new Communist-led government at Prague.

He said he also is informing the United States state department of his action.

At a news conference, Slavik said he is convinced that Dr. Eduard Benes, Czechoslovak president, was under "duress and terror" when he agreed to formation of the new Communist government headed by Premier Klement Gottwald.

Coroner Probes Death Of Railroadman

LINDSAY, March 3—(ENS)—"Accidental death" was the verdict returned Tuesday night by a coroner's jury probing the death of George Wilson, 64-year-old CNR section foreman, who was killed Feb. 17 while working in the Lindsay freight yards. The jury recommended "that the safety division of the CNR give special attention to safety practices that will afford definite protection to this type of employee."

Wilson was killed while working on a siding on which three box cars were standing. When a fourth car was shunted onto the siding Wilson was crushed between the nearest car and a nearby loading ramp. Dr. M. F. White, railway physician said Wilson died of a crushed chest, hemmorhage and shock. His left arm and right hand were also broken.

Ed Thibadeau, section man working with the deceased at the time, said at the hearing that they had been working about three feet from the nearest standing car. CNR roadmaster Gerald Sauder said company regulations specified that no one should work on a track when closer than 10 feet to a standing car.

Mindful Of Safety Rules

"We teach section men to be mindful of safety first," Mr. Sauder pointed out, "and according to rules Wilson and Thibadeau shouldn't have been where they were. Wilson should have told the crew of the yard engine to move the standing cars." However, he added that it was "common practice" for section men to not bother having cars moved.

Gilmore Saunders, engineer of the shunter, said the cars which had been run into the siding had to travel about 1,000 feet before reaching the standing cars. Saunders told Crown Attorney L. W. Jordan there was nothing in regulations against letting a railway car roll under its own momentum, adding that it was not his responsibility when or where the cars went. That, he said, was up to yard foreman Ralph Donaldson.

Donaldson told the court that rules said no car must be disconnected from the engine if going more than four miles per hour. He said he did not believe this particular car was going any faster. "Yet it would roll 1,000 feet at that speed?" Mr. Jordan asked. "Yes, on that particular grade it would," Donaldson replied. He added that there were no regulations concerning how far a car might roll by itself. The yard foreman said he had not been able to see the standing cars because others on different tracks had obstructed his view. Continuing, he said repair men are allowed to put a blue flag when they are working on a track and on the erection of this flag no box cars may be shunted into the track. But, he said, no such precautionary measure is taken for section men.

Yardmaster William Piercy said that crews of yard engines are not obliged to give warning when about to cut cars onto sidings. He added that no yardman is required to be on a moving car.

Coroner Dr. W. Crowe had charge of the hearing.

Nab 2 Gunmen In Bank Hold-up

MONTREAL, March 3 — (CP). — Two bandits, one wounded, were captured yesterday when they held up a bank at l'Ange Gardien, near Quebec City, where police set up a trap, while in Montreal police continued the search for two gunmen who abandoned a bullet-riddled automobile after staging two holdups within 55 minutes.

At l'Ange Gardien, 10 miles from Quebec City, police kept a two-day vigil following a tip that the bank would be robbed. After the pair entered the bank, police opened fire when one youth, B. Vezina, 20, refused to drop his gun.

The second bandit, P. E. Cauchon, surrendered without a fight and was booked in police cells while Vezina was taken to hospital in Quebec.

Near Montreal, two other gunmen successfully held up the Banque Provinciale du Canada at Boucherville, six miles from Montreal, and the Bank of Commerce at Chambly-Basin, 20 miles from Boucherville. Total loot was about $3,900.

The gunmen first went to the Boucherville bank where they locked two women employees in the vault and rifled the tills.

Fifty minutes later, while police cruisers were converging on the area, two men walked into the Chambly Basin bank and forced the manager and two employees to line up against the wall. They escaped with the contents of the teller's cage.

Bank manager J. O. Galipeault, however, emptied his revolver at the moving auto.

Four bullet holes were found on the back of the car when police recovered it on a lonely road near St. Hyacinthe. The auto had been stolen in Montreal.

Vatican Moves To Care For Ruthenian Group

VATICAN CITY, March 3. — (CP)—Pope Pius, through decrees of the congregation for the Eastern Church, set up two new exarchates for Ruthenian Catholics in Canada and named bishops to head them.

Previously there had been only one exarchate for Canadian Ruthenians. The Ruthenians emigrated to Canada many years ago, mostly from sections of Austria and Hungary. They frequently have been urged to join the Russian Orthodox Church.

One new exarchate has been set up for Western Canada, with the place of residence at Edmonton. Msgr. Nilo N. Savaryn, titular bishop of Jos, will be the apostolic exarch. An exarch is the provincial administrator.

The second exarchate, for eastern Canada, will have its residence at Toronto, with Rev. Isidor Borecky, parhocial priest of St. Catharine, as exarch. He has been elevated to titular Bishop of Amathus in Palestine.

The old exarchate which previously had ruled for all Ruthenians in Canada, becomes the exarchate for Central Canada, with residence at Winnipeg. Msgr. Vladmir Ladyka, heretofore Apostolic Exarch for all Canadian Ruthenians, remains in charge.

The Vatican's action was considered significant in light of the Roman Catholic Church's recent difficulties with Russia over Ruthenian Catholics in Eastern Europe.

Engineer Dies In Train Wreck

LEVIS, Que., March 3 — (CP). — Strained and weary expressions showed on the faces of passengers on the Maritime Express when it arrived here last night, nine hours late after a derailment at an isolated station which cost the life of its engineer.

Arthur Boucher, 63-year-old Canadian National Railways employee of Riviere du Loup, who was to retire shortly, died in the cab of his engine when it left the track and rolled over after plowing through an open switch at St. Andre in Kamouraska County. The tender and a freight car also left the track and rolled over.

A mail attendant — who did not wish his name used — said the other nine cars, including the baggage, mail and passenger coaches also jumped the rails but remained upright.

Steel mallets were used to break through twisted pipes in the engine cab to reach the body of the engineer, buried three feet under the snow.

Abbe Gerard Belanger of nearby Lauzon, a passenger, administered the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church before Boucher's body was freed after more than one hour of work.

The Express, due at St. Andre at 11:30 a.m., derailed several hundred yards short of the station where it was to have taken a siding from the main line.

Industry Saves Coal By Tons!

The engineers at Johns-Manville have made an interesting study. They summed up the overall fuel savings due to all Johns-Manville Insulations now serving industry. They figured these insulations saved thousands of tons of coal in one year. And insulations not only cut fuel waste but also made possible the accurate control of heat which is so necessary in all manufacturing processes.

There's a J-M Insulation made to solve every heat problem anywhere from 400° below zero to 2600° above. And back of this ability to meet every insulation need is Johns-Manville's 90 years' experience in every conceivable type of insulation work.

If you have an insulation problem in your plant, get in touch with Johns-Manville, 199 Bay St., Toronto.

CNR Action "Ridiculous": Cobourg Mayor

COBOURG, March 3—(ENS). —"Ridiculous" commented Mayor Joe Smith at the council meeting here when a letter from the CNR was read in regard to council's request for more adequate protection at the Ontario Street level crossing, scene of a fatality last November.

A letter from the CPR said that the company would be willing to pay its share of a watchman from 7 a.m. until midnight. At present a watchman is on from 7 a.m. until 8 p.m.

The communication from the CNR said that a survey of traffic made on January 8, this year, revealed only 33 vehicles from 8 p.m. until midnight and that traffic conditions did not warrant further protection.

"That is a very unfair way in which the CNR has dealt with it. They make the survey at a time of the year when there is little traffic and disregard the fact that heavy tourist traffic at night goes over this street to Rice Lake in the summer. It is ridiculous," said the Mayor.

The matter was deferred pending an inspection of the situation by company representatives, the Board of Transport Commission and town representatives at a date to be announced later by the Commission.

Arthur Terry, speaking on behalf of the Cobourg Orange Lodge, told council that July 12 would be celebrated at Cobourg this year and he asked that the Lodge be granted the usual street concession and help from the streets employees in putting up decorations. Permission was granted.

Permission was granted the Northumberland Music Festival for use of the town hall on the dates of the festival, May 26 to 29. A by-law was passed covering the period of Daylight Saving Time from April 25 to Sept. 26.

Councillors G. Galbraith and J. Erskine and town engineer were appointed a committee to confer with construction, electrical and plumbing contractors with the view of drafting a building by-law. Mayor Smith pointed out that this was a very complex by-law and that several months would have to be taken in preparing it.

Keene Eliminated In Rural League

NORWOOD, March 3 (ENS)—Warsaw eliminated Keene from the play-offs Tuesday night in Norwood Arena. The score was 3-0. Keene played their old brand of hockey and the game was interesting from start to finish. There was poor refereeing, but even Archie Weir cannot see everything. There were four penalties and one goal in the first. It was late in this period that Ted McCarthy was all but mowed under when he went in on goal, and he was allowed a penalty shot.

The line-ups:

Keene — Goal, Musgrave; defence, W. Thompson and Adamson; centre, Ted McCarthy; wings J. Wright and D. Whalen; alternates, J. Mackness, Blair Thomson, H. Kempt, G. Hawkes.

Warsaw— Goal, Patterson; defence, Simpson and G. Payne; centre, S. Lonsberry; wings, Paterson and E. Payne; alternates, L. Lonsberry, Don Sharpe, Doug Evans, Joe Watts, Ivan Watts.

Referee—Archie Weir. Linesman, Vic Brown, who did a good job of refereeing in Norwood last week.

The summary:

First Period

Warsaw, I Watts (J. Watts) 11:10

Penalties—Doug Evans, Simpson, Thomson, Mackness.

Second Period

Warsaw, Doug Evans 12:15

No penalties.

Third Period

Warsaw, L. Lonsberry (Joe Watts, Paterson) 13:20

Penalty—G. Payne.

Things Getting Pretty Hot In Germany Daughter Tells Mother In Telephone Call

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3 — (ENS). — "Things are getting pretty hot here. I may be home soon." From Munich, Germany, this trans-Atlantic phone message came to Mrs. Frank DeCarrol, Rear St., from her daughter, Mrs. George Nelson.

In the three-minute conversation, Mrs. Nelson, wife of an American Army Air Force Flight Captain, did not have time to explain her statement—there are other things a mother and daughter like to talk about. Because of Communist aggression, the belief is, perhaps all is not harmony in the occupied zone of Germany.

Mrs. Nelson has been in the American zone with her husband for about a year and a half. His term of service in the occupation force terminates in 1950.

Mumps Don't Slump Still Lead The List

COBOURG, March 3 (ENS)—Eighty-one cases of communicable diseases were reported for the week ending February 28, it is reported by the Northumberland and Durham Counties Health Unit. Chickenpox totalled 7; German measles 2; red measles 13, mumps 56 and scarlet fever 3.

The Song Is Wrong

PEORIA, Ill., March 3—(AP).—A Methodist missionary to the Congo yesterday took issue with a popular song—the one about the African native who wants no neon signs or atom bombs. "There is just as much civilization in the Congo as there is in Peoria," Bishop Newell S. Booth, presiding Bishop of the African Congo, said in an interview. He said Elizabethville, Belgian Congo, where he is stationed, is a city of 102,000 population with all the refinements of an American city of that size, "including drugstores and apartment houses."

Cobourg Taxes Up 6 Mills Need $39,000 Above '47

COBOURG, March 3 (ENS). — The boost of six mills in Cobourg's tax rate is naturally being received with a noticeable lack of joy in Cobourg, although the general feeting of the ratepayers is that there is nothing that can be done about it.

This year's estimates reveal that total uncontrollable estimates are $123,268.71, as compared with $115,096.78 last year. Collegiate estimates were $13,533.22 in 1947 and are $16,848.11 this year. Public school estimates were $33,-284.49 last year and $37,462.94 this year.

Controllable expenditures are estimated at $126,619.16 for 1948; last year the total was $95,839.57. Total to be raised by taxes in 1948 amounts to $249,887.87, while in 1947 the amount was $210,-936.35.

There was a big jump in the highways and streets this year, the estimated expenditure being $48,098.00 as compared with $24,-361.65 in 1947. Committee expenditures for protection to persons and property are estimated at $29,733.00. Last year the total of this committee was $24,928.00. Health and sanitation estimates are $7,400.00, as compared with $6,240.00 last year. The industrial committee estimates this year are cut from $500 to $250. In the finance committee, salary estimates are $7,400; last year the total was $6,600. Sundry items total $12,150 for 1948 as compared with $10,-800 last year. In the grants, the Chamber of Commerce took a cut from $2,000 to $750. Total grants are $3,935.00 as compared with $4,800 in 1947. Estimated sundry revenue is $33,504.98. Last year the sundry revenue totalled $21,-943.69. This year there is an estimated road grant from the Dept. of Highways of $12,511.20.

Condon Scoffs At Accusations In Atomic Field

WASHINGTON, March 3. (AP) —Public hearings to expand its charge that Dr. Edward U. Condon is "one of the weakest links in our atomic security" may be ordered by the un-American activities committee.

The 46-year-old director of the National Bureau of Standards, which tests some of the government's biggest scientific secrets, scoffed at the accusation. To finance its work for the rest of this year, the committee is asking for $200,000 — double last year's fund. The House of Representatives administration committee met today to vote on the request and perhaps bring it before the House for approval.

Robert E. Stripling, chief investigator for the un-American activities group, relayed word to reporters from Chairman J. Parnell Thomas (Rep. NJ), that:

1. Commerce Department loyalty records on Condon will be subpoenaed today.

2. These may be used for public hearings.

3. Even if Condon is loyal — and the committee has no evidence he is not—he still could be indiscreet. And from a security standpoint Thomas thinks it makes little difference.

The Commerce Department Loyalty Board was reported by under-secretary William C. Foster to have found no reason to believe Condon is disloyal to the United States.

Thomas is in a hospital here with a stomach ailment. A subcommittee had said in a report Monday that Condon "knowingly or unknowingly entertained and associated" with alleged Soviet spies.

It recommended that he be "removed" or that Commerce Secretary Harriman issue a statement on "the reasons why he has retained Dr. Condon in view of the derogatory information which he has had before him."

CONDON SCOFFS — Dr. Edward U. Condon, prominent U.S. atomic scientist, who was cleared by his government superiors recently of consorting with Soviet spies. However, the accusations were made against him by a House un-American activities subcommittee, claims he has associated either knowingly or unknowingly with American Communists and alleged Russian agents.

Annual Hobby Show Held In Campbellford

CAMPBELLFORD, March 3 — (ENS)—If Tuesday was a true indication, the atmosphere of the Public Library will be changed for the next two weeks for the annual Hobby Show is on.

This year there are many more contributors, said the librarian, Miss Lillian Benor, hence the display is more varied and interesting than last year.

Painting and ceramics seem to be the most popular hobbies but wood carvings, stamp collections, sea shell works, clay models, woodwork, knitting and lace, fishing flies, paper flowers and etchings take a prominent place in the display.

Infantile paralysis first appeared in Norway and Sweden.

Canada And E.R.P.

The American Senate Foreign Relations Committee has recommended an initial appropriation of $5,300,000,000 for the first year of operation of the European recovery program. The Americans expect that about two billions of that will be spent on commodities produced outside the United States, chiefly by Canada and Latin America. They also expect countries of the western hemisphere, other than the U.S.—and again they mean chiefly Canada and Latin America—to contribute some seven hundred million dollars to E.R.P.

• • •

The Americans are showing a just regard for Canada's financial and economic position, as well as respect for what Canada has already done to aid Europe. The trade benefit from American monies spent in Canada for E.R.P. goods will bolster our overseas trade though, unless rationing is introduced or our domestic consumption cut down in other ways, there is a possibility that Canada's resources and production will be unable to cope with the supply demands of E.R.P. The money that the U.S. Senate Committee is expecting Canada to contribute to the program is a relatively modest sum. The Committee's report states that "to rely on any larger amount would be unrealistic in view of the present dollar exchange difficulties of Canada and certain other American countries".

• • •

There has been scattered American comment to the effect that Canada and its taxpayers are getting off lightly in comparison with the U.S. and its people from whose pockets the billions for E.R.P. must come. It has been said that the "people of Canada refuse to assume part of the burden in international reconstruction" and that too many American E.R.P. dollars are going to be spent in Canada. An outstanding American political and economic commentator, Walter Lippman, has generously defended the Canadian position.

For the truth is that, man for man, family for family, taxpayer for taxpayer, the Canadians have borne a heavier part of the burden of European reconstruction than we have. Though the Canadian population is only one-twelfth as large as the American, though the Canadian national income is only one-eighteenth as large as ours, the Canadian contribution to European reconstruction is one-fifth as large as ours.

Comparisons are invidious. But there is nothing in the record which entitles any one in this country to talk down to the Canadians. Measured in money, measured in terms of their political and diplomatic contribution during the postwar period, the record of the Canadians is something to look up to. They have been, as Mr. Wrong (the Canadian Ambassador to Washington) said, "at the head of the line in giving assistance to Europe".

The Canadian people have indeed nothing to be ashamed of in their past assistance to Europe. And, as Mr. Lippmann has also said: "They have done their full share thus far, and there is no question at all of their refusing to continue. The question is solely and simply their ability to continue".

Mr. Fraser On The Trans-Canada Highway

Last week Mr. G. K. Fraser, M.P. for Peterborough West, took part in the debate on the Speech from the Throne. He spoke about housing, pointing out that the Peterborough City Council had contracted for 200 houses for veterans, under the Federal Government scheme; he spoke about the Film Board; he spoke about the Trans-Canada Highway.

Mr. Fraser emphasized the dollar value of a good Trans-Canada Highway; it would be a tourist avenue along which Americans could scatter their dollars, so precious to our economy. He suggested that the highway be provided with camping spots and picnic tables. These are good suggestions, and now in various sections of the Trans-Canada Highway, for instance in spots up the Fraser canyon in British Columbia and around Banff, such amenities are provided. The first thing, as Mr. Fraser well realizes, is to provide a paved, all-weather road from coast to coast.

The prime reason for having a paved, all-weather Trans-Canada Highway is not to cater to tourists or to give our own people access to the beauties of the Lake Superior country and the Rockies. It is needed as a military highway. Our only lateral defence arteries now are the railways which are inadequate and vulnerable in times of modern war.

For this reason, the Dominion Government should make itself responsible not only for building the road-bed, but for surfacing and maintaining a coast-to-coast highway. Work now in progress on the Trans-Canada Highway in remote areas like Northern Ontario, the interior of B.C. and Vancouver Island is not being done fast enough. There is not sufficient realization at Ottawa of the need, nor sufficient co-operation between the various provinces and the Federal Government. Province-proud, self-seeking British Columbians will of course take an inch and want a mile. They would like the Dominion Government to build not only the main highway, but secondary highways leading into it. In other words, they would like to see their province opened up to motor traffic at the expense of the whole country. We think, however, that if the Trans-Canada road is properly surfaced and maintained by the Federal Government, the various Provincial electorates will demand that their respective Governments provide the arteries to it.

A Rose By Any Other Name . . .

The Canadian Army has given a name to the recent war, an official name to be used by its historians, analysts and clerks. It shall be called "The Second World War".

When the time has arrived to give a name to an event it is indicative that the event has passed its apogee—like a child a week old. It is a thing to be surveyed. The baby has ceased to be an exciting "It"; it must bear a name and take its place under that name in the workaday world. True, names may have been conjured up for it during the gestation period, but very often these names do not suit the fair or ugly duckling which comes into being as an historical fact. 'Daphne' becomes 'Martha', 'William' becomes 'Wilhelmina'. President Roosevelt gave the late war the name "The War of Common Peoples" or some such. The name has not been popularly accepted—somehow, post-war conditions make that humane name incongruous.

We are relieved that Canada has officially rejected the ugly term "World War II"; "The Second World War" is at least not jargon. It is, however, rather an extensive sort of name. Can there be a second without a first? Will our people be forgetful of the term "The Great War"? Was the first war a "World War"; In Canadian, in English minds, was the late war a world conflict? The adjective "German" seems more appropriate. We suspect that historians a century hence will look upon the 1914-1918 affair and the 1939-1945 affair as two bouts of the same fray, and will refer to them in the English tongue, though without assessing blame and guilt thereby, as "The First German War" and "The Second German War". Let us not be too bombastically global about naming our wars; the greatest may be yet to come. Readers of the Examiner a century hence please take note of these prognostications.

In Its Second Century

We have just received the 101st edition of The Canadian Almanac & directory, a volume which we hold in highest esteem, and without which our work during 1948 would be markedly more laborious. In a newspaper more than anywhere else, constant checking of names, addresses, titles, figures and similar details is necessary if any semblance of accuracy is to be maintained; if we did not have the Almanac to help us we should have to keep at least twenty other books on our shelves, and even then we would not have all the information which this single volume comprises.

Last year we congratulated the Copp Clark Company on having published the Almanac for a century; this year they set out on a new century of Almanacs, and we can assure them that so long as newspapers are published the Almanac will be as obligatory a piece of equipment as a dictionary in every newspaper office.

The Marylebone Cricket Club ('Lords') is making certain revisions in its rules after 160 years. "This shows", says the Communist London paper, the Daily Worker, "that the game is still growing and capable of further development, which, from a Marxist point of view, is noteworthy". WEEKLY BOOK REVIEW

A New Study Of Sexual Behaviour

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

IN this review and in the one which follows it I wish to deal at some length with the ... which is already widely known as "the Kinsey Report" and which is more properly called "Sexual Behaviour In The Human Male", by Kinsey, Pomeroy and Martin. It is a book of revolutionary implications, and it should be widely read. In a Foreword the publishers say: "This book is intended primarily for workers in the fields of medicine, biology, psychology, sociology, anthropology and allied sciences, and for teachers, social workers, personnel officers, law enforcement groups and others concerned with the direction of human behaviour". Is there anyone who is not concerned with the direction of human behaviour? Offhand I cannot think of any such person, nor can I imagine any sane adult who would not be enlightened and benefited by reading this book.

✧ ✧ ✧

THERE have, of course, been many studies of sexual behaviour, some of which are of great value. But there has never been a study undertaken from the point of view adopted by the workers on the Kinsey Report, or incorporating such a large quantity of material collected from so many sources. The data in this book are based upon personal interviews with twelve thousand American males from every state in the U.S.A. The size of such an undertaking can be realized when we recall that Havelock Ellis' great "Studies in The Psychology of Sex" were based upon about three hundred cases, some of which Ellis had not seen personally. The point of view, also, is of deepest interest, for Kinsey, Pomeroy and Martin and their assistants determined to find out "what people do sexually, and what factors account for differences in sexual behaviour among individuals, and among various segments of the population".

✧ ✧ ✧

THE emphasis is laid upon what people actually do—not upon what is considered right or what others may wish that they did not do. In a compactly written book the authors insist several times that theirs is "a report on what people do, which raises no question of what they should do, or what kinds of people do it". And in a most significant passage they say: "Nothing has done more to block the free investigation of sexual behaviour than the almost universal acceptance, even among scientists, of certain aspects of that behaviour as normal, and of other aspects of that behaviour as abnormal. The similarity of distinctions between the terms normal and abnormal, and the terms right and wrong, amply demonstrates the philosophic, religious and cultural origins of these concepts; and the ready acceptance of those distinctions among scientific men may provide the basis for one of the severest criticisms which subsequent generations can make of the scientific quality of nineteenth and early twentieth century scientists".

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Kinsey Report is made by means of a taxonomic approach to the problem of sexual behaviour. This is best defined in the words of the book itself: "Modern taxonomy is the product of an increasing awareness among biologists of the uniqueness of individuals, and of the wide range of variation which may occur in any population of individuals. The taxonomist is, therefore, primarily concerned with the measurement of variation in series of individuals which stand as representatives of the species in which he is interested". And the authors continue, at another point: "To the taxonomist the day seems overdue when scientists studying human material will forsake barbershop techniques and attempt to secure some taxonomic understanding of the human population". This is a somewhat unfair statement in a book which is otherwise a model of scientific scruple. The approach of such a man as Havelock Ellis, based upon his own wide knowledge of mankind and his unusual endowments of sympathy and intuition, cannot be called "a barbershop technique", nor can its results be brushed aside. Kinsey and his associates, working on their subject by a new principle and with remarkable results, do not supplant the psychologists who went before them.

✧ ✧ ✧

IN the care and extensiveness of their investigations, however, they are models. This study is the result of nine years of work, and personal interviews requiring about two hours each, with over twelve thousand males (and I say males rather than men, for a great many boys and children were included in the group). Of these interviews Dr. Kinsey himself took 7,036. Kinsey is professor of zoology at Indiana University, Dr. Pomeroy is a clinical psychologist, and Clyde E. Martin is a statistician. Among them they have produced a book which, I repeat, is revolutionary in its implications. I shall continue this discussion of it next Wednesday.

A Dissonant Note

The storm that was brewing round the heads of the leading Soviet composers has now broken. The central committee of the Communist party has issued a decree denouncing Prokofiev, Shostakovich, Shebalin, and Myaskovsky (whom the highbrows considered a bit conservative) as cacophonous, formalistic, and unintelligible to the people.

The Communist party insists that there is to be no more sophisticated wallowing in harmonies unfit for consumption by the human ear. Let music sing; let music be melodious. There has been enough of the subjective tuneless musical "philosophising" by Shostakovich, enough of the ultra-highbrow sonatas by Prokofiev. They may be adored by a small set, but the people cannot be bothered with them.

Knocking down of idols has never frightened the Communist party, especially those idols who, as the decree says, strongly savour of the decay of Western and American music. Those critics who had in the past charitably discovered Socialist realism in Prokofiev's Fifth Symphony have, it now seems, been talking through their hat.—Alexander Werth in Manchester Guardian.

Letters To The Editor

NOT TOO MUCH "CANADIAN"

Sir: I have just seen Time's quotation from one of your recent editorials. It is well phrased. I envy you the ability to put into words so many thoughts I have felt but cannot express so neatly.

Another phase I would like your comments on is the assumption that we should like anything and everything which can be referred to as Canadian Art—just because it is Canadian. Personally I think singing off pitch stinks in any language and in any nationality. To be told, directly or by inference that I should enjoy a horrible play because it is Canadian has just the same effect as being told I should like lettuce because it's good for me.

Sincerely,
CHAS. P. TUCK.

A NATION OF JOINERS

Sir: The advice given in your editorial "Canada—A Nation Of Joiners" is so much better than the commonsense variety that you will likely be quoted by other papers.

Time magazine March 1st in "For Art's Sake" has quoted a recent Peterborough Examiner editorial that deserves attention.

About thirty-six years ago I rebelled against seeking or willingly accepting membership in any organization, but your editorial of February 24 is the first statement that I have read that seems to completely support my rebel convictions. About a year ago, over the radio, Walter Winchell advised "Don't Join Anything." That is good advice.

I have expressed my approval of the action of a few Masters at some large institutions of learning who, in the past, have viewed rhetoric as a perverse Art and banned it from the curriculum.

We elect representatives to various government jobs, to regulate and direct our social activities for the good of all citizens; the result of their efforts is not satisfactory, so we are induced to join every other political, religious, industrial and fraternal organization that we can afford. The results are about the same all-around, but we pay each set of schemers and keep them all on the job. Organization tends to develop dictatorial powers, and effectively prevents co-operation of mankind on a reasoning level of intelligence.

With slogans implying that everybody benefits, we have chased from the streets the few pandhandlers, and have developed begging into high pressure, big-business organizations.

The largest item of various national budgets is still earmarked for spending on action that tends to perpetuate the very evils we would like to remedy.

W. H. ROSEBUSH.

Judges Look For Jobs

Forty British judges, "sacked" by India and Pakistan from posts worth up to £6,000 a year, are looking for jobs. Some will have to return to Britain as junior counsel.

They are members of the former judiciary of India, and have been told by the two new Dominions: "We won't be wanting British judges any more." Four are chief justices.

No alternative posts have been found for them in Britain, and no arrangements yet made to compensate them, but the Lord Chancellor, Lord Jowitt, is considering the position with the Commonwealth Relations Office.

First to return from India after resigning his post as Chief Justice of Bombay is Sir Leonard Stone who said: "This has taken the Commonwealth Relations Office by surprise.

"Arrangements for us must have been overlooked on the understanding that the two new Dominions would still require British judges. But it has been made quite clear to all of us that we are not wanted any more."—London Daily Mail.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And Pilate, when he had called together the chief priests and the rulers and the people, said unto them, Ye have brought this man unto me, as one that perverteth the people: and, behold, I, having examined him before you, have found no fault in this man touching those things where of ye accuse him . . . . And they were instant with loud voices, requiring that he might be crucified. And the voices of them and of the chief priests prevailed . . . .

And when they were come to the place, which is called Calvary, there they crucified him, and the malefactors, one on the right hand, and the other on the left. (Luke 23: 13, 14, 23, 33.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Now when Jesus was risen early the first day of the week, he appeared first to Mary Magdalene, out of whom he had cast seven devils . . . . After that he appeared in another form unto two of them, as they walked, and went into the country . . . Afterward he appeared unto the eleven as they sat at meat, and upbraided them with their unbelief and hardness of heart, because they believed not them which had seen him after he was risen.

And he said unto them, Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature . . . .

So then after the Lord had spoken unto them, he was received up into heaven, and sat on the right hand of God. (Mark 16: 9, 12, 14, 15, 19.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Dodson had never played golf before, but he had real beginner's luck when he drove off. The ball flew straight to the green, trickled across it, then dropped into the hole.

At his very first attempt the novice had realized the ambition of every golfer; but he did not seem excited.

His next drive was almost as good. Again the ball landed on the green, but this time it stopped short a few inches from the hole.

Dodson turned apologetically to his partner.

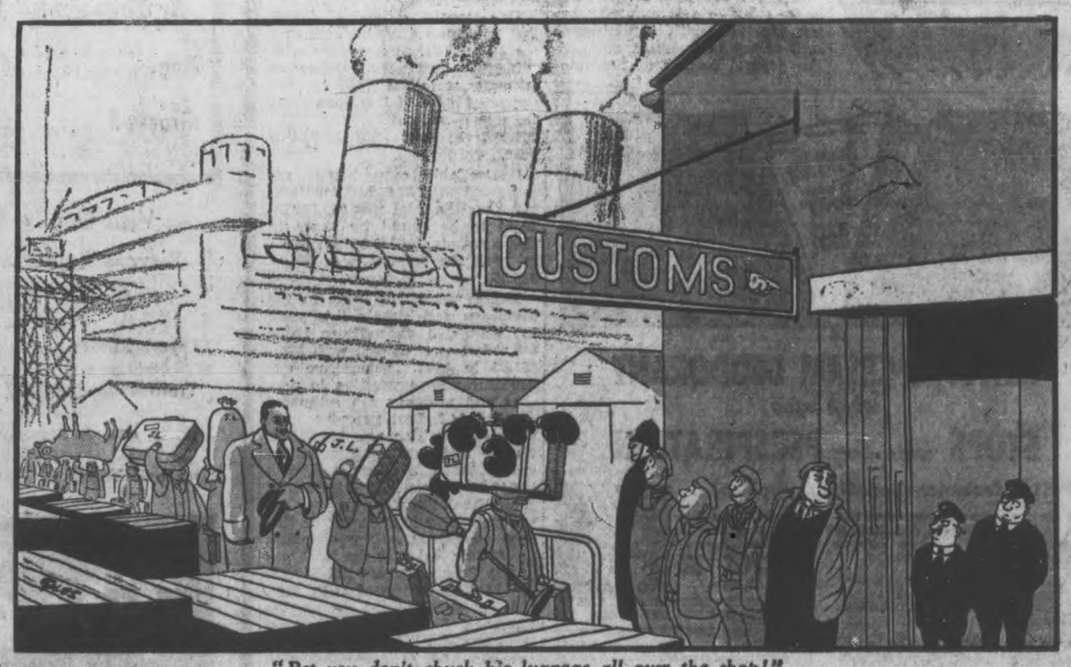
"How silly of me!" he exclaimed. "I've missed it!"

✧ ✧ ✧

"I suppose," said the recruit to his new chum, "you used to do big things in civil life?"

"I did that," was the answer. "I had a job washing elephants at the zoo."

✧ ✧ ✧



An American film producer was selecting a chief for his scenario staff. The producer insisted that the successful applicant must be a college graduate. He looked with favour upon one applicant and asked if he had had a college education. The answer was in the affirmative.

"Show me your diplomas," demanded the producer.

The applicant tried to explain that it was not customary for college graduates to carry diplomas around with them.

"Well, then," demanded the producer with a slight sneer, "say me a big word."

CUTTING A RUG — The Gatti-Hallicrafters' expedition to the Mountains of the Moon has its lighter moments. This is one of them at Kwale, Kenya Colony, B.E.A., that came when a howling mob of natives "invaded" the expedition camp to hand over the "keys of the Veldt." The welcome consisted mostly of dancing by the dusky men and maids, with much giggling. Commander Attilio Gatti, leader of the expedition, stands with one of the girl dancers here. William D. were referred to earlier by Douglas Harkness (PC-Calgary East), a critic of the appointment. He said one report was that the appointment had been cancelled.

Mr. Bland explained the board made an "interim finding" but no final decision.

Dr. Keenleyside said in his statement that a false impression had been created that E. P. Randle, Indian agent at the Six Nations Reserve near Brantford, was recommended for the executive assistant appointment and "deprived" of it.

"None of this is true. Mr. Randle was never, at any time, recommended for this appointment by either the commission or the department. There was never, at any time, the slightest chance of his being appointed. He did not stand second in the competition (for the appointment). He was eighth."

Blame West Powers For Jap Aggression

TOKYO March 3—(AP)—Japan's war aggression today was blamed on forces set in motion by the French Revolution.

Dr. Somei Uzawa, 75-year-old lawyer-philosopher, made that plea today in opening final defence arguments for Hideki Tojo and 24 co-defendants against major war crimes charges.

"The Japanese were a peaceful race living within their islands until forced from their self-imposed seclusion by the western powers," he declared.

Drew Disputes Statement On Hong Kong By Premier

TORONTO, March 3—(CP).—Premier Drew of Ontario said last night that "in seeking to convey the impression that he was unaware of the threat of early war in the Pacific prior to the departure of the Hong Kong force in October, 1941," Prime Minister Mackenzie King "is simply piling falsehood on falsehood."

The Premier was commenting in statement on Mr. King's denial in the House of Commons at Ottawa yesterday that neither he nor the Canadian Government knew, before the sailing of the Canadian Hong Kong expedition in 1941, that war was imminent in the Pacific.

Mr. King said "that both before and after the expendition sailed and, indeed until the verv eve of the Japanese attack, such information as I received from the British authorities was to the effect that an early attack upon Hong Kong was not anticipated."

But Premier Drew's statement said: "The despatches to which he refers left no doubt of the threat of war. They were open to no other interpretation. That was the interpretation placed upon them by Major Power (former Canadian air minister C. G. Power) who was the acting minister of national defence at the time of the departure of the Hong Kong force.

"This is what he said about these despatches in his evidence before the commission: (The royal commission inquiring into circumstances surrounding the departure of the Hong Kong force) 'I felt, perhaps without any sound basis except having read these despatches, that there was a very good chance of war breaking out with Japan.'

"That was the reason Mr. King was informed personally before the ship left that in addition to the escort already arranged to accompany the Awatea from Vancouver, a cruiser escort would be provided from Manila to Hong Kong because of the 'altered circumstances' in the Pacific.

"That is the main reason he is still doing all he can to hide the terrible truth."

Quake Shakes Island

BATAVIA, March 3—(AP)—The Meteorological Institute received a message today from Piroe, Ceran Island, saying several heavy earth shocks were felt there yesterday.

No damage or casualties were reported.

The telegram said it was believed the 'quakes occurred far below the earth's surface and possibly under the sea.

Deputy Minister Angry Over News Leak

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP) — The joint Senate-Commons committee on Indian Affairs was told today that no final decision has been made on the controversial appointment of W. J. F. Pratt as general executive assistant in the Indian Affairs branch of the Resource Department.

This statement was made by C. H. Bland head of the Civil Service Commission, one of four civil servants called by the committee in its investigation of charges of "political" appointments to the Indian Affairs branch of the department.

Mr. Pratt is private secretary to Resources Minister Glen.

Another of the witnesses, Dr. H. L. Keenleyside, deputy Resources minister, said:

"I make no apologies for (twice) recommending that Mr. Pratt be appointed...I only regret that action has been so long delayed and that this fine officer should have been subjected to the indignities of the last two weeks."

Dr. Keenleyside said he believes "the most serious aspect of the recent developments in this case" was the disclosure to a newspaper man of "confidential information—including a document from a civil service file."

"It is quite clear that on two different occasions a person in a position to know what was being done or discussed in connection with the appointment has made confidential information—including a document from a civil service file—available to a represenaitve of the press...

"Until the person responsible for this outrageous act of bad faith has been located and named—and this should not be a very difficult task—everyone else connected with the case will be unjustly under suspicion."

ANXIOUS: "I am a girl of 17, of average looks but have a lot of thin hairs above the lip that look very out of place. How can I get rid of them?"

No one need have a little moustache these days. Either wax or paste depilatories will remove the unwanted fuzz. Just one caution—follow the directions explicitly. Hydrogen peroxide applied faithfully will bleach and weaken the hair. There is also the electrolysis method but if I were your age I should try one of the other methods first.

TRAVEL TECHNIQUE: "Our family (two adults and two children) are driving to Vancouver by way of the States. We know we should have our birth certificates. I was born in Alberta. Where do I send for mine and what is the charge? How about the children? Where will we get maps? What about our dog? Will a certificate of health let him into the States?"

Lucky family to have such a trip in front of you! For your own birth certificate, send to the Registrar General, Department of Vital Statistics, Edmonton, Alberta. The cost is $1. The children's certificates may be obtained from the Registrar of Birth, Parliament Buildings, Toronto. Cost is $1.50. Maps of Canada can be got from the Canadian Tourist Bureau, Ottawa. Your dog will be admitted with a Certificate of Inoculation, covering a six month period, from your Veterinarian.

DESIGNS: "Where in Toronto can I learn to paint those attractive designs one sees on canisters, trays, etc.? What would the lessons cost?"

There are night classes in Art at both the Technical schools and the Ontario College of Art. Cost per term at the Technical schools is $5; at the College of Art is $15 or $25. The courses are tremendously interesting. You would learn a lot more than design.

MUSHROOMS: "What is the food value of mushrooms?"

Mushrooms are more than an agreeable flavor. Good mushrooms are a source of protein. Experts count their food value high.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

CEC. PERDUE, Sports Editor

That classy CGE soccer squad has re-organized for the year with these officers elected: President, Alec McKinlay; vice-presidents, Bill Grubb and E. G. Hardie; secretary-treasurer, Stan Howden; coach and manager, Jack McMaster; committee, Scotty Rickard, Ben McMaster, Jack Burns, Tom McPhate and Jim Quinn. Honorary officers are: I. F. McRae, W. Barnacal and J. E. Girven. Anyone interested in playing football, known as the soccer variety on this continent, should contact any of the club officials. This invitation is extended particularly to employees recently arrived from the British Isles. Several such players were a big help to a successful CGE club season last year.

* * * * * *

March sees the beginning of re-organization meetings for the various summer sports. Local gridders already have started things—and their game doesn't go till autumn. Men softballers got a start last gloaming, and other such sessions are on tap. Yeah, before hockey, basketball, skiing, etc., bow off the wintry scene, the summer sports begin timid robin-like peeps which give way in April to a regular chorus on coming events of warmer weather. It doesn't hurt to get an early start as there's usually lots to be done along the re-organization line if a successful season is to commence about early May. A number of meetings are generally required in each line of sport.

They're At It Again!

And tonight, mes hockey-minded amis, it will be Legionnaires and the Petes in another dogfight on Omemee ice. Third game of their OHA senior "B" group finals, and each club has one victory to date. Going by the law of averages, with each team winning on "home" ice, it should be the Petes' turn this time — though Legion could pull an upset if they fly like they did in Lindsay on Monday. Still, the Creighton crew is tough to take in Omemee, having a three-year undefeated record there. The only sure thing is that it'll be another sizzler and should jam-pack the place as these worthy rivals fight it out from start to finish.

* * * * * *

While these senior "B" all-local finals are drawing a flock of Peterborough fans, the crowds are nothing to what they'd be in a city arena. Interest is quite keen and both good squads have their own large local followings of fans, not to mention the many district rooters who are also het up at the action produced. At this time of year it could be that little more hockey will be seen around these parts—which is a shame as the classy Petes and scrappy Legions are really giving folks first-class exciting hockey. While playing for keeps. We'd like to see it go the limit, and it might at that. And, as that pompous N'Yawk fight announcer puts it: "May the better one emerge victorious!"

* * * * * *

They Want A Rink, Too

Trent Valley League puck finals start tonight with Norwood playing Marmora in Madoc, next game being in Norwood on Friday. The men o' Marmora led the loop and the good Norwood team will have to hustle like all getout if they want that TVL title. They might do it at that. Fans and players in Marmora don't like the idea of having to play "home" games in another rink, and they're after a covered rink in Marmora for next winter. Village Chamber of Commerce has appointed a committee to go into the matter thoroughly and something may come of it shortly. A pity to be playing all games away, especially when you have a winning club. (Look who's talking — the only city in the area and it a rinkless one!)

* * * * * *

Despite the snowstorm, a pretty good turnout started the men's softball circuit off at the annual meeting last e'en in the YMCA. The 1948 slate of officers is: President, Pat Calladine; vice-prexy, Fred Griffin; secretary, Bert Bailey; treasurer, Dave Leether; committee, Fred Scates, George Dormer, Jack Playford, Percy Harrison and Elmer O'Donoghue. OASA convention delegates are the president, secretary and Harold Dormer. They'll boost for Fred Griffin on the Ontario executive. Jack Russelle's suspension will be dealt with March 25. They want to amend a ruling to read "15 per cent" instead of "20 per cent" of the take in playoff games. Some of the prospective entries mentioned were: Knights, De Laval, Legion, B-A, and Keene. Next meeting in about a month.

Maybe COBL Revived

And Eddie Murphy is calling an open meeting of senior baseball fans, players and others interested for this Saturday aft at two in the YMCA. To see what's what in the senior diamond setup here for this year. Belleville interests have been after Eddie to help revive the Central Ontario Baseball League, promising a Quinte entry. Haven't heard anything yet from Oshawa or Kingston—nor any of the lakeshore towns—but something constructive may come out of those centres ere spring is far advanced. With no pro ball in Peterborough this year, a senior squad is definitely indicated, as well as the big minor setup. So, interested folks are urged to attend the open meeting this Saturday afternoon.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla., March 3 — (AP). — It isn't exactly a novelty for a pitcher to switch to the outfield, although pitchers traditionally are weak hitters. But it does seem strange when a guy who wants to make the change encounters stiff resistance.....Zebulon V. Eaton, Jr., who is trying to place in the Jr., who is trying for a place in the Philadelphia Athletic infield, had that happen to him....

"I wanted to play the outfield in 1946 when the Tigers sent me to Buffalo," Zeb explains. "They wouldn't let me, so I had to wait until last year at Birmingham. Of course I had filled in for a game or so before then when somebody was out."....Eaton, who pitched in 17 games for the Tigers in 1945, did all right once they let him make the change...

He was going strong when he was hit on the head by a pitched ball and injured so badly he did not get into uniform again until last Monday. But that .358 batting average for the Barons does not look bad when compared to some the A's compiled last summer.

Personal Opinion

The New York papers reveal that some sniping against Eddie Eagan's point system of judging fights still is being carried on.... This traveller recently witnessed the big fracas in Miami, and, during the preliminaries, had a chance to see the 10-7 point system favored by the National Boxing Association.....One judge awarded 10 points to each boxer in six rounds of a 10-rounder, comemnting, "I guess that round was about even".....The other four were scored 10-9 in favor of the guy who obviously was winning by a mile....Seems it ain't the system—it's the guy who uses it.

Expect McCready To Remove Hood At Brock Tonight

Tonight's the night for the Earl McCready-Masked Marvel match with no-time-limit and winner-take-all conditions. The masked wrestler has had quite a run of wins but he has been fairly lucky in several bouts and McCready looks to be the most likely man to beat him. The winner gets both purses and the loser will have his night's tugging and twisting for nothing. If the Marvel loses he must un-mask and reveal the face that has caused tremendous speculation. If he should turn out to be any one of the guesses of well-known wrestlers that have been seen here it will add still more to the satisfaction of the fans.

Cleveland Has Won 18 Games In Row

By The Canadian Press

Cleveland Barons today are within one game of tying the American Hockey League record for most games won without a loss set by Pittsburgh Hornets last year when Wasps waltzed through 19 straight games before tasting defeat.

The Barons last night boosted their undefeated string to 18 by edging Philadelphia Rockets 6-5. The triumph gave the red-hot Barons a three-point edge over Pittsburgh in the race for the western leadership.

At Hershey, the Bears moved a notch nearer the playoff territory by downing Springfield 6-1.

At St. Louis, Providence scored their first victory on St. Louis ice 6-3 and in so doing, clinched at least a tie for first place in the eastern section.

Tonight sees Providence at Buffalo, Springfield at Philadelphia and Cleveland at Pittsburgh.

Sundridge Up One Goal On Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, March 3—(ENS)—Sundridge edged out a 6-5 OMHA bantam "C" win over Lakefield Sea Scouts on Sundridge ice last night in the first of their two-game provincial semi-final series. Return game, with goals to count, will be at eight p.m. in Lakefield on Friday, and this time the Sundridge squad will have to make the long 194-mile trip. It was the first defeat for the Sea Scouts in 14 games.

The tilt was fast and tight throughout with the score seesawing and never more than a goal's difference. It was tied with two minutes left of the third stanza. Lakefield had an edge in play with Smith stopping two goals to one for Wingett. "Three Goals" Gordie Coyle kept up his quota with three and his teammates were cheated often by Smith's fine net-minding. The fast forwards of the homesters rode them right in all the time. Gleeson got three for Sundridge with McCrary their playmakers and sparkplug, going nearly 60 minutes for Coach Bucko McDonald's bunch. The teams:

Lakefield: Goal, Wingett; defence, Pearson and Pue; centre, Twist; wings, Coyle and Sloan; alternates, N. Wasson, Wilson, Heffernan, Hunter, Spencer, Mathews and Brown.

Sundridge: Goal, Smith; defence, Daub and Purdon; centre, McCrary; wings, Allard and Gleeson; alternates, Johnstone, Ulrich, Gaudar, Percival, Hill, Anderson and Paul.

Referee—G. Hamilton, of Huntsville; linesman, G. Rennie of Sundirdge.

Curling News

By Herb Martin

In the year 1921, two local rinks skipped by R. Best and J. McDermid won the Ontario District Cup championship. In the two previous years, 1919 and 1920, the same two skips were runners-up in the finals of the same competition. Our records show that during these three years of play in the District Cup games: R. Best won 14, tied 1, lost 2; J. McDermid won 7, tied 2, lost 9. As it was a two-rink affair, total points counted.

In 1919 they lost the final game to Toronto High Park. In 1920 lost the final to Toronto Queen City, and then in 1921 they finally won the cup. Their opponents in the final game were Orillia.

This piece of curling history might be interesting to many of the old timers. Hanging up in the club parlors is the picture of the two rinks that won the District Cup in 1921. As far as we know six of the eight are still curling. T. O. Donaldson has retired from the game and W. D. Campbell has passed on.

M. Cruthers, A. Archibald, W. Campbell, R. Best, skip.

C. Weber, J. W. Fraser, T. Donaldson, J. W. McDermid, skip.

Tonight we begin the first round of the play-offs of the group winners of the second schedule.

PICTON, March 3—(CP)—All signs here point to an early spring despite the recent heavy snowfall. Reports from the Point Traverse district of Prince Edward County say that a domesticated skunk has awakened from its winter sleep and that robins and crows have been seen.

15-Mile Swim Sponsored By The Legion

When the second annual 15-mile marathon swim gets under way at the YMCA on Monday, March 8, many of the city's leading swimmers will be taking part. The event is sponsored by the Peterborough branch of the Canadian Legion and the swimmer who finishes the distance in the fastest time will be the holder of the Canadian Legion Trophy for the year. There will also be suitable awards presented by the Legion to the three fastest swimmers, and a medal will be given to all others who finish the course.

Men in this competitive section will be required to swim in periods of 30 minutes' duration without stopping along the way and will be given until April 10 to do the 1,320 lengths of the pool.

Crests Given

Another section of the swim will permit entrants to do as much or as little swimming each time in the pool and to stop as often as they wish. All those completing the distance in this manner will receive a marathon swim crest.

Last year's winner, Jack Forbes, will be in again to try for two straight wins but will be up against stiff competition from Donald Campbell, second place last year; Ken Stacey, Frank Wright, Gordon Buck and several others.

Emphasis will be placed on the non-competitive group who will receive coaching along the route and some substantial improvement is looked for in the swimming of all who take part.

Voice-Training Machine

EDMONTON — (CP) — St. Stephen's Theological College of the University of Alberta uses a large recording machine to train the voices of students for the ministry. The machine's primary purpose is to perfect enunciation and voice delivery.

Centres Win, 51-37

Fast play featured the opening of the City Basketball League schedule in the YMCA when Bill Jones' Centres beat Teddy Payne's Toilers by a 51-37 count. The shooting was generally good on both sides with zone defences tried by the opponents. Ability to shoot from outside ran up the score. Don Griffin scored 17 points for the winners with Vic Griffin having 10. Payne led the losers with 16 points, including running one-handers from mid-court. The teams:

Centres.—D. Griffin 17, H. Grafstein 2, E. Smith 7, V. Griffin 10, H. Dinsdale 8, A. Lee 5, B. Thomson 2.

Toilers.—F. Hill, H. Hempstead 66, A. Nortcott 3, H. Djbben 3, D. Dibben 1, T. Payne 16, S. Sargeant 2, B. Manbeck 6.

Quebec Aces Win

By The Canadian Press

Fourth-place Quebec Aces took an easy 4-1 victory over sixth-place New York Rovers in the lone scheduled Quebec Senior Hockey League game last night.

Laval Poulin scored two of the Quebec markers while Guy Labrie and Joe Petit each added one. Hub Foster counted New York's only goal in the first period.

Officials statistics released last night showed that Pete Morin of Montreal Royals is a shoo-in for the individual Q.S.H.L. scoring crown, with 85 points made up of 32 goals and 53 assists. Nine points behind is Ralph (Bucky) Buchanan of Shawinigan Falls with 76 points.

Pat Calladine Is Prexy Softball Loop

Pat Calladine was returned as president of the City Softball League last night at the annual meeting held in the YMCA with a good representation on hand. Fred Griffin is vice-president, Bert Bailey secretary and Dave Leether treasurer. Executive committee includes: Fred Scates, George Dormer, Jack Playford, Percy Harrison and Elmer O'Donoghue.

Delegates named to the annual OASA convention in Kingston are: Pat Calladine, Bert Bailey and Harold Dormer. The league nominated Fred Griffin for the OASA executive, and will seek to have the ruling whereby the OASA gets 20 per cent of playoff gates amended to read 15 per cent. The president suggested enlarging the local league and also getting a PA system for Bowl games. The treasurer presented his report showing the league enjoyed its best year in 1947, though higher expenses meant a smaller balance than the previous year.

No entries were accepted at this meeting but among those mentioned as prospective entries were: De Laval, Knights of Columbus, Legion, B-A, and Keene. It was thought that six teams would make an ideal setup this season. An executive meeting will be held shortly after the annual OASA convention.

Speedy Rangers Vanquish Leafs In Sizzling Game At New York

By DON HUNT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

While most hockey eyes were focused on the reported betting "scandal" probe in Detroit, the third place New York Rangers partially stole the spotlight last night by dusting off the league-leading Toronto Maple Leafs 1-0 in a rough-and-tough contest in Manhattan.

The loss left the Leafs still two points ahead of Detroit in the race for the top slot but Wings have a game in hand. With only three more weeks to go, it looks as though the battle will be decided on the final week-end when Toronto and Detroit have a home-and-home series. The triumph boosted Rangers into a six-point lead over the idle fourth-place Boston Bruins.

With the words of NHL prexy Clarence Campbell ringing in their ears, the Rangers played inspired hockey and put up a stone-wall defence in front of goalie Sugar Jim Henry. Campbell said earlier in Detroit that players on both Boston Bruins and New York Rangers were involved in the betting story and that evidence "warrants expulsion without doubt."

Henry, who spent Sunday night in hospital after a bruising encounter with Montreal Canadiens, played brilliantly in the New York nets and stopped several shots labelled for goals in registering a well-earned shutout.

Slick Edgar Laprade shared the hero role with Henry when he slapped in his own rebound past Turk Broda, Toronto's pudgy net-minder, at 5.35 of the first period. That goal was enough to give the Blueshirts their third victory of the season over Leafs in nine meetings, having lost four and tied two.

Fisticuffs broke out in the final stanza after a comparatively mild opening. Laprade and Toronto's Gus Mortson sparked the wild melee in which all players took part. Both Mortson and Laprade were given majors for fighting. They had hardly settled in the sin-bin when Bill Barilko and Phil Watson tangled at the Ranger end. Barilko, league "bad man" was given a two-minute charging penalty, while Watson went off for four minutes for charging and roughing.

A full slate of games is scheduled for tonight with first and last place at stake. Toronto plays host to the tail-end Montreal Canadiens and a win for the Leafs would strengthen their hold on top spot. However, the Habitants need the win if they still have any hopes of making the post-season Stanley Cup playoffs. A loss for the Frenchmen would just about write finis to their chances.

Rangers journey to Detroit in a game that could put Detroit back in a tie for first place if Montreal co-operates and wins too. In the other tilt, the fourth-place Bruins are hosts to Chicago, tied for last place with Canadiens.

Then on Thursday, Boston play Canadiens in Montreal in a game that will make or break the Habs.

Use Airplane To Reach Curling Games

By JACK AVESON.

WINNIPEG, March 3 (CP). — Manitoba curlers are generally recognized as the best in the Dominion. This state of affairs has been going on for a long time, and bonspiel records would indicate the fact.

Nor is it surprising, according to H. L. (Brandon Sun) Crawford, who explains that nothing can keep a Manitoba curler away from a game, not even blocked highways.

After all, there are always airplanes.

Crawford gives the story of Russ Richardson and his Brandon rink as an example. Last week they were playing in the Harding, Man., bonspiel and reached the fours of the grand challenge event. Then a heavy snowfall shut off the road, making the 30-mile trip to and from Brandon impossible.

The Richardson rink was in Brandon when the road was blocked and for a while did not know how to return to the bonspiel. Harding officials obligingly put off the semi-final games for a day, but could not extend the time any more.

Just when things looked darkest for the Brandon foursome a solution was found. They took to the air and flew to Harding, climaxing the trip by winning the grand challenge after two extra-end matches.

Clothes Make the Curler?

Tony (Winnipeg Tribune) Allan would be the last man to deny that Crawford is right in talking about the excellence of Manitoba curlers. But Allan isn't completely happy.

Sartorially he feels that curlers from Manitoba are slipping. During the recent Dominion High School bonspiel in Winnipeg the Manitoba entry wore, jumbo sweaters and felt hats. The other provinces, especially Saskatchewan, were dressed much more impressively, said the Tribune sports editor.

Nevertheless, it was the Manitoba rink that took the Canadian title among the collegians.

Norwood Puckists Defeat Westwood

NORWOOD, March 3 (ENS)—Norwood and Westwood have to play one more game. Norwood defeated them 4-3 in a good fight Norwood getting the three penalties handed out. Both had tough luck around the goal, missing a lot of good chances. Bedore and Edwards collided with each other. Bedore received a badly bruised nose. Parcels was hurt on the side of the head, but resumed play.

The line-ups:

Westwood — Goal, Renwick; defence, Shearer and Mortlock; centre, Thompson; wings, T. Woods and B. Warr; alternates, V. Warr, Morris, Bruce Graham, Les Sargent.

Norwood — Goal, Ralph Parcels; defence, G. L. Stackhouse and Jack Robson; centre, Don Bedore; wings, D. Andrews and Bob Edwards; alternates, Bay Webb, H. Scott, H. Rogers, T. Brown, L. Starke, A. Fairfield, K. Cuthbertson.

The summary:

First Period

Norwood, Don Bedore (Bay Webb) 10:30
Penalty—B. Webb.

Second Period

Norwood, Bedore (Edwards) 12:15

Girl Accountant

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP) — Accountancy may be a man's field but one local girl has made the grade. Anna Cecille Ratney was the only woman in a class of 84 graduating chartered accountants who received their diplomas yesterday from the Institute of Chartered Accountants.

WELCOME REDLEG - - By Jack Sords

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

Barbara Ann Scott yesterday said she won't accept the car given her as a tribute by Ottawa citizens last year when she won the world and European titles if it means losing her amateur status.

When told that Canadian citizens were wondering what she was going to do about the car and reminded that if she accepted it, it might mean dropping her amateur standing, she exclaimed: "Well, if it means that I am a professional if I take it, I guess I'll just give it a wave as I walk by."

Miss Scott is in London where she will give several exhibitions before returning home Sunday.

Oxford and Cambridge rowing eights are in final training for one of the biggest events of Britain's sport year—the "boat race."

The four-mile race is scheduled for March 27. Cambridge won last year's renewal by 10 lengths and the experts call the light-blue crew to repeat this season.

John Ahearne, general secretary of the British Ice Hockey Federation, yesterday announced a revised exhibition schedule for the RCAF Flyers to allow the Olympic hockey champions to sail for home by the end of the month. The schedule now calls for the Flyers to meet Wembley March 18 and Streatham March 20. The team then will play a series of games in Scotland before sailing.

Shortage of money is one of the main obstacles to a visit to Canada and the United States by Tommy Burns, Australian welterweight champion. Burns said in an interview at Sydney, Australia, yesterday, that he would not go to North America unless a match was already arranged before he left Australia. Unless this was done he might have to live there for several months without a dollar income.

Middleweight champion Rockey Graziano finally has found a place to fight again. Barred in New York State and frowned upon by various sectors of the National Boxing Association, the Washington, D.C., commission has granted him permission to meet George (Sonny) Horne of Valley Stream, N.Y., in a 10-round non-title fight there April 5.

It will be Graziano's first ring appearance since he won the title from Tony Zale in Chicago last July.

University of British Columbia Thunderbirds basketball team has entered the Collegiate section of the Canadian Olympic basketball trials. U.B.C. will probably play University of Alberta for the right to meet Saskatchewan and Manitoba. The western winner will meet the eastern Collegiate winner and the two senior champions in the Olympic tourney.

Connie Mack and his Philadelphia Athletics talked about beer yesterday. Mack, a tee-totaler himself, conceded that maybe one beer was all right but added: "Order it with your meal, and don't be afraid to have it in front of me. A lot of players are afraid to drink in front of the manager, so they go to their rooms and have three or four beers—and that's bad."

John Mitchell Ronning, 27-year-old St. Paul skier died at Iron Mountain, Mich., last night from injuries suffered in the Pine Mountain ski jumping tournament Sunday. Ronning, a Class "B" jumper, landed on his side during a leap and suffered fractured ribs. The attending physician said death was caused by lung collapse.

Elmer (Violent) Ray, No. 2 heavyweight contender, knocked out Willie Brown, New York City in two minutes 18 seconds of the fourth round of a scheduled 10-round fight at Miami, Fla., last night. The veteran Ray, who twice met challenger Joe Walcott, pumelled Brown almost at will.

Curling Enters Final Stages

CALGARY, Alta., March 3 — (CP). — Theo D'Amour's powerful British Columbia quartet faces its major test today as it tangles with the undefeated Northern Ontario foursome in the fifth round of the Canadian curling championship.

Following the afternoon draw, British Columbia, also unbeaten, is scheduled to meet Manitoba—the only other rink with an unblemished record—in the sixth round tonight.

With the championship riding on every rock, the two games are expected to draw the majority of the gallery. Manitoba is not scheduled to meet Northern Ontario until the eighth draw Thursday afternoon, but will have stern opposition this afternoon against the Nova Scotia entry which has broken even in their four games so far. Northern Ontario's other match today is against Alberta, winners of only one game.

While the "big three's" contests will hold the major interest, the other three games on the afternoon draw will not be lacking supporters. New Brunswick, with two victories and two losses, is favored to climb another notch when it takes on the winless Prince Edward Island four. The Alberta - Quebec and Ontario-Saskatchewan matches are expected to be close. All four rinks have won only one of their four games played.

Other games in the night draw sees Ontario pitted against Quebec; Prince Edward Island against Saskatchewan and New Brunswick against Nova Scotia.

Remember When—

Naishapur, chestnut colt from the Wilshire stable won the Tiajuana Derby and $30,100 at the Lower California race track 19 years ago today. Ridden by jockey C. E. Allen, Naishapur covered the mile and an eighth in 1:51 flat, to that time the second fastest time ever recorded. Carlaris ran the distance in 1:49 4/5 in 1926.

Horror Pictures On The Way Chaney Reports

By BOB THOMAS.

HOLLYWOOD, March 3 (AP) —Two of the screen's ablest boogy-men, Bela Lugosi and Lon Chaney, are planning projects to satisfy the most eager of horror fans.

Both are currently scaring the wits out of Abbott and Costello in "A. and C. Meet Frankenstein," and Lugosi reports that U-I is miulling two subjects based on his "Dracula" portrayal. "There is enough material in the original novel for half a dozen pictures," the Hungarian actor told me.

Chaney is organizing his own producing company with Curt Siodmak, top writer of gruesome scripts. They plan to create new characters "more horrible than any yet seen on the screen." I can hardly wait.

Too Contented

Alice Faye and Phil Harris made one of their rare public appearances at Kay Kyser's 10th anniversary dinner. Alice, who looks more beautiful than ever, told me she can't get excited about returning to films. She is too contented with her home and family. "Besides, they don't make pictures as good as they used to," she said. The only picture which might induce her return would be "Burlesque," but that has been earmarked for Betty Grable.

Walking Man

Ralph Edwards is glowing about his "walking man" contest, which has already brought in $1,000,000 to the heart campaign. The fund's entire goal had been $800,000. Ralph expects another quarter-million to come in this week, which will probably end the contest.

Robert Montgomery is having trouble locating a leading lady for "Come Be My Love," which he will produce, direct and star in. "Roz Russell would be ideal," he says, "but she is too tall for the role." He may settle for an unknown, but don't count on it.

Back to B.C.

Alexis Smith will go home to take in the Penticton, BC, Peach Festival March 18, after she finished "One Last Fling" (that's a picture).

Argos Sponsor Junior Series

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP).—Teddy Morris, coach of Toronto Argonauts in the Big Four, said last night that one of the top senior executives in the Ontario Rugby Football Union will resign next week-end to direct a new, independent junior rugby series in Ontario, sponsored by the Argonauts.

Morris, who said the executive wished to remain anonymous until the week-end, admitted the surprise move resulted from an indignation meeting held at London last Friday when representatives of junior teams voted to withdraw from the ORFU.

The withdrawal was prompted by what the teams felt was the league's poor manner of disposing of a junior playoff muddle of last autumn when Hamilton Wildcats were accused of using five over-age players. London flatly disagreed to accede to an ORFU request to replay a game with Wildcats with the Hamilton team dropping over-age players—and quit the loop.

Morris, who attended the London meeting Friday, said the Scullers will sponsor a series with groupings in Windsor, London, St. Catharines, Kitchener and Toronto "and all others who wish to enter."

He said each grouping will be granted $150 by Argos and "we expect the Canadian Rugby Union will add $150 to each grouping to help the cause."

BARBARA ANN IN PARIS—Barabara Ann Scott, Canada's Queen of the Ice, delighted Paris, France, with one of her incomparable skating exhibitions at the famous Palais des Spocts. Here Barbara is hard at practise early in the morning at the Palace which was filled to capacity in the evening.

NHL President Opens Gambling Probe

LANSING, Mich., March 3 — (AP). — Armed with evidence turned over to him by Michigan authorities, a full-scale investigation into reported gambling in hockey was launched to-day by the National Hockey League president, Clarence S. Campbell.

He said players of two NHL teams were implicated, with the indications, however, that the "gambling activities were of limited natures," the players were not named in the evidence.

But he added that it "warrants expulsions without a doubt."

Campbell was given the confidential information by Police Commissioner Harry S. Toy of Detroit on orders of Governor Kim Sigler following a conference of State, Detroit, and hockey officials here yesterday.

Campbell, following a private hasty examination of the material, said that it "does not indicate anything beyond what has already been described in the press."

He immediately arranged trips to Chicago, Boston and New York to "gather further information to support that which I have now received.

"As soon as I have made my own investigation I will make a full announcement," he said.

He agreed to report his findings to Sigler next Monday, adding he reserved the right to make suspensions any time he felt justified.

Campbell said that "nothing implicates the Chicago Black Hawks." He would not amplify this statement.

The Governor gave Campbell permission to talk to James Tamer, a gambler and convicted bank robber who was returned to Southern Michigan Prison last week as a parole violator.

The arrest of Tamer touched off the inquiry and brought to light charges that hockey players had placed bets on games. Toy said the evidence was obtained "by a new method which I would like to keep as a state secret. It was not an illegal method." The Police Commissioner declared there was no recording of a tapped telephone conversation as had been reported.

MAY BE LINKED TO HOCKEY SCANDAL—George Massau, cousin of James Tamer, key figure in the investigation into alleged hockey scandals uncovered in Detroit, is shown after his arrest in Detroit as a parol violator. Massau, who has a record of 59 arrests since 1920, is reputed to have been second in command of a five million-dollar numbers syndicate in the auto capital. Police refuse to say what connection, if any, he has with the purported gambling interests of cousin Tamer, who was jailed amid rumors that he accepted bets from hockey players on National Hockey League games. Detroit police commissioner Harry S. Toy made charges against three unidentified players, two with the Boston Bruins and one with the New York Rangers.

Curlers Nearing Final Games

HAMILTON, March 3 (CP). — Curlers got down to the eights in the Spectator Trophy, premier event on the Hamilton bonspiel program last night and expectations are that finalists will be declared some time today.

Of the eight left two are from Galt, two from Hamilton Thistles and one each from Gravenhurst, London, Hamilton Victorias and Orangeville.

George Murray and F. H. Smithers skipped the Galt rinks.

Favorite rinks suffered defeats in yesterday's play including Ross Tarlton's Thistles club crew. He ran into Smithers' hot Galt rink and was set down by even shots.

Soo Greyhounds Look Strong In Senior Loop

By The Canadian Press.

With the amateur hockey title hunt field narrowing with playoffs in both major amateur groups in Ontario — the Ontario Hockey Association and the Northern Ontario Hockey Association — fans are beginning to show more interest in game outcomes of both leagues.

No games were palyed last night in the OHA, but three playoff tilts appeared in the NOHA. In the senior loop the Sault Greyhounds went into a commanding two-game lead in their best of five semi-finals by defeating the Sudbury Sacred Heart College 6-3, and North Bay Black Hawks trounced McIntyre Macmen 6-1 in the other best-of-five semi-final series for their second straight win. Copper Cliff Redmen took a two-game lead in the best of seven junior finals by defeating Porcupine Combines 8-5.

The Sudbury Collegians had an edge in the first period with the period ending at 2-1. From there on the Sault crew took over and earned the three-goal victory margin.

Rangy Ron Lay paced the Greyhounds with three goals while Terry Biocchi, Husky Hodgson, and Mayer each counted once. Gino Zuliani, Harry Pearce and Fats Rogers were the Sudbury marksmen.

North Bay Black Hawks continued to upset the predicters by taking their second straight game from the highly-rated McIntyre Macmen. For almost 50 minutes of the game play was close. After that the Hawks rapped in four goals to take the game well in hand.

Scoring was well distributed, with Gene Labonne, Pete Palangio, Dave Morland, Ray Mansonneuve, Frank Ringler, and Leo Marcellus all potting one goal. Big Alex Stewart scored the lone McIntyre marker in the middle frame.

Firestone ORIGINATOR OF THE BALLOON TIRE

Introduces The NEW Super-Balloon

FEATURED BY LEADING CAR MANUFACTURERS ON THEIR 1948 MODELS

Here's the newest in tires to match the newest in cars!

The new Firestone Super-Balloon is a revolutionary new KIND of tire that gives you a revolutionary new KIND of ride.

PROVED PERFORMANCE

Exhaustive tests prove that with it you can drive more miles at higher speeds with less fatigue. You can stop more safely on any road in any weather . . . even with sudden stops on rough roads there is no chatter or wheel-bounce. This remarkable new tire absorbs the shock of hitting rocks, bumps and other objects instead of transmitting the shock to you and your car. It provides amazingly greater stability and enables your car to hug the road on curves.

MORE RIDING COMFORT

The new Firestone Super-Balloon is truly the tire of tomorrow, a wholly new sensation in restful riding, in non-skid safety, in blowout protection and in longer, more comfortable mileage. Many of the most famous automobile manufacturers will feature it on their 1948 models. And soon you will be able to put new Firestone Super-Balloons on your present car. Watch for them at your nearby Firestone Dealer or Store.

Cross sections show how more air volume and lower pressure permit greater flexing action when Firestone Super-Balloons go over bumps and rough roads.

LESS FATIGUE . . . LONGER COMFORTABLE MILEAGE
This tire takes the punishment instead of you and your car. It absorbs road shocks instead of transmitting them because the tire body is larger and holds more air at lower pressure. You can drive farther, faster and longer without becoming tired. Reduced vibration results in the quietest, smoothest, easiest ride you have ever experienced.

SAFER STOPPING . . . GREATER BLOWOUT PROTECTION
The combination of new Skid-Resistors molded into the tread and more area in contact with the road provide sure-footed stops and sure-footed starts on any road in any weather. The Safti-Sured Gum-Dipped cord body and cooler-running resulting from the larger volume of air at lower pressure provide the greatest protection against blowouts ever built into a tire.

KEEPS YOUR CAR YOUNG . . . SAVES YOU MONEY
By preventing road shocks from reaching your car, the Firestone Super-Balloon helps to keep the body, chassis and running gear as tight as new. Many of the irritating and annoying squeaks, rattles and vibrations which occur when parts become loosened by jiggling and jouncing are eliminated. There is less wear on the car, fewer repair bills, longer car life.

Fresh American Action Aimed At Making The Partition of Holy Land Possible

NEW YORK — Criticism of Senator Warren Austin's far from agile straddle on the Palestine question has been pretty general and pretty harsh — except for small power representatives who feel that the US delegate's suggestion that the Big Five study partition takes them off the book.

But strangely tnough, this criticism has been most tempered in those official Jewish circles where indignation could have been violent—and reasonably so. The Sunday papers here ran a pretty comprehensive survey of the sermons delivered the previous day by leading New York rabbis. With, perhaps a single exception, these religious leaders were temperate in their language. Some of them even expressed a qualified optimism.

The position taken was generally the one reported in this space on Thursday as the small-power reaction. This can be summed up as "however ambiguous and round-about, Austin's language may be, and however long the delay his proposals may entail, they do promise that America will do something to make partition possible."

Official Zionist reaction as expressed by the Jewish Agency is also moderate as it has been on previous occacsions when American support for their cause seemed uncertain and disappointing.

The point on which the Agency really is adamant is that there shall be no new compromises or concessions which would lead to an abandonment of the partition plan. From the Zionist point of view partition in the first place was almost as much of a concession as it was for the Arab. The Jewish pioneer of the Balfour Declaration days thought of Eretz Israel as compromising not only all of Palestine but Transjordan. To give up this dream and accept two narrow pockets of land, which look on the map like a pair of bagpipes tied together with a string, was a decision which entailed heartbreak. Having reconciled themselves to this settlement the Zionists are not going to take less, even if they have to defend their new state with soda-bottles and broomsticks.

A Trial-Balloon?

The proposal that King Abdullah of Transjordan might move in and take over the Arab section of partitioned Palestine, has been played up in some newspapers and ignored in others. While the Arab high committee for Palestine, dominated by the Huseini family, would certainly not welcome this neighborly move, there is reason to suspect that other members of the Arab League would aprove it.

In fact, the whole thing may be an Arab League trial-balloon. A day before the story broke, some correspondent who had not even heard of the Transjordan annexation plan, received calls from Arab delegation officials denying the whole tale. A frenzied denial is sometimes the best means of "planting" a story in a journalist's mind.

Certainly Abdullah is represented at Lake Success by a rather mysterious young man named Omar Dajani Mr. Dajani's air of secrecy rather reminds one of the smoked glasses and false names with which Miss Greta Garbo used to travel. When Miss Garbo was in her heyday these devices got her more publicity than a series of press receptions and typewritten handouts would have done.

This explanation of the King Abdullah rumors may be dismissed as too indirect, as over-subtlety. Yet over-subtlety and indirection are not strange to the Eastern mind.

The Jewish reaction to the Abdullah story can be summed up as "we'll believe it when we see it. Yet it is not too unfavorable. As Arabs go, King Adbullah is not regarded as too bad a fellow in Zionist circles. He is a man of considerable culture and he has not been unfriendly to the Jews in the past.

But the Zionists are conscious that such a scheme, while it might ease the work of partition in the initial stages, would not relieve the external pressure on the new Jewish state. An expanding Trans-Jordan, with the only modern armed force in the Arab world might decide to move in on the Zionists — a development which they would certainly resist.

Abdullah's application for membership in the United Nations has twice been vetoed by the Soviet Union. The Russians have taken the position that Transjordan is not an independent kingdom and have hinted pretty broadly that it is a British fief. The story which has been current since Thursday is that he would take over Arab Palestine to accommodate the United Nations and would expect U.N. memberships in return. That, too, is seen as a trial balloon from the Middle East.

McNaughton's Record

In another section of this newspaper reference is made to the impressive record of Canada's General A. G. L. McNaughton as chairman of the U. N. Security Council. February, even with leap-year day thrown in, is a short month of office and the working time of the United Nations was further limited last month when it was decided to observe Washington's birthday as a holiday.

So the general's mark of 21 meetings held during his 29 days of office is not a U.N. record but for solid work achieved it challenges anything the Council has done under other presiding officers. Largely through McNaughton's own efforts a plan was presented to the India and Pakistan delegates. It has not led to settlement of their differences over Kashmir, but neither could they dodge it. It was a reasonable modus operandi, just and morally compelling. Largely by his own effort, too, the general steered the Council through a long Indonesian debate, skirted and avoided two Russian vetoes and sent the committee of good offices back to work, with a heartening Canadian resolution to cheer them on.

Under McNaughton's chairmanship, the Palestine debate was launched and he achieved at the outset something of a triumph in seating a Jewish Agency delegate at the table. As chairman, the general did not take sides in the Palestine debate. He can be expected to have something to say this week, possibly at tomorrow's Council meeting.

Canada's policy on the Palestine question is indeed still in the making. It may possibly represent something of a compromise between the American plan and the insistent demands for quick action, which come from other quarters.

Delays Serious

The Canadians were as pleased as anybody else when the United States suggested that the Big Five shoulder the Palestine burden. At the same time they are deeply conscious of the damage a long-delayed Palestine decision can do to the United Nations.

What will probably develop in the Council this week, is a Big Five committee on Palestine—a modification of Senator Austin's proposal — with a definite and rather early deadline to its deliberations. If by the time that deadline is reached and the great powers cannot come up with any sort of solution, the Council will be in the worst case of its whole indecisive history.

Not only the contending parties in this quarrel but all the persons and nations who have touched this Palestine situation have come pretty close to despair over it. The feeling here is that if the U.N. cannot produce a workable solution, they might just as well send the drapes and chairs and carpets to auction and re-dedicate the plant at Lake Success to the making of bomb-sights. On the other hand, if a reasonable, enforceable and durable solution can be brought about, the sagging prestige of the United Nations will have been bolstered at a time when the world needs it.

War Documents Open To Public

OTTAWA, March 3. (CP). — The careers of Canadian soldiers and the four years of war they fought—embedded in some 600,000 Canadian government documents—are open to the curious public.

The soldiers are of the first World War and the documents tell in detail of the hardship and the glory as they fought their 1914-18 victory from the training grounds in Canada to the battlefields of France.

State Secretary Gibson today announced transfer of the records to the public archives under the domain of Dr. Gustave Lanctot.

"It's an extensive field of history of great national, military and public interest," said the Dominion archivist, who had been turning down hundreds of requests to see the files.

"Now they will be placed at the disposal of the specialists, learned societies and the general public. The story of the first World War remains to be written."

The documents are the overflow after the historical section of the army attempted to complete a four-volume history of the war. Two volumes were written when work was suspended.

The documents extend from defence department policy in the training and administration of the Canadian expeditionary force to the regimental records of the units in action.

The difficulty, of course, complained Dr. Lanctot, was that the documents were scattered. Some were in Ottawa in two storage buildings and some were at Kingston.

But in the years to come a block-long four-storey stone building will be erected to tell the story of the Canadian war dead, confided the archivist. In it, too, will be housed some of the weapons they used against the enemy.

In the meantime, he said, writers and others could come to him for permission to see any of the files and begin what he hopes will be a complete story of the world struggle seen through the eyes of Canadians.

"We are very rich in documents," said Dr. Lanctot, "and . . . there are lessons to be learned!"

Two Liberals Walk Out; Will Raise Issue

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP). — Protesting what they charged was Speaker Gaspard Fauteux' "refusal" to enforce a rule against reading speeches, two British Columbia members strode angrily from the Commons shortly before adjournment last night.

George Cruickshank, member for Fraser Valley, and James Sinclair, member for Vancouver North, launched a series of interruptions during a speech in French by J. I. Hamel (BP—St. Maurice-Lafleche)—a speech on national unity. They asked each time that the no-reading rule be enforced or that some indication be given of the publications from which Mr. Hamel was quoting.

Dr. Fauteux said after a stormy 10 minutes that, unless the two members stopped interrupting, he would be obliged to "apply the sanction"—name them and have them escorted from the chamber by the sergean-at-arms.

With that, Mr. Sinclair rose and said: "I for one will withdraw from the House and read about it (the speech) in the morning."

As he walked out, Mr. Cruickshank turned on his heel and left.

Both members said later in an interview that they were "fed-up" with speech-reading and withdrew because frequent appeals to Dr. Fauteux for enforcement of the rule had brought no results.

Mr. Sinclair said reading of speeches was contrary to accepted parliamentary rules, cheapened the quality of debates, helped introduce "extraneous matter" and prolonged debates unnecessarily. He said he will raise the issue at a Liberal party caucus today.

Mr. Cruickshank said "nine out of 10" prepared speeches are not the product entirely of the members who read them. They "look good in Hansard"—the official Commons report—and give an inaccurate impression of members' knowledge and speaking ability.

After the two members withdrew, Dr. Fauteux remarked that he has several times called attention to the rule forbidding the reading of speeches.

But it had "unfortunately" become the practice of many members to read speeches during the throne speech debate. Mr. Hamil was quoting many figures and press statements and should be allowed to continue.

Six-Foot Cobra Shared His Room

STELLENBOSCH, South Africa, March 3—(CP).—R. B. Rossel, of Uitspan, Klapmuts, shared a room for a month with a six-foot cobra. It was only after 30 days had elapsed that he discovered his "roommate."

He heard noises from underneath the floor and his two dogs barked frequently at all hours of the night and day. Mr. Rossel took it for granted that a rat or a mouse was under the flooring boards and did not worry further.

One day, however, he saw the tail of a snake sticking out of a hole in the floor and the cobra was hauled from its refuge and killed. There have been no disturbing noises in the room since.

Throne Speech Predicts Many Changes

FREDERICTON, March 3 (CP) —Improvements in the public service and changes in the Workmen's Compensation Act were predicted in the Throne Speech as the fourth session of the 40th New Brunswick Legislature opened Tuesday.

Read by Lieutenant-Governor D. L. MacLaren, the speech also recalled a shortage of electrical power in some sections of the province last year and said "the need for new sources of electrical energy to meet domestic and industrial rquirements continues to engage the attention of my government.

"Investigations and studies into new sources of energy are being carried on with a view to determining more fully hydro-electric possibilities in the province.

"The establishment of a trade training program designed to develop an adequate supply of skilled tradesmen is progressing satisfactorily."

The Throne Speech predicted no other new legislation but reviewed government activity during the year.

Heavy emphasis was put on the province's industrial expansion.

"The industrialization program continued to process our raw materials particularly our forest wealth."

"Of special interest was the announcement of a projected chemical industry which will utilize mineral resources known to be available in commercial quantities. This industry may well be the forerunner of a major chemical development in the province."

Assistance rendered fishermen by the Fishermen's Loan Board for the purchase of new equipment had given "new impetus to the fishing industry."

"In addition, increased capital investment in new processing plants in recent years has tended to ensure our fishermen incomes commensurate with the risk of their calling."

Czech Delegates Reticent On Latest Move

WASHINGTON, March 2 (AP)) —At the moment that Communists were tightening their clutch on his country, the Czech Ambassador to the United States, Juraj Slavik, said that "Our main danger and political danger is still Germany."

Finland's minister, Dr. K. T. Jutila, at the same time said, "We have not a real iron curtain."

Both, in talking with Representatives Charles Kersten (Rep.-Wis.) and Richard Nixon (Rep.-Calif.), said that democratic elements have been able to work with Communists in their countries and get along with them.

But for the future the diplomats made no definite predictions.

The two United States Congressmen, with a reporter along, made the round of embassies of seven countries living under the Red shadow.

They said they came away convinced:

1. That "co-operation with Communists means capture by Communists."

2. That "no amount of economic aid alone can keep Russia out," and hence the Marshall Plan must be reinforced with military alliances.

They agreed that the satellites and their representatives here are in "deadly fear" of Russia and are "compelled as a practical matter to be friendly."

They saw Dr. Jutila just before Russia made her move for a non-aggression pact with Finland. They found him more outspoken than most of the other diplomats, but he gave no direct answer when Kersten asked:

"Is it possible that something similar to what is happening in Czechoslovakia might take place in Finland?"

A few minutes earlier, however, he had said:

"We have not a real iron curtain. We can speak freely and publish freely. I can't say how it will be in near future."

Salvik was more reserved and obviously disturbed.

"It is very difficult to talk in the light of developments, to say anything definite," he remarked.

But he did say his country still regards Germany as the chief danger and is fearful the Marshall Plan might result in rebuilding Germany's war power.

Kiwanis Club Sponsors Local Key Club

First regular luncheon-meeting of the recently-organized Key Club of St. Peter's High School was held Tuesday at the YMCA. President William Duignan welcomed visiting president Jack Kuntze, and five members of the Belleville Key Club.

Sponsored by the local Kiwanis Club, the present members are "key" boys of good standing and character who are picked from the school to form this special group. The motto of the club is "Service to School and Community."

Meetings are held at noon hour on the first and third Tuesday of each month during the school term.

Jack Kuntze gave a brief resume of the problems of organization and how they were overcome in the Belleville club. After sketching the history of that group, he wished the St. Peter's Club success, and urged the members to work together and not against one another.

Robert Matthews, Belleville secretary, told the 19 members of the local Key Club of the projects that his own group had undertaken. Harry Croll, Belleville vice-president, thanked the hosts for their hospitality and said he hoped to be able to return for Charter Night.

Visiting members were: Jack Kuntze, Robert Matthews, Harry Croll, Douglas Walmsley, Charles DeLong, and Brock Stackhouse.

Czech Communists Given Orders

PRAGUE, March 3 — (Reuters). — Rudolf Slansky, Communist party general secretary, has given orders to party officials to strengthen the new national front, now the highest organ in public life, the party newspaper Rude Pravo reported today.

Slansky said the action committee of the National Front, central organ of the atcion committees functioning throughout Czechoslovak public life, would control the reorganization of the right-wing parties.

The committee would also intervene in the purge the Social Democratic party was carrying out.

Where the former National Front included only the heads of political parties, he added, the new National Front embraced leading figures from the cultural field and from the church.

He said the new body would decide by a majority and its decisions would be binding on all.

Seek Removal of Taxes On Electrical Appliances

TORONTO, March 3 (CP). — The question of frequency standardization in the power system of the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario went before some 200 delegates attending the annual convention of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association, on Tuesday.

A. M. Durnford of Sarnia, president of the association, said in his opening address that he believed acceptance of the plan to make the 60-cycle frequency standard throughout Ontario "is strongly favored" by the Ontario Commission.

In a reference to the current power shortage which has brought cutoff of supply in Toronto and some other cities, Mr. Durnford said that the situation tended to make the public more power-conscious than ever before. It awakened interest in present Hydro developments projects and in possible projects as well. He mentioned, as a future source of power, the St. Lawrence Waterway development which would provide 1,100,000 horsepower for Ontario use.

Debate is scheduled Wednesday on the 20 motions, the first of which is "Resolved that we ask the Hydro-Electric Power Commission that their engineers work out some scheme whereby the regulations in regard to power rationing to merchants be amended" so that increased wattage be used in the stores or in display windows as the merchants see fit.

The Electric Association was told that attendance at its meeting and that of the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities, held in conjunction, was over 1,300, as compared with 1,040 last year.

The president referred to taxes and retail prices. He said "That with a dollar worth 66 cents or less as compared with the dollar of 1939" electrical appliances were being regarded as luxuries rather than the necessities they actually were. Heavy taxes added to the retailer's markup were making such items prohibitive to young married persons, including war veterans.

The resolution asked that the tax be lifted.

The meeting was also presented with the proposal a steam plant be established in Southwestern Ontario to facilitate the change-over to 60-cycle power. Water power should not be relied upon exclusively, the motion said. If a steam plant were used, the change could be effected gradually from community to community.

It was suggested members endorse immediate acceptance of daylight saving time as a means of conserving power and they were further asked to approve a recommendation that "in view of the present critical power shortage, the Hydro-Electric Power Commission be requested to consider the re-opening of generating stations now idle. . ."

Central Mortgages Builds 500 Homes

LONDON, Ont., March 3—(CP)—Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation expects shortly to let contracts for construction of nearly 500 new homes in southwestern Ontario.

At the present time 823 houses are under construction for the corporation. These are scattered in 19 communities of the district.

The new houses, an improved development of Wartime Housing Ltd., are to be built under a scheme where the councils of the municipalities affected provided serviced lots and accept a fixed tax on the property. The corporation expects to rent the homes at prices ranging from $33 to $37.50 per month.

Sarnia is to get 300 of the new homes under the present plan. Of the remainder Chesley will get 25, St. Thomas 54, Wingham 50, Simcoe 50 and Petrolia is negotiating for 50.

Mr. el-Khouri denied that partition was the only way out. He reminded the Council that another plan for a unitary state in Palestine had been submitted and declared that the use of force to support an "unlawful cause and flagrant aggression" was "a criminal action."

Claim Moderator Violated Precept

SYDNEY, N.S., March 3—(CP). —The Cape Breton presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada last night charged Rev. Frank Lawson, moderator of the Halifax-Lunenburg presbytery, with "violation of the confession of faith of the Presbyterian church."

Rev. H. B. McCurdy, who attended last night's quarterly meeting of the presbytery, said the charge laid against Mr. Lawson arose from "his denial of the virgin birth of our Lord, which is a violation of the confession of faith of the Presbyterian church."

Mr. McCurdy said the charge would be dealt with by the General Assembly of the church in Toronto in June.

He said the charge was based on "documented evidence" from the Kitchener-Waterloo Record, Rev. Gerald L. Stover of the Moody Bible Institute of Chicago and a "Canadian Press dispatch which appeared in the press."

About a year ago Mr. Lawson laid a charge against Rev. Perry Rockwood of Truro, N.S., that the young Presbyterian minister had "made a definite attempt to spit the Presbyterian church" and had preached "heresy."

Mr. Rockwood was found guilty by a church court of following "a divisive course" and later resigned from the Presbyterian church to start the People's Church in Truro.

Floors built on the bias would force people to the back of the bus.

Car Hits Gate 3 People Hurt

LONDON, Ont., March 3 — (CP). — Three persons were injured, two seriously, when a car crashed through the crossing gate and struck the rear of a westbound Canadian National passenger train at the Rectory street crossing early today.

Miss Margaret Clark of (35 Hughest street), St. Thomas, is in Victoria Hospital with a possible fractured pelvis, a severe leg laceration and suffering extensive shock.

John Daley of (46 Elgin street) St. Thomas, driver of the vehicle, suffered a possible fractured skull and lacerations to his head and face.

Thomas O'Neil, of Dorchester, escaped with facial lacerations.

A fourth passenger in the car, Miss Mary Ferrar of London, Ont., was uninjured.

The car approached the crossing from the south, crashed through the crossing gates, crossed several sets of tracks, and hit the rear of the fast Montreal to Chicago passenger train. The vehicle was wrecked.

Name Cameron As Conciliator

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP) — Mr. Justice J. C. A. Cameron of the Exchequer Court of Canada has been appointed chairman of a conciliation board to deal with matters in dispute between Canadian railways and their employees members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway Employees and other transport workers (CCL), Labor Minister Mitchell announced today.

Mr. Justice Cameron was appointed by the minister in the absence of a joint recommendation from the other two members of the board, Paul S. Smith, and Samuel Baron, both of Montreal, who had been appointed on the nomination of the employers and employees respectively.

Approximately 35,000 employees are directly affected. Matters in dispute between the parties include wage rates, payment for statutory holidays, sick pay, and union security.

Letters By Rocket

LOS ANGELES, March 3 (AP) —Ten rockets, each carrying 300 letters, will be sent whizzing across Searley Dry Lake to Trona, Calif., by the Reaction Research Society March 27, officials of the group said today. Society officers said they envision the ultimate dispatch of mail across the country by this means, and are carrying out the Sear's Lake experiment to stimulate interest in rocket transmission.

DUBLIN, March 3 — (AP) — Prime Minister Eamon De Valera's one-month tour of the United States will start in New York March 8, it was announced yesterday. March 12 he will fly to San Francisco and proceed to Los Angeles March 16.

11 Soldiers Test New Rations

NEW YORK, March 3 (AP). — Six weeks on an island on a diet of biscuits and water — that's what 11 soldiers are getting beginning today.

The island is Welfare Island in New York City's East River, and the diet is a special one being tested as a survival ration for military and civilian use.

Housed in a special ward of Metropolitan Hospital, the volunteers will get one-third of a pound of ration biscuits daily and three glasses of water.

The test is being sponsored by the Quartermaster Food and Container Institute.

The biscuits contain carbohydrate, fat and special high quality proteins. The Institute is seeking to develop a ration requiring the least amount of water for use under emergency conditions.

Gov. McCord Commutes Death Sentence

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 3 (AP).—Governor Jim McCord today commuted to 99 years' imprisonment the death sentence of Daniel Budzynski, who was scheduled to die in the electric chair Thursday.

The commutation was granted after a 20-year-old Methodist Sunday school teacher from Pittsburgh asked for clemency for her girlhood sweetheart.

Pretty Jeanne Lucas came here from Pittsburgh to marry Budzynski in his death cell if the governor would not commute his sentence.

The governor said: "The reason for commutation is that I have a little doubt in my mind as to whether he (Burbynski) knew a robbery was to take place. It had nothing to do with his age.

"The State of Tennessee is not interested in seeking a marriage of this kind take place."

The governor said his action did not affect Budzynski's companion, Richard Reilly, 21, scheduled to die in the electric chair at dawn Thursday.

Reilly was identified at the trial of the two youths as the trigger-man in the hold-up slaying of a Memphis pawnbroker and clothes dealer.

Question Validity of City Trust Leases

The Peterborough Examiner

WEDNESDAY, MARCH 3,.1948 VOL. XCVI, No. 53

AS FUR AS THE EYE CAN SEE — It would take more than $1,000 to buy these silver fox furs draped around this lady in the Canadian Fur Auction rooms where more than $1,500,000 worth of skins went on sale recently, bringing good prices from fur dealers of many countries.

Theatre Guild's Third Play Best Of Series

By ROBERTSON DAVIES

The Canadian Theatre Guild's last presentation for the 1947-48 season was shown in the P.C.V.S. auditorium on Tuesday night. A large audience was present in spite of heavy snowfall and greater enthusiasm was shown than at either of the company's previous appearances in this city.

The play was Benn W. Levy's farce, 'Springtime for Henry"; the theme of the play is the attempt of a wealthy motor manufacturer, Henry Dewlip, to reform himself and become an exponent of the "decent thing" in order to win the love of a prim secretary, who subsequently proves to be a murderess. The play is wittily written, and skates with the greatest delicacy over some rather thin ice; it is an excellent evening's entertainment and its popularity over many years proves it to be suited to the taste of a great number of theatre-goers.

In the performance under consideration the greatest opportunities were given to Mack Inglis, who played the part of Henry Dewlip. It suited his style and he acted with a nice sense of restraint; he never tried to be as funny as he could, and this quality of artistry raised the production above the others which this company has shown in Peterborough this year. Miss Lynne Speece gave a pleasant performance as the secretary who sought to uplift her employer, and Miss Cosy Lee was effective as Mrs. Jelliwell, though she might have taken a leaf from Mr. Inglis' book and toned down some of her comic effects; audiences are quick to sense any strain in comedy. Charles McBride was not up to the level of the others in the cast, and had adopted an unfortunate walk as part of his character. Radio actors tend to neglect the physical technique of acting, and their vocal technique is rarely suitable for anything but a microphone.

The Kinsmen Club is to be congratulated on bringing three plays to Peterborough this season. This centure deserves greater public support than it has yet received.

NEW HOMES HAVE SHOWERS

HATS OFF, THE FLAG PASSES

With all this heated talk these days of Communism creeping into Canada, it could be that it is well established here in Peterborough. Tuesday afternoon a group of merchants and newsmen were talking on Hunter St., about an object whipping in the storm from the flag staff on the Post Office roof. "For arguments sake, let's call it a flag," said one. From months of exposure to the weather and the soft coal chimney nearby, it could carry the design of the Hammer and Sickle or the Star and Moon of Islam. No one could possibly tell. Another man contended it must have been a flag at one time. It appeared to be a Canadian Ensign with a gaping hole where the Dominion crest should have been, that was on the lower right-hand corner which is blown to tatters. "It's a King's building," said another man, "and should be flying the Union Jack. It should be raised and lowered at sunrise and sunset. An old mop like that thing is a disgrace." But he was a stickler, that fellow. Or was he?

6 Polish Girls Support Community Fund

Local residents might well take a tip from six newly-arrived Polish girls when it comes to the community spirit. The girls who are at present employed in St. Joseph's Hospital are learning to become good Canadians. Despite the fact they have only been in Peterborough since January, they felt they would like to contribute to the present Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign.

When Mrs. Frank Lynch was canvassing the hospital workers she found that the girls were eager to make a contribution to the Fund as a token of gratitude for their hospitable reception since arrival.

They are Joanna Novak, Anastasia Novak, Anna Medved, Julia Marko, Maria Petelin, and Ivanka Zidanek. Hospital authorities say the girls are learning English rapidly, and are showing that they are both eager and able to adjust themselves to their homeland.

Spent 4 Weeks In Hospital After Assault

For an assault which landed one man in hospital for nearly a month, Douglas Hayton, 251 Engleburn Ave., was fined $50 and costs of $21.50 by Magistrate W. R. Philp in court today. He had pleaded not guilt to assault occasioning actual bodily harm to Cecil McMahon and a similar offence against James Smith. No evidence was offered by the crown on the Smith case, which was dismissed.

McMahon, first crown witness, stated that he had been in bed about 1:30 a.m. on Jan. 25 when two men had entered and beaten him up. He had been knocked out and did not fully recover until he was in hospital, he said, where he had been for four weeks. He was unable to positively identify the accused as his assaulter.

Mrs. Mary Ann Beach, who described herself and was described by McMahon as his "common law wife." She said that she had been in the kitchen on the night in question. In the scuffling she said the accused had picked up a chair. She described a struggle which the accused man —Owen Medland—had with Smith.

McMahon was "all blood" on his face and complained of pain in his chest, she said.

Apologies Made

Maurice Meade, a tenant of the house, gave evidence as to the scene he had found when he returned. When he went out to get police, the two accused had followed him and asked him to return as they wanted to apologize. He agreed and apologies were made at the house.

PC Harold Mesley, who had been called by Mrs. Beach, arrived about three o'clock that morning, he told the court. Hayton had been drinking, but was not drunk. Medland, the other man, was "quite drunk." He said that McMahon and Smith both showed marks of having been beaten badly. After arresting the two accused, he had taken McMahon to Dr. Claude Cahill for treatment.

Dr. Cahill, as a witness, said that X-ray treatment of McMahon showed he had received a 70 per cent collapse of the right lung, an injury which could have been caused by a blow or fall. The prolonged hospital stay of McMahon, he said, had been necessary.

Defence counsel W. J. A. Fair in calling no defence, argued that the crown had failed to identify the accused Hayton with the man who had administered the beating.

Magistrate Philp stated that he "had to disagree" in finding the accused guilty. The alternative to the fine was one month.

Two similar charges against Owen Medland, Fairburn Ave., were dismissed when no evidence was offered by the crown.

Roger Carpentier, Quebec, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs when he pleaded guilty this morning to being drunk in public.

Newly Appointed Member Reported 'Stirred Things Up'

James Hamilton, newly appointed member of the City Trust Commission, told the Examiner today he was doubtful of the validity of the leases of the store properties on George Street under the market hall.

"Those leases were signed by Mr. Vincent Eastwood as chairman of the Commission," Mr. Hamilton said, "but there is a question in my mind as to whether he was duly elected chairman in that year."

Mr. Hamilton said that the secretary was appointed for an indefinite period, "at the pleasure of" the Commission, and it seemed to be that this method was also followed instead of an annual re-election of a chairman, although there was no provision for continuity without election by the members.

Mr. Hamilton, former mayor, said this was one point which he wished to clarify. The Examiner called him on the strength of rumors that the council's new appointee "stirred things up" at Monday's meeting of the Commission. Mr. Hamilton declined to comment on the report of having ruffled the routine. He said all but one of the members of the Trust were in favor of allowing the city council's private bill to the Legislature to proceed without opposition from the City Trust.

The council a month ago struck from the bill the reference to the Trust's administration of the city's debenture debt and financing, but decided to ask the government to transfer from the Trust to the council the authority to sell properties owned by the mupicipalities.

"It's simply ridiculous," said Mr. Hamilton, "to think that the city council can't look after city property and handle sales as well as the City Trust Commission. Actually, I haven't it clear in my mind where the Trust does stand right now on this appeal matter. The majority decided they didn't want to oppose the private bill, but it appeared they were going ahead to prepare a brief to the private bills committee of the Legislature."

The report the Examiner had received about the Monday meeting was that "Jim Hamilton went to the mat," but as to the report of acerbity in the Trust discussions he declined to make any statement, stepping around that question to comment on the several matters of business of the Trust in which he was interested.

Community Fund In 3 Days Totals $29,300

With three days to go the Community Fund total stood at $29,300 on Tuesday night. With sights set on the $60,000 mark as this year's objective, it means that the intensity of the drive must be maintained if this figure is to be reached by Friday.

This co-ordinated campaign to raise funds for some 12 social agencies in the city is now in its eighth season. By this united drive individual soliciting and tag days throughout the year are largely avoided.

The Industrial Division has almost achieved its quota—$20,500 of a $25,000 objective. Special Names Division is collecting momentum with $3,500 of its mark of $18,000 attained. The Women's Division has collected more than a quarter of its pledged sum of $4,000, having raised $1,200. More than a third of the Retail sum of $13,000 is pledged. It amounts to $4,100.

Workers at the headquarters of the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign are busy tabulating contributions as they roll in.

On Wednesday an inquirer was assured that he could make out an additional contribution if he chose; it is against neither the spirit nor the law of the Campaign to give twice — or even three times.

Miss Albina Gordon Is Laid To Rest

Many of the friends of the late Albina Gordon attended the requiem high mass of her funeral this morning at the Church of the Sacred Heart. The celebrant was Rev. Dr. Grant, assisted by Rev. Father McCarney and Rev. Father Sullivan. Pallbearers were: Noel Gordon of Westport, Gordon Martyn, Detroit, Leo Martyn, Charles Veenman, J. F. Heffernan and D'arcy Carter of Peterborough. The prayers at the cemetery were offered by Rev. Father O'Sullivan.

Association Seeks 300 Ex-Naval Men

Discussion of means of boosting membership from the present 60 to an objective of 300 was the chief item on the agenda at the monthly meeting of the Peterborough Naval Asociation held in the Legion Hall Tuesday night.

A committee was formed to send a letter to all ex-navy personnel explaining the purposes, function and activities of the club. It was believed that this would be the most effective means of recruiting members.

Entertainment consisted of three films, including a sing-song movie, shown by Benjamin Ackerman. The evening was capped by a light lunch prepared by the refreshments committee under James White.

It was decided that a smoker to be held some time in the future would be the next social activity of the Association.

President Fred Kiff was in the chair with some 40 members attending.

Examiner Will Present Peter Kaiser In Second Music Appreciation Series

Peter Kaiser, Canadian baritone who was presented by the Peterborough Examiner in a music appreciation series over CHEX last fall will commence a second series on Thursday night at 9.30.

Mr. Kaiser, a native of Pickering, is one of Ontario's leading young baritones who has won high honors at provincial music festivals. Last year he was a gold medalist at the Kiwanis Music Festival in Toronto and this year where he is competing this week he won first place in his class and was placed second in the oratorio solo for amateur or professional baritones.

Mr. Kaiser for his first program on the second series has chosen a well balanced group consisting of "Leider," folk songs and two modern numbers. He will be accompanied by Gwen Craw.

Completing Plan For New Rink Drive

The drive for $140,000 for a Secondary Rink in Peterborough will be "ready to roll" as soon as the general committee, appointed for the purpose by a public meeting in February, approves plans which have been worked out by the finance and publicity committees.

At a meeting of those committees Tuesday night, final details of the campaign were worked out, and everything is now "in black and white." Although as yet, no hint has been given as to what form any of the campaign will take, the committee has remarked that it "will require the support of every man, woman and child in Peterborough."

The big decision will be made at a special meeting of the full committee to be held Thursday night.

INDIA REPRESENTED

India is represented on the board of directors of the International Monetary Fund and the International Bank.

MAIN ST. TOPICS

TWO CHIMNEY FIRES

Total collections here as reported by the banks Tuesday night, for the Canadian Appeal for Children are $1,600.10. It has been pointed out that donations to the appeal can be made any time until the end of the month at any chartered bank. Collection to date for this appeal in the town of Port Hope is $2,475.77.

BUILDERS' CNFERENCE

A round table discussion of mutual problems between labor and management will feature a conference of Ontario builders exchanges in Toronto Monday, Mar. 15. Representatives of the exchanges in 18 Ontario communities will meet with international vice-presidents of 10 A.F.L. building trade unions.

ART DISPLAY AT LIBRARY

Approximately 50 selected etchings and engravings are currently being shown in the Public Library art gallery. It is an exhibit of the Canadian Society of Painters, Etchers and Engravers. A similar exhibit in the gallery last year proved very popular. The display will be there for two weeks.

BLAME THE WEATHER

Officials at the National Employment Service office advise that the steady cold weather and heavy snowfalls experienced through the winter has prevented the placement of men on various construction projects throughout the city. They feel that with the coming of Spring many men now receiving unemployment benefits will be placed at work.

RECUPERATES FROM BURN

Roy Dawson, Rubidge St., apprentice mechanic with a local garage, is recuperating from burns on his left ankle received recently when a steam hose broke. Son of Capt. and Mrs. B. B. Dawson, Millbrook, he was a winner of the Dr. N. Allan scholarship on graduating from Millbrook Continuation School. For a number of years he was an Examiner carrier boy.

Fraser's 'Elephant' Speech Under Labor Council Fire

A resolution condemning the stand of Mr. G. K. Fraser, MP, on the basis of his "white elephant" speech in which he attacked the National Film Board, was passed without dissent at the Tuesday night bi-monthly meeting of the Allied Labor Council.

The full motion was that the council "write to G. K. Fraser, MP, to the effect that we approve of his interest in Film Board matters but would like to point out that there are other things, such as present prices, more important to the people of Peterborough."

Mr. William Cambers said, "Some of his points are beyond criticism, but Mr. Fraser seems to be fiddling while Rome burns. ...We don't want our local member tilting at windmills when there are forts to be stormed."

A recent article in the Examiner in which several local ministers were quoted on their attitudes to the assumption of power in Czechoslovakia by the Communists, came up for considerable discussion.

Motion Defeated

When Mr. James Southgate put forward a motion condemning the ministers for their views, it was decisively defeated. Only Mr. Southgate and Mr. Cambers supported it.

The controversial motion said, "that Council go on record as seriously opposing the warlike utterances made recently by the Rev. Dr. James Semple, Rev. Ivan Morgan, and Rev. E. G. Moore; and that an open letter on the matter be sent to the Examiner."

Mr. Southgate read from an interview with Dr. Semple, quoted in the Examiner, in which the minister said: "A lasting world order can only be attained by smashing Russia. It may mean war, if so let us have it before it is too late."

Commenting on this statement, Mr. Southgate said, "Those of us who have taken part in war don't want to see it brought about again." He contended there was an inconsistency in the ministers' approach as two months ago they were preaching "Peace On Earth, Good Will Toward Men."

"Whether they spoke for publication or from the pulpit is immaterial; at all times they are expected to set an example. You can't one day be a pacifist, the next a warmonger."

Oppose Motion

John Beggs and William Whibbs were the leading spokesmen for those who opposed the motion. Mr. Beggs said "a clergyman has as much right as anybody else to his opinions." Referring specifically to the views expressed by Dr. Semple, Mr. Whibbs said he "would not criticize him, and I support his views."

Before the motion was quashed Mr. Cambers said: "The last artificial limb has not yet been made for the fellows from the last war ....and here are these men from whom we might expect something better, giving us undisciplined hate."

It was announced that petitions would be re-circulated on behalf of the Housewives Consumers' Association designed to combat high prices.

14 New Recruits Join Local Unit

There was a good parade Monday evening at the Armouries in spite of the weather. Officer Commanding of the 50th HAA Regiment, Prince of Wales Rangers, RCA, reports that 14 new recruits were accepted into the ranks. All were cadets from PCVS and St. Peter's High School over 17½ years of age.

This is a new departure and it is hoped to eventually swell the ranks by 30 cadets, over a 2½-year training period. These men will make officer material, since officers are required to have high school matriculation. This move does not alter the fact that the regiment still requires former active service force types of recruits.

REMAINDER TOMORROW

WILL TRIESTE BE NEXT—Communist organizations in the free territory of Trieste served public notice in a memorandum published in their newspapers that they are planning to switch from peaceful cooperation to agitation. The statement led observers to believe Trieste may become the next direct Communist pressure point. Above, Communists parade in a recent demonstration in Trieste. It was estimated 40,000 persons took part in demonstration.

SEIZED BY U.S.—Although she was presumed dead long ago, Frau Gertrude Scholtz-Klink, head of the women's branch of the Nazi party throughout the war, turned up very much alive. She was seized by U.S. agents near Tuebingen, Germany, in the French zone, on a secret tip. With her, the agents picked up her husband, Colonel August Heissmeyer, former aide to Henrich Himmler. Hubby was carrying a poison vial similar to the one used by Herman Goering to foil the rope in Nuremberg. Frau Scholtz-Klink faces a war crimes trial.

Investors Seek Senior Golds

By The Canadian Press

Quiet but consistent accumulation of senior gold stocks in a period of sagging security prices has attracted the attention of many market analysts and students of economic trends.

Ignoring pleasing dividends and record earnings reports, investors have permitted many gilt-edged industrial securities to drop substantially so that yields (ratio of dividends received to the cost of the stock) have risen appreciably.

Under ordinary circumstances this would have attracted sufficient buyers to send prices up again. Instead, market trends have shown proportionately more funds directed toward senior golds despite the fact that the gold mining industry has gone through some years of stress.

The return to favor of the blue-chip golds has evoked a variety of explanations. Most popular view is that which points to recent government assistance to the producing gold mines and to the reports of an improving labor supply.

Stock markets showed mild improvement yesterday but commodity markets were irregular. Cotton futures prices moved over a wide-range while grains at Chicago and Winnipeg were uncertain. Livestock markets reported firm prices and steady trade, and hogs at Toronto advanced 25 cents a hundredweight.

Half Honest

NEW YORK, March 3 — (AP).—After downing his second drink of whisky, a Negro robbed a bar and its patrons of $200 last night, paid for his drinks, then left in a taxicab. The gunman paid the cab driver too, police said. He tossed $2, double the fare, into the taxi after ordering the driver to stop in the East Bronx. Then he fled.

One Lucky Fellow

WOODSTOCK, March 3—(CP)—A local tobacco grower must have been carrying a four-leaf clover in his pocket. When he returned home to nearby Princeton from a visit here, he found he had lost his wallet containing $1,000. Returning to where he had parked his automobile, he found the wallet intact.

Premier Denies Prior Knowledge Re Hong Kong

OTTAWA, March 3.—(CP). — The country was confronted today with clashing interpretations of what the Federal government knew about the dangers of Pacific war at the time it sent two battalions of infantry to Hong Kong in October, 1941.

In the Commons yesterday, Prime Minister Mackenzie King said that "until the very eve of the Japanese attack (in December) such information as I received from the British authorities was to the effect that an early attack upon Hong Kong was not anticipated."

The Ottawa Citizen and Ottawa Journal published a 1942 letter in which Premier Drew of Ontario charged that three days before the troops sailed the Canadian government was warned by British intelligence that war with Japan was an early possibility.

It was publication of the letter that brought Mr. King to his feet on a question of privilege and which prompted Progressive Conservative members to cry that the House had been "held in contempt" and "outraged" by the government's refusal to table something that the public already had.

Turbulent scenes that interrupted John Diefenbaker (PC-Lake Centre) reached their climax when Maj. Loran Baker, M.C., (L-Shelburne - Yarmouth-Clare) was drowned out in trying to finish a statement that he felt the Drew letter had been accorded "too much importance for what it is w[illegible]"

In the end, Mr. King still refused to table the letter, despite further Opposition requests, on the grounds that it contained references to material the government had promised to keep confidential when it was made available to the Duff Commission on Hong Kong in 1942. Since the British government had twice refused to release Ottawa from its agreement to keep it secret, the Canadian government declined to break faith.

The Prime Minister in his statement said that "in my opinion, such information as the Canadian government received at the time from the British authorities is in complete accord with the finding of the commissioner, namely that 'the best informed opinion available to the Canadian authorities was that hostilities would not arise in the near future.'"

NORWAY'S INDEPENDENCE

Norway declared its independence from Denmark and Sweden in 1814 but the union was not dissolved for 91 years.

Price Enquiry On Bread Is Continuing

OTTAWA, March 3 — (CP). — Midway through the second week of its examination into rising bread prices, the Commons price committee will inquire further today into the manufacture and sale of this household staple by the A and P chain grocery firm.

An executive of the company, which bakes its own loaf retailing at 10 cents, told the committee yesterday this loaf is the equal of any selling in eastern Canada. Other bread retails up to 14 cents.

George W. Bird of Toronto, A and P. purchasing agent, gave this evidence in reply to questions by Health Minister Martin, committee chairman, concerning the difference in nutritional value between 10 and 14-cent loaves.

Mr. Bird's testimony indicated, however, that other bakers might not be able to make the same loaf and sell it through retailers for 10 cents.

Today's session—an afternoon one—is expected to bring from the steering committee an announcement on whether any action is proposed on the question of commercial rentals, to be decontrolled March 8.

Inquiry in this direction has been urged by William Irvine, CCF committee member from Cariboo, on the claim that decontrol will send up rentals and thereby contribute further to the rise in commodity prices.

Yesterday, the committee inquired into competition in the baking industry and the effects of ownership of bakeries by flour-milling companies.

It was told by R. P. Sparks of Ottawa, executive secretary of the industry's national council, that:

1. The industry was 100 per cent competitive" and such a condition tended to drive down prices.

2. Ownership of bakeries by flour interests exercised no control over competition.

3. Independent bakeries generally were able to buy their flour more cheaply than those controlled by the millers, because they could shop around for their supplies.

'Had It Coming' Suspect Says In Cafe Shooting

TORONTO, March 3 — (CP). — Given one chance in three of surviving, Mrs. Margaret Meredith, 23-year-old former night club and army show performer, lay in a hospital bed today with a bullet wound in her head after two major brain operations in 24 hours.

Police, who have charged Leslie Davidson, her 29-year-old former piano-playing partner with attempted murder, studied a story of broken homes, bitter jealousy and thwarted hopes.

Police charge that Davidson, insane with jealousy, fired the point-blank shot at the waitress in a downtown restaurant Monday night. Davidson was remanded in court appearance yesterday and will undergo a mental examination.

Surgeons who performed a second operation yesterday to remove pressure from the woman's brain after an earlier removal of the bullet, said that if she lives she probably will have a partial permanent paralysis of her left side.

Both principals in the case are married and estranged from their spouses. Davidson's wife, mother of a six-year-old daughter, contended that before the shooting her husband had intended to come back to his family. She declared she could produce witnesses to testify that Mrs. Meredith had threatened her husband.

She said it was Mrs. Meredith's ambition to be a torch singer that brought the two togeher, she as a singer and he her partner on the piano. They played in night clubs and during the war Davidson directed and played in an army revue at Three Rivers, Que.

Davidson was arrested little more than an hour after a man had seized Meredith in full view of restaurant patrons and fired the shot into her head. Police found him playing a piano at a west-end club.

They quoted him as saying: "I'm the fellow you're looking for. She had it coming to her."

A NEW CHURCHILL HEIR—While her husband, Capt. Christopher Soames, looks on, Mrs. Soames, the former Mary Churchill, daughter of Winston Churchill, England's ex-prime minister, proudly shows off their first child, a son, born Feb. 12 at the Churchill country estate at Westerham, England. The infant, as yet unnamed, is the famed statesman's fifth grandchild.

Russia Supports Palestine Plan

LAKE SUCCESS, March 3 (AP) Russia's renewed support and a slightly stronger American stand brightened the prospects today in the United Nations for Palestine partition.

A long-awaited Soviet speech yesterday served to clear the air and gave security council delegates something new to discuss at today's meeting.

Delegate Andrei A. Gromyko dodged the issue of sending a UN armed force into the Holy Land. He did accept a portion of the American plan supporting the principle of partition, and agreed to big five consultations on the subject but objected to a United States plan for carrying out the talks.

Gromyko was unusually conciliatory. Twice he accused the United States of attempting to confuse the issue, but his counter-suggestions appeared to offer a basis for settlement. He also omitted previous charges that the British are obstructing partition.

The United States wants the council to establish a big five committee to look into the Palestine problem, talk with the Arabs and Jews, and report back. Gromyko says the big five should meet independently of the council and should not bother trying to mend differences between the Jews and Arabs at this late stage.

FRENCH PATRIOT — Paul Colette, French patriot who shot and wounded Pierre Laval, the pro-Nazi ex-permier of France at an anti-Communist meeting at Versailles, France, in August, 1941, is shown testifying at the trial of Lieut.-Colonel Bernon, member of the former Vichy government who is charged with collaborating with the German occupation forces. Colette was sentenced to the guillotine but his sentence was commuted to life imprisonment.

Nine Left Homeless After Ottawa Fire

OTTAWA, March 3.—(CP).—Nine persons, including three children were left homeless early today when fire swept through the Sadaka grocery store in west-end Ottawa. Damage to the two-storey frame structure has been estimated at $3,500.

The blaze was noticed by Mrs. Anna LeClaire, 56, who occupies the second floor apartment with her daughter, Georgette, and two sons, Henri and Jean.

Within half an hour firemen had the blaze under control, but not before it had destroyed the first-floor store, and apartment, occupied by Ahmed Sadaka, his wife, and three children.

Cause of the fire has not been determined.

Check Smugglers

GLASGOW, March 3.—(Reuters)—Scotland Yard detectives, investigating an alleged conspiracy to smuggle displaced persons into Canada, last night arrested two men on charges of making false statements for the purpose of obtaining passports.

Upside Down

SYDNEY, Australia, March 3—(Reuters).—A waterfall going upside down was among the strange sights described by Arthur Scholes, a member of the Antarctic expedition on Heard Island, in a dispatch to the Sydney Sun. "Our scientists witnessed the extraordinary spectacle of a waterfall going upside down," he wrote. "The terrific winds blew the water from the waterfall up into the air, until it gave the impression of a geyser."

Iron Deposits In Quebec Said Important

By The Canadian Press

Opening today of the Ontario Legislature brings to eight the number of provincial houses now in session. The ninth, Nova Scotia's, is due to open March 11.

The provincial parliaments of New Brunswick and British Columbia started their 1948 sittings yesterday.

The British Columbia Throne Speech forecast measures to "alleviate" the rising costs of social services and to meet problems of municipalities seeking educational aids and vital public services, amendments to the Labor code, highway and power developments and greater provision for scientific research. It mentioned no new taxation but reports were current that the government was considering a three-per-cent sales tax.

Opening budget debate in the Quebec Legislative Assembly, George C. Marler, chief Liberal opposition critic of the Union Nationale Government's financial policies, urged revision of the provincial taxation structure. He recommended exemption of building materials from the province's retail sales tax, removal of the sales tax on household electrciity accounts and easing of corporation and gasoline taxes.

Mines Minister Jonathan Robinson, continuing the budget debate, described exploration of iron fields in northern Quebec near the Labrador border as "one of the most important economic developments in modern time." He said iron deposits in that area "present a possible development of one of the greatest industries ever put forth in this province, and perhaps in Canada..."

22 Peterborough County Farmers Sign Contracts In New Unit

Twenty-two Peterborough farmers signed membership contracts at the organization of a local branch of the Maple artificial insemination unit. They listed 330 dairy cows, one-third of the required total of 1,000 which the Maple directors have set for each of the proposed Victoria and Peterborough groups as the minimum number acceptable for extension of the work into this area.

A provisional committee was appointed to begin at once to promote interest in the artificial method of breeding in order that the Peterborough list of 1,000 animals may be obtained as quickly as possible.

The members of that committee are: Fred McIndoo, Harry Young, Earl Doris, Stan Wood, Roger Hanbidge, C. E. Moore, Henry Sharpe and Harry Faulkner.

Eddie Butler was appointed chairman of the general meeting and speakers were W. P. Watson, livestock commissioner of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, G. W. Keffer, president of the Maple Cattle Breeders' Association, Norman Porter one of the York farmers of that association, Mr. R. M. Cockburn, Newmarket, agricultural representative in York county, and Dr. C. W. Reeds of the Maple veterinary staff.

Visited Europe

Mr. Watson related his observations in a visit to Denmark and Great Britain two years ago. Danish dairy farmers, foremost competitor of Canada in the foreign market, have adopted the artificial breeding method on a large scale. They had more than 400,000 cows listed in the 98 units of their national program.

"I consider them about the smartest people in the world," Mr. Wason said, "especially in farming, and I felt that if it was not good for them they would not be in it."

Some of our Ontario farmers may be blindly attached to a scrub bull, but in Great Britain it would be taken from them. "The law in Britain says no man may keep a bull unless it has been first of all inspected, approved and licensed. That has been the law since 1931. There was some agitation during the war to have that restriction lifted, but farmers themselves were the loundest in demanding that the rule be kept in force. By the end of this year it is expected that there will be 20 artificial units serving one or more counties in the Old Land.

The milk marketing board is helping to advance the job of increasing production of milk per cow. The authorities are convinced that milk is the most nutritious food the people can use, and their program is set toward the raising of the volume of milk from the dairy farms at home. The people are not getting enough milk for their needs, but Britain is working toward a definite purpose, and this is one of the means they have adopted for increasing the number of their dairy cows."

Ontario Bill

Mr. Watson said the Ontario government had passed a bill last year authorizing certain substantial assistance to breeding associations who went into the artificial method. For land, buildings, offices, equipment and so on the government contributes one-third of the cost to a maximum of $5,000; it pays one-third the cost of each bull but any payment shall not exceed $600; and there is also a service subsidy of fifty cents.

Ordered Coffee Was Shanghaied

NEW YORK, March 3.—(AP).—The Scot who claimed the United States shanghaied him because he asked for coffee in a British cafe has been ordered deported, his lawyer said yesterday.

John Santora, counsel for Alistair Nicholson, 23, said he would file an appeal from the order this week.

Meanwhile, Nicholson, a native of Glasgow who has an honorable discharge from the United States army, will remain on Ellis Island in New York harbor.

Nicholson surrendered to immigration authorities in Philadelphia Jan. 6. He told a New York newspaper he was forcibly inducted into the U.S. army in Southampton, England, after being mistaken by an officer for a deserter when he ordered coffee instead of the traditional British tea.

OFFICIAL OPENING of this new $115,000 memorial arena at Hespeler has been delayed because the artificial icemaking plant is not completely installed. However that isn't stopping the townspeople from skating and seeing their OHA games in the rink.

Forester Officers To Visit City

Officers of the High Court of the Canadian Order of Foresters will be present at the next regular meeting of the Peterborough Court, March 8. They are Alfred P. VanSomeran, High Secretary, and P. E. Perin, Supecintendent of Organization.

A feature of the meeting will be the installation of a class of candidates with their initiation degrees. The ceremony will be conducted by the Bowmanville degree team, under Bro. William Hawkshaw. Composed of teenage members, the team is the youngest degree team in the Canadian order.

A visiting brother is expected to be special speaker.

Mrs. Louis Blackwell will be in charge of the Auxiliary preparation of refreshments.

Ottawa Papers Publish Premier Drew Excerpts

OTTAWA, March 3. (CP) — The Ottawa Citizen and The Ottawa Journal yesterday published long excerpts from a letter written in 1942 by Premier Drew of Ontario to Prime Minister Mackenzie King criticizing the findings of the Duff Commission which investigated the ill-fated Canadian Army Hong Kong expedition.

In the letter, of which each paper published more than two columns, Premier Drew charged that three days before the Hong Kong expedition sailed in 1941, the Canadian Government was warned by British Intelligence that war with Japan was an early possibility.

The letter has been a subject of controversy in the Commons for several weeks. The Government has agreed to table a paraphrase of the full Hong Kong evidence.

Regarding the Drew letter, Mr. King said his officers had advised him against making it public.

Premier Drew's letter said the Winnipeg Grenadiers and the Quebec Royal Rifles, units which were sent to Hong Kong, were improperly trained and equipped; that there was a "determined effort to withhold information" before the Royal Commission; that many of the commission's conclusions were directly opposed to the evidence, and that from the first there was no intention of holding Hong Kong.

Current demand for tabling the Drew letter marks the second time it has been a central point in the Hong King controversy. Col. Drew, then Conservative leader in Ontario acted as counsel for the Parliamentary Opposition at the 1942 Royal Commission probe conducted by Chief Justice Sir Lyman Duff. After long closed sittings Sir Lyman reported that apart from certain deficiencies in shipping space for vehicles "Canada sent forward, in response to the British request, an expedition which was well-trained and well-provided with equipment."

Col. Drew immediately charged that the report did not reflect the evidence given and that "secrecy has served no purpose except to hide from the public the evidence of inexcusable blundering, confusion and incompetence . . ." On June 24, 1942, action was taken against him under the Defence of Canada Regulations, but later dropped.

In July he sent Prime Minister King a 32-page letter charging the Commission findings were "directly contrary to the evidence." The Prime Minister declined to table the letter at that time because, he said, it violated secrecy under which the Commission's hearings were conducted. A summary and partial text of 7,500 words were distributed to member papers by The Canadian Press, but withheld from publication when the press censors ruled the letter contravened Defence of Canada Regulations.

The demand for tabling was renewed a month ago when the report of Maj.-Gen. G. M. Maltby, Commander of British troops at Hong Kong, said that Canadian troops arrived "inadequately trained for modern war."

Bridges will carry loads and nothing is too small or too great to carry to God in prayer." In conclusion he said "The bridge of prayer is built on a pillar of faith and leads from the pathway of despair."

DOROTHY DIX

TEEN-AGER'S WOES
Girl Of 15 Yearns For Poise That Comes With Maturity

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: I am a girl of 15. My main interest in life is boys. Can you tell me how to attract and influence them to pay me attention, I a man honor roll student in high school, have nice clothes. Am not good - looking, but not what you would call bad-looking. But the boys and girls ignore me and act as though I am not around.

Dorothy Dix

I am a little bashful when with boys. I find it hard to start a conversation and don't talk much. Please tell me what to do.

LONESOME.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: My dear child, there is nothing the matter with you except your age. You are still a child and you want to act like a sophisticated woman of the world, and you are breaking your poor little heart because you can't turn the trick.

You will say, "Sally and Susie are no older than I am, yet they go around with boys and have steadies that they kid around with, and who take them out to parties and the movies, but no boy even walks me home or buys me a soda at the drug store."

That is true enough, but girls don't age alike. Some girls mature earlier than others. Many girls at your age are as much grownup and have as much education, and as much sense, or lack of it, as they will ever have. But you belong in a different class. You are a student. You are developing slowly and you will be in full bloom when they have begun to wither.

Scared Of Boys

All of your troubles are age troubles. You are at the homely age when you have pimples and bumps, and you are all awkward legs and arms and bones. You are so scared of boys you are dumb in their presence and can't think of a word to say, and the boys overlook you because they think you are a mere babe.

But in a couple of years your skin will clear up and you will have a lovely complexion. Your figure will have rounded out so your clothes will look like a style model on you. You will have gained self-confidence because you have worked and studied and made yourself interesting. Everyone will be saying, "What a beautiful girl Mary (or Sally, or whatever your name is) has developed into!"

I know, my dear, because every woman has been through the hobbledehoy stage and knows how trying it is on a girl who wants to be grownup ahead of her time. But don't let it get you down. Just have patience and it will pass and you will be so glad that you bided your time and waited for your day to come.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: We are two young girls of 16, very much in love with two boys who are both in college. We are in school, too. They want us to marry them and stay with them and finish our schooling, which we are thinking of doing as we are ready to settle down. Our problem is: Should we marry them, or stay at home with our parents, who are very good to us, and finish school and marry the boys later? Please give us your advice.

PUZZLED TEEN-AGERS.

ANSWER: My earnest advice to all girls of 16 is to put off marriage until they are at least two or three years old. That is the danger age for girls when they are passing from childhood into womanhood and when they are filled with all sorts of dreams and fancies that change from day to day, and when they don't know what they want of life nor what life has to give them. It is the time of life when every girl is so sloshing over with romance and so in love with love that she can believe herself enamoured of any passable-looking lad who comes her way.

I wish that every girl of that age would learn a lesson from the tragic fate of the boys and girls who made war marriages when they were mere kids that the divorce courts are now trying to undo.

And when was 16 ever ready to settle down? No playtime. No chance to shop around and look the boys over before you tied up with one for good. No experience with the world. Not even time to learn to cook and keep house. It makes one laugh at such a childish view of marriage. If one doesn't cry over it.

✧ ✧ ✧

DEAR MISS DIX: My father beats me up when he gets drunk. He forbids me to go out, and this is beginning to tell, as my friends don't ask me to go out any more. I have a friend who is very serious about me. He lives in a world of dreams and claims he cannot get along without me. He want me to get an apartment of my own so he can come to see me after office hours. What should I do? Leave home and get along on my own, or try to stick it out and continue to be hit by my father?

A.H.

✧ ✧ ✧

ANSWER: Fortunately, you don't have to take either alternative, but if I were you I would rather take Father and the beating than the lad who lives in a world of dreams. There would be more chance of getting three square meals a day.

One Boy In Four Benefits From Activities of YMCA

One boy out of four in Peterborough benefits directly from the activities of the familiar large building at the corner of George and Murray Street — the Young Men's Christian Association.

The "Y" gives to the young a feeling of a world-wide fellowship of men, united by a common loyalty, for the purpose of building a Christian personality, the basis of a Christian society.

About one-quarter of the boys of the city between eight and 16 years of age belong to the YMCA here and take part in its various activities, which cover a broad field.

The "Y" works with the Family Court officials also, endeavouring to see that "bad" boys are given a proper, law-respecting attitude towards life by bringing them into the wholesome atmosphere of honest competitive play creative work.

Probably the best-known project — and certainly the most popular — of the many-sided program of the YMCA is their emphasis and set-up for sports of all types. The gymnasiums, swimming classes, volley-ball, basketball, other sports, are enthusiastically supported by a large enrollment. There are also adequate (and well-used) factilities for craft clubs, discussion groups, movies and leadership training groups.

Last year's program in the athletic department included the annual Public School Swimming Meet, in which 176 boys took part. The learn-to-swim campaign was highly successful, and, for its safety influence alone, may be regarded as a worthwhile community service.

During the summer, Camp Kawartha on Clear Lake provides for many boys thrilling, healthful outdoors expecience during which time they are imbued with a knowledge of woodlore, camping skill and sportsmanship. The cost to a boy to go to camp is low, as are most of the services provided by the "Y." In the city, during the summer, an "indoor summer camp" is operated to teach camping skills and to provide healthy recreation for those boys unable to leave the city.

The facilities of the YMCA have been made available to many outside groups for special programs. There are Cub and Scout groups, Sunday School classes, and out-of-town groups from Keene, Lakefield, Young's Point, Lindsay, and other surrounding centres.

The activities of the "Y" are made available at nominal rates which have not been raised from pre-war levels. The democratic action which this affords also means that the extra revenue must come from elsewhere. Through their share in the Community Chest, the YMCA of Peterborough plans to continue its valuable training in citizenship and sportsmanship, embodied in its symbol of developing body, mind and spirit.

DISCUSS PLANS—Delegates to the annual conventions of the OMEA and AMEU yesterday heard reports on the conditions leading to the present shortage of hydro power in Ontario, and had presented to them the report covering the proposed change-over from 25 to 60-cycle power throughout the province. K. A. Christie of Toronto, honorary vice-president of the OMEA, discusses plans with Mayor J. S. Beck of Brampton (right).

Says Bread Boost Amply Justified

OTTAWA, March 3 (CP).—R. P. Sparks of Ottawa, executive secretary of the National Council of the Bread Industry, contended before the Commons Prices Committee that prices of bakery products have remained relatively low in comparison with those of other commodities.

"There has been a steady increase in other costs while bakery prices have remained fairly constant," Mr. Sparks said.

His testimony was given as the committee, investigating cost-of-living increases, continued its week-long inquiry into bread prices.

Mr. Sparks, dealing with conditions in the baking industry before price decontrol last September, said that in many cases bread was being sold at cost or less.

(Since then, bread prices have gone up generally by about four cents.)

Mr. Sparks said the four-cent increase since controls were removed had been justified.

"With subsidies (on flour) removed, it certainly should have been four cents," he declared.

Mr. Sparks was followed to the stand by George W. Bird of Toronto, purchasing agent for the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company (The A. and P.) which operates a grocery chain in Ontario and Quebec.

—And No Injuries

JOLIET, Ill., March 3 — (AP).—A 50-ton truck containing compressed gas skidded out of control yesterday. Police said it:

1. Hit a tow truck, knocking it over a two-foot curbing;

2. Ripped into the side of Allen Long's house, breaking windows and splintering the wood, and

3. Smashed into five parked cars and a beer truck.

No one was hurt — not even the driver, Joseph Jawalski.

Chandos Institute Aids Children's Fund

CHANDOS, March 3, (ENS). — The Chandos branch of the Women's Institute held on Friday night a card party and pork and bean social at the home of Mrs. Victor Tanner. Marian Roberts won first prize for the ladies, Ernest Tanner for the gents, while the consolation prizes were taken by Mrs. Howard Johnston and Leslie McColl. Eight dollars was raised for the Canadian Appeal for Children fund. The next card party will be held at the school on March 5.

BBC Interview Program Most Popular

By NORMAN CRIBBING.

LONDON, March 3 — (CP). — One of BBC's most popular regular features is a series of interviews with men and women who are "In Town To-night" and the whole thing is carried into millions of homes with an air of spontaneous informality.

But in Broadcasting House there is little spontaneity about the show. Most subjects interviewed are nominated by friends or colleagues, or have been spotted by BBC new scouts. They are first asked to complete a form to the effect that they are (a) willing to be interviewed, (b) are not seeking to be interviewed for commercial motives.

They are given a preliminary interview by an official at Broadcasting House to see if he or she is worthy of being interviewed on Britain's state-owned radio system. If satisfied, the official turns over the subject to a script writer. The finished script is submitted to the program director who, in turn, submits it to the producer.

After final approval, the interviewee is eventually requested to attend a rehearsal which may last anything from two to three hours with a short interval for tea.

The final broadcast, lasting half an hour, permits four or five interviews of six or seven minutes' duration. The fee is moderate, and, when it's all over, interviewees are sometimes heard to ask: "Is it worth while?"

Yes despite the inconvenience few people ever decline to be interviewed.

All types are brought to the microphone weekly—singers, movie projectionists, train drivers, coal miners, actors, newspapermen, and sometimes people doing very humdrum, work-a-day jobs.

Recently Cyril Ramon Newton, former London bandleader, told of his early adventures as a young emigrant to Canada before the First World War — roadmaking, farming, railroading, surveying, and, finally, playing the violin in a Wetaskiwin, Alta., movie theatre where he also had to "light the fires and keep the hall clean."

"In Canada," he told Britons, "there isn't so much distinction between the manual and professional worker....I enjoyed doing both."

Defended Himself But Drank Too Much

FLINT, Mich., March 3—(AP)—Elmer Black, 38, made frequent trips to an ante-room and put more and more emphasis into his gestures while defending himself at his municipal court trial on all assault and battery charge, yesterday.

Curious court attaches finally got a whiff of his breath and police, who found a nearly-empty whisky bottle in his pocket, took him to jail on a drunk charge.

"I had that case won when you guys pulled me out of there," Black protested.

VICTORY OVER FAMINE

Through vast irrigation systems, a special Famine Code and construction of railways, the peril of famine has been lessened so that there has been only one famine in India in the present century.

FINLAND'S PRESIDENT — Juho Passikivi, reported to have received a diplomatic note from Stalin pressing for a mutual defence pact in line with other states in the "Eastern Bloc," has called special conferences with government members, and the foreign relations committee of parliament. The Finnish people are reported awaiting the outcome in "fear and pessimism."

DUST KILLS WEEVILS

The Australian Council for Scientific Industrial Research has released favorable reports on results of tests with mineral dusts as a method of controlling weevils in wheat.

Spiritual Awakening Needed To Meet Religious Apathy

TORONTO, March 3.—(CP).—Of the 6,200,000 Canadians who profess adherence to Christian communions other than Roman Catholic, about 25 per cent are not under pastoral care of their churches, Rev. W. J. Gallagher, secretary of the Canadian Council of Churches, said in a report prepared for delivery today to the annual meeting of the United Church of Canada's Board of Evangelism and Social Service.

"It is evident that our evangelistic, educational and pastoral responsibilities are not being fully met," he said, "No doubt most of our people are decent people but juvenile delinquency, venereal disease, sexual indulgence, divorce, liquor consumption, gambling, crimes of violence and kindred problems have compelled us to recognize a serious decline in our moral and social life.

"We should not exaggerate the decline of these standards, but we should realize that to meet this situation we need good laws, social agencies, economic reforms and especially moral education and spiritual quickening."

A national youth survey made for the Canadian Youth Commission had shown that 58 per cent of Canadian youth said they usually attended church at least once a week. Five per cent said they never attended worship services.

Rev. W. G. Berry of Regina, cited movement of rural population to cities as one of the problems faced by rural churches. He said three Alberta towns which five years ago had three ministers and three surrounding rural congregations now had only one ordained minister and no rural church work. He urged co-operative services among various churches and sects in rural areas.

Rev. E. H. Toye of Toronto, secretary of the Religious-Labor Foundation of Toronto, deplored racial prejuice. He described persecution of Jews as "one of the saddest chapters in human history" and said injustices against negroes "stagger the imagination."

Mr. Berry yesterday presented a resolution criticizing burlesque, peep shows and gambling devices at provincial exhibitions and country fairs.

Another resolution urged that only ministers settled in a pastorate, or those doing regular supply work in a pastoral charge, solemnize marriages of divorced persons.

Even the best get careless momentarily, have a lapse and then realize their slip, even as one a player as Wayne Dorland, who was declarer on this rubber deal in New York's Union League Club. When the heart 3 was led and East put the 9 on the dummy's low card, Mr. Dorland without thinking took the cheap trick with the ten. Then he realized he should have put in the K, since the A was almost surely with West and the Q thereby could become a certain entry to dummy, making it possible to play spades the safest way, with [illegible] high-card rounds.

[illegible] he laid down [illegible] it showed West had [illegible] a singleton and disclosed that Mr. Dorland should have brought in the club A before going to the dummy with spades, as a safeguard against just that situation; if the K hadn't dropped, he still could have led toward the Q to build a ninth trick.

Now, however, he seemed licked. But when he laid down the diamond A and K, the Q and J fell. East's diamond discard on the 7th trick, in hearts, therefore built the 10 as a winner of the trick that produced game. Absolutely perfect play, though, would have won 11 tricks.

Stern Warning Given Heads Of Departments

Warning of personal liability for excess and unauthorized spending this year was a new and sterner note in the council's direction to "all civic spending bodies," recommended by the finance committee, and adopted by the council Monday night.

The memorandum follows: "That all civic spending bodies, chairmen of all committees and heads of all departments be advised that during 1948 they must keep their expenditures within the estimates as finally approved by the city council; and any expenditure not provided for in these estimates must be brought to the finance committee of the council and approved by that committee before they can be incurred; and that the practice of incurring expenditures not authorized in the estimates is contrary to the provisions of the Municipal Act, and civic bodies or persons incurring any unauthorized expenditures will be held strictly to account as provided by the statutes."

After the overdraft experience of last year, the finance committee recently determined that the council was not budgeting for a deficit and that the estimates must be adhered to. The intention of the committee was generally expressed, and the drafting of the resolution was left to City Clerk Outram. The threat of invoking penalties of the Municipal Act was not specifically mentioned at the committee meeting, but the committee asked for something drastic, and evidently Mr. Outram gave them "the works."

The committee report was read by Ald. Raine, who moved its adoption, seconded by Ald. Armstrong, and it passed without dissent. It must be a long time since the council threw the blue book (the statutes of Ontario) at all hands.

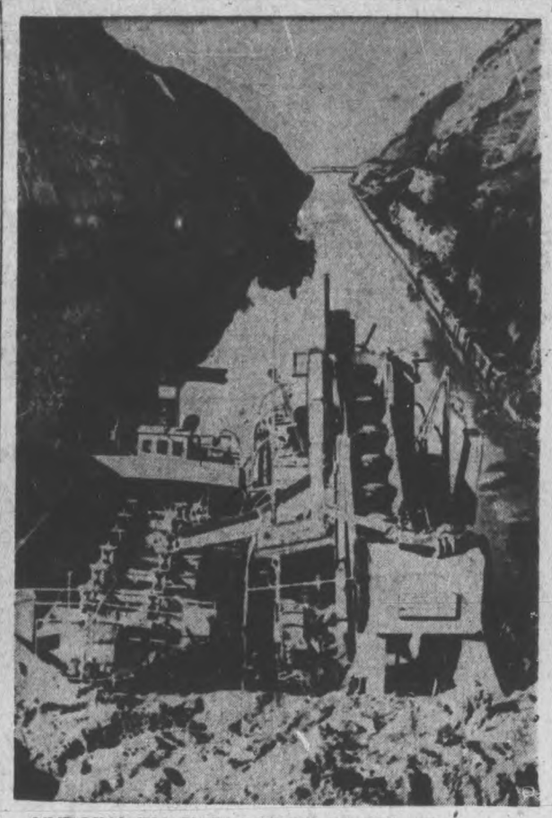
Destroyer Limps Into Port; 1 Dead, 14 Hurt

LONG BEACH, Calif., March 3 —(AP)— The blast-torn United States navy destroyer Duncan reached port today with one man dead, 14 injured and a story of valiant crew work to save their ship after an explosion 200 miles at sea.

The 390-foot ship got home under her own power. A navy tug guided her to dock. The starboard side near the stern was rent along the water line, the jagged opening being more than 30 feet long and three or four feet wide. Steel deck plates were buckled.

Upon arrival the injured were taken off, some by stretcher, and transferred to hospital. The name of the man killed will be announced later. Six sailors were injured, mostly of burns, but the navy said none was in critical condition.



Cmdr. Paul Van Leunen, skipper of the Duncan which was based at San Diego, told reporters the explosion was believed to have been caused by acetylene gas from a leaking container in the shipfitter's shop. There was only one man in the shop at the time, he was killed.

The single explosion did not set off any ammunition, although there was a magazine about 50 feet away.

Several compartments were flooded followed by general flooding aft, but "through the valiant efforts of the crew the water was confined to the damaged area," Van Leunen said.

Crewmen worked hip-deep in the damaged area, shoring up the opening with mattresses and other material to block out the water.

The 2,425-ton Duncan carried 10 officers and 247 men. She sailed from Los Angeles-Long Beach harbor Sunday for Pearl Harbor.

UNDOING BIG NAZI SABOTAGE JOB—The opening, clearing up and deepening of the Corinth canal is one of the major projects undertaken by the U.S. mission for aid to Greece program. When the Germans withdrew from Greece, they did a good job of blocking the canal by blowing up bridges, blasting millions of tons of rock and earth into the cut and running in seventy railroad carriages and several locomotives. Two big dredges are shown at work in Athens at the clearing job. When the canal is put back in commission it will shorten journeys from the Western Mediterranean by 36 hours.

No Dictating In Hours Of Sale Garagemen Say

TORONTO, March 3.—(CP). — H. N. Gzowski, president of the retail gasoline and automotive service division of the Retail Merchants Association of Canada, said today that bylaws passed in 83 Ontario cities and municipalites, restricting hours for gasoline sales, had required 75 per cent support from dealers before consideration by councils.

Mr. Gzowskis statement was in reply to charges by T. J. Mahony, secretary of the Ontario Good Roads Association, at an association meeting here, that "self-appointed directors" were responsible for restrictive hours.

The retail gasoline division of the association, representing 4,800 members, petitioned the Ontatrio government asking for the establishment of zoning regulations, Mr. Gzowski said.

"This can hardly be called a small group of dictating dealers," he said.

Would Amend Order Rationing Clothing

LONDON, March 3—(CP)— Harold Wilson, president of the Board of Trade, said in the Commons he would re-examine a policy which requires clothing ration coupons to be surrendered by needy former servicemen who receive gifts of clothing from Canada.

David Eccles, Conservative member for Chippenham, asked if Wilson would permit clothing sent by the Canadian Red Cross to the British Legion to be given needy ex-servicemen without coupons being surrendered.

"Clothing coupons are required to be surrendered in these circumstances, since there is no guarantee that if coupon-free distribution were permited, the goods would reach the people most in need of them," said Wilson.

"This policy has been reviewed on many occasions, but I am quite prepared to examine the question once again."

Communist Press Admits Czechs Fleeing Over Border

PRAGUE, March 4—(AP).—The Communist press hinted today former Health Minister Adolf Prochazka, his wife and an anti-Communist student leader have fled Czechoslovakia, but mystery surrounded their whereabouts.

Milada, 19, the Minister's daughter, is under arrest after an unsuccessful attempt to escape from the country.

Milada Fronta, a Communist newspaper, said the Prochazkas and student leader Emil Ransdorf escaped across the border. It was the first time the Communist press reported that Czechs were fleeing across the frontiers.

Rude Pravo, the official Communist newspaper, reported the Prochazkas "attempted" escape, but gave no details. Other unconfirmed reports said the three were captured or were across the border in the United States occupation zone of Germany.

The Minister of Information announced President Eduard Benes is convalescing at his country home in Sezimovo Usti, Southern Bohemia, and will not return to Prague this week, as scheduled.

Prochazka is one of the ministers singled out by Communist Premier Klement Gottswald as "an agent of foreign relations."

The Information Ministry has said nothing about the reported escape of the Prochazkas.

President Benes left Prague [illegible] swearing in the [illegible] evidence, meanwhile, that the new gov[illegible] justice, warned that if the committees went beyond their original instructions to "purge reaction" huge economic losses might result.

Farmers Get Less Money

Market Values Of Commodities Slashed

CHICAGO, March 4—(AP)—The American farmer sending produce to market today finds he is getting a lower income from several important items than he did a year ago.

How the farmer's income took a walloping in the recent slash of market values was revealed in a comparison of prices yesterday with March 3, 1947. Such important items as wheat, hogs and cotton were lower.

The hog top at Chicago a year ago was $29.50 a hundred pounds. Yesterday the best price was $24.25.

Farmers are doing a little better with cattle. Good steers and yearlings which brought $21 to $24 at south St. Paul, Minn., a year ago now are bringing $23.50 to $26.30.

But sheep prices are lower. Godo and choice native and fed wooled western lambs were worth $24 to $24.40 at east St. Louis a year ago. Yesterday they brought around $22.

These prices are typical. The same variations with 1947 apply in all livestock markets.

But the feed grains—corn and oats—are much highre than last March. However, this is not as much a help to farmer income as it might appear. He hasn't much feed grains—a result of last year's short corn crop.

Five Nations Agree To Rush Pact

Adjourn To Friday Report Agreement On Salient Points

BRUSSELS, March 4 (CP). — Five-power conference here on western European union adjourned until tomorrow afternoon after an hour's meeting today to allow the British and French delegates to make a closer examination of a draft agreement submitted by the Benelux countries.

A communique said that examination of the draft of the Benelux countries — Belgium, Holland and Luxembourg—"revealed wide agreement between the points of view of the five delegations on the questions of principle" it raised.

It was understood that the Benelux proposals for western union went far beyond the principles of the Dunkerque treaty between Britain and France and of the inter-American mutual assistance pact. Paul-Henri Spaak, Belgian prime minister, opened the meeting at which Fernand Van Langenhove presided.

The Benelux countries, it was learned, advocated a close regional agreement, provision for which are contained in the United Nations charter. The Benelux formula implied mutual assistance and peaceful settlement of all possible differences among the signatories.

Differences would presumably be referred to the international court at The Hague.

The brief meeting was held around a green-covered table in the Sal Vert (Green Hall) at the foreign affairs ministry.

Spaak opened the conference formally, welcoming the delegates to Brussels, and said he hoped the discussions would result in successful conclusion of a five-power agreement.

They were called to study the idea of a treaty and alliance to stop the spread of Communist control.

The delegates were reported to have agreed to proceed with the meeting despite the absence of Gladwyn Jebb, second British delegate, delayed in London by bad weather.

Britain called the conference in line with Foreign Secretary Bevin's proposal for "consolidation of Western Europe," made in the Commons Jan. 22. French officials said they "naturally" approved Bevin's pronouncement.

Experts from the other three governments said yesterday they had arrived at a common attitude for the conference. They did not say what it was.

Relax Import [illegible]

[illegible] at 10 cents a pound, effective March 5.

Imports, confined to carrots without tops, will be allowed in under temporary general permit after March 15, the statement said. The dual move will lower prices on domestic stocks and control the imported product.

Decision to relax the import ban follows the policy announced by Finance Minister Abbott last November that "supplies of basic foodstuffs will be augmented if shortages occur."

For purposes of pricing at wholesale and retail, two zones are established. Zone No. 1 is comprised of the southern and central areas of all provinces plus the Island of Montreal, and Zone No. 2, to be in the northern portions of all provinces plus the Maritimes.

The wholesalers' maximum selling price for carrots is seven cents a pound if his place of business is in Zone 1 and 7¼ cents a pound in Zone 2.

Maximum markup—or margin of profit—allowed a retailer who buys from a wholesale distributor must no exceed 30 per cent.

Palestine Partition May Be Defeated

Canada, China Favor Peaceful Compromise Between Jews, Arabs

LAKE SUCCESS, March 4—(CP)—The plan to partition Palestine headed into new complications today after Canada, backed by China, demanded a "supreme" effort to bring about a peaceful compromise between the Jews and Arabs.

Some observers said it looked as if there might be no Palestine partition as recommended Nov. 29 by the U. N. general assembly.

Gen. A. G. L. McNaughton, emphasizing tthat Canada was not repudiating or abandoning the plan, insisted yesterday that the Security Council should not endorse partition before all possibilities of a settlement through conciliation were exhausted.

China's representative, T. F. Tsiang, declared the Canadian position "eminently reasonable."

McNaughton voiced Canada's opposition to that part of the United States resolution on Palestine which calls for prompt approval of the partition plan by the Security Council. China also said she was against it.

The Canadian delegate said that "even at this late hour conciliation must be tried," and he urged that the Big Five take responsibility for trying to find a solution acceptable to both.

The entry of Canada and China into the ranks of those opposed to the United States resolution appeared to make its defeat virtually certain. Besides these two countries, Syria and Belgium are definitely opposed and Britain is expected to abstain when the issue comes to a vote in the 11-member council.

The United States must muster seven votes to put the resolution across. The council will meet tomorrow to hear Camille Chamoun of Lebanon before taking the vote.

Mother Superior Reports Story of Polish Treasures

QUEBEC, March 4—(CP).—Proceedings in Quebec's Legislature in the midst of a session, generally believed to be a prelude to general elections, were overwhelmed today by the issues surrounding transfer of custody to the Provincial Government of Polish treasure brought to Canada during the war for safe-keeping.

The afternoon newspaper, L'Action Catholique, quoted Premier Duplessis as saying in a statement that the Polish valuables had been removed from a 300-year-old religious community to provincial care.

The statement, which the newspaper said had been given exclusively to it by the Premier, declared that the Provincial Government had intervened to "prevent the repetition of incidents regrettable and profoundly revolting for the population of our province."

L'Action Catholique quoted the Premier as saying the Royal Canadian Mounted Police, who in a later statement of their own, denied the charge, had "violated" the cloister of Quebec's Hotel Dieu, where part of the treasures were kept.

Early today Sister St. Henri, Superior of the Hotel Dieu, issued a statement through a Quebec lawyer explaining the position of the institution.

In the meantime, provincial police who had no comment to make stood 24-hour guard over the treasures stored in steel vaults at the provincial museum located on the historic Plains of Abraham.

The statement by Sister St. Henri said that "several months ago" the Hotel Dieu Sisters had undertaken to keep parcels containing what were described as "precious objects."

The parcels had been received from a "very distinguished man of Polish nationality," said the statement and the "best possible care had been taken to keep them sheltered from all risk."

Sister St. Henri declared that last month "another citizen of the same nationality, as charge d'affaires of the Republic of Poland," had claimed that the treasure parcels "should be given to him."

Ontario Debt Up 14 Millions

TORONTO, March 4. (CP) — Ordinary revenue of $142,875,758 for Ontario during the fiscal period of 1946-47 is shown in the public accounts report tabled in the legislature today.

This includes $31,599,512 from the Dominion government in the form of the annual subsidy, interest and payments in lieu of certain taxes.

The remainder is from such sources as gasoline taxes, mines, lands, corporation, race tracks, royalties, licences and permits, fees, fines and penalties.

At the end of March 1947, the gross debt was $645,221,457. This is an increase of $5,906,134 over the previous years.

When revenue producing and realizable assets are subtracted the net provincial debt stands at $493,087,004—or an increase of $14,667,680 over the year before.

The gross debt includes $563,-263,201 funded debt, $72,578,497 unfunded debt and $9,379,759 accounts payable and accrued interest.

Cost of the three government commissions on education, forestry and milk was $156,499.

Revenue from the gasoline tax totalled $31,260,377 while that received from motor vehicle licences amounted to $10,536,440.

Fishing and hunting licences brought $1,000,866 into the provincial treasury while violation of hunting and fishing laws resulted in confiscation of considerable equipment and fines of $37,201.

Total assets of the province are listed as $742,460,083 and of that amount $505,512,796 is represented in public buildings, highways and provincial lands.

Child Neglect Brings Terms To Both Parents

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP)—Defence counsel today are preparing to appeal conviction of Mrs. Edna Emery and ner husband, Leo Emery, sentenced to reformatory terms on charges of failing to provide for their four young children.

Magistrate Austin O'Connor yesterday sentenced the 29-year-old mother to a term of five months. The father, Leo Emery, is to go for five months definite and one month indefinite.

Although facing other charges, the couple were convicted on the grounds that they failed to provide the necessities of life for their four young children, found abandoned in a trailer Feb. 10.

Two other charges, that of abandoning a child under the age of two and of abandoning children under the age of two and thereby endangering their health, were withdrawn at the request of Crown Attorney Raoul Mercier.

In passing sentence, Magistrate O'Connor sternly warned that "parents cannot dodge the responsibility of caring for their children."

Earlier, yesterday, Leo Emery told a story crowded with marital troubles. He said his wife had gone off leaving him with the four children, the oldest of whom was six, and it was the fourth time she had gone away.

Asked if he should not have remained with the children the night of Feb. 9, when the children suffered from the intense 19-below-zero weather, Emery, who said he had gone out to again search for his wife, shrugged his shoulders and lowered his head.

If negotiations are successful, it is expected that the first race will be run at Tia Juana about May 7.

Retired Admiral Predicts Red Airborne Landing When British Troops Leave

Arab Ambush Traps 17 Jew Militiamen British Heavy Guns In Action; Fear Large-Scale Camel War Due Soon

JERUSALEM, March 4—(AP).—Arabs ambushed a Hagana patrol near Ramallah today and police said 17 Jewish militiamen were killed. Arab sources said the patrol was trying to penetrate through the hills to lay mines on the highway when it encountered Arab defenders. A two-hour gunfight resulted. There was no estimate of Arab casualties. Arabs said the Jewish patrol came from Kalandiya Settlement, which adjoins the airport where the advance party of the United Nations Commission charged with carrying out Holy Land partition landed yesterday.

British heavy guns roared out in the Holy Land during the night under Britain's new policy of firing impartially on Jewish or Arab aggressors.

Two and six-inch guns were fired at Arabs attacking a Jewish quarry. No casualties were reported.

Three-inch mortar shells scattered an Arab patrol which had blown up a culvert between Jerusalem and Mount Scopus. One Arab was believed killed.

Jews from the Hebrew university joined British troops in repulsing what appeared to be an Arab attack on Jewish positions in Jerusalem.

Hagana, the Jewish militia, said in a radio broadcast last night that British residents of Jerusalem had received leaflets supposedly distributed by the "British League of Ex-Servicemen" taking responsibility for the Ben Yehuda street bombing here Feb. 22. Fifty-five Jews were killed in the blast, which Arabs say they set off.

The Stern gang, Jewish underground group, claims responsibility for blowing up a British troop train last Sunday killing 28 British soldiers, in retaliation for the Ben Yehuda street incident. The Stern gang also claims responsibility for yesterday's explosion at Haifa which killed 14 Arabs and wounded 27.

In London, the Earl of Cork and Orrery, retired admiral of the fleet, predicted a Russian airborne landing in Palestine after British troops withdraw.

He told the House of Lords during a foreign affairs debate last night that a large scale civil war between Arabs and Jews probably would follow the British departure unless an international police force were established.

Then, he said, "the Russians will have every excuse for com[illegible] [illegible] on behalf of the Greek [illegible] and [illegible] Iroquois, was announced today. About 200 employees will receive an across-the-board increase of five cents an hour, or a 10 per cent bonus on piece work rates.

Two Children Perish In Cottage Fire

OTTAWA, March 4. (CP) Trapped when flames swept their one-storey winterized cottage at nearby Westboro Beach, Johnny Hayes, aged two, and his brother Tommy, 18 months, died today before firemen could reach them. A third child, David, aged three, made his way to safety.

The blaze broke out while the mother, Mrs. George Hayes, was telephoning at a neighbor's. She suffered painful cuts and burns in a desperate but futile attempt to re-enter the building.

Grief-stricken, Mrs. Hayes said she had left the youngest child in its crib in the cottage and when she left, the two older boys were playing in the yard. When she returned, the building was ablaze.

The fire apparently started when a thin partition near a stove burst into flames without warning.

Finnish Groups Stall Replies

HELSINKI, March 4—(AP)—High officials said today they foresaw little chance of a decision before tomorrow on whether Finland will negotiate with Russia.

Prime Minister Stalin proposed negotiations toward a Finnish-Soviet treaty of friendship and mutual assistance in a letter to Finland's President Juho Paasikivi Feb. 22.

Passikivi is still awaiting the vews of parliamentary blocs toward the pact. He was disclosed last night to have replied to Stalin that the proposal would be taken up through normal Finnish parliamentary and democratic procedures.

Waitress Likely To Recover

Attacker To Have Mental Examination

TORONTO, March 4 —(CP)—Hospital authorities today held every hope for the recovery of 23-year-old Mrs. Margaret (Mickey) Meredith, Sudbury-born waitress, who underwent two major operations Tuesday after being shot in the head Monday night in a downtown restaurant.

Meantime Leslie Davidson, her 29-year-old former piano-playing partner in night club shows, awaits mental examination in the next few days, after being apprehended by police in a west-end club shortly after the shooting. He has been remanded until next Tuesday when he will face an attempted murder charge.

Mrs. Meredith was reported yesterday as having one chance in three to live, but today hospital authorities said her condition is much improved. She will be partially paralyzed.

It was learned from her brother Gordon Ashby that Mrs. Meredith was able to speak to her father Albert Ashby for a few minutes last night.

Police charge that Davidson, insane with jealousy, fired the point-blank shot at the waitress in full view of restaurant patrons Monday night. He was found playing the piano in a club.

Wants Vote Given All Over 18 Years

Trades, Labor Brief Favors Program On Contributory Basis

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP)—The Trades and Labor Congress said today in a brief presented to the cabinet that Canada has "urgent need" of a national social security program.

The T.L.C. said it favors social security legislation on a contributory basis covering all citizens regardless of income. The program should include, in addition to the existing unemployment insurance plan, "a full and comprehensive health-insurance scheme, accident and hospitalization benefits, old-age pensions, mothers' and widows' allowances."

The congress, whose annual submissions to the government were started 65 years ago, reiterated its desire for price controls, a national labor code, strengthening of the unemployment insurance act, "proper" old-age pensions, increases in income-tax exemptions and a "comprehensive" national housing scheme.

Other recommendations:

1. That immigration be the "exclusive responsibility" of government.

2. That the vote be given to all citizens over 18.

3. Prohibition of injunctions in labor disputes "at least until both sides have been given an opportunity of appearing and stating their side of the case."

4. A 40-hour work week for all employees under federal jurisdiction.

5. Maintenance of the CBC "as a government-owned utility with full control in the issuing of licences for the operation of all Canadian broadcasting stations."

6. Appointment of a parliamentary committee to examine and amend the Canada Shipping Act.

The brief, presented by a delegation headed by TLC president Percy Bengough, noted that "one has to admit that progress has not been rapid" in the light of 65 years of requesting labor and social legislation.

"However, as a result of these annual presentations, a great deal of valuable legislation has been enacted to the benefit of the working people and to most Canadian citizens. For this reason we believe our interviews with governments are worthwhile . . ."

The Congress said it realizes the difficulties caused by the British-North America Act in connection with an "all-embracing social security program."

"However, we do feel that this museum piece of legislation should not be allowed to persistently stand in the way of progress toward a better life for all of our citizens and in the face of the need of uniform labor and social laws . . . so necessary if we are to attain national unity."

Reimpose Price Controls

The brief urged protection of the standard of living by re-establishment of price controls on all essential goods and by imposition of a 100-per-cent tax on excess profits, prosecution of all cartels, monopolies and speculators found guilty of profiteering.

The Congress said it was not in accord with all provisions of Bill 338, the labor code legislation introduced during the last session of parliament but was "prepared to accept it as drafted as a good start in the right direction."

On unemployment insurance, the brief said:

"We request that the act be amended to include the recommendation of the advisory committee on unemployment insurance to establish a higher grade with higher contributions and benefits ar[illegible] the [illegible] urged a "full and proper" old-age pension system, with those qualifying reduced to 60 years.

The Congress asked that income tax exemptions be boosted to $2,400 for married persons and to $1,200 for single persons, with a $400 exemption for each child and "no portion of family allowance refundable to the government, irrespective of income."

forbade us formally to accede to the request . . . and ordered us to deliver the deposit to the provincial museum."

The statement continued:

"We then addressed ourselves to the premier of the province, who consented to transportation of the parcels to the provincial museum . . ."

The statement noted that there had been no "seizure" by the provincial government and the treasures had "never been under protection of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police."

"We accepted the deposit and remitted it according to instruction from the person who had effected it," the statement concluded.

Aid To Low-cost Housing Forecast In Throne Speech

TORONTO, March 4—(CP).—With Government plans to take a hand in the low-cost housing field well up on the agenda, the Ontario Legislature today tackled the debate on the Throne Speech.

Thomas Pryde, newly-elected Progressive Conservative member for Huron, was scheduled to move the Address in Reply to the Speech, read to the 90-member House yesterday by Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson.

Although not outlined in any detail, the proposal for legislation to encourage construction of low-cost housing in Ontario has stirred the most interest.

In regard to housing, the Speech said simply:

"Now that the increasing availability of essential supplies, for the first time, makes it possible for the Provinical Legislature to deal effectively with this matter, you will be called upon to consider measures designed to greatly increase the construction of low-cost accommodation in this province."

Just what form the plan will take won't be known until legislation is introduced in the House, possibly next week.

The announcement suggests that the province will not go into the home construction business itself but that it might promote a building scheme among companies already working at it privately or even supply financial aid to individuals wishing to build.

Dominion - provincial relations were discussed in the speech and it regretted that the Federal government had held by its refusal to reconvene the Dominion-provincial conference.

The province would wait no longer for any break in the stalemate, the speech said, but would go ahead with a review of provincial taxation fields. The idea would be to rearrange taxation so that municipalities would have more sources of revenue, thus relieving the province of having to supply grants as large as at present.

On the matter of Hydro expansion, the legislature will be called upon to approve the changeover from 25 to 60-cycle power in Southern Ontario. Other points in the program are the introduction of steam generation in a general power increase development to cost "several hundred million dollars," and rural electrification for an added 30,000 consumers in 1948. Rural power installations would involve construction of 3,400 miles of new line and would bring to 226,500 consumers the number supplied in rural districts.

4 Drama Groups In Festival

MEDICINE HAT, Alta., March 4.—(CP).—Players from four Alberta drama groups compete tomorrow evening and Saturday in the province's 1948 festival, whose winners will represent Alberta next month in the Dominion Drama Festival at Ottawa.

Chosen in four sub-regional contests conducted since early February, the groups are drawn from Calgary, Banff, Medicine Hat and Coleman.

Their plays—none Canadian-written—are "The Shadow of the Glen," "Maistre Pierre Patelon," "Intermezzo" and "The Monkey's Paw." Actor Robert Stuart of London, England, is adjudicator.

Calgary's Workshop 14 Drama Club, offering "Patelon," is given high chances for success in the regionals.

The Medicine Hat Little Theatre group will do Vincent Godefray's "Intermezzo." "The Shadow of the Glen" is to be given by the Banff Literary Dramatic Club.

State Under-Secretary Robert A. Lovett, meanwhile, told a Washington press conference the United States wants any western European union to be strictly European. He said the United States would not take part in the Brussels meeting.

Lord Vansittart, chief diplomatic adviser to the Chamberlain government from 1938 to 1941, said in the House of Lords last night Britain should form "the closest union with the United States."

"What Stalin has done recently in Czechoslovakia," he said, "showed clearly that he would run the risk of a European war as recklessly as Hitler, were it not for the restraining factor of American strength."

Bevin did not propose a military union specifically in his speech. But a spokesman for the British foreign office said he had in mind such an alliance.

The Foreign Secretary said action was needed because the Russians were trying by "every means in their power to get Communist control of eastern Europe and, as it now appears, in the west as well.

28 Men Missing After Explosion

MILAN, March 4—(AP)—A large military powder magazine between Argisate and Induno exploded early today. A number of persons were in hospital with injuries and there was heavy property damage.

Some of the 28 watchmen on duty at the time of the blast were missing and four were said to be gravely wounded. Houses in Induno, in Varese province, collapsed and thousands of windows were smashed.

The blast which shook the town like an earthquake could be heard clearly in Milan, 30 miles away.

Induno was evacuated because of the fear of other blasts in 17 other munitions depots in the same area. Rescue workers were hampered by a fire which followed the explosion.

Art Treasures Statement Expected Today

OTTAWA, March 4 — (CP). — A long-awaited formal government statement on the missing Polish art treasures — some of which were seized Feb. 25 by the Quebec government — may be made in the Commons today by External Affairs Minister St. Laurent.

He told the Commons yesterday that he prepared a report on the matter, with special reference to the part played by the R.C.M.P., but postponed his pronouncement because of a newspaper dispatch from Quebec City.

Meanwhile, the R.C.M.P. last night issued a statement that it had made "no demand to enter" . . . much less search" Hotel Dieu, a hospital and church institution at Quebec City.

The statement apparently was issued in reply to a story in l'Action Catholique which said that Premier Duplessis "gave orders to liberate the sisters of the Hotel Dieu from grave and disgraceful annoyance" by R.C.M.P. officers who forced them to open their "cloister doors."

The report that the Quebec government "impounded" the treasures in the provincial museum "pending decision as to ownership," was confirmed Tuesday by government sources.

The R.C.M.P. statement said that last December the Federal government instructed R.C.M.P. Commissioner S. T. Wood to locate the missing $1,000,000 treasures and "endeavor to keep the same under surveillance until a decision could be reached as to what action might be taken by the Polish legation."

Last month a part of the treasures — 23 trunks and one box — had been found in the Quebec City institution. They previously had been stored in the Redemptorist Monastery at Ste. Anne de Beaupre, Que.

The Mother Superior of Hotel Dieu had "quite readily informed" R.C.M.P. officers that the treasures were there and had offered to show them.

At Quebec, Sister St. Henri, Superior of the Hotel Dieu, issued a statement in which the conduct of the R.C.M.P. was not mentioned. She indicated that a mysterious "Polish gentleman" had first brought the treasures to the institution and had arranged for their transfer to the museum when he learned an "agent" of the Polish republic was seeking them.

It is believed the statement which Mr. St. Laurent may make today will reaffirm the official R.C.M.P. statement. He told the Commons yesterday that the Quebec dispatch was "extraordinary in terms" and "inaccurate in its assertions."

Canadian Painter To Be Honored

OTTAWA, March 4 —(CP) — In its largest single exhibition in months, the National Gallery tonight will pay tribute to the memory of one of Canada's finest painters.

Three rooms in the grey-stone structure, which houses many of the world's art treasurers, have been given over to an exhibition of Prudence Heward's paintings.

The Montreal-born artist, who died a year ago, was chiefly known as a portrait painter, but art-lovers who attended the opening will see several of her landscapes as well.

"Like Tom Thomson, she had a deep affection for Canada, for her native province of Quebes and her beloved Fernbank in Ontario, and for her friends and neighbours who often served as her models," said H. O. McCurry, gallery direc-

After a month at the gallery the collection probably will be shown in Montreal and Toronto.

Welch Admits Buying Some Strychnine

ST. THOMAS, March 4. (CP) — Joseph Vernon Welch, 25, charged with the strychanine murder of his wife, Florence, at Aylmer last Aug. 21, testified in his own defence today and told of a drinking spree in a hotel room just prior to the death of his wife.

In one of three statements read in court, Welch told of an unhappy marriage that almost led him to commit suicide.

He said previously he had bought a small amount of strychnine in a St. Thomas drug store with the intention of killing himself. He said he thought his wife must have taken some from the capsule in his coat.

While drinking in the hotel room with Julie Parsons, he said he could not recall having asked her to marry him although he thought she was "naive."

On July 25, they met for the second time in a Toronto hotel room and stayed until 12.35 a.m. until the hotel clerk telephoned to "get that woman out of your room." On this occasion, however, he may have proposed to the girl.

The following afternoon they visited a cocktail bar and he said Miss Parsons was barely able to stand when they left to go to a hotel where the girl, partly undressed, talked on the telephone for half an hour to a man and used "very endearing terms."

It was then he decided he was making a fool of himself and that he had better go home to his wife.

Julie, however, stayed all night and most of the next day with him at the hotel.

When he returned to his apartment at Aylmer he found his wife sick in bed after collapsing while at work.

The next day, his wife showed him an unopened letter addressed to him with the name of Julie Parsons on the envelope. They quarreled.

In anger he packed his clothes and left the house but returned 15 minutes when stricken by remorse. His mother-in-law was there and the marital situation was discussed, agreement being reached they would continue to live together.

A few days later, Welch and his wife went to Niagara Falls for two days and it was like "a second honeymoon."

He testified his wife was taken ill twice during the trip and he took her to a doctor on their return.

The witness was questioned about his purchase of the poison in St. Thomas Aug. 20. He admitted signing a fictitious name, saying his reason for doing so that if he committed suicde, no suspicion would fall on his wife.

The next morning she was violently ill and he went for a doctor, who sent him to the drug store for sodium amitol, only to be sent back because it was the wrong article. He called an ambulance and his wife died a few minutes later.

The trial is continuing.

J. A. McIntyre Takes U. S. Trip

J. Arthur McIntyre is leaving Sunday night from Toronto with Case machinery company dealers of Ontario and Quebec on a visit to its manufacturing plants in Wisconsin, Iowa and Illinois.

The party is travelling by special train of diners and pullmans which will be their home on the road until their return to Toronto, Friday night. The tour includes Racine, Wis., Wellington and Bettendorf, Iowa, and Rockport and Rock Island, Illinois.

"This is an educational trip for the dealers," Mr. McIntyre said today. "It has been planned to give particularly the Case men in the two provinces an opportunity to get a lot of details of the industry and its products."

Fifty-three people were "imported" to fill local openings and 96 were transferred out of town to fill requirements.

NZ Must Cut Imports

AUCKLAND, N.Z. — (CP). — Industries and Commerce Minister Nordmeyer told a meeting of manufacturers here that if New Zealand were to live within her means she could not continue to import at last year's level. Import licences last year totalled $390,000,000.

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. — Eddie Dyer, manager of St. Louis Cardinals, received a brain concussion to-day when he was hit in the back of the head with a baseball during batting practice. Hospital officials said his condition was good and that there was no fracture of the skull.

80 Cocktail Licenses Being Sought

TORONTO, March 4 — Temperance forces in Toronto earned a clear-cut victory in their battle against cocktail lounge at Bloor and Dundas Sts. At the March 2 deadline for advertising applications for licenses, there were 80 notices published for premises throughout Toronto. But there was none for the mystery building at the south-east corner of Bloor and Dundas.

Paul Yoanu, one of the four owners of the building, said last night: "We decided against it because there is no chance for us to get a license with all those people against it. There is no use fighting We like to live in the city, and we want to go into that neighborhood in business, so why go against all those people and organizations when we want to do business there. We will likely open a restaurant there."

License applications for everything from steam baths to dog kennel clubs are included in the total 80. But the number is far short of the record 128 applications which faced the board at its initial session.

Four license applications for establishments on Centre Island are included in the number. Only one, that of the Manitou Hotel, is for a license permitting sale of cocktails with meals. A second, by the Pierson Hotel, for a Public House license. Two others, by Arthur Bowden for the Wayside Inn, and by Nina Ward for Ward's Restaurant, are for Dining Room licenses permitting sale of beer and wine with meals. All four are located within 500 feet on Manitou Rd.

W. J. Sutherland, manager of the Manitou Hotel, said he would apply to board for permission to close at midnight if his dining lounge license were approved.

"We are in the hotel business primarily," he said. "We don't want to annoy our guests or our neighbors by remaining open later than midnight."

In many of the applications, applicants point out that premises are either to be built or remodelled.

15 Years Ago Roosevelt Elected President

WASHINGTON, March 4 —(AP)— Fifteen years ago today tradition-smashing Franklin D Roosevelt started his presidential career by smashing a tradition.

When Chief Justice Charles Evans Hughes read the presidential oath of office, Roosevelt did not follow with the usual phrase-by-phrase repetition of the oath He waited until Hughes had finished and then repeated the entire 35-word pledge in one unbroken statement.

Then in an effort to bolster the spirit of a country with a bad case of the hard-times jiters, he launched into a confidence-studded inaugural speech.

"So, first of all," he said, "Let me assert my firm belief that the only thing we have to fear is fear itself."

Pledging government action on "first things first," he said:

"I shall ask the Congress for broad executive power as great as the power that would be given me if we were, in fact, invaded by a foreign foe."

Next day he closed the country's banks until they could be re-opened on a sounder footing. Then he called Congress into special session for emergency action.

Eight days after his inauguaration, Roosevelt began the series of fireside radio chats which delighted his friends, exasperated his enemies and impressed multitudes of voters.

During his famous "100 days," Congress swiftly ground out legislation, tailored almost completely to his order. He deluged Congress with messages. Revolutionary economic measures sometimes swept through both houses in a single day.

To aid an estimated 12,000,000 unemployed, Congress approved a $3,300,000,000 public works program. A fund of $500,000,000 was voted for States which matched Federal money in furnishing food and shelter for the needy.

Other billions were voted to help families threatened with the loss of homes and farms by mortgage foreclosures.

Mill Rate Today Highest? Cobourg Oldsters Say No; It's Highest Since '23, Anyway

COBOURG, Mar. 4 — (ENS) — Town Clerk John Ewart has dug down in the files for comparative figures of tax rates for the town of Cobourg from 1923 to this year. It is believed that the new tax rate of 53 mills is the highest yet. It is the highest since 1923 but some of the "old timers" are willing to wager that one time many years ago, the tax rate was even higher.

False economy by past councils in keeping the tax rate down at the expense of future efficiency, is blamed for the fact that the cumulative result has been that this year, changes have to be made and they all cost money. Streets have deteriorated and a sewer and water expansion program that could have been started long ago would have made it unnecessary to spend several hundred thousand during the next few years to bring things up to modern efficiency.

During the past 26 years the assessment has risen from $2,813,200 in 1923 to the present figure of $3,253,165. During those years, the lowest tax rate was in 1945 when it was 35.5 mills. Back in 1923 the mill rate was 42 mills. It reached 47 mills by 1925 and then dropped to 45 in 1926, remaining the same in the ensuing year and climbing again in 1928. It rose during the depression years and stood at 52.82 in 1932, a shade off the present mill rate. It started to drop again in the next few years and was down to 40.5 in 1941. The rate dropped down to 35.50 mills in 1945, went up almost five mills the next year and jumped seven mills in 1947.

It is felt by experienced observers here that the 1948 jump of six mills does little more than scratch the surface as debenture payments on sewer etxension and wartime housing will boost it more.

91 Years Old This Week Still Rides Horseback

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4 — (ENS). — Ninety-one years old on Saturday, John Wesley Sweet, Campbellford, said in an interview Wednesday, "I just can't wait for spring to come so I can do some horseback riding."

When queried about his riding, Mr. Sweet said, "I broke in an unruly colt my son had last year but they didn't know how to handle him and he soon became spoiled again."

While watching a square dance, Mr. Sweet said it was "a bit too fast" for him, but when the orchestra played an old time waltz he found it more to his liking and did a few turns on the floor.

Attributing his good health to plenty of outdoor exercise and regular habits, Mr. Sweet said, "hard work never hurt anybody."

A native of Napanee, Mr. Sweet has lived in Campbellford for the last 45 years. At one time he owned and operated a grocery store here but has had a varied career as a farmer, blacksmith and carpenter.

Has Had Week's Vacation In 28 Years: Too Busy!

CAMPBELLFORD, March 4 — (ENS)—One week's vacation in 28 years — that's the record of John MacGregor, the municipal clerk.

In 1929, after 10 years in the town office, Mr. MacGregor took seven days off for a round trip to Montreal, Ottawa, and home again. However, in 1939, he missed out on his week's vacation because of the pressure of municipal business. In 1949 he may make up for it by taking two weeks off.

A recent memorandum from the Department of Municipal Affairs states: "Every employee of a municipality shall be given a vacation of at least a week with pay for every working year of his employment."

When asked if he would take advantage of this privilege this year, Mr. MacGregor smiled wryly and looked at the municipal calendar—every day except Sunday, marks a deadline when a certain report must be completed or in the mail. There was no provision for holidays, Department ruling or not.

Cut Sales Tax Liberal Asks Commons

OTTAWA, Mar. 4—(CP)—Dr. T. V. Grant (L, King's) said Wednesday in the Commons that the federal 8 per cent sales tax should be abolished, and the 25 per cent excise tax should be eliminated on essential goods.

Resuming debate on the throne speech, Dr. Grant said he believed the government now could afford to make the tax reductions and thereby decrease living costs.

He spent much of his speech chiding W. Chester S. McLure (PC Queens) for attempting to take the credit for what the Liberal Government is doing for Prince Edward Island.

Dr. Grant said the Progressive Conservatives did nothing for the Island while they were in office. Fishermen were allowed to starve and their boats were left to rot. Liberals loaned fishermen money, built them boats and had them back on a prosperous footing before the war he maintained.

E. G. McCullagh (CCF, Assiniboia) charged that old age pensioners have been treated "shamefully" by the present government. The laborers and the farmers, who worked under frozen wage and price ceilings during the war, have not received their due.

The government also was giving "niggardly" treatment to veterans who needed professional loans to rehabilitate themselves.

Mr. McCullagh said the Dominion and the provinces have made a practice of "passing the buck" in labor matters.

He criticized the government for retaining ownership of war plants which could have been used for the manufacture of fertilizer at a price within the reach of farmers. The action would have helped conserve the soil.

Refers DP Servant Question To Women

COBOURG, March 4 (ENS) — The Cobourg Chamber of Commerce has decided to pass on the question of displaced persons as domestics to the women's organizations of the town. The local employment office had asked the secretary-manager of the Cobourg Chamber to "sound out" the members on the matter. Opinion was divided on the wisdom of employing DP's as domestics. The upshot of the discussion has been the decision to refer it back to the employment office, with the suggestion that women's groups take it up.

Storm Over Hong Kong

The secrecy veiling the Royal Commission's 1942 report on the Canadian Hong Kong force and Mr. Drew's letter of that year to Mr. King has occasioned sharp discussion in parliament and considerable editorial bellowing in some newspapers. The crux of the matter is that the Duff Commission had access to secret information from the British War Office and Government. Mr. Drew did not agree with the findings of the Commission, and in his private letter to Mr. King, he disclosed parts of the secret British messages.

• • •

It seems fair to demand that the Government make public both the correspondence about the Hong Kong force and the Duff Report if it can do so without revealing information which the British Government and War Office originally supplied and wish still to be kept secret. Mr. King has finally consented to the publication of an edited version of the Report. Certain sections will be withheld from all but the leaders of the Opposition parties. He is still unwilling to make public the Drew letter, on the grounds that to do so would violate the pledge of secrecy given the British. The Ottawa Citizen has lately printed extensive excerpts from it — presumably as much as can be made public.

• • •

If there was military incompetence and governmental mismanagement in the equipping and despatching of the two Canadian regiments to Hong Kong the public has a right to know about it. If untrained troops were sent, the public can rightly enquire why. If they were sent at a time when Ottawa knew that Hong Kong might shortly become a battleground, that information need not be kept secret.

• • •

It is easy to be wise after an event and to forget the exigencies of 1941. It is easy to find fault when a battle has been lost. Critics must remember, however, that Canada's army was mobilized in 1939, two years before the Hong Kong force was despatched (October 27th, 1941). The soldiers in it were not raw recruits, though they lacked the luck of the 3rd Division, which had four years of preparation before "D"-Day in Normandy.

• • •

What seems to be agitating Mr. Drew and the political opponents of Prime Minister King is the possibility that the Canadians being sent to Hong Kong in 1941 would immediately have to engage the Japs. Five weeks before Pearl Harbour (December 7th, 1941) Mr. Hull, the American Secretary of State, warned President Roosevelt that the far eastern situation[illegible] division received in Washington at the very hour that bombs were dropping on Pearl Harbour. If President Roosevelt did not foresee Pearl Harbour, could Mr. King have foreseen Hong Kong which the Japs attacked the same day?

Lord Wavell, Commander-in-Chief in India, has stated that "The attempt to hold the Netherlands East Indies cost us Burma and placed India in peril. Nevertheless it was the right, the only decision". As the Ottawa Citizen remarks, the attempt to hold Hong Kong may have been a comparable blunder, but it had to be made.

Another Investigation Of Profits

A group of businessmen in London, Ont., recently decided to publish a joint statement showing how much money passed through their hands in a year, and what they did with it. They were moved to this action by the current talk of high profits, and they decided to make a public declaration, the accuracy of which is attested by the London Chamber of Commerce. The firms contributing to this survey were:

Empire Brass Manufacturing Co. Ltd.
Dennisteel Corp. Ltd.
Geo. White and Sons Co. Ltd.
Holeproof Hosiery Co. Ltd.
Kelvinator of Canada Ltd.
London Concrete Machinery Co. Ltd.
Richards-Wilcox Canadian Co. Ltd.
Scott-McHale Ltd.
Sparton of Canada Ltd.

• • •

The nine companies did an aggregate business in one year of $16,921,375, and this is how the money was distributed:

(1) Materials and general overhead $9,529,055
(2) Taxes, including sales tax $1,951,052
(3) Paid to workers $4,612,834
(4) Paid to shareholders .... $ 292,166
(5) Re-invested in buildings, machinery, working capital $ 536,268

This table shows the distribution of each dollar received:

(1) 56¼ cents for materials, etc. (see above).
(2) 11½ cents for taxes.
(3) 27¼ cents to workers.
(4) 1¾ cents to shareholders for use of the property and machines.
(5) 3¼ cents into new buildings, machinery, inventory, working capital and reserves.

(We are indebted to Mr. R. J. Deachman, the Ottawa economist, for this tabulation.)

• • •

A careful examination of this table will show that far more than the items marked (3) go to labour; obviously a great deal of what is paid for materials and overhead is going to labour as well. Money paid in taxes also finds its way, in some proportion, to labour. And the money which is re-invested in buildings and machinery also contributes to labour. What capital gets out of a business is remarkably little compared with the amount which finds its way, eventually or directly, to workers of all kinds.

• • •

These figures show that the shareholder is not by any means the chief gainer from these businesses; raw materials and overhead took thirty-two times as much out of these businesses as the shareholders did, and labour received fifteen times as much as capital from them.

• • •

The chief task of a business manager is to keep his business solvent — and that means a great deal more than merely balancing his income and his expenses every week. Reserves must be set up for bad times, and money must be put into new equipment and new buildings. Furthermore, the people who make money available for businesses to begin work in the first place must have something for their investment. That some businesses are greedy for large profits is undoubtedly true, but the majority of businesses are run on sober and conservative lines, and their margin of profit, as these figures show, is not a great proportion of their total year's business.

Barrington-Ward Dies

It is with regret that we hear of the death of Robert McGowan Barrington-[illegible] the Times. He was well [illegible] Canada and had many friends in newspaper circles here.

The Times is traditionally a Conservative paper, but when the Labour Government was elected in 1945 Barrington-Ward decided that his paper would give it every possible support. He followed this policy consistently, commending often and generously, criticising infrequently and with equal generosity of spirit. He takes his place fittingly in the great succession of Times editors.

It is reported that in Prague there were five times as many pictures of the popular Barbara Ann Scott as of Rita Hayworth. No count was made of the pictures of Stalin.

Our London Letter

By A. D. CAMBRIDGE

ON the home front, London continues to shiver in the icy blasts of the unwelcome cold wave. The weather has become a little warmer than the last week-end, but snow is still on the ground, and the thermometer continues to hover about the freezing point. Curiously enough, the warmest place in the entire British Isles this week has been the extreme north of Scotland.

✧ ✧ ✧

A SCENE to remember is that of the Englishman Battling The Elements. It is too pathetic. The good people of London are to be seen out on the streets, clearing the snow off the sidewalks in front of their homes with little shovels about 18 inches long, of the type we keep in fireplace sets. For personal warmth, bicycle clips about the bottoms of trousers are favoured, or knee-length rubber boots with the trousers tucked in. These combinations are topped by a scarf or scarves wrapped about the head in the manner you associate with aching teeth. The Englishman is then ready to sally forth into the storm, armed with the inevitable black umbrella, which is held as a shield or buckler against the driving snow. To see one of these figures so equipped, is a fearsome sight at dusk. The weatherman is cautiously optimistic however, so by the end of the week we may be spared such sights.

✧ ✧ ✧

LAST week in Parliament saw the presentation of the budgets of the various armed services. To no one's surprise, they remain high, but represent a considerable reduction over those of last year. The overall total for army, navy, and airforce is approximately $2,770 millions, a reduction of about $732 millions over last year. There has been some surprise that the reduction was not greater, since Britain's military commitments have dropped considerably. The withdrawal from India, and the impending withdrawal from Palestine relieves the armed forces of a major burden. On the other hand, as long as universal military conscription is maintained and Germany occupied, the expenditure will remain higher than pre-war, and the same big increases in the costs of civilian life are reflected in the military. There has been a certain amount of hue and cry over the military weaknesses, especially in the Royal Navy. One M.P. has stated the Navy has fewer ships in commission than at any time in the last 400 years. To this the Navy has made the only possible answer that quality not quantity is the thing. A hint of the efforts being made to increase that quality was given tonight, with the announcement of a new speed record for the 100 kilometre distance, set up by a service Navy jet fighter, the Supermarine Attacker. The speed was given as better than 560 m.p.h., an unheard of speed for a shipboard fighter, whose performance is usually curtailed by landing speed and runway requirements in comparison with landbased fighters.

✧ ✧ ✧

LONDONERS were agreeably surprised with the announcement of a new bus service for the summer. The service is rather unique in that the buses will run on the Thames, being large motor launches capable of carrying 150 passengers. It is planned to run the launches on a half hourly service schedule between Putney and the Tower Bridge, at a fare approximately the same as that charged by the more prosaic land buses. This should prove a highly popular service indeed on hot summer days.

THE London Transport Board,—the controlling body of all street and underground transportation services for London and district,—is to be congratulated on the energetic way it has tackled the problem of too many people trying to use too few buses, trams, and underground trains, of which this latest "water bus" service is but one example. Like public transport bodies everywhere, the L.T.B. has been plagued with lack of replacements and a vastly increased demand for public transportation. In December they effected a clever arrangement with the owners of private buses, who normally only use their buses in the summer months for charter work, laying them up for the rest of the year. Under this agreement, 400 private buses were put on the busier routes at rush hours, and have substantially reduced waiting crowds. Instead of the usual L.T.B. bus painted a fire-engine red, the surprised commuter has found himself travelling in coaches painted orchid-and-cream, green-and-gold, [illegible] were until recently even more remarkable—for their fauna. Workmen clearing rubble found remains of rats and rabbits, which suggested that a predatory animal had made its home in the devastation.

Later they discovered that a badger had indeed established himself in the heart of the city. A Polish paper, reporting the find, recalled Dr. Julian Huxley's suggestion that the future of the world might belong to rats if man persisted in internecine quarrels; this badger, it commented, showed how quickly even the larger animals would invade a city that had recently boasted a population of over 1,000,000 souls if man abdicated his dominion. The badger was thought to have come into Warsaw's ruins after the abortive rising in the Autumn of 1944. He was not permitted to remain in his chosen home, but still lives in his country's capital—in the zoo. —Manchester Guardian.

WILL THE SNOW FENCE HOLD?

Research Will Save Babies' Lives

(UNITED KINGDON INFORMATION)

A REPORT in the London press the other day of a "miraculous" operation on a newly born child has focussed attention on a line of medical research in Britain which will ultimately result in the saving of thousands of infant lives.

This research is in the hands of three teams of London medical scientists. One of these teams works in the Blood Group Reference Laboratory of the British National Blood Transfusion Service at the Lister Institute. Its main objective is to supply blood-testing serum to the National Blood Transfusion Service as well as to many countries overseas. A subsidiary aim—yet one of far wider significance—is to advance research on the RH Factor, hitherto an inexplicable cause of infant mortality, and to apply its results to the saving of life.

Briefly, the RH Factor is a subtle chemical substance which is contained in the blood of 85% of men and women of European origin who are "RH positive". It is not present in the remaining negative 15%. In the case of an RH negative woman who is married to an RH positive man, the husband may pass on the RH Factor to his child and, in rare cases, the mother's body reacts to the blood in the child's body as it would to any foreign substance such as infectious germs. That is, it makes an antibody which destroys the foreign blood. As a result the child may be born with severe anaemia due to the destruction of its blood and with jaundice produced by the products of this destruction.

Today, thanks to the intensified research that has been conducted on the RH Factor, it is possible to know in advance when there is a likelihood of such a birth and to save the life of the new-born baby by giving it an immediate transfusion of RH negative blood. The recent report referred to such a case as this—the successful operation giving the "doomed" child the same expectation of life as any other baby.

THE incidence is extremely low — these cases occur only in about one out of 200 births. Even of those families where the mother is RH negative and the father RH positive, only one in twenty is affected. Nevertheless, when one considers that many millions of babies are born into the world each year, it becomes obvious that the United Kingdom development in this field may mean eventually the saving of thousands of infant lives each year.

United Kingdom scientists lead the world in research into the RH Factor. The Blood Group Reference Laboratory is one of their main channels of communication with the medical profession, and its advice is sought by doctors from all parts of the world. Dr. Mourant, who is the Director, recently showed me his visitors' book. It contained names with addresses in the five continents—men who had come to the Lister Institute to hear of the new developments which they will eventually apply in their own countries.

A farmer had a son at college. At the end of the first year the son came home in high feather. He stood second in his class.

"Second?" said the father. "Second! Why didn't you stand first? What do you think I'm sending you to college for?"

The young man returned for his second year, determined to win first place. At the end of the year he returned home and announced his success to his father.

The farmer looked at him for a few minutes in silence, then shrugged his shoulders, and said: "At the head of the class, you? Well it can't be much of a college, after all."

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

And when they were come to the multitude, there came to him a certain man, kneeling down to him, and saying, Lord, have mercy on my son: for he is lunatick, and sore vexed: for ofttimes he falleth into the fire, and oft into the water. And I brought him to thy disciples, and they could not cure him.

Then Jesus answered and said, O faithless and perverse generation, how long shall I be with you? how long shall I suffer you? bring him hither to me. And Jesus rebuked the devil; and he departed out of him: and the child was cured from that very hour.

Then came the disciples to Jesus apart, and said, Why could not we cast him out? And Jesus said unto them, Because of your unbelief: for verily I say unto you, If ye have faith as a grain of mustard seed, ye shall say unto this mountain, Remove hence to yonder place; and it shall remove; and nothing shall be impossible unto you.

Howbeit this kind goeth not out but by prayer and fasting. (Matt. 17: 14-21.)

Daniel, 1948

The more we read of the doings and sayings of the British House of Commons, the more we admire it. If Carlyle was right and genius is merely "the transcendent capacity of taking trouble," then surely genius abides at Westminster.

The other day the House took time off world problems to consider the case of a man who fell off a tight-rope into a den of lions. Four of the five lions incontinently took to their heels, the fifth remaining only till he got his wits about him. The point at issue was apparently not whether a gentleman in apparent danger by falling off a rope should have been allowed to place himself among lions, but whether by so doing he subjected the lions to an emotional upset amounting to cruelty.

There is something in that point of view at that. Put the shoe on the other foot. Suppose a lion suddenly fell through the ceiling into the middle of a directors' meeting. Blame might not attach to the lion, but the lion's owner would get into trouble for the sudden increase of blood pressure among the directors. It further appears that the lions' trainer, in the absence of four-fifths of his performers, shook a fork at the fifth, adding thereby insult to the injury to that lion's nerves. Had we been the man who fell off the rope we should have been grateful, offence always being the better part of defence,—even when, as in his case, no defence was necessary.

Anyway, it's a fine story. We haven't read anything like it since the Book of Daniel. The English lions, however, had less reason to complain than Daniel's, since the former had at least another den to retreat into if they did not want to spend a night with a tight-rope walker.

We hope the House of Commons called it a draw. Everybody won, as we see it.—Montreal Star.

Female Hitler Talks Freely

TUEBINGEN, Germany, March 4—(AP).—Frau Gertrud Scholtz-Klink Heissmeyer, who was the fuehrer of Germany's women in the Nazi days, declared today: "I am still a Nazi—as much as ever."

But her voice as she said it was soft, almost meek.

Then, clenching her fist, she said:

"Hitler still lives for me and my husband."

But, she added, she and her husband, Maj.-Gen. August Heissmeyer, both believe Hitler and deputy fuehrer Martin Bormann are dead.

Frau Heissmeyer, her once-blonde hair faded and her once-buxom figure covered by a shabby man's coat, talked with an interviewer today for the first time since she was arrested with her husband last week-end by American, French and German police. They are being held in a small prison here.

She said she escaped from Berlin, after being wounded five times by Russian shell splinters in the last days of Nazidom. With her husband, she fled into the Russian zone.

In October, 1945, they came to Wuerttemburg and sought sanctuary with Princess Pauline, a cigar-smoking 71-year-old who was arrested yesterday on charges of sheltering the Heissmeyers.

Frau Heissmeyer said under the name of Stuckebrock they were exonerated in French denazification proceedings.

"I suppose we will have to be denazified again," she said.

Frau Heissmeyer and her husband, formerly an SS (Elite Guard) officer, are being held by the French, who said they would be questioned further to determine what, if any, charges to bring against them.

Bancroft Trappers Up One In Playoffs

BANCROFT, March 4—(ENS)—The Bancroft Trappers continued their winning ways in the final playoffs for the loop championship over their village rivals when they subdued the Bancroft Rovers to the tune of 6-3. This was the first of the best of three series, the Rovers having ousted the Apsley Aces and earned the right to move into the final series against the leading Trappers.

The game was but a minute old when from a face-off in the Rover territory E. Brough centred one to Kavanagh in front of the net and a hard back-hand found the goal behind O'Shaughnessy. Seconds later Kavanagh again potted one to make the count 2-0. Norm Brough added two in a row for the Trappers and brother Elwood closed the scoring with another counter later in the period without a tally by the Rovers.

However as the second session opened and down five goals, the Rovers battled gamely and held the Trappers scoreless. The Rovers also dominated the play in a scoring way, B. Maxwell notching the only goal of the period, half way through on a pass from Moxam.

The third period was not as rough as the first two sessions although neither team gave an inch. Bruce and Fox notched counters for the Rovers while N. Brough also garnered one for the Trappers—his third of the evening. The game was typical play-off hockey all the way, the first two periods were exceedingly rough and both teams were fighting desperately for victory. The Trappers had a decide edge over the Rovers in the first period but found themselves outscored by single goals in the next two frames. Fans and players alike are looking forward with interest to the next meeting of these two teams. McAlpine, Conlin, Bruce, Delyea, E. Brough and Carpenter all spent two-minute sessions in the sin-bin. The game was capably handled by B. Lehigh and D. Sinclair.

The teams:

Bancroft Rovers — Goal, T. O'Shaughnessy; defence, Watson and Conlin; forwards, Vance, McAlpine, Fox; subs, Stringer, B. Maxwell, Moxam, J. O'Shaughnessy, Delyea, Bruce.

Bancroft Trappers—Goal, McGhee; defence, Flaglar and E. Carpenter; forwards, N. Brough, E. Brough, Kavanagh; subs, Adams, Whyte, Walton, J. Maxwell and Crawford.

Tenant Was Noisy Landlady Complains

ATLANTA, March 4—(AP).—Mrs. E. M. Shepherd, a landlady, accused a tenant of bathroom and bedroom eavesdropping with a microphone. Mrs. Shepherd told Judge Quincy Arnold yesterday that E. H. Richardson, a tenant, not only recorded her most intimate conversations in bathroom, bedroom and living room, but played the recordings back to his family.

The recordings were made, Mrs. Shepherd told the court, by means of a microphone dropped down a hot air conduit.

Richardson denied the charge. He said his landlady was provoked because he and other tenants objected to an extra $100 assessment for heat.

Judge Arnold ordered Richardson held in $100 bond for criminal court for violation of the "Peeping Tom" law.

Skitch Rink Reaches Finals

Snetsinger provided an upset by eliminating Bob Murphy of Glanford, winner of the 1947 Spectator trophy and Reid went an extra end to set down Art Diesbourg's Kitchener rink, skipped by Perry Hall.

Hockey's Big Seven

Buddy O'Connor increased his lead to five points in the National scoring race last night when he earned an assist while Max Bentley went pointless, but two new threats to the New York playmakers' bid for the points crown rose up in the persons of Chicago's Bud Poile and Elmer Lach of Canadiens who moved into a second-place tie with Max Bentley, and all three now have 49 points—five back of O'Connor. Doug Bentley of Hawks gained as well with two points to take over fifth spot with 48.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.
Associated Press Staff Writer

TAMPA, Fla., March 4 (AP).—The Cincinnati Reds may not have the best ball club in the majors (who said "may not? They don't.) but the chances are they have the biggest....of 38 players on the roster, 2 are 6 feet or more tall and two of the others are less than half-inch under....

Tallest is 6-6, 190-pound Ewel Blackwell, but another pitcher, Walker Cress, is 6-5, and Trainer Dr. Wilbur Bohm is about 6-5 and weighs 265 pounds....It looks like a blooming basketball squad....Even Jewel Ens, the Syracuse manager, was surprised to see how tall shortstop Rell Stallcup looks on the practice field. He is listed at 6-3 and has a lanky, almost awkward way of moving around, but he gets in front of the ball....

Tampa Cigar Smoke

The Reds plan to stage a scientific experiment on the results of baseball teelvision next summer, televising all week-days games and four of their seven Sunday games. They plan to pair up the Sunday games that are aired and those that are not as closely as possible and then compare attendances.....Ewell Blackwell's 16-game winning streak does not look so hot to one rookie pitcher in camp here. Harry Perkowski won 17 straight for Ogden, Utah, in 1946....Bucky Walters will be 38 years old on opening day, April 19, and Hank Sauer will be 29 on St. Patrick's Day...

Recognition At Last

The National League President Ford Frick, who is touring the Florida camps, felt a trifle flattered yesterday when guardian-of-the-portal Manny de Castro let him on to the field without question....It was Manny who stopped Happy Chandler last season....When Chandler explained he was Commissioner of Baseball Manny retorted: "You may be Commissioner of Baseball on the other side of the fence, but you can't get on to this field until somebody tells me who you are."

Legion Beats The Petes, 6 to 1 To Go Ahead In Playoff Series

Legionnaires went ahead in their OHA Senior "B" group finals in Omemee last night two games to one when they trimmed the Petes 6-1 before a big crowd. It was the first loss in Omemee for the Petes in three OHA seasons. Legion notified the referee they were playing this game under protest if they lost because Keith Montgomery was in the Petes' lineup. The teams clash again Friday in Lindsay in the fourth of the best-of-seven finals.

It was a fast and fairly rugged encounter with 19 penalties handed out, 11 to the losers and one major to Legion. After a scoreless and fairly even first frame, Legion struck hard to roll up a 3-0 lead in the middle chukker, and they had a 3-1 margin in the third. They clicked better than the Petes and showed more fight and hustle over the whole route, though the Petes battled right to the finish.

Goalies Good

Both goalies again were brilliant, neither giving away a thing and each having plenty to do in the hot tussle. The Legion defence went better than the Petes with Godfrey once more acting as a second goalie to block many close stabs and Ned Vitarelli turning in an all-around smart performance. He figured in on two goals as did Bob Greenlaw, Rochetta, Burns and Ernie Nicholls. The whole team played fine hockey. All the Petes toiled hard and were in for plenty of good chances but they couldn't score—except once. Tompkins and Blewett were always dangerous as were most of the forwards, and the defence worked hard.

The visitors pressed for a space in the first with Rochetta and then Ernie Nicholls coming close. Montgomery went off for tripping and Kingdon and Tompkins threatened on a breakaway. With the sides even, the Petes bore in for a time and play was redhot up and down as both goalies jumped to save. Parnell went over for holding and Honey had his leg hurt. N. Vitarelli got it next for hooking and Ray robbed Bob Greenlaw on a break. With all back, play was fast and even, till Red Creighton got a boarding penalty near the finish.

Went Ahead

Legion counted early in the second when Bob Greenlaw batted in Rochetta's pass as they were all banging away at the disc and the shot was screened from Harding's vision. Blewett went over for high-sticking and then a scrap broke out. Rochetta drew a major with Red Creighton and Jopling getting minor penalties. Blewett got back as Crowley nearly notched one, and then Godfrey was gated for tripping, so each side had but four men on the ice. Red and Drake returned and the Petes poured in but couldn't beat Ross Nicholls. Blewett went off again for high-sticking and a Godfrey-E. Nicholls thrust was close. Burns made it 2-0 on neat combination with E. Nicholls and N. Vitarelli in close. Rochetta went away again for slashing and Heal nearly counted. Joe got back in time to make it 3-0 from Bob Greenlaw on a nice pass and backhander. Horton got it for cross-checking and Kingdon was robbed at the end.

The Petes ganged up to open the third but Crowley scored from Godfrey on a fast breakaway. Ned came close and, with Tompkins off for elbowing, a Hicks-Crowley try almost succeeded. Honey returned and led the Petes on a strong sortie but Ross was tough to beat. Ernie Nicholls made it 5-0 in a close-in play as he capped home a rebound, Hicks and Burns aiding. Then Montgomery shoved one into the twine for the Petes in a scramble on Nicholls' doorstep, Red and Jerry Creighton assisting. D. Mortimer and Blewett were chased for high-sticking and Dootch Vitarelli scored the last Legion marker neatly on Ned Vitarelli's pass. Parnell got the nod for holding and Red Creighton almost had one. The Petes kept ganging up until Fred Mortimer went over the wall for tripping. Crowley and Horton got it for roughing near the finish.

The teams:

Legion: Goal, R. Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and N. Vitarelli; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley and R. Greenlaw; alternates, E. Nicholls, Burns, D. Vitarelli, Parnell, H. Greenlaw, Hicks and D. Mortimer.

Petes: Goal Harding; defence, R. Creighton and Jopling; centre, Kingdon; wings, Tompkins and F. Mortimer; alternates, Garvey, J. Creighton, Blewett, Heal, Montgomery, Horton and Burton.

Referee, M. Walsh; linesman, H. Payne.

SPORTS SHOW WINDOW

Riverdale Grads of Toronto tackle Outboard Marines "A" cagers at 8.15 tonight in the Collegiate and it should be a classy exhibition. Marines start out next week to defend their OABA intermediate "A" championship, and this tilt tonight should help keen them up for the rocky road ahead. Kawarthas play Lock Co. tomorrow p.m. at eight in the YWCA—and two important PCVS jousts Friday eve in the Collegiate. Oshawa plays the junior "B" PCI-ers at eight in the second of group finals. If Oshawa wins, they'll be meeting our "A" crew in district playoffs. And at nine, it's Cobourg vs. the senior "A" PCVS pack in the first of district finals.

Foster Hewitt, son of the renowned OHA secretary—and dad of a coming announcer—has been broadcasting for 25 years. He has announced over 2,000 hockey games and makes the proud boast that he has yet to call a wrong goal. Truly a record. His exciting running commentary on NHL contests in Toronto has built the Leafs up a huge following across Canada, except of course in Quebec where Canadiens are popular—or were until midway through this disastrous season for them. We don't always agree with Hewitt's biased views nor his habit of raving about a great game when scribes next day say it was a dull affair, but you must mitt the guy for selling the Leafs to Canada via the air waves. His rising scream: "He shoots and he SCOOOOORES!" has become famous.

Arena Plans Are Ready

General committee of the Peterborough Civic Arena—sometimes known as the secondary rink — meets at 7.30 tonight in the council chambers. An important session and every member should be on deck. The actual financial drive for this project had to be shoved back a bit as the community chest fund is in the spotlight at present. But the financial and publicity committees now have their campaign program lined up and it will be turned over tonight to the general committee for action, probably within a week. If the industries here will swing in behind the arena project its success this spring is assured. And we are confident they will, and that the arena will be ready for next winter.

Petes and Legionnaires swing back into action tomorrow night in Lindsay at 8.30, fourth fray of their best-in-seven OHA senior "B" group finals. With Monday, Wednesday and Friday the setup next week, if necessary. Ducats for Friday p.m. are going like hot cakes at a barn-raising, and another hefty crowd is expected to jam the Scugog ice palace. It's sure to be a swell scrap between these fast-stepping and hot opponents with no holds barred. If the weather weakens next week, the scene may shift to Belleville, so fans had better grab off these district duels while they can.

Legion Earned The Win

Last night's number in Omemee was a hot one, fast and rugged with Legion earning a 6-1 victory on their hustle. Could have been closer if Ross Nicholls wasn't in fine netminding form, but Legion were the better squad in this game. Petes fought hard but couldn't seem to penetrate that defensive setup of R. Nicholls, Godfrey and Ned Vitarelli. Penalties hurt, too, as they drew 11 of 19, though one of the Legion sins meant a major penance. That 3-0 outburst by the visiting squad about spelled the difference as it was tight enough in the third, one of the Legion goals being on a clean breakaway as the homesters had to take chances and gang up. It was their first loss on Omemee ice in three seasons. Both outfits will be really hustling for that verdict on Friday.

* * * * * *

The case of Montgomery may go to the OHA yet as Legion plans to protest every game he plays in. Because of the principle involved. They maintain that the Petes aren't the parent club of the junior "B" Oddfellows and therefore can't take up a junior after the deadline for signing players—and that Montgomery couldn't have signed with 'em in time as he was using a junior certificate at that time. In a previous argument, the OHA granted the Petes permission to use Monty for three games, and those three were played before last night's number. How it will come out is hard to say, but that's the score on it now—and it shows that there is no love lost between the rival local senior "B" clubs in these sawoffs.

McCready Earned The Win

Owing to an injured arm suffered Tuesday against the Cardiff Giant in Cleveland, the Masked Marvel couldn't make it for the main mat bout here last gloaming. But burly John Katan replaced him and gave Earl McCready quite a tussle before Earl applied his "rolling scissors splits" to gain a popular deciding fall. Large crowd enjoyed the go all the way in this no-time-limit affair, though they would have preferred the huge Mask in against McCready. Nanjo Singh tacked his "cobra hold" on Bill Kusisto in the semi-final and that was that—the Chi Cears' gridder being tossed for a loss. The prelim ended in odd sytle with Jan Gotch and Don McIntyre both being disqualified by a groggy referee, after Bert Maxwell took quite a beating from them both. A lively card throughout.

McCready Pins Big John Katan In Main Bout Of Grapple Card

Earl McCready defeated John Katan (who substituted for the Masked Marvel, who was injured in Cleveland in a bout with the Cardiff Giant, Tuesday night) in two out of three falls last night in the main bout at the Brock Arena.

A large and noisy crowd gave voiceferous support to the popular Earl as he gained the third and deciding fall with a rolling cradle splits in 12 minutes.

With no time limit agreed on for the bout neither Katan nor Earl wasted any time. The bout produced some solid wrestling but of course Katan threw in a few of the seamier tactics when the opportunity was presented.

McCready took the first fall in 25 minutes with his old reliable rolling cradle splits. Katan had enjoyed quite an edge at the beginning of this round by use of a bar arm-lock interspersed with the odd smash across the eyes and a few chokes. However, the Aurora Farmer stuck to his straight wrestling technique and finally trapped Katan with his finisher.

Katan evidently decided that nothing short of rough-house tactics would avail him for when they came back for the second round he went after McCready with a chin-lock that looked suspiciously like a good old fashioned strangle. After pressing his advantage with a few kicks in Earl's back the big Ukrainian-Canadian managed to hold McCready's shoulders to the mat for the required three seconds.

The final fall came when Katan had for the second time lured McCready into his unconscious chinlock. Earl straightened up and took Katan over his head with a flying mare. Leaping quickly to his feet Earl clamped on three more of the same and then twisted in behind his man.

Throwing the mighty McCready leg around Katan's in a grapevine Earl clamped onto Katan's other leg and went into his whirling cradle. It was then only a formality for Referee Bert Maxwell to tap three times on the mat and give McCready the win.

After the bout McCready made a bit of a speech over the public address system to the effect that he still wants to meet the elusive Masked Marvel.

Nanjo Singh used his dreaded cobra hold to put husky Bill Kusisto to sleep in 22 minutes. Kusisto, the ex-Chicago Bears' football player, showed up to good advantage in the open going especially when the elbow smashing started. But the fanatical Hindu, who seems oblivious to pain, eventually trapped the Chicagoan into the sleep-producing hold and the fair-haired Kusisto heard the birdies chirping before Nanjo let him fall to the mat.

Something unusual occurred in the first bout when both Jan Gotch and Don McIntyre were disqualified by Referee Maxwell after 26 minutes.

McIntyre and Gotch had a torrid bout that had the fans alternately rooting and booing lustily. The referee was on the job a little more than usual and early got in Gotch's hair when he repeatedly broke the wild Pole's hold around McIntyre's neck. Just who started it was hard to determine but the referee got a couple of accidental cracks in the head in a flurry of blows between the wrestlers.

Then McIntyre started a series of tackles but one of them wasn't on the beam for Gotch and found the official instead. When he got up to remonstrate with McIntyre Maxwell ran plumb into a fist which Gotch had attempted to throw over the ref's shoulder at McIntyre. That was enough for Maxwell and he disqualified both men. Bert took quite a pasting.

"Mass Torture" Campbell Says Of Bet Charges

DETROIT, March 4— (AP). — The National Hockey League to-day continued a probe of reported betting involving league players as Boston Bruins president Weston Adams termed it involuntary "mass torture."

Adams, who conferred at Lansing Tuesday with League President Clarence Campbell and Detroit and Michigan officials, held a meeting with newspaper men last night prior to the Bruins' game in Boston.

"The delay in any announcement by President Clarence Campbell can not be helped. It is one of the cruellest forms of mass torture ever inflicted on any team in any sport," he said.

Adams emphasized that he knew "nothing more now than when I went to Michigan" when the league took note of the rumored betting scandal. Campbell meanwhile continued his quiet probe of the reported betting which players of Boston and New York teams have denied.

Campbell was reticent to discuss the progress he is making in running down details of information supplied him at the direction of Governor Kim Sigler. The NHL president said when the evidence was given him Tuesday that "it undoubtedly warrants expulsions," but he gave no indication as to the players involved. The hockey boss is due to go to Chicago, New York, and Boston to probe other details of the rumored betting. He is scheduled to return here Monday to tell Sigler what progress he is making in the investigation.

Norwood Ties Marmora In TVL Finals

MARMORA, March 4—(ENS)—Ten minutes overtime failed to declare a winner in the opening game of the Trent Valley finals at Madoc on Wednesday evening between Marmora and Norwood, the final score being 6-6. About 1,100 fans witnessed a thrilling game on fairly good ice. If it is a pattern of games to follow the issue of the championship series is left in doubt until the end. Both teams exerted themselves to capture the opener. A little over eagerness kept the goal scoring down when good openings were afforded both teams. Both goalies on the other hand, raised the cheers of their supporters in effecting some great saves.

It was the first game for Marmora to play with a scoreless first period.

HOW OPPONENT HIT — Frederico Herrera, 20, of Jerome, Ariz., shows how he hit Leroy Decatur, also 20, who died in their preliminary bout in Los Angeles, Calif. Both the youths were waging their first professional fight when Herrera drove Decatur to the canvas in the fourth round. Decatur was left unconscious and never revived. Herrera hit Decatur, who was ahead on points in the fight and showed no signs of illness, with two hammering blows to head and body and the young boxer's head struck the canvas hard when he went down. Stimulants and artificial respiration failed to revive him.

Suggests WCSHL Runner-Up Team Play West Coast

EDMONTON, March 4 (CP).—Tom (Calgary Albertan) Moore hopes that Pacific Coast hockey fans soon may be in for a treat.

He has suggested that the runner-up in the Western Canada Senior Hockey League "might pick up a little easy change by giving hockey lessons to Coast clubs in exhibition games."

And, he says, the suggestion seems to have goaded the Coast leaguers to action.

Tom goes on:

"Coley Hall of Vancouver Canucks is reported to be trying to arrange such a series if his own team finishes as runner-up in the Coast circuit's Northern Division . . . Such a meeting would rate far above most post-season exhibition games, should give Coast fans some of their best hockey in years. "Incidentally, it should be nice to see Pacific teams in the Allan Cup picture in future years rather than degenerating into a strictly fourth-rate pro circuit, as is very probably if the loop persists in turning professional."

In sign of devotion to Calgary Stampeders of the WCSHL, Tom discusses the case of Mrs. N. A. Pharis of Tod Creek, Alta.

Many people doubtless collect buttons, he says. But just as probably there are very few button collections like that owned by Mrs. Pharis.

"She recently wrote Calgary Stampeders asking if the players would each send her a button, to be mounted and displayed with appropriate notes of their connections."

Twin City Team Eliminates Owen Sound

By The Canadian Press.

Last night's Ontario Hockey Association games were heartbreakers to some teams, but wonderful victories for others as two semi-final winners were decided and another team went into a one-game lead. No games were played in either the senior or junior divisions of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association.

In the OHA Senior A loop Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen trounced Owen Sound Mercurys 9-3 to take their best of five semi-final series in three straight games. The Dutchmen now meet Hamilton Tigers, winners of the first semi-finals, for the league title.

In the junior section Windsor Spitfires squeezed out a 2-1 victory over Oshawa Generals to win their best of seven semi-finals 4-2, and qualify to meet the winner of the Galt-Barrie series for the championship. Barrie Flyers swamped Galt Rockets 10-2 to take a 2-1 lead in their best of five semi-finals.

In taking their third straight victory from Owen Sound, the Dutchmen completely outclassed the Mercury crew as they led all the way and carried most of the play. Mercurys kept close only until the end of the initial frame when the Dutchmen led 3-2. From there on it was a question of how many goals the Dutchmen would win by.

Art Hurst and Bobby Bauer paced the Dutchmen with a brace apiece, while Don Bauer, George Zuk, Doug Verity, Johnny Blute and Sparky Weiler added one each. Jack Ingoldsby, Bun White and Miller were the Owen Sound snipers.

A freak goal in the first period gave the Windsor crew their early lead over the Generals. Johnny Wilson of the Spitfires lifted a shot towards the Oshawa nets and the puck was deflected off G. Scott's stick behind Pete Piquette. From there on the Spitfires checked the Generals into the ice and added another in the third period on an effort by Ed Busch. The lone Oshawa goal came in that third frame as the Generals swarmed in desperately, with Joe LaFrance finally connecting.

The Oshawa team was made to look impotent most of the time as the Spitfires checked them at every turn and outhustled them on the attack. Oshawa passing was poor as the Spitfire players broke up organized attacks time after time. Ray Cerisino missed the game because of a leg injury.

After the first period which ended with Galt leading 1-0 on a goal by Wiggie Wylie, the Barrie Flyers climbed all over the Rockets to take that one-game lead. Harry Marchand was the only other Rocket scorer.

Stan Long and Bill Barrett paced the Flyers with two goals each, while Whit Mousseau, Ray Gariepy, Rusty Aiken, Gill St. Pierre, Jerry Reid and Ray Mayer each scored one. Barrie will have a chance to end the serise at Galt on Friday.

Here and There In Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Amateur Hockey Association hockey team that represented the United States at the wintem Olympic Games over the protests of the American Olympic Committee, arrived at New York yesterday full of defiance of Avery Brundage.

"He is a dictator and he always has been a dictator," said John D. Semple, the trainer who acted as spokesman for the team, in referring to Brundage, American Olympic Committee president. "Despite what he said to the press, the hovkey games were considered a part of the Olympic Games and all our players were awarded contestant medals."

The AHA team finished fourth in the Olympic hockey competition which Canada won.

Eight Toronto boxers sponsored by the Central Ontario Amateur Athletic Union will take part in an inter-city fight show at Rochester and Grand Rapids, Mich., March 8 and 11. The fighters, ranging from featherweights to heavyweights, will be coached by Vic Bagnato of Toronto, who will accompany them on the trip.

Canada's Olympic championship hockey team, RCAF Flyers, last night suffered a 2-1 setback from the Scottish hockey team as play continued in the four-country international round-robin tournament which winds up March 6.

In the first round last Saturday Canada overwhelmed the Czechs 8-4 while the Paris club edged out the Scottish representatives 3-2.

George P. McCarthy, Jr., of Bridgeport, Conn., and Sammy Snead of Hot Springs, Va., won the Seminole Club's professional-amateur golf tournament at Palm Beach, Fla., yesterday with best-ball of 127 for 36 holes.

Ottawa may be the scene of the 1949 world figure skating championship competition, Donald B. Cruikshank of the Minto Skating Club indicated at a recent meeting of social, athletic, service clubs and recreational association representatives here. It was suggested an attempt would be made to have it coincide with the winter carnival, which is expected to run from Feb. 7 to 12.

Teddy Randolph, light heavyweight boxer from New York, was suspended for life by the Pennsylvania Athletic Commission for failure to make an appearance in a 10-round bout at the Philadelphia arean Monday after declining to submit to a physical examination. Rains said the New York fighter had a bad eye.

The search for "the new Joe Lewis" still continues after the eastern golden glove finals. The New York tournament of champions only produced one knockout in 24 semi-finals and final amateur bouts.

Only Johnny Saxton of New York's Salem Crescent A.C. was able to dump his man for keeps. He later clinched the title by outpointing Rosengart of Buffalo.

Leonard Marsh, 85, champion oarsman at the turn of the century, died at Toronto yesterday after a long illness. He was a contemporary of the late Lou Scholes, noted sculler.

Twenty Grand, a Kentucky Derby winner, died at Lexington, Ky., yesterday of a twisted intestine. Twenty Grand took the Derby in the fast time of 2.01 4-5, second best on record. His racing earned $261,790.

Manitoba Rink Undefeated

CALGARY, March 4.—(CP).—The Manitoba rink, skipped by youthful George Sangster of the Winnipeg Granite Club, today moved into the final day of the Canadian curling championship carrying the only undefeated record. The event winds up with three draws—morning, afternoon and evening.

British Columbia, with only one defeat in the six rounds so far, are pinning their hopes on either Ontario, Northern Ontario or New Brunswick to spoil Manitoba's record. However, the Sangster rink has indicated that it is capable of duplicating the record of Winnipeg's Jimmy Welsh, 1947 Canadian titleholder, of winning nine straight games.

While pulling for a Manitoba defeat, Theo D'Amour and his Trail quartet must win its matches against Nova Scotia, New Brunswick and Quebec.

The third-place Northern Ontario rink, with four wins and two losses, needs victories in their three matches to stay in the running. They are scheduled to meet Manitoba, New Brunswick and Nova Scotia.

The Saskatchewan rink, skipped by Rosetown's Cliff Annable, waltzed home to a 14-11 triumph over Prince Edward Island's Gerry Hayes rink. It was Saskatchewan's third victory.

Ontario's Jack Patrick of Galt, aso moved into the 3-3 bracket, with an easy 14-7 win over Gaston Amyot's Quebec four. Quebec held a 5-2 lead on the third end but faded badly on the remaining nine. The loss was the fourth for the all-French-Canadian crew.

Cleveland Team Seeking Record

By The Canadian Press.

Cleveland Barons to-day fixed their sights on a new American Hockey League record for most consecutive games without a setback. Last night in Pittsburg, the high-flying Barons came from behind to edge Hornets 2-1 for their 19th game in a row without a loss, tying the league mark set by Pittsburg last season. On Saturday night, Cleveland has a chance to break the mark when they play host to the Eastern Division leaders, Providence Reds.

The victory gave Barons a five-point edge over the second-place Hornets in the race for first place in the Western Section. Church Russell scored the winning goal, a minute after Bobby Carse had knotted the count in the third period. Pittsburg's lonely tally was netted by Pete Backor early in the final session.

In Buffalo, the third-place Bisons grabbed an early 5-0 lead and went on to beat Providence 8-5.

In the only other contest on tap last night, Vernon (Wimpy) Jones scored three times as the Springfield Indians downed the Philadelphia Rockets 8-6.

Habitants Upset Toronto Leafs, Take 3-2 Win

By HARRY ECCLES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

That booming sound on the banks of the St. Lawrence today was an echo of the cheers of Montreal Canadiens' supporters, all of a sudden convinced that their once-mighty Canadiens can still make the Stanley Cup play-offs.

With all six National Hockey League teams in action last night, the fifth-place Canadiens defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 3-2 right in Toronto, the Detroit Red Wings defeated New York Rangers 4-2, and the tail-end Chicago Black Hawks held Boston Bruins to a 4-4 tie in beantown.

That leaves Detroit and Toronto once more tied for the lead, and Detroit has eight games left to Toronto's seven. Boston, in the fourth and last play-off spot behind New York, now is only six points, or three games, ahead of the Canadiens, and each team has eight games left. Canadiens in turn are only a point ahead of the last-place Hawks, but have one game more than the Hawks on the schedule before the league play finishes March 21.

In their first victory on Toronto ice this season, Coach Dick Irvin's Canadiens were always ahead last night. Rookie Norm Dussault scored in the first period, and Maurice (Rocket) Richard scored twice in the middle frame. Bill Durnan, sensational in the Montreal goal throughout, was robbed of a shut-out when Toronto's rookie Sid Smith ran wild to score twice within 21 seconds in the last period.

Gus Mortson of Toronto sparked a free-for-all in the first period as he charged Durnan while the goalie was out of his net. Mortson served a minor and major penalty and a major was also given Durnan, but he didn't serve the time. Instead, referee Bill Chadwick gave Leafs a penalty shot, and Max Bentley muffed it. Over the whole session Durnan had 41 saves, compared with 22 for Turk Broda.

Detroit Wins

The Red Wings meantime kept the Rangers well in check at Detroit. Ted Lindsay in the first period, Gord Howe and Pete Horeck in the second and Leo Reise in the last period were the Detroit goal-scorers, with Rangers hotly disputing Reise's goal. Ed Slowinski and Tony Leswick got the New York counters.

Boston Bruins were on the wrong end of a 4-1 score when the third period started at Boston. Bud Poile and Ralph Nattrass scored for the Hawks in the first frame, and Bill Mosienko and Doug Bentley scored in the second. Up to then Boston's only count against young goalie Emile Francis was the goal by Woody Dumart late in the first period.

The Bruins were rolling in the final period however. Jimmy Peters scored on a backhand shot, Knobby Warwick on a fast drive and Johnny Pierson got the tying goal on a pass from Don Gallinger.

Tonight's only game has Boston at Canadiens, where Montreal victory would put Canadiens within four points of the Bruins.

Tigers Win 13-5

By The Canadian Press

The league-leading Victoriaville Tigers walloped the tail-end Lachine Rapides 13-5, while a goal with just five seconds to go enabled Sherbrooke St. Francis to deadlock St. Hyacinthe Gallos 5-5, in the two Provincial Hockey League tilts played last night.

Rey Leduc led the Tiger marksmen with three goals, while Armand Dufault, Kelly Burnett, Fred Valenti and Bobby Garragher earned two apiece with Eddie Legris sniping a single. Fernand Majeau, Roch Desmarais, Hub Bourgie, Bobby Morin and Jimmy O'Hearn scored for Rapides.

Badminton Title Likely For Vancouver

TORONTO, March 4.—(CP).—The Canadian badminton championships today rolled into its second day with Vancouver's John Samis still favored to retain the crown he captured last year.

Toronto players took the spotlight in last night's matches with six of them moving into the quarter-finals.

After surviving play in the first and second rounds of the four-day competition, Allan France and D. Thomson of Vancouver still were in the running. So were K. Forsythe and A. Williams from Winnipeg, while Montreal was represented alone by George Simpson, Tom Barber and D. Sebben of Stratford emerged successfully from the first two rounds, as did Dick Birch, former singles title holder.

John Samis and Jack Underhill of Vancouver, defending champions, advanced into today's second doubles round by defeating Allan Clark and H. Slivers of Toronto.

The mixed doubles, which progressed to the third round, will be resumed tonight. Winnipeg's Kay Otton and Toronto's Grant Henry turned in a strong performance to down the Moncton, N.B., team of Mrs. Dennie Skinner and W. S. McKnight, while last year's mixed doubles champion, Barbara Ince of Toronto, teamed with Peter Percival of Toronto to oust Mr. and Mrs. Duncan McLean, also of Toronto.

The start of the third round of the ladies' doubles was scheduled for to-day. Mrs. Clair Lovett and Nora Maw of Vancouver, were favored to take this match but strong opposition was indicated from Toronto's Miss Ince and Joan Warren.

The quarter-final round of the ladies' singles was scheduled to resume today.

Immigrants Enjoy New Freedom Some Dissatisfied With Jobs

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa, March 4 (CP)—The Majority of immigrants to South Africa from Europe appear to be satisfied with the prospect offered by this country.

Even those whose real incomes in Europe were higher than here—taking into account the higher cost of living in South Africa and the comparative lack of social security provisions--are content with the change. They are pleased with the abdundance of clothes and food, with the ability to get what they want when they want it, and with the absence of compulsion in what employment they take and where they take it.

Even the acute housing shortage does not appear to be a serious cause of grievance. Most immigrants have found somewhere to live, even if it is only aboarding house. For the future, they are content to take their turn with other South Africans, awaiting houses and flats.

Though it is safe to say most immigrants have found advantages here, there appears to have been dangerous exaggeration about the advantages offered by this country by persons--including goverment officials -- who have been persuading immigrants to come here. There has also been a lack of care in official quarters in ensuring that there genuine openings for immigrants before they were encouraged to come.

Here's one typical example:

Although South Africa is short of doctors, a number of foreign medical men who were encouraged to immigrate may never be able to practise in this country.

Degrees Not Recognized

Some have imposing degrees, but their degrees are not recognized in South Africa because the countries in which they qualified have no reciprocal agreement with this country on the recognition of qualifications.

Before these doctors--many of whom served with the Allied forces during the war--can practise here, they have to take a three-year course at a South African medical school. But the medical schools, already overcrowded, won't admit them. The only practical course for these misinformed immigrants is to leave South Africa.

There are also cases in which immigrants appear to have been brought here by private firms on false pretences. Reported in newspapers recently was the story of a British executive brought here by an offer of higher salary. When he arrived he was given a take-it-or-leave-it proposition--at a salary $100 a month less than the one he had given up.

A skilled tool pattern-maker recently said his pay in Johannesburg was lower than in England and he had to take on other work in his spare time to be able support his family.

These diappointments, however do not prove there are no opportunities in South Africa. Industrial expansion is still rapid and commerce is growing with it.

Canadian Exporters Ask Consideration

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP)—The Canadian Exporters' Association today urged the Dominion Government to conduct purchases in Canada by the United States for the Marshall Plan through "existing trade channels of private enterprise."

In a brief submitted to Trades Minister Howe the association recommended that, "to the extent possible, United States purchase in Canada for shipment to Europe, should be conducted through the utilization of the existing trade channels of private enterprise rather than through the operations of government to government purchasing."

Boost Salaries

OTTAWA, March 4—(CP)—N. J. M. Lockhart (PC-Lincoln) last night in the Commons urged the government to "get behind" the 40-odd civilian flying clubs in Canada.

Speaking during the throne debate speech, Mr. Lockhart said the clubs formed part of an organization, which in the light of international events, might be needed at any time.

Boost Flying Clubs

HAMILTON, March 4—(CP)—City council by a vote of 16 to 4 last night voted itself increases in salary which will amount to 50 per cent for aldermen. A schedule adopted specified that the mayor's salary should be raised $1,000 to $5,000, controllers increased $1,100 to $3,500, and aldermen boosted to $1,000 from $500.

Czech Court Confiscates U.S. Bulletins

PRAGUE, March 4 — (AP) — A criminal court has ordered confiscation of a three-power denunciation of the Communist seizure of power in Czechoslovakia, a United States press attache said today.

Joseph Kolarek, the attache, said copies of the declaration by the United States, Great Britain and France had been distributed by the United States information service.

Communist leaders called for still more drastic purges. Rudolf Slansky, secretary-general of the party, said the action committees which executed the coup last week are here to stay.

Kolarek said the order was served last night. It charged the information disturbed the security of the republic and humiliated it.

About 1,000 copies of the confiscated material already had been distributed. Police ordered the United States information service to withdraw from its windows last Saturday a display of bulletins containing the denunciation.

Slansky's statement, reported by the government news agency, said the Communist-dominated national front coalition would be controlled by an action committee of a coalition secretariat.

The committee, he said, was the permanent organ of the will of the people.

Slansky's statement was contrary to the declarations of other government leaders, who described as temporary the committee which launched wholesale purges throughout th country in the Communist march to power.

Lords Condemn Russ Move As Sinister

LONDON, March 3 (Reuters). —Lord Pakenham, speaking for the Government, last night condemned as "utterly damnable in every way" the Communist "overthrow" of Czechoslovakia.

Replying to a debate on foreign affairs in the House of Lords, Lord Pakenham said "the unfortunate government of Finland (now) is being approached—embraced with the kiss of death."

The Communists were convinced "that we are being driven to desire their overthrow and they believe that our whole system is fundamentally decadent and unsound and doomed before long to collapse and give place to their own.

"We must spare no effort to live in charity with Russia. In the last resort we shall succeed or fail in determining Communists' mentality by the way in which we shall succeed or fail ourselves."

Lord Pakenham spoke after Lord Salisbury, Leader of the Conservative Opposition, had opened the debate by declaring that Russian policy had shown a "new and sinister side."

The same qualities which had animated Hitler had begun to make themselves apparent in those who directed Russian policy.

"Just as Germany snapped up Austria and Czechoslovakia, so Russia has snapped up Bulgaria, Romania, Czechoslovakia, Poland and Hungary. The same technique was applied."

Britain is anxious to maintain good relations with Russia if possible, but events of the last week made it impossible any longer to "ignore the threat which again overhangs Europe."

Lord Salisbury said the police state was a new word for old-fashioned tyranny. Britain had fought the last war against German despotism. Now it seemed that Europe was faced with something of the same threat from another great country—one which Britain had every reason to believe shared her views and whose gallant fight she had watched in the midst of her own life and death struggle.

Unless the present trend of Russian policy was reversed there was "a very real danger that the whole dreadful tragedy of 1939 will be re-enacted."

Pure Water Supply Will Cost 8 Millions

DETROIT, March 4 (CP)—Detroit is threatened with a contaminated water supply unless it undertakes an $8,000,000 project to shift a storm sewer outlet from above to below the city's water intake, Mayor Eugene van Antwerp told council last night.

Present conditions, he said, are "highly dangerous, perhaps disastrous."

Consultant engineers, who recently completed an elaborate survey of pollution in Lake St. Clair and the Detroit River, said the city's water intake at Belle Isle, downstream from the present storm sewer outlet, was perilled by contamination in times of storm.

Policemen Get Buffalo Coats

EDMONTON, Alta., March 4 (CP).—Behind the impressive-looking attire of the Edmonton force this winter lies a story of a buffalo hunt — or rather a buffalo-hide hunt — that stretched over several years and three Canadian provinces.

The story comes from H. S. Reynolds, police accountant and procurement officer. Mr. Reynolds has to absorb the "beefs" when hot or cold weather catches members of the force unprepared.

During the Second World War he found it exceedingly difficult to obtain new buffalo coats to replace these being worn out. Furriers were too busy to replace old coats.

Inquiries about new hides addressed to several government departments revealed that enterprising businessmen had acquired whatever stocks of hides were available about Edmonton. And these businessmen couldn't meet the prices which the city offered.

In desperation, and during a personal holiday trip to Eastern Canada, Mr. Reynolds visited the federal government department dealing with disposal of buffalo —or, more correctly, bison—hides.

Action wasn't forthcoming immediately. But his visit and subsequent letters started things rolling.

Too Far Away.

Communications reaching Edmonton said hides were available in Ontario and in Manitoba's Riding Mountain Park. But these hides were too far away, and apart from the distance they proved unsuitable otherwise for the city police.

Meantime, the coats were wearing out, the force growing and the winter of 1947-48 drawing near.

But at the 11th hour — in the fall of last year — the required number of No. 1 hides was made available to bidders at Alberta's Elk Island Park. After a successful bid and involved negotiations with an Edmonton furrier, arrangements were completed for the force to take delivery of about 40 new buffalo coats to bring the supply up to requirements.

Even then, said Mr. Reynolds, the record warm weather was needed. It wasn't until the last cold snap that enough coats were available to clothe the 80-odd constables who require them for patrol and motorcycle duty.

The coats are made up ready to wear for less than $100 apiece, and are good for several years' service. It takes about a hide and a half to make a medium-size coat. Some men on the force require about twice as much fur as the original buffalo.

Around the police station, the wearers of the coats shrug off with a smile remarks that the coats are form-fitting — on a buffalo. With the mercury hovering around the 30-degrees-below-zero mark, they're warm.

PROPOSED "WESTERN UNION" — Blackened areas indicate countries discussing formation of an alliance to form nucleus for larger grouping to block further domination of Europe by Russia and her satellites (shaded area). Britain, France, Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg will send representatives to the "western union" meeting which is scheduled to open tomorrow in Brussels.

Committee Turns Spotlight On Butter Prices

OTTAWA, March 4 — (CP). — With the opening stage of its bread-price inquiry nearing a close, the Commons price committee was preparing today to turn the spotlight on bread's dinner-table complement—butter.

The investigators, it was learned had put butter next in an effort to find out what impelled the mid-winter surge in price that caused the government to clamp down a ceiling on the product.

After butter, according to present committee plans, will come eggs, meat, boots and shoes and textiles. However, the order in which they will be taken up has not been settled.

Whether or not the committee will look into commercial rentals, in view of the fact they are due to be decontrolled Monday, may be announced today.

In the eighth day of its inquiry into rising bread prices, the committee heard yesterday that the Ontario Bakers' Association had tried twice in January — without success — to persuade the A. and P. grocery chain to increase its price of bread.

The chain, which makes its own bread, sells it for 10 cents a loaf. The general price of bread then was 13 cents, and it has since risen to 14 cents.

George W. Bird of Toronto, A. and P. purchasing agent, told the committee a representative of the Bakers' Association had complained his company's price was "demoralizing" the industry.

He identified the spokesman as Clifford Ruttan of Toronto, secretary-treasurer of the Association. Mr. Ruttan, an earlier witness in the bread industry, was bakery administrator for the Prices Board until last November.

Mr. Ruttan had testified he knew of no agreements among bakers to fix prices.

Under committee questioning, Mr. Bird said Mr. Ruttan had approached his company twice about increasing its 10-cent price.

He said neither he nor the company took the alleged attempt seriously.

At times, he added, it received such representations from manufacturers of other commodities, but it continued to follow its own price policies.

FRENCH COMMEMORATE 1848 REVOLUTION—All France recently commemorated the revolution of 1848, in which King Louis-Philippe was overthrown and the second republic instituted. Wants Road Across Canada

OTTAWA, March 4.—(CP). — Canada was urged in the Commons yesterday to give leadership to the smaller nations and tell the world in a frank and courageous statement how she feels about the progressive advance of Communism across the borders of Europe.

The call came from 31-year-old E. D. Fulton (PC-Kamloops) who drew a parallel between what is happening in Europe today and the upheavals that preceded the Second World War.

Referring to the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia, he said that whole other countries have issued strongly-worded statements that left no doubt as to where they stand and what they think, Canada appeared to be accepting what was going on behind the iron curtain.

He linked his plea for a foreign policy statement with a demand that the Dominion undertake, in co-operation with the provinces, the building of a trans-Canada highway, and extend the provisions of the prairie farm rehabilitation act to British Columbia.

Mr. Fulton's address highlighted the dying Throne speech debate, expected to reach its conclusion today.

Other speakers were Jean Francois Pouliot (Ind. L-Temiscouta), E. C. McCullagh (CCF-Assiniboia), Dr. T. V. Grant (L-King's) and C. I. Stephenson (PC-Durham).

At the House opening, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent told the Chamber he hoped to make a statement today on the case of the celebrated Polish art treasures.

Trade Minister Howe said the government is considering its reply to a quest from Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan for advice on complementary provincial legislation to facilitate the placing of oats and barley under the Canadian Wheat Board.

C. E. Stephenson (PC-Durham) said Canada had come to a period when all vision was lost and the development of natural resources was ignored.

The Fathers of Confederation had seen greater things for Canada when they opened up the country by the building of canals and railroads. There was no reason why Canada should have only a population of 12,000,000 when the United States had 145,000,000.

Canada needed men of greater vision. She had many frontiers yet to be explored.

"It is time the government took off its political glasses so it could see Canada's possibilities in their true light," he said.

One reason for the small population was the lack of governmental policy on immigration. There were no tradesmen or farm labor. The country was not getting the production it should have.

Unlucky Feb. 13

WINNIPEG, March 4.— (CP). —Here's a postscript to a Feb. 13 hard-luck episode:

On that date, a Friday incidentally, B. D. Rose ran into the following string of mishaps: 1—slipped and fell downstairs on his way to breakfast; 2—slipped again on the ice pavement going for his car; 3—found his car had a flat tire; 4—had his automobile break down en route to the office.

Today it was disclosed that Mr. Rose's misfortunes hadn't ended. He received a letter with a bill for $65 allegedly owed for damage to another automobile. The letter had been mailed — that's right—Feb. 13.

Opinion Divided On 25-60 Cycle Power Dispute

TORONTO, March 4 (CP). — The matter of conversion from 25 cycle to 60 cycle power, long expected to be a cause of dispute and harangue in the current meeting here of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association came up Wednesday — and opinion was divided.

Some members of the association, meeting jointly with representatives of the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities, disapproved the change unless long study were given.

A standing vote indicated approval of a motion that a special meeting of the executive of the association be held to ask the Hydro-Electric Commission of Ontario not to take action until a recommendation came from the association.

Reference was made to the "undemocratic way" in which municipal Hydro was being handled. Dr. W. J Chapman of St. Catharine ssuggested that if the OMEA continued to be taken as lightly as it had in the past, then the organization had better dissolve.

A resolution asked that the executive of the OMEA and utilities representatives previously appointed "examine the final report on cycle standardization and that their report be submitted to the executive of this association and to the individual commissions as soon as possible."

Another suggestion that merchants be allowed a specific amount of electric power and be permitted to use it as they chose, also passed the meeting, attended by over 1,000 persons.

Judge Rules Evidence Is Admissable

ST. THOMAS, March 4 (CP)—Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven ruled today that statements made by Joseph Vernon Welch to police before and at the time of his arrest on a charge of murdering his wife, Florence, last Aug. 21, were admissible as evidence.

Admissibility of the statements were challenged by Defence Counsel George McNabb at yesterday afternoon's sessions of Welch's trial, which began Tuesday.

Without the presence of the jury, Justice Treleaven heard statements, evidence of police officers present when the statements were made and arguments of counsel.

During the "trial within a trial" the accused himself was placed on the stand. He admitted that all three statements had been signed by him, given by him voluntarily and that police had not threatened him at any time or offered any promises or held out any inducements to him to make them. Sgt. Ben Milligan of the Ontario Provincial Police was called to the stand as the trial resumed.

Windsor Man In A Dither

WINDSOR, Ont., March 4. —(CP).—From Cardiff, Wales, to Windsor, Ont., a border city resident this week was trying to locate a missing person and his equally-missing release from a freighter.

He wanted the registrar of shipping.

He had never heard of a registrar of shipping in Windsor. His friends had never heard of one. Shipping officials queried on the subject were equally at sea — figuratively. A few more inquiries in and around town brought more people into the search but didn't locate the registrar.

The Cardiff officials had informed him very definitely that his release from his last job—along with some salary still owing—had been forwarded to the registrar of shipping.

He hated to think of his personal belongings kicking around in a vacuum. He couldn't produce adequate proof of identity, as the Cardiff communication suggested, until he found someone to produce it to.

After covering a good portion of Windsor in person wondering if he had to hike back to Wales and start searching from there, he finally discovered the identity of his Mr. D.

The registrar of shipping was the collector of customs.

The versatile customs department, in addition to checking visitors and residents into the country, inspecting incoming cargoes and enforcing the regulations set up in Ottawa, steps into the shipping picture in the spring, inspecting equipment, personnel and supplies of the boats.

A Moscow radio program recorded by United States Government monitor included the "radio voice" of one Toshio Kumura who said that in Russia he saw no "jobless, idle" people, "let alone any pool-playing, good-for-nothings, the sort of people we used to see in pre-war Japan."

Nearly 30 months after V-J Day, Russia still holds 750,000 Japanese prisoners, United States officials estimate.

Ontario has no winter pastures...

Milk supply falls rapidly during Winter.

Lacking fresh, green pasture, using more energy to keep warm, cows yield least milk when you need it most. But your daily supply arrives as usual. Despite every difficulty of supply and transport your dairy ensures that you do not go short.

Very often at extra expense to your dairy, supplementary sources of supply are found, often from far afield. By sheer dogged determination the men engaged in milk distribution get the supplies through to you. They fight a way through snowbound country roads to pasteurizing and bottling plants, struggle through icy streets to your door. Fulfilling a duty in the spirit of service, these men, and the dairy of your choice, will not let you down.

Your milkman has a particularly hard time breaking his way through newly fallen snow and drifts to get your milk supply to you in time. Please clear a path to the milkbox to help him serve you and your neighbours more quickly and promptly.

Present Assessment Stands In Proposed Annexation

Although the proposed annexation of another block of North Monaghan property has not yet received legislative approval, city council is assuming the need of services for veterans' homes will be given priority.

In the meantime the council has gone ahead with the levying of taxes on that area. The existing township assessment has been accepted for this year's taxation on the basis of the city's tax rate.

Ontario Municipal Board has given its assent to annexation proposal. The two municipalities have approved it, but objection arose from certain owners of property in that area. The city's assessment department looked over the property last year, but because of some doubt at least of ultimate inclusion in the city it was recommended to the council that the township assessment values be adopted for 1948. The arrangement has been described at the city hall as an advantage to the taxpayers of the annexable area if the Legislature passes the Peterborough bill this session.

City Pays Bill

City council recently paid an account of $262.20 incurred by the Peterborough Baseball League at the sports goods store of T. H. Ashby & Son in 1946. Purchase amounted to $500 at a time when interest was centred upon reviving baseball after the war, but the bill was reduced. It was said that the club received a grant from the council, and last year the assistance was extended through the Recreation Commission.

Getting Anxious

Meyer Cherney has written city council expressing the hope that the board of works program will enable the board of works department to take into its plans for this season the extension of domestic services to the Manor Hill area out Weller St.

The property was subdivided four years ago. Fifteen people have bought home sites of which there are 30 altogether. Three houses are being completed at a value of more than $30,000 and will be ready for occupation by April 1. Cherney interests paid taxes to Monaghan two years, and are now in the second year of assessment by the city. The letter was sent on to the board of works.

Owner Liable

Neither the granting of a building permit, approval of plans and specifications, nor inspections made by a building inspector nor his assistant during the erection of a structure shall in any way relieve the owner or his agents from responsibility for the carrying out of the work in strict accordance with the requirements of the by-law.

This pronouncement was made by the council Monday. It affirms that the owner or his agents are not excused in any way for responsibility for the stability of the structure.

Braunds Claim No Relation

John Braund, 78, of Sydney, Australia, whose claim of successful treatment of cancer is being investigated by the government of New South Wales is not related to Ralph C. Braund of this city, according to a letter which he recently received from a niece in Auckland, N.Z.

Miss Mavis Braund recently wrote to her uncle who has been spending the winter at St. Petersburg, Fla., Fla., enclosing Australian newspaper clippings, and expressing doubt of family relationship.

"My father is of the opinion that there are two families," Miss Braund wrote, "Uncle William (father's brother) emigrated to Australia many years ago, married and settled there. He is now deceased, and left two sons, but they would not be more than 60, whereas John Braund, now in prominence is 79. I have written to him my best wishes."

A story in the New Zealand Herald says Mr. Braund "has been fighting for nearly 50 years to have his treatment recognized. The present developments are the outcome of a two months' campaign by some Sydney newspapers to bring his methods before the public."

It was also reported that E. J. Hallstrom a Sydney philanthropist, has offered Mr. Braund £20,000 to establish a cancer clinic there.

Canadian Press carried a news story last week that two Vancouver women, suffering from "dangerously advanced" cancers, arrived by plane in Sydney to consult Mr. Braund. He had previous advised them not to make the trip.

Meanwhile Dr. E. S. Morris, director-general of health in New South Wales, reiterated his statement that cancer sufferers in other countries "hide their time" pending investigation of the Braund method of treatment.

French Nation Starving

Help Required Without Political Conditions So-Ed Group Told

"Help must be given without stint and without political conditions," said Dr. Glen Shortliffe, Queen's University, referring to prospective aid to France by Canada and the United States. He was speaking at the fourth weekly meeting of So-Ed held at the Normal School on Wednesday night. "Europeans are not interested in defending American and Canadian free enterprise," said Dr. Shortliffe, who spent nearly 12 months in France about a year ago. "Private enterprise is a vigorous system with its roots in our history. I think it has a future in this country. It has none in France."

As a result of wars he contended that the social structure has often been changed. "Feudalism collapsed after Napoleon was defeated in 1815 despite the attempt at a Restoration."

"The Marshall Plan is getting more and more of a relief, not a reconstruction plan. It cannot succeed unless it returns to its original basis and defeats the political implications of the Truman Doctrine."

He said he found many of his old friends were Communists despite the fact their Marxian theory was dubious. "The French Communists get their power from the banruptcy of the black mar- [illegible] virtue. [illegible] Could he [illegible] while [illegible] under the equivalent of $2.60 for a single meal. But the Communists had often gone into country districts, brought back food to factory canteens, and sold it for the equivalent of 15-20 cents.

This, he contended, was a far more powerful argument in the minds of the people than what is printed in the columns of the editorial page, or talk about liberty.

"Individual liberty means nothing to people who are hungry and are freezing to death," he said.

"It is hard for well-fed and contented people to understand," said Dr. Shortliffe. He told the audience that four old men died from the combined effects of hunger and cold, in his immediate vicinity in Paris.

Boys Get Smaller

Speaking of the effect on children he said that 20 per cent of them have tuberculosis; 15 per cent rickets; and the average height of the 14-year-old French boy has dropped three inches since 1938.

"Nothing is harder on the morale of a nation than two months of shivering without a single chance to get warm."

If the war was fought for the reasons usually given "then our aid cannot stop now; we cannot overlook the needs of our neighbors." European nations lack not only the tools but also the opportunity to make pools, said Dr. Shortliffe.

He singled out three groups of young Frenchmen. Many of the young middle class men—a class he said died during wartime—are turning to a career in politics. Some feel the apparent hopelessness of the situation and seek to emigrate. Others—also of the former middle class group—are said to be rolling up their sleeves and performing wage labor as they are convinced France does not need middle men.

A cultural revival during this period of moral testing was one of the most hopeful signs, he said.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Leo Copp, and thanked by Mr. V. R. Henry. Miss Leta Brownscombe was in the chair.

A film was shown illustrating the bill that has to be footed every year by the American taxpayer (estimated at $100,000,000) due to pollution of streams and lakes by sewage.

Traffic Fines Total $350 In City Court

It was a big day in court today, from a monetary point of view, with nearly $350 collected in total fines and costs. There were 42 minor traffic cases for which written pleas of guilty were accepted. They were:

For overtime parking, $2 fine and $1 costs: Donald W. Meredith, 458 Rubidge St.; William R. Chambers, 473 Aylmer St.; Darius K. Card, Lake St. Peter; Mrs. Mary Hayton, 251 Engleburn Ave.; Bruce Parker, 45 Monaghan Rd.; D. Pogue, 1019 Brewer St.; Eric Nickson, 137 Albertus St.

For making a left hand turn contrary to the sign, the following paid $2 and $1 costs each: Raymond Tinney, RR 5, Campbellford; J. C. Hamilton, 275 McGill St.; David Innes, RR 2, Havelock; W. G. Minifie, Port Hope; Earl E. Gill, Campbellford; Clifford Moore, 166 Bastedo Ave., Toronto; Marvin Armstrong, Lakefield.

Speeding seemed to be the most popular offence in today's session, with $5 and $2.50 costs collected for that from: Arthur Bebee, Bailieboro; H. S. Moncrief, 641 Charlotte St.; Mrs. Lydia Lawlor, Young's Point; J. M. Dodwell, 85 Benson Ave:; Melvin Campbell, 204 George St.; J. K. Innes, 549 Bolivar; Donald Ephgrave, 677 Bethune; J. C. Sullivan, RR 1, Peterborough; F. Revoy, 823 Park St.; Fraser Barrand, 202 Swanswick Ave., Toronto; W. A. Killoran, Lakefield; Earl Shewen, Mount Julian.

For a truck left parked across the sidewalk, Duffus Motors was fined $2 and $1 costs.

Driving without proper or illuminated tail-lights brought fines of $2 and $1 costs each from: K. R. Harrison, 215 Lake St.; A. R. Lockington, 591 Donegal St.; Jack Wineberg, 72 College St., Toronto; A. Holden, 217 Rubidge St.; Harvey G. Sutton, 200 George St.; Thomas A. Eason, RR 6, Peterborough; Clare Bell, 544 Murray St.; Ernest Thompson, RR 11, Peterborough; J. J. Ireland, 772 Duffus St.

For going through a stop sign, Joseph A. Atkinson, 56 Spencer Ave., Toronto; A. Moldaver, Gordon Ave.; and G. Leslie Woodruff, 17 Anne St., each paid $3 and $2.50 costs.

Crossing against a red light cost $4 and $2.50 costs each to Gerald Hogan, RR 3, Peterborough, and Robert E. Goodfellow, 583 Park St. north.

Hughes Auto Wreckers, Monaghan Rd., for failing to report the sale of a motor vehicle in the time allotted, were fined $10 and $2.50 costs.

TRUCK BURIED IN SNOW

Slight damage and a minor cut were the only results of an accident Tuesday night which might have led to much worse in both departments. A light truck, driven by Wilfred Grisdale, 152 Dufferin street, struck a snowbank about six miles east of Peterborough on No. 7 Highway, careened from it and overturned. The driver was able to climb out safely. The truck was deeply imbedded in the snow and had to be left there overnight. It was hauled out today.

With Two Days Yet To Go Community Fund $39,370

By Wednesday nigh incomplete returns for the day showed that $39,370 of the $60,000-objective had been reached in the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign scheduled to end on Friday. Campaign workers met to give an interim report on the progress of the drive.

In the absence of Ross L. Dobbin who was in Toronto on business, Benjamin Meyers presided. While it was believed the objective would be reached Mr. Meyers injected a cautionary note: "I suggest that every effort be made to contact those in your division and see that the results get in so we won't fall down on our objective."

About $2,000 Short

It was pointed out that the Industrial Division had almost reached its quota of $25,000, having canvassed $22,179.38 already. However, this follows the pattern of other campaigns when it was observed that the Industrial Division reached its figure first. As the Retail Division entails a more complicated method of canvassing its figures are usually a little later in reaching completion.

The Retail Division figure, with some captains still to be heard from, stood at $5,794.50. Objective is $13,000. Top captains to date are J. L. Thompson, $1,100; Charles Lacheur, $1,000; George Gimblett, Sr., $936.50; W. J. Hamilton, $644; C. H. Elliott, $600.

In the Ladies' Division it was learned that $2,262.75 had been raised, leaving less than $2,000 to go. Canvassing the north section of the city Mrs. C. S. Browne obtained $419; in the south end Mrs. A. B. Clark and Mrs. L. Monk $335.75; in the central section Mrs. C. Neal, $412; in the east Mrs. J. Watters, $40. Mrs. J. E. Weir canvassed $524.50. School teachers had contributed $531.50.

Mrs. W. E. Fanning, chairman Ladies' Division, explained that many canvassers had been afflicted with the current round of mumps, measles, and flu. She also suggested that canvassers explain to housewives in particular, that they need not contribute in cash only: the instalment basis was acceptable.

Special Names Division shooting at the $18,000 mark have collected $9,451.

With two days to go $40,000 has been reached — two-thirds of the total. So it's on with the campaign for that remaining third.

City To Issue $180,203.54 In Debentures

Serial debentures amounting to $180,203.54 are to be issued by the council for the financing of works done by the Utilities Commission, Board of Education and the council itself.

Utilities Commission requires $115,000 for its waterworks department; Board of Education $29,000 for the new addition to Queen Mary school; and the Council is paying $34,420.65 for sewers laid last year; and there is a sidewalk item of $1,782.54.

Utilities and Board of Education borrowing is on the basis of 20 years' repayment by serial debentures. The council's debentures are for 15 years.

The recommendation by the finance committee of the council is that the interest rate be 2¾ p.c. on those debentures maturing in the first ten years and 3 p.c. for those maturing during the term from 11 to 20 years, "and that only the final debenture payment in each case is callable."

It is understood that the Utilities Commission is paying for water mains laid on streets in the new area of the city, and especially for the housing projects which were completed last year, and is also providing for the extension of 24-inch main from Bethune St. and Park Hill Road north and east toward the waterworks. This job is laid down in the 1948 program.

Britain's Chancellor Controls Six Government Departments

By FRASER WIGHTON

LONDON, March 4 (Reuter's)—Britain's chancellor of the exchequer, Sir Stafford Cripps, now working on a budget that may open an even more rigorous chapter of British austerity than any yet experienced, maintains his present terrific working pace on five hours' sleep a day and a diet of fruit and vegetables.

Strongly tipped as Britain's next Labor prime minister, Sir Stafford, a tall, spare and commanding figure, has become synonymous with austerity and reserve, though actually there is no more friendly and approachable minister in the government.

As the hot gospeller of tighter belts and shorter rations he is merely the instrument of official policy. His Spartan personal existence is due not to any burning desire to mortify the flesh but to past illness.

Many years ago he had a serious ailment for which a vegetarian diet was prescribed. It not only cured him, but it gave him the capacity to do twice as much work as before and with much less sleep.

His work-day is 17 hours. Not only is he chancellor of the exchequer with chief responsibility for financial policy, he also is in overriding control of five other government departments — board of trade, ministry of supply, ministry of transport, ministry of fuel and power, and ministry of agriculture. Under Prime Minister Attlee he is also chief of the cabinet expert group on India and Burma. He does all this for £5,000 ($20,000) a year. As one of Britain's leading barristers, he formerly earned more than £30,000 a year.

Patient, Friendly.

Sir Stafford has friendly brown eyes and a disarming smile that do not at all match his reputation for austerity and although he does not suffer fools any more readily than the average busy man he has tremendous patience.

Startling stories are told about the secret good works carried out for charity both by Sir Stafford and Lady Cripps. They are probably all true.

The chancellor has sometimes been called the British Gandhi. The analogy is not accurate, but it has a basis of truth. Sir Stafford's integrity is a byword in parliament. He cares little what happens to him personally in his advocacy of any cause in which he believes.

Under Attlee he was the supreme interpreter of the British government's plan to transfer power to India and Burma. That to him was a burning cause When he went to India with the cabinet mission he worked night and day in search of solution until he virtually collapsed. India knows Sir Stafford and respects him as she does few Britons.

After the prime minister, Sir Stafford now is the most important man in the government. The only other ministers who rank alongside him as Attlee lieutenants are Foreign Secretary Bevin and the deputy prime minister, Herbert Morrison.

In the sense of being the man of the moment, however, his personality for the time being is overshadowing also every other figure on the government front bench.

He is working at tremendous pressure, but is enjoying every minute of it. Events of the next few months will tell whether an even more fateful role awaits him.

Czech Gov't Loses No Time Sending Envoy

WASHINGTON, March 4. (AP) —Czechoslovakia's new Communist government already has an envoy on the way to replace the ambassador to the United States who quit rather than serve a "police state."

Diplomatic officials said today Irvin Munk was named minister counsellor to Washington after last week's Red coup in Prague.

Due in New York Monday, he thus was en route when Ambassador Juraj Slavik quit his post yesterday to "fight for Czechoslovak democracy."

Munk is slated to become charge d'affairs. In that capacity he will head the embassy staff which did not immediately follow the ambassador into voluntary exile.

The state department, meanwhile, is prepared to assure Slavik that he is welcome to remain in the United States. But whether he can look for official support in his announced attempt to rally Czech "patriots" against the new government of Prime Minister Klement Gottwald is something else.

Under-secretary Robert A. Lovett said the United States is holding further talks with Britain and France, which joined the United States in a three-power condemnation of the Communist seizure of power in Czechoslovakia.

But if the established pattern is followed, there will be no break in formal diplomatic relations with Prague. In the absence of such a break, Slavik and other Czech exiles could expect no more backing than similar refugees from Poland, Hungary and other Soviet satellite states.

In announcing his resignation, Slavik declared that the great majority of the Czech people remain true to ideals and that he "will act in their behalf and in their name." He did not say whether he has specific actions in mind.

PRESIDENT'S ANSWER — Prime Minister Pekkala (left) and Foreign Minister Enckell are shown leaving the presidential palace in Helsinki, Finland, after a conference with Finnish President Jubo Paasikivi. It is possible that they may have the president's recommendation to the Finnish parliament on the Russian demand for a mutual assistance pact. Another caller at the palace was Hertta Kuusinen, woman leader of Finland's Communists, who is said to be the driving force behind an entire Scandinavian "united front" against the Marshall Plan.

Legislatures In Full Swing

By The Canadian Press

Measures to speed construction of low-cost housing, to assist gold mining communities and to continue air immigration from the United Kingdom were forecast yesterday in the Throne speech at the opening of the Ontario Legislature.

A suggestion was made in the Manitoba Legislature that salaries of Premier Stuart Garson and members of his cabinet be increased. Ronald Turner, air force representative, termed the premier's salary "pretty niggardly."

Mr. Garson, whose salary is listed as $7,050, said his government was advocating anti-inflationary measures and asked how the government could maintain a policy of careful economy if it raised salaries of the cabinet and the premier.

Debate on the New Brunswick Throne Speech opened with an attack by Hugh Mackay, Progressive Conservative opposition leader, on government spending. Mr. Mackay said capital expenditures on roads and bridges as well as ordinary expenditures reached new highs this year.

The Prince Edward Island Legislature gave second reading to a bill designed to decrease highway accidents by governing location of new buildings in rural areas. The legislation provided for amendments to the road act to prohibit placing of buildings where they would block a motorists' view.

Quebec's Legislative Assembly debated a motion by Armand Sylvestre (L—Berthier) asking the Union Nationale Government to take steps to stabilize dairy products prices at a level which would give producers profit and supply consumers at reasonable prices. Supporting the motion, Liberal Leader Adelard Godbout said present milk prices were so high that consumption was reduced "even in hospitals." He said the government should pay premiums on butter and cheese production.

Budget debate resumed in the Saskatchewan Legislature, with L. M. Marion (L — Athabaska) and H. L. Howell (CCF—Meadow Lake) discussing fish, fur and timber marketing policies of the C.C.F. administration.

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP).— Wellington, Kingston and Pickering were among Ontario centres which had winners in yesterday's sessions of the Kiwanis music festival which continues until Saturday night.

Top honors in the bass solo class for singers 21 years and under went to Reginald Bishop of Wellington.

Carolyn Gundy of Kingston came second in the piano solo class for children 14 years and under. Earlier in the sessions she and her sister, Joyce, placed in the top three divisions in several classes.

Peter Alfred Kaiser of Pickering was adjudged second in the tenor solo class for competitions 21 years and under. Don Gardham of Grimsby was third.

25 to 60 Cycle Changeover Gets Go Signal

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP)— Representatives of Ontario municipalities yesterday in effect gave the "go ahead" signal for the Provincial Government's proposed standardization of Ontario Hydro power at 60 cycles.

The projected change-over from the 25-cycle system in the Toronto area and the Niagara Peninsula was discussed at closing sessions of the Ontario Municipal Electric Association's annual convention. Meeting with the association were delegates from the Association of Municipal Electrical Utilities.

The principal resolution adopted asked for a report on the conversion plan for a special OMEA committee. It carried with the proviso that the Ontario Government obtain the association's views before finally proceeding with the change-over.

Asociated with the conversion project is a long-term power development program. Financial requirements of both during the next 15 years total $457,000,000. It was learned last night that engineers will proceed with plans to change to 60-cycle power half the generating facilities at the 500,000 horse-power Queenston-Chippewa plant at Niagara Falls.

Bertram Merson, vice-chairman of the Toronto Hydro-Electric system, told the gathering the estimated expenditure of $191,000,000 for power conversion should be carefully considered and the entire project studied.

Another resolution adopted urged that the association be allowed to name its own representative to the Ontario Hydro-Electric Power Commission "at the pleasure of the association for a specified period." Arrangements to allot more power to merchants during the power scarcity were suggested.

However, the meeting decided against endorsing a resolution that a steam plant to generate additional power for the southern part of the province be established.

Some opposition was expressed to proposals to expand rural electrification before the present power shortage problems had been entirely solved. Delegates said they strongly favored a long-term plan to extend rural lines, but felt enlargement of Hydro service at present was inadvisable.

As the meeting turned to final business of its three-day session, it elected George F. Hutcheson of Huntsville president. He succeeds R. M. Durnford of Sarnia.

District vice-presidents are T. A. Andre, Kingston, F. G. Lovelady, Port Arthur, Loftus Reid, Toronto, R. Pierson, Brantford Township, G. W. Gordon, Kitchener, P. R. Locke, St. Thomas, G. H. Fuller, Windsor. Secretary-treasurer is Mrs. H. Kestell of Guelph.

ENVOYS QUIT—Dr. Frantisek Nemec, Czech minister to Canada, announced that he has resigned his post and will remain in Canada as a private citizen. He said practically all his staff also has resigned and will remain in Canada. He made this decision known to the government at Prague about 11 a.m. EST, Wednesday. Four other members of the legation staff in addition to himself would stay in Ottawa in private life, he added. Czechslovakian ambassador to the U.S. also resigned in protest over the Communist coup in his homeland, Washington announced.

China Secret Eludes Congress

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP) —The United States Congress tries anew today to pry the lid off a secret report on China.

The House of Representatives Foreign Affairs Committee called the man who wrote the report—Lt.-Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer—as a witness on the pending $570,000,000 Chinese aid program.

Wedemeyer went to China last summer as President Truman's special representative. But the findings he submitted upon his return have never been made public.

The state department ruled that to do so might be "actually harmful" to both the United States and China.

Representative Walter Judd (Rep.-Minn.), a member of the House Committee, told reporters he is convinced that Wedemeyer's views conflict with those of State Secretary Marshall, who himself spent a year in China as Truman's personal envoy before taking over the cabinet post.

The committee already has learned that the views of Gen. MacArthur on help for China are at sharp odds with those of Marshall and the President.

The administration program now before the Congress calls only for economic help for China. It proposes no guns, ammunition or other military assistance for the government troops battling Communist forces.

But MacArthur, in a statement cabled to the House group from Tokyo yesterday, asserted that "underlying all issues in China is now the military problem."

Mr. Gromyko's Stand On Palestine Due For a Thorough Shaking

By WALTER O'HEARN

LAKE SUCCESS, N.Y.— The Security Council adjourned immediately after Andrei Gromykc's statement was translated, because the other Council members wanted a day to look for jokers in it. They did not know what the Russian was getting at—whether it was a knock or a boost — but they suspected the worst.

Actually the remarks on Palestine by the Soviet delegate, his answer to the proposals of the United States were rather moderate. The language itself was rather sharp, but looking over Mr. Gromyko's text it is hard to discern where he has raised any insuperable obstacle to big-power agreement on Palestine.

He has, perhaps, insinuated a dangerous bit of doctrine which may be embarrassing to the United States. His speech, for all that, was not the usual display of Soviet intransigence.

As the late Al Smith would have said, let us look at the record.

The United States and the U.S.S.R. both backed Palestine partition before the General Assembly in November. Between them they rammed it through. The last Arab objections were dismissed by Gromyko and by Herschel Johnson of the United States in almost identical language.

At the same time, neither power did anything concrete about enforcement. They were so happy, apparently over having reached some area of agreement that they tended to postpone any discussion of "belling the cat"—a discussion which both knew would lead to wide differences of opinion.

Formula Favored

They both agreed to the formula in the Assembly resolution that partition would be "subject to the authority of the Security Council" with the express reservation that the day-to-day operation of the Palestine Commission would not be held up by Security Council veto.

Promptly in January the question of Palestine partition began to pop up in Security Council meetings like a persistent spectre. The United States and theU.S.S.R. were both only too willing to defer any talk about it. Gromyko did propose at the secon January meeting of the Council that it pass a simple resolution "accepting the recommendation of the General Assembly on Palestine" and so committing the Security body to partition. He did not press the point. The ostensible reason for this inaction was that the Palestine Commission had not met and had not made any report to the Security Council members. The real reasons for delay were that the Arabs were planning to do a lot of talking when the Council got down to the Palestine case; that other important matters (Indonesia and India-Pakistan) were pending; that there was bound to be a row about enforcement and the Council members secretly hoped that partition would be accepted in Palestine without too much civil violence.

Their hopes were not sustained. In the meantime, as Arthur Creech-Jones of the United Kingdom told the Council yesterday, Britain is pulling out of the Holy Land in eleven weeks. The only instrument of partition at present is an Assembly resolution legally binding on nobody. The Palestine Commission will not set foot in the Holy Land without armed backing.

The U.S. Position

In this dilemma the United States through Senator Warren Austin has taken the position that the Council cannot send troops to enforce partition but it can send them to maintain peace, if enforcement leads to a breach of the peace.

Austin repeated this yesterday speaking in support of the resolution he presented a week ago. His resolution — a document widely assailed—calls for (1) the Council to adopt the General Assembly resolution which as Austin said yesterday, would be "a vote for partition," (2) for the Big Five to constitute themselves a committee of the Council to make recommendations on the Palestine case, (3) for this committee to hold consultations with the Palestine Commission, with the Jews and with the Arabs, (4) for it to report its conclusion and any recommendation for action back to the Security Council. That is not the exact text, but it is the Austin resolution reduced to its simplest terms.

Now what was Gromyko's stand?

He favors adoption of Senator Austin's paragraph one, which would mean council endorsement of partition. It is exactly what the Russian himself proposed in January.

He favored Big Five consultation and admitted Big Five responsibility. But not as a "committee" of the Security Council.

He did not favor consultation with the Arabs and Jews or with the mandatory authorities, except through the Palestine Commission, because he contended that this would set up "parallel channels" of communication and would be unnecessary.

On the face of it, the USSR agrees with enough of Senator Austin's formula to make action possible. A clash of opinion as to whether the Big Five should or should not consult as "a committee" looks at first glance like a mere lawyer's squabble, but it is rather more than that.

Moscow's Thesis

The Russian thesis on United Nations membership laces great stress on national sovereignty. It comes rather strangely from professed internationalists but there you have it. Moreover, this thesis gives rather extraordinarw powers to the Big Five — well above and beyond their powers as permanent members of the Security Council envisaged in the UN Charter. The Russians have consistently sought in any grave international dispute (Korea, Trieste, the peace treaties are good examples) direct negotiation between the major nations, on a plane far above that of the United Nations. The core of their approach to the problem is the notion that this international body is only good if the big nations agree among themselves and the rest agree obediently with them.

That is the dangerous doctrine which the Soviet representative hos insinuated once again — not for the first time in United Nations debate, but for the first time in the Palestine case.

The American proposal is realistic in that it lays stress on Big Five agreement on Palestine. But the Americans want the Big Five to get together as servants of the United Nations; the Soviet Union wants them to agree as masters.

It might seem excessively legalistic to hold up any Palestine settlement for days or weeks because of the definition of a meeting as a committee. Unfortunately the American State Department will be only too aware of the Soviet thesis and will quite possibly balk at lending any support to it. Other Council delegations yesterday were not so adamant. Some indeed seemed to think that the Gromyko proposals would speed things up, inasmuch as they would obviate the necessity of "terms of reference" and the necessity of a vote and a formal report.

These considerations will be weighed against the one already stated. Because of the urgent necessity of action, something very like Gromyko's proposal may come about. But this single example of an unwelcome Soviet doctrine concealed in a seemingly, innocent time saving suggestion, may be significant. It may show why the delegates wanted to take Mr. Gromyko's statement home with them, read it forwards and backwards and shake it to see if anything drops out.

FIRE DESTROYS JAP GOVERNMENT BUILDING — Dr. Hitoshi Ashida, Japanese premier-designate, is shown with girl government workers standing on the site of one of the government offices at Tokyo which was destroyed by fire that also damaged the prime minister's official residence. Apparently the office was of all-wood construction and nothing was left but ashes. Many valuable documents and official papers of the Diet and cabinet sessions were lost.

Writer Suicides

NEW YORK, March 4—(AP).—Phillip Stack, 60, who contributed poetry to Walter Winchell's syndicated Broadway column under the pseudonym "Don Wahn," was killed today in a 12-storey plunge from a mid-Manhattan apartment building. Police, listing the death as apparent suicide, said Stack left a note saying he was "incurably ill."

Sentenced To Die, Two Reprieved

NASHVILLE, Tenn., March 4.—(AP).—Two youths who were scheduled to die in the electric chair at dawn were still alive today and a 20-year-old Pittsburgh Sunday school teacher who flew here to wed one of them was on her way home.

Governor Jim McCord last night granted a 32-day reprieve to 21-year-old Richard Reilly of Pittsburgh. The action came 25 minutes before Reilly was to enter death row at the state penitentiary.

The death sentence of Reilly's companion, Daniel Budzynski, 19, also of Pittsburgh, was commuted to 99 years' imprisonment Tuesday.

The Governor's action in commuting Budzynski's sentence came after the youth's childhood sweetheart, Jeanne Clair Lucas, came here with the avowed intention of marrying Budzynski if his sentence was not commuted.

The youths were convicted of murder in the hold-up slaying of Samuel Colsky, Memphis clothing merchant, in 1946.

Testimony at the trial brought out that Reilly shot Closky while Budzynski acted as lookout. McCord said Really was granted a reprieve because the district attorney general of Shelby county, where the crime was committed, had recommended commutation of Reilly's sentence to life imprisonment.

Of Interest to Women

Girls Inseparable Both Learn to Fly

MONTREAL, March 4 (CP). — Two Montreal girls who have been inseparable friends at school, sport and business have taken their companionship into the air.

They are Dorothy Hay and Kay Evans and they live next door to each other. Both recently passed difficult flying tests and have become fully licensed private pilots.

"They soloed just as quickly as male pupils," said Instructor Don Scholfield. "Usually it takes women quite a bit longer to get the knack of flying."

The girls attribute their aptness partly to participation in sport. They play golf and tennis and go skiing, and although "we aren't tops at anything" they have fun in "taking a try at practically all sports."

The two started taking lessons early last fall and soloed by November.

Miss Hay found soloing "so much excitement; you're so alone and you feel you shouldn't be up there, but it's wonderful."

Miss Evans said her family didn't object to her flying "but at first everyone thought it was silly."

Can Form Orch. With Women's Help

WINNIPEG, March 4 (CP). — Winnipeggers periodically consider the possibility of starting a symphony orchestra which would bear the name of their city and which would bring nation-wide honor to Winnipeg. But so far concrete action directed towards organization has been lacking.

Musically inclined citizens were given hope recently, however, by Bernard Naylor of Toronto, former resident here and well-known Canadian conductor.

Winnipeg can have its orchestra, he said in an address to the Manitoba Registered Music Teachers Association, if women decide there should be an orchestra.

"Civic orchestras across the Dominion owe their lives to their women's committees," he said. "Women can influence so many pupils' parents and their friends people — their pupils, their to support such a musical project. No other group can instil such interest in orchestral formation as women."

Canadian Cabbage Rolls Or Stuffed Cabbage Leaves

By MARY MOORE

Here I am again, still pursuing the pleasant dishes. These latter-day dishes I have been serving up to you are for broad-minded cooks, and they certainly pay off in the budget and in flavor.

I have printed this recipe before but since then have not tried it myself—that was seven years ago. With imported cabbage selling at 5 cents per pound we can all afford it, and we should take advantage of its variableness.

I have forgotten the Polish name for this dish, but the Poles serve cabbage rolls always, with cold sour cream at table. Cream never lasts long enough in this house to get sour so I would not know how that combination tastes. They say it is delicious.

Canadian Cabbage Rolls

(Or Stuffed Cabbage Leaves)

Three-quarters to 1 lb. lean veal or beef chopped finely, salt and pepper to taste, juice of 1 small onion or 1 tablespoon grated onion, ½ to 1 cup cooked rice, 8 large cabbage leaves (to serve 8), (1 tomato or ½ cup stewed tomato, is option), 2 tablespoons vinegar, 1 tablespoon sugar. Soften the cleaned cabbage leaves by soaking in boiling water about 5 minutes. Combine meat and all ingredients, but tomato vinegar and sugar. Place a large spoonful of the meat mix in each cabbage leaf and roll un snugly. Place them in a flat kettle or baking dish, add tomato (or water) and vinegar and sugar. Cover. Simmer gently or bake until tender (about 1 hour simmering—2 hours baking). Delicious with baked or mashed potatoes.

Variations: (1) The Scotch substitute rolled oats for rice. (2) Bread crumbs may be used in place of rice. (3) Use any left-over cooked meat; chicken, of course, is excellent.

Menus For Special Purposes

Low-Calorie Dinner
Veal and Vegetable Curry (see notes)
(2-3 cup 225 cal.)
Kernel Corn (½ cup 50 cal.)
Vegetable Salad (see notes)
(60 cal.)
Canned Plums (with sugar syrup (100 cal.)
Clear Coffee (0 Cal.)

High-Calorie Low-Cost Dinner
French Onion Soup with Croutons and Grated Cheese

Tomato Jelly and Cottage Cheese
Shredded Cabbage
Apple Dumplings with Lemon Syrup (see notes) Coffee

One-Burner Dinner
Creamed Sweetbreads and Peas on Toast
Waldorf Salad
Canned Cherries with store-bought Jelly Roll Coffee

Directions

For the Veal and Vegetable Curry cut one lb. shoulder veal in 1-inch cubes, and roll it in salted flour. Saute lightly in vegetable oil until golden, then add 3 cups boiling water. Simmer covered, until veal is nearly tender, then add 1 cup each diced carrots, celery (optional), canned or fresh peas and canned or fresh beans. Simmer until vegetables are tender. (One-half cup onion may be added if desired.) To 2 tablespoons flour add 1 or 2 teaspoons curry powder, and make this into a paste with 1-3 cup cold water. Stir this into the meat mixture until thick. You may need to add more water. Taste for salt and pepper and curry.

In these lean salad days a good mixture is one part cooked potato, chopped apple, cabbage, carrot and celery—with salt and mayonnaise to flavour and moisten.

Apple Dumplings

Biscuit Dough: 2 cups flour, 5 teaspoons baking powder, 1 teaspoon salt, about ¾ cup milk, lemon sauce. Sift flour with baking powder and salt, then stir in enough milk to make a stiff dough. Roll out on floured board and cut into squares—this amount will make 4 large squares or 6 small ones. On each place a small pared and cored apple and fill centre of apple with brown sugar and sprinkling of nutmeg. Draw dough up around apple and pinch edges to enclose it completely. Place on greased baking dish. Pour over thin lemon sauce: ½ cup sugar is mixed with 1-3 cup water, 1 tablespoon butter and 2 tablespoons lemon juice and grated rind 1 lemon. Pour this over the dumplings and bake at 400 deg. Fahr. for about 20 minutes, then reduce heat to 300 deg. Fahr. to finish baking apples.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, March 5

In spite of high tension and an inclination to either tricky or faulty judgments, there are good indications of a day of steady progress toward ambitious objectives. In this there is hope of those in high places being heartily in accord with such propositions, with probably personal or social as well as professional factors proving influential. Being alert to duplicity, false values, and refraining from rash acts or turbulence, there should be productive work. The affectional, sentimental and domestic relations also flourish.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is have an augury for success and progress in the launching of projects of major significance in which the resources and friendly cooperation of influential personages are essential. But be alert to false values or dubious entanglements born of wrong judgment or over-confidence in one's self or others. Refrain from flash ideas or plunging, and as well make prudent use of the personal or social element.

A child born on this day should make progress in ambitious objectives in life, with corresponding gratification, happiness and influence in its romantic, social and professional life.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

SKILL IN MARRIAGE

Job Training for Wifehood Needed for Contentment

When a man hires a new secretary who is just out of the school room and who has had no previous experience in the business world, he doesn't expect her to turn out an expert job. On the contrary, he knows that she will make mistakes and bungle accounts, and not know where things are in the files, or how to handle clients or customers smoothly, and he prepares himself to use patience and diplomacy in breaking her in to the office routine and in teaching her how to do the work the way he wants it done so that eventually she becomes "our invaluable Miss Smith."

Dorothy Dix

Yet, strangely enough, there are very few men who ever consider training the girls they marry into being the kind of wives they want. Whether they think that there is some magic in the marriage ceremony that will automatically turn their brides into whatever they desire them to be as wives, Heaven alone knows. But it is sadly true that when the average girl gets married she hasn't the faintest idea on earth of what her husband really wants her to be and do.

Not only has her prospective husband never told her what he wants of her, or what it is that gripes him? Love of itself is not enough for the average man. He wants performance, besides. And when he marries he wants his wife to have all of the domestic virtues, as well as good looks and a line of fascinations. And when she fails to make good on any, or all, of these points, he considers that he has been gypped and he acts accordingly, which doesn't make him pleasant to live with.

Apparently, it seldom occurs to a man that when he marries a young ignorant girl, who has had no experience in smoothing men's fur down the right way and knowing how to get along with him, and who knows nothing of how to cook or handle money, it is up to him to teach her how to be a good wife and come up to his standards.

There isn't a woman who couldn't be turned into a good cook if her husband took an interest in it and praised her bread and pies in the market place. There isn't a woman whose husband couldn't teach her to be a thrifty if he showed her how to handle money. There isn't a woman who wouldn't learn to control her temper.

Second marriages are notoriously happy, and the reason for this is that widows have been taught, by precept and experience, how to be good wives.

BABY'S COLDS
Help Nature To Fight Them Off
Medical Science denies there is any such thing as a cure for colds—only Nature herself can do it. So when baby's sniffles, or stuffy breathing warn you of a cold's presence—cooperate at once with Nature.
See that baby is kept warm, gets plenty of sleep and take extra care that the bowels are thoroughly cleared of harmful wastes. To do this without upsetting baby's whole system and further weakening it, try Baby's Own Tablets. Mild, yet act promptly in getting rid of the irritating materials that make baby restless and feverish. Mrs. George McBride of Scarboro says: "My baby of 2½ months caught a nasty cold so I tried Baby's Own Tablets and she threw this cold off quicker than ever before. I certainly am for Baby's Own Tablets from now on." Effective also in teething troubles, constipation and other simple baby ailments. 25¢.

Britain Exhausts U.S. Loan In 19 Months

WASHINGTON, March 4 (AP). —Britain has exhausted its $3,750,000,000 loan from the United States with a final $100,000,000 draft, the U.S. Treasury disclosed today.

Originally expected to last three to five years, the loan funds held only 19½ months. Britain withdrew the money at an average rate of nearly $200,000,000 a months.

The last withdrawal was made Monday.

In London last night it was estimated officially that about $242,000,000 of the $1,250,000,000 Canadian loan to Britain will still be available by April 1.

Exhaustion of the United States loan came a short time after a British Government White Paper declared, in effect, that Britain faces bankruptcy and that it has overspent its income by $4,000,000,000 in the last two years.

New dollar aid, however, is in prospect in the $5,300,000,000 European recovery program now under debate in the United States Senate. Upwards of one quarter of the ERP funds may go to Britain, expected to be the biggest beneficiary under the program.

BOILING TO DEATH

Boiling to death was made a capital punishment in England in 1531.

ENGINEER DIES — Like a wounded monster, the steaming locomotive of the Maritime Express that plunged off the rails near St. Andre, Que., lies almost 30 feet from the track with the engineer, Arthur Boucher, dead inside the cab (Top). Some of the derailed and upturned cars (below) photographed by one of the passengers a few minutes after the accident. The passengers escaped with only a shaking up because of the coolness of trainmen who applied the air brakes in time to halt the movement of the cars.

School Grants To Be Boosted Speech Reveals

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP) — Noting a great need for additional school accommodation in the province, the Ontario government plans to increase school grants over last year's record expenditures.

In the Speech from the Throne at yesterday's 1948 legislature session opening. The government said grants will exceed the $30,134,336 spent in 1947 by a substantial amount.

It said the legislature will be asked to approve continuation of expanded activities in schools such as recreation programs conducted under the physical and health education branch of the department.

"Fifty-five communities now are conducting recreation programs under full-time directors. A notable part of this program is the provision of citizenship classes for recent arrivals in the province."

Reviewing welfare operations of the last year, the speech said unemployment relief has been increased due to increased cost of living. Mothers' allowances had also been increased. By agreement with the Dominion government, the province had undertaken to pay its 25 per cent share of old age pensions increased from $25 per month to $30. In addition a further provincial payment of $10 a month for cases of need had been provided for, and preliminary steps had been taken to inaugurate a system of rehabilitation for handicapped persons.

Killed By Flying Glass

SOUTHAMPTON, Eng., March 4 (AP).—One man was killed and several passengers were injured when a huge wave hit the United States' Lines' Washington in mid-Atlantic, Capt. John W. Anderson reported when he docked the ship here Wednesday.

Anderson said the wave, which struck Feb. 28 at breakfast time, shattered port holes and sent splintered glass flying through the forward dining room.

A fragment of glass killed Wilhelm Vest, 51, of Venezuela. He was buried at sea.

EX-AMBASSADOR WARNS AGAINST RUSSIA — A sombre note was sounded by William Christian Bullitt, former U.S. ambassador to Moscow, when he appeared before the House foreign affairs committee hearing on aid for China in Washington, D.C. Mr. Bullitt stated flatly that Russia is "in preparation for an attack on the United States" and that the country is in grave danger. He is shown here (right) with representative Charles Eaton, of New Jersey, chairman of the committee.

Sees Progress In Farm Areas

TORONTO, March 4 — (CP). — Last year was a year of difficulties for Ontario farmers but "it was also a year of positive progress in the development of long term plans for improvement of agricultural conditions," the Throne Speech at the 1948 Ontario legislature opening declared yesterday.

Reviewing 1947, the speech said progress was particularly marked in the field of livestock in which new policies initiated by the department of agriculture were being "accepted with favor by farmers."

It listed such things as extension of scientific research at Ontario Agricultural College, Ontario Veterinary College and the various experimental stations under the jurisdiction of the department. These, the speech said, have gone ahead rapidly in the last year.

It promised continuation of the research program "bringing to the aid of the farmers of Ontario all the resources of agricultural science."

Reject Charges Against Clergyman

SYDNEY, N.S., March 4.—(CP).— Charges against Rev. Frank Lawson of Halifax, moderator of the Halifax-Lunenburg presbytery of the Presbyterian church, for alleged denial of the virgin birth were rejected for lack of evidence at a meeting here Tuesday of the Cape Breton presbytery but a supporter of the charges said last night they will be repeated at the general assembly of the church in Toronto in June.

In a story yesterday the Canadian Press erroneously reported that it was the presbytery that made the charge. H. B. McCurdy of Sydney, a layman who attended the presbytery meeting, said the charge laid against Mr. Lawson arose from "his denial of the virgin birth of our Lord, which is a violation of the confession of faith of the Presbyterian church." He said the charge would be raised at the June Toronto assembly.

Last night three presbytery officers issued a statement in which they denied that the presbytery had made the charge against Mr. Lawson.

They said the charge had been made by a member of the presbytery and had been rejected through lack of evidence.

The statement was signed by Rev. Hugh Jack, of Sydney, moderator, Rev. Samuel Kerr, Glace Bay, N.S., and Rev. Earl Moore of Sydney.

Meanwhile in Halifax Mr. Lawson said he had not heard of the charge nor seen the report of the presbytery meeting and he would wait for a full report before offering a comment.

Premier Condemns Subversive Forces

WELLINGTON, N.Z., March 4 (CP).—Outspoken condemnation of forces inside New Zealand threatening to destroy democracy has been voiced by Prime Minister Peter Fraser.

"Forces are at work throughout the world to destroy democracy and to create totalitarianism under various names," he declared in a recent statement of aims.

"Dictatorship, whether of individuals, groups, or sections, cannot be countenanced and must be opposed.

"In New Zealand we have had indications of individuals and small groups vociferous out of all proportion to their importance, who have threatened the continuity and welfare of the economic and social life of our country. This menace, if it continues, must be faced conclusively in the coming year, and the government may be compelled to ask for the full support of the people to enforce the observation of the principles of democracy in our industrial and economic life.

"I feel sure that the people of New Zealand will respond to any request to combat any subversive and destructive influences inside our country as wholeheartedly as they helped to fight the enemy

Polish Treasures Now In Museum

QUEBEC, March 3 — (CP). — L'Action Catholique reported today in a front page story by its parliamentary correspondent Calixte Dumas that some of the Polish treasures held by the Hotel Dieu in Quebec City now are in the provincial museum here under government protection.

The story said:

"In answer to an appeal from the hospital nuns, who for the first time since the establishment of their admirable community, were submitted to unexpected police intervention — by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police— to which the community was forced to open its cloister doors, Premier Duplessis immediately gave orders to liberate the sisters of the Hotel Dieu from grave and disgraceful annoyance which they had to suffer and free them of their responsibilities concerning the keeping of the famous packages of inestimable artistic value."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

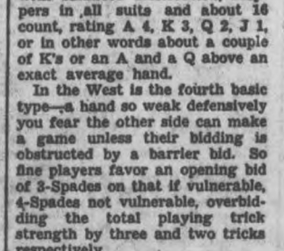
ALL SYSTEMS SIMILAR

"IN PARTICULAR, I would like to know all the conventional bids and their meaning," writes F. A. Bentley, a recent recruit to bridge, who is a member of the No. 1 Road Maintenance Company, Royal Civil Engineers, in Yukon Territories, Canada, where he can be reached only by air mail via Watson Lake. "What many bridge players never learn are the complete particulars of any given system." So let's sketch the main systems in a new way.

That is not a bridge deal, simply a presentation of the four definite types of hands on which all good players consider making an opening bid.

In the North is what might be called the irreducible minimum for a sound suit bid of one in any system. Some would require slightly greater strength, in high cards or suit length, because the original bidder guarantees a re-bid if his partner answers 1-Club with one of another suit, and 1-No Trump on this is not a too desirable rebid on it. Most would reduce the minimum if the club suit were a card longer, to have a total of about half a high card trick less.

In the East is a typical specimen of the strength of hand for an opening bid which guarantees partner enough strength to justify the side getting into a game contract, no matter how weak the partner's hand. At least 95 per cent of all players would do that with an original bid of 2-Hearts, and after partner's response would be ready to bid clubs. The purpose of such bids is to assure a game contract yet get partner's help in selecting the best declaration for the pair, suit or No Trump, as well as the best height.



South's holding is a typical minimum opening 1-No Trump, with balanced distribution, stoppers in all suits and about 16 count, rating A 4, K 3, Q 2, J 1, or in other words about a couple of K's or an A and a Q above an exact average hand.

In the West is the fourth basic type—a hand so weak defensively you fear the other side can make a game unless their bidding is obstructed by a barrier bid. So fine players favor an opening bid of 3-Spades on that if vulnerable, 4-Spades not vulnerable, overbidding the total playing trick strength by three and two tricks respectively.

Distinguishing those four types of hands makes a sound start towards learning any system.

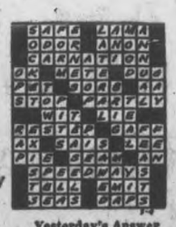
Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)



If you held that South hand and considered opening with a psychic bid, what call would you select?

Mrs. F. Armstrong Is Laid To Rest

Funeral service for the late Mrs. Frances Louis Armstrong, 81 of 416½ George St., was held Wednesday from the Kaye Funeral Home. Rev. A. M. Partridge of Mark St. United Church officiated. The following pall-bearers were in attendance, Max, Jerry, Jack and Lloyd Grose, W. Davis and D. Davidson. Burial took place in Little Lake Cemetery.

Mrs. Armstrong died at Civic Hospital on Monday. She was born in Wooler, Ont., daughter of the late Joseph Rightmeyer and Eliza Mahalia Wood. Before coming to Peterborough 25 years ago, she was a resident of Melitia, Man.

Driver Fined $50 Following Accident

Perrin Rork, Norwood, was fined $50 and costs of $7.90 when he pleaded guilty in court today to a charge of reckless driving.

The facts of the case were related to Magistrate Russel Philp by Crown Counsel V. J. McEldery.

The accused, a store owner at Norwood, had been asked by the driver of a school bus, to drive some of the pupils home when the bus broke down. There were five or six children in the car.

Driving west from Norwood, on No. 7 highway, the accused's car was reported on the wrong side of the road. An approaching truck, unable to swing too much off the road because of walking children, was forced over to its wrong side and the two met in collision about the centre of the highway. The truck careened off the road into the ditch.

Alex Elliott, acting for the accused, pointed out that he was a "solid member of the community,' having served as reeve. The accident itself, he said, was punishment enough and urged that the minimum be imposed.

The accident had occurred, he said, when the accused had attempted to reach for a package of cigarettes in his pocket in the crowded car. During that moment, Mr. Elliott said, the car had swerved to the wrong side of the road.

Forced Landing Made By Plane At Norwood

There was some excitement at Norwood today when a light plane, ski-equipped and bound from Orillia to Smiths Falls, made a forced landing in the face of heavy winds and dwindling fuel supply. The plane, with two on board, landed at the farm of Ivan Beggs on the outskirts of the village. With assistance from the crowd that assembled, it was able to make a safe take-off and headed for Peterborough to gas up. Landing at Skyboro about 12:45 noon, it was on its way shortly after.

The staff of the filtration plant have a new problem on their hands. They have been presented with a year-old raccoon by Alec Bolton, Burleigh Falls, who found the future fur-coat in his cellar. They are nursing the new arrival's health carefully and will see that the bestcare is taken. Indeed, they have already envisioned fond hopes of finding a mate for "it." The indefinite pronoun must be used, for the problem aforementioned, is that the staff, as yet have not been able to ascertain whether the animal is a "him" or a "her."—R.B.

Ottawa Rents Go Sky-High

Prospect of commercial rents in down town Ottawa being boosted all the way up to 500 per cent when controls on this type of property is lifted Mon. March 8, was reported Tuesday by controller Goodwin at a meeting of the Board of Control.

"A lower town businessman formerly paying $150 a month was closing his doors because of a hoist in rent to $400 a month."

Some other instances mentioned were: $225 a month in 1939 to be raised to $400 next week; a rent boost from $60 to $300 a month plus 10 per cent of gross sales; another up from $40 to $200.

"These increases are out of all proportion to increased business costs," Controller Goodwin said. "The taxes are not up in proportion. I suggest the government be requested to clamp down with controls of some kind, or it will end in disaster for some firms."

Quiz Convict On Hockey Bets

DETROIT, March 4—(AP). — Clarence Campbell, National Hockey League president, today carried his probe of alleged player betting inside the walls of southern Michigan Prison at Jackson.

Accompanied by top Michigan penal authorities, he conferred at the prison with James (Occo) Tamer, reported "go between" for at least two league players.

Tamer, a known gambler and convicted bank robber, was returning to the prison as a parole violator about two weeks ago. He had been in solitary confinement but Governor Kim Sigler gave Campbell permission to talk with him.

Campbell plans to go to Chicago, from where a member of Boston Bruins allegedly discussed a bet with Tamer in a telephone call to Detroit. One member of New York Rangers also is allegedly implicated in the betting reports.

President Weston Adams of the Bruins, meanwhile, called Campbell's refusal to disclose names or other details "mass torture."

COMMUNITY FUND WORKERS MEET

Community Fund workers are asked to attend a dinner-meeting Friday 6.30 p.m. in the C.G.E. cafeteria to hear final reports on the success of the Red Cross and Community Fund Campaign. It is believed complete figures will be in by that time, and it will be possible to learn if the objective was reached.

Bonds Showing Sharp Retreat From Year Ago

By The Canadain Press

Corporation bonds moved downward for the second time this week and were quoted at from 50 cents to more than 31 lower at Toronto yesterday. Added to the drop Monday and to the sharper retreat late last year, the list averages about $4 lower than prices quoted in mid-1947.

In tracing the decline on these fixed-interest securities, a close parallel is found in the price trend of government bonds. In each instance the drop in corporation bond prices followed similar action of government bonds. The net result is an upward pressure on interest rates and an added cost to industry.

Since corporation bonds originally were sold to bear a fixed rate of interest, the lower price now quoted raises the yield, returning more in interest to the investor. This, in turn, means that any bond issue floated now must offer a competitive yield or it will not find ready sale.

In other words, industry seeking funds for plant expansion, inventory addition or service improvement must be prepared to pay more for money borrowed, and also, must be prepared for profits reduced to the extent of the extra cost.

The weakness and general lack of activity on security markets today is a reflection of such unsettling influences.

On the market fronts, trends yesterday were irregular. New York reported its fourth successive session without an average decline, although the gains were not very significant. Toronto and Montreal were mixed to slightly easier.

Commodity markets were erratic and grains at Chicago ranging widely to close a few cents lower.

Ontario Curlers Meet Manitoba

CALGARY, March 4—(CP). — Only about 100 fans greeted curlers today as play went into the seventh draw in the Canadian curling championship, but it was expected there would be close to 1,000 before the morning draw was completed.

Manitoba, only team with an unbeaten record, took to the ice against Ontario. British Columbia, with only one loss, lined up against Nova Scotia. The third-place Northern Ontario quartet, with its 4-2 record, was pitted against New Brunswick. Saskatchewan meets Quebec and Alberta plays Prince Edward Island.

With the temperature hovering around 10 above, the ice remained keen, but indications were for higher temperatures this afternoon.

Three draws are scheduled for today, with the eighth this afternoon and the ninth, and final round, tonight.

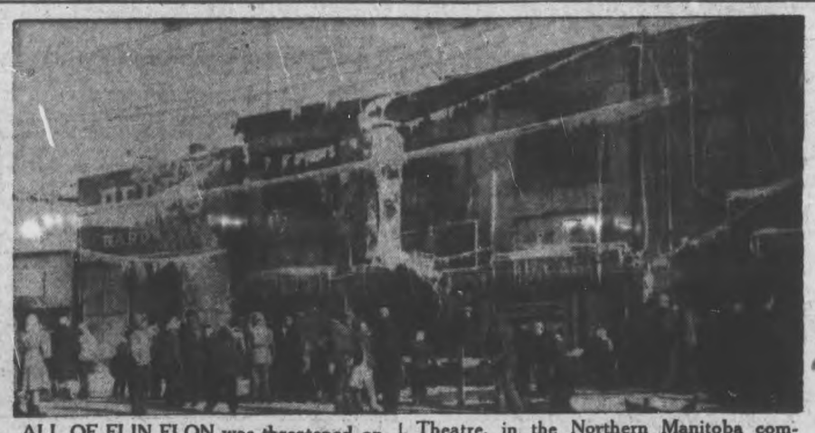
Hospital Fire Threatens 200

OTTAWA, March 4 (CP)—The reek of burned rubber, mattresses and hospital supplies today permeated the three-storey St. Vincent de Paul Hospital for the aged and incurable where fire yesterday raged for three hours and smoke overcame 27 firemen.



Electric and telephone facilities were destroyed in the flames which filled the basement of the grey stone building in the west-central section of the city. Emergency power lines were run in today.

Threatened were the lives of more than 200 patients who were calmed and wheeled in their beds to evacuation points by nursing sisters of the Grey Nuns of the Cross. They were later returned to their rooms.

An inquest will be held.

ALL OF FLIN FLON was threatened on Sunday when fire broke out in the Rex Theatre, in the Northern Manitoba community. Damage was estimated at more than $100,000.

Cancer Sufferers Feel Better Already

SYDNEY, Australia, March 4—(CP).—Two Canadian women cancer sufferers today left the modest bungalow home of John Braund, 76-year-old layman who claims to cure cancer, and afterwards both, smiling, said that they 'felt years younger."

Braund told the women —Mrs. Jack Northam, 3, mother of two daughters, and Mrs. Ruth McIntyre, 33, who has a three-year-old daughter —that "everything would be all right."

Both women travelled here by plane from Vancouver for treatment by Braund, who has made persistent claims of sensational cancer cures.

Meanwhile, Braund today telephoned Premier James McGirr of New South Wales and told him that he would have no more to do with the government committee investigating his methods until the committee chairman, Dr. E. S. Morris, is removed.

The trouble arose, Braund said, when he was demonstrating his methods Monday.

Dr. Morris stopped him when he was about to remove a "cancer" from a woman patient's breast, saying "that is not a cancer."

Braund said in an interview that Dr. Morris had no right to interfere as he was there only to get material for his report to the government.

Feels Like Different Person Since Syntona Built Her Up

Nerves On Edge; Back Ached, Stomach Rebelled and She Couldn't Sleep. Tells of Decided Change in Health Since Taking Syntona.

MRS. AMELIA McCOLL

Literally hundreds of men and women throughout this entire section have given public statements telling how quickly Syntona goes to the roots of their troubles and has them feeling in better health again. Quite frequently this gratifying experience comes to them even after years of suffering. Such is the case of Mrs. Amelia McColl well known resident of Parkhill, Ontario, who said:

"I had been troubled with gas, indigestion and billiousness for many years. Never being able to eat well almost became second nature with me and if I did eat a hearty meal, I would belch up hot, sour liquids and get a full feeling in my stomach and chest with awful shortness of breath. I would get throbbing headaches and dizzy spells, and often my back ached so badly I could hardly do my work. My nerves were on edge so I couldn't sleep well at night and I felt awfully fatigued and wornout in the mornings.

"As you may assume, I tried many things, but was always disappointed. When I got Syntona, I thought at first it was going to be like all the rest. But after a while I began to see that it was doing me real good. My food began to digest better. Then, as I continued taking it, the distress in my stomach cleared up. Gradually I got so that I could eat hearty meals, backache, headaches and dizzy spells stopped troubling me. Now my nerves are calmed down. I enjoy sound restful sleep and I feel like a different take anything for the good results Syntona brought to me."

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store. Find out how it can help you, too.—(Advt.)

Toronto Man Denies Any Part In Theft

DETROIT, March 4 — (CP) — William A. Ing, 30, of Toronto, suspect in the "snatch" theft of $4,045 from a department store employee, still denies any part in the crime. He was arrested a few minutes after the crime but no loot was found in his possession.

Police said that while searching a hotel room—Ing had the room key in his possession—a telephone caller said that an accomplice had escaped. The name was mumbled and was not understood said police.

Ing had admitted a Canadian record, including three convictions. He was also questioned about a $6,210 payroll robbery last Saturday.

ISSUES WARNING—A warning that Canada may fall prey to Fascism or Communism "within two or three years" if she does not travel "The Third Way"—the middle course between Communism and Fascism—was issued by Clarence Gillis, CCF Member of Parliament for Cape Breton South, N.S., in a speech in Montreal recently. Backing Britain's labor government, Gillis said: "If Britain doesn't make the grade in what she's doing now, it means lights out for the world—the end of civilization." Gillis spoke as the CCF party's Quebec section opened a $15,000 province-wide finance campaign.

Finn Majority Defies Russian Demands; Will Discuss Friendship

Only Communists And Radicals Favor Military Pact With Soviet; Believe President Already Drafted Reply

HELSINKI, Finland, March 5 (AP).—Two minority parties announced their opposition today to entering into a military alliance with Russia. Their stand means that parties representing a majority of the members of parliament now are aligned against such a tie. The minority parties—the Conservatives and the Liberals—joined other parties and blocs, however, in approving the opening of negotiations with the Soviet Union on a friendship and mutual assistance pact as suggested last week by Prime Minister Stalin.

The final decision on the answer to Russia now rests with President Juho Paasikivi. Parliament would be required to ratify any treaty after its conclusion.

The Conservatives, with 29 seats in Parliament, and the Liberals, with nine, will deliver their formal response to the president late today. The Social Democrats, with 48 seats, and the Swedish party, with 15, already have recommended to Paasikivi that he appoint a delegation to negotiate. Together, the four represent 101 of Parliament's 200 seats.

The Popular Front, of Communists and Radical Socialists, has urged acceptance of negotiations toward a full military pact. They have 51 parliamentary seats.

The agrarians, who hold the other 48 seats, are expected to make their stand public some time today.

There were some unconfirmed reports that the president already has drafted his reply to Stalin.

LINDSAY, March 5. — John Leahy, aged 29, of Douro, died near here Thursday night while en route to a Toronto hospital from injuries received when he was struck by a falling tree near Minden Thursday afternoon. Price Committee Not Enough, CCL

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP). — The Canadian Congress of Labor said today that establishment of the parliamentary prices committee "was in no way an adequate substitute for effective price control."

"In the face of the widespread demand on the part of the Canadian people for the re-establishment of price controls, it is difficult to understand the unwillingness of the government to take effective action," the C.C.L. said in its annual submission to the Federal cabinet.

Price boosts during the last 18 months "have largely, and in some cases entirely, wiped out any benefits obtained by the workers through wage increases."

"In the circumstances, they have no alternative but to seek further increases in order to cope as far as possible with higher prices. The wage policy they adopt, however, will be determined to some extent by the action taken by the government in reimposing controls and excess profits takes and in re-establishing subsidies."

Former Opera House Destroyed By Fire

PHILADELPHIA, March 5 — (AP). — Wind-whipped flames early today destroyed The Met, Philadelphia boxing arena and former opera house.

The interior of the building at Broad and Poplar streets was completely burned out, including the boxes where audiences once gathered to hear such singing stars as the late Enrico Caruso.

Firemen said they did not believe anyone was in the building when the blaze started shortly after 2 a.m. EST. Four alarms were sounded in rapid succession.

Stores on the Broad street side of the building also were destroyed together with the second-floor offices of the Academy of Modern Acting.

Blast Rocks Sydney Windows Shattered

SYDNEY, N.S., March 5 (CP).—Residents of this community of 30,000 were startled early today when a slag explosion at a steel plant which fringes the harbor rocked the city.

The explosion was caused by molten metal in slag dumped into the icy water of the harbor. When the hot mass struck the icy waters it resulted in a blast of terrific intensity.

Windows in a number of homes near the Dominion Steel and Coal Corporation plant were smashed but no injuries were reported.

Steel Corporation officials explained that the blast occurred because molten metal had not been removed from last furnace slag.

Don't Believe It

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP).—It's almost spring, according to the calendars, but shivering Ontarians whose thermometers registered between 10 and 20 degrees below zero today are unconvinced. "Such cold snaps are not unusual for March," weathermen said comfortably, "but they don't usually last long." Weather would remain chilly today, but the cold air mass was due to head southeast tonight and by Saturday temperatures would be more spring-like.

Australia Opens Doors Wide To Immigrants

MELBOURNE, March 5. — (Reuters).—Australian plans are before the British government, it was learned here, for large-scale emigration of millions of British people to Australia, for Australia to take over a proportionate share of Britain's national debt, and for the building of a great fleet exclusively for removing "a share" of Britain's population to Australia.

The proposals, which had the blessing of Prime Minister Chifley, were put forward in a letter from Australia's immigration minister, Arthur Calwell, to Philip Noel-Baker, British minister for commonwealth relations.

Chifley told the Australian parliament yesterday that Calwell's letter was "personal and unofficial," but was sent with his full approval.

Calwell's letter proposed that Australia accept a share of Britain's population in millions—no thousands.

The Melbourne Herald said the Canberra government had not intended the facts to become public before receiving the British reaction, but added that the scheme had been approved in principle by the commonwealth migration advisory committee.

Say 86,000 Pathans Engaged In Holy War

NEW DELHI, March 5 — (Reuters). — A 140-page governmental statement on Kashmir presented to the Indian parliament today declared there is "abundant circumstantial evidence to show that Pakistan aided and abetted the ribal invasion."

The paper said that of 86,000 to 88,000 Pathans engaged in the "Jehad" (holy war), 13,000 including Waziris, Mahsuds and Mohmands were operating in Kashmir.

Think 'Just' Clause To Peg Rents

Have $5,000 Fines For Imposing Unfair Rental Rate

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP)—The government will depend for the present on the "just and reasonable" clause of the Prices Board Regulations to hold down commercial rentals after decontrol Monday, it was announced.

R. W. Mayhew, parliamentary assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, gave this information to the Commons price committee in response to C.C.F. demands that the committee immediately investigate the possible effects of decontrol on the cost of living.

Mr. Mayhew said the "just and reasonable" clause was to remain in effect after decontrol, as it had remained in connection with various commodities from which controls have been removed.

$5,000 Fines

Donald Fleming (PC—Toronto Eglinton), who with Mr. Mayhew is a member of the prices committee's sterling committee, also told the main body that the clause would provide fines up to $5,000 for imposing unfair rentals.

Tenants would be able to launch prosecutions, he declared.

After getting this information, the committee decided to defer "for the present" any investigation into commercial rents.

William Irvine (CCF—Cariboo) expressed dissatisfaction with this procedure. He thought the "just and reasonable" provision would be difficult to enforce, and that both rentals and the cost of living would go up through decontrol.

Planes Dropping Villagers' Food

SYDNEY, Australia, March 5.—(CP).— Royal Australian Air Force planes today began dropping food to Queensland county towns and villages cut off by flood waters and a railroad strike no win its 32nd day.

The planes are carrying 5,000 pounds of food each and are equipped with parachutes to drop it. Small towns along the Queensland coast are without bread and essential foodstuffs for the first time in the memory of its inhabitants. Famine conditions caused by the strike are intensified by floods cutting off the possibility of relief trains.

The railroad strike for higher wages, began Feb. 2 at Ipswich workshops near Brisbane and quickly spread throughout the state. Last week, Labor Premier Edward Hanlon took an unprecedented step by declaring a state of emergency giving the government unlimited powers but so far it has served only to bring other unionists into the strike.

Today, 3,000 unionists marched on the Queensland House where the government is discussing the strike. The strikers marched when they heard that the Premier's terms for settlement were flatly rejected by the unions dispute committee.

Continue Court Fight Over Child's Custody

KITCHENER, March 5 (CP).—Waged almost continually over last six years, the legal battle for the custody of seven-year-old Terry McKee returns to the courts next week.

An appeal against a judgment handed down last October by Mr. Justice Walton Wells of the Ontario Supreme Court, awarding Mark. T. McKee, Michigan airlines executive, full custody of the child, will re-open at Osgood Hall in Toronto.

The appeal is instigated by Mrs. Evelyn McKee, divorced wife of Mr. McKee and mother of the boy who has been living since Christmas, 1946, on a farm purchased by Mr. McKee near Linwood, 23 miles from Kitchener, where the father spent much of his early boyhood. The father now divides his time between his New York office and Linwood.

Married four years, they had been separated for only five weeks. Martin worked in England after his discharge from the army. Mrs. Muyers shared the distinction of being the last war bride to arrive in Canada with six others who arrived Tuesday. The government has brought more than 64,000 wives of Canadian servicemen to Canada.

Smash Multi-Million Dollar Theft Ring 10 U.S. Railway Men Held For $30,000 Loss

NEW YORK, March 5.—(AP).—Ten men were charged with grand larceny today as police investigated the theft of "millions of dollars" worth of merchandise from the railway express agency.

The 10, all New Yorkers, were charged specifically in connection with the theft of $30,000 worth of merchandise from the agency. Ten others were being questioned by detectives who arrested the group yesterday and said they believed they had smashed a multi-million-dollar theft ring.

First intimation of the ring's operations was uncovered about two months ago when $1,000 worth of dresses was stolen from a truck in the agency's yards in the Bronx. The detectives and company agents gradually discovered the ring's mode of operations.

They learned, police said, that some drivers, after picking up a load of packages in the garment district, would pull into a neighborhood garage, and there switch a part of the load to another truck. Then they would continue to the agency's distribution centre and deposit the rest of the load.

Passport Forms Mystery To Alien Entering Canada

LONDON, March 5—(CP).—Manier Cuper testified today in Bow Street Magistrate's Court that he went to Canada on a British passport after he signed an application form in the name of James Hughes at the dictation of Idel Weingarten, a native of Poland like himself. Cuper said he served with Polish and British forces for eight years. He was standing outside the Jewish Institute in Glasgow last year when Weingarten said he could obtain for him legal emigration papers.

Cuper described a visit to London with Weingarten and another young native of Poland, Mordchay Szulc, who went with him to Canada. In London they visited what Weingarten called a consul's office where he directed Cuper to fill in a form in the name of James Hughes.

Cuper said he gave a total of £130 ($520) to Weingarten. Replying to a question by Weingar-

Britons Urge Empire Air Force

LONDON, March 5— (CP). — The House of Commons last night approved estimates of £173,000,000 ($692,000,000) for the Royal Air Force after members on both sides of the House had urged establishment of an Empire Force, equipped as a unit with factories and bases spread across the world.

Max Aitken, Conservative member for Holborn, and son of Lord Beaverbrook, said the proposal for an Empire Force should be made to the Dominions and suggested that the RCAF had "tended to unite with America rather than Britain."

Flt.-Lt. J. E. Haire, Labor, Wycombe, said the RCAF had largely disintegrated and that Canada would welcome restoration of the Commonwealth Air Training Plan which existed during the war. Under this plan, thousands of airmen were trained in Canada.

Police Say Woman Admits Killing Husband After He Had Abused Her

Wife Complained To Police Many Times But Couldn't Prepare Case; Children Taken To Shelter For Care

TIMMINS, March 5—(CP).—Jerome St. Cyr, 32-year-old laborer, was slain shortly before midnight last night and police said today his wife, Clara Irene St. Cyr, 32, mother of six children, is in custody, charged with his murder. Police said she has signed a complete confession. Police Chief Lepic said he answered a call to the St. Cyr home at midnight, in which the woman asked him to come immediatel,. The chief sent some of his men to investigate.

The officers entered the St. Cyr home to find Jerome St. Cyr in the front bedroom lying in a sleeping position on a bed. They said his jugular vein was slashed and his jaw smashed.

Tied To Bed

Mrs. St. Cyr told police this morning following her arrest at her brother's home, that St. Cyr had not gone to work yesterday. She said he had come home half drunk and started a quarrel.

According to the woman's story, her husband committed an indecent act after tying her hands to the bed. She said he had committed similar acts before. She told police that one of the youngsters had untied her.

Police said she told of waiting to be sure St. Cyr was asleep, going to the back of the house for the axe and returning to the front bedroom.

Killed Instantly

"As far as I know, he was struck only once," Police Chief Lepic said. "He must have been killed instantly for I don't think he even twitched a muscle."

Dr. H. L. Minthron, coroner, was called and pronounced St. Cyr dead.

Police found the blood-covered axe embedded in snow at the back of the yard near the garage.

Deny Benes Replaced

PRAGUE, March 5—(AP).—Communist Premier Klement Gottwald's office denied today that President Eduard Benes is being replaced because of illness. "The President is very tired and it is not known when he can come back to Prague," said Frantisek Necasek, chief of the Premier's press section. "We do not know how long he may be ill. There has been no consideration given to any replacement or successor for him and, if any such step is taken, it will be according to the constitution."

Gas Shutdown Predicted Ask Windsor Mayor To Quit

LONDON, ONT., March 5 — (CP)—Western Ontario's natural gas controversy reached another climax here last night when the resignation of Mayor Arthur Reaume of Windsor as chairman of the municipalities negotiating committee was asked for, and promised, at a special conference called by Mayor George Wenige of London.

The session, representing about a dozen districts in the Union Gas Company territory, was called to discuss Windsor's move for a separate agreement on higher interim rates, and also reports that Windsor would seek priorities for industrial use.

Following strong criticism of Mayor Reaume, city clerk Reg. Cooper of London was asked to phone Mr. Reaume and inform him that a majority of delegates wished him to resign his post. Mr. Cooper reported that Mayor Reaume told him he would resign "at a meeting where and when the delegates desire it."

Delegates set the date for the next conference at Chatham Mar. 8.

Face Shutdown

Ontario fuel controller A. R. Crozier also held the spotlight with his warning that Southwestern Ontario faces a complete gas shutdown both for industrial and domestic use next winter unless artificial gas-producing plants are projected immediately.

He said that municipalities should make arrangements for the building of artificial plants as soon as possible to try and prevent a gas crisis "worse than the last one."

Mayor Reaume was criticized particularly by Mayor Ralph D. Steel of Chatham and Mayor D. M. Shaw of Ridgetown.

Mayor Shaw said: "I have a feeling that Mayor Reaume has in his action (I am not blaming him for his action as Mayor of Windsor) as chairman of the negotiating committee let us down badly, and committed a gross breach of trust towards the committee."

"It would have been a simple matter for him to have sent us his resignation and then an explanation instead of leaving himself open to what looks very much like double dealing—not that I am accusing him of double-dealing," he said.

20 Dead, Missing As Towboat Upsets, Sinks

GREENVILLE, Miss., March 5 (AP).—Fourteen to 20 crew members were dead and missing today from the 180-foot towboat Natchez, which rolled over and sank last night after a treacherous Mississippi River current swept it against a bridge piling below here.

Capt. William A. Howell of the towboat Sohio-Latonia, which brought 11 survivors here, said "there could hardly have been any others" saved.

A 12th man escaped, however, as he was with the barges behind and not aboard the Natchez at the time.

The Natchez carried a normal crew of 28, but survivors' figures on the actual number this trip varied from 26 to 32.

Howell witnessed the end of the Natchez from his pilot house.

"The current caught her and rolled her over," he said. "She went down in about a minute. The men below—firemen, engineers, and so on—had no chance. The men picked up were mostly deck crew."

The Sohio-Latonia picked up nine survivors, of whom two died on board. Four other men, rescued by other boats, were transferred to the Sohio-Latonia to be brought here.

"The pilot wasn't on duty — I understand the captain was at the wheel. The pilot was asleep and they didn't know the boat had hit the bridge. They thought it had bumped against one of its marges.

30 Arabs Killed In 4-Hour Battle

JERUSALEM, March 5—(AP).—Hagana said today 30 Arabs were killed in a four-hour battle with Jews last night on the Plains of Sharon. The battle erupted when Arabs attacked a Jewish settlement at Magdiel on the Tel Aviv-Haifa highway, said a communique of the Jewish militia issued in Tel Aviv.

It was learned in Jerusalem that Fawzi Bey Al Kaukji, commander of the Arab volunteer armies, set up headquarters in a hotel at Nablus, in northern Palestine.

Arab sources in Tel Aviv say Arab commando forces are concentrated in towns on the Sharon plain, ready to strike when the order is given. Some believe the plain will be a major battleground of Arabs and Jews.

Arab leaders left Jerusalem at dawn to meet wtih Kaukji, who moved his army headquarters company from Damascus to Palestine yesterday.

Russian Count Gets Six Years In Jail

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — Constantine Michael Nakashidze, convicted February 27 of fifteen charges involving theft of money and bonds, forgery and publishing false business prospectuses, was sentenced to-day to six years in Penitentiary by Judge James Parker in County Criminal Court.

Arrested last June 21 at his daughter's wedding, Nakashidze, believed to be a Russian prince or count, faced a total of 35 charges originally. The counts on which he was convicted involved $47,000.

Will Bar Alien 'Reds' Ottawa Decides Clean Out Undesirables

By JOHN LEBLANC

OTTAWA, March 5—(CP).—A curtain has been rung down on the entry of alien Communists into Canada. The government has decided to move swiftly to bar all Reds from getting into the Dominion from outside countries and indications today were that it also intended to squeeze out all non-Canadian undesirables now in Canada. Action to bar Reds, it was learned, was taken by the Cabinet this week after it had received advice from justice department experts that it can proceed against them under existing provisions of the Immigration Act.

The move was aimed particularly against a reported influx of Communist sympathizers flushed out of the United States by the anti-Communist Taft-Harley act of that country, but it will eventually work against all known or suspected alien Reds now in Canada on temporary permits.

Special targets are Reds among union officers and organizers coming into Canada from the U.S.

As the government's action was disclosed unofficially, Progressive Conservative members in the Commons last night called for an offensive against Reds.

C. E. Stephenson (PC—Durham) declared he believed the time had come when Canada should follow the example of the U.S. and give Communist paid agents a "one-way ticket to the land of their dreams in the U.S.S.R."

Accept Advice

While no announcement of the move has been made — and perhaps may not be made for some time — it was learned the cabinet had decided to accept the advice of the justice department and had ordered swift action to close the border against what it regards as subversive elements.

Previous to this interpretation, the government had been reluctant to act. It wanted to ban Communists, but it wanted to do it legally.

The justice department reported Communists may be barred under the immigration act clauses listing "prohibited" classes of immigrants as those advocating overthrow of governments by force or even opposing organized government.

How the immigration department — which will administer the ban — will identify a Communist at the border has not been disclosed.

Ottawa Backs Action OF RCMP

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP). — External Affairs Minister St. Laurent, in a statement backing the R.C.M.P. role in the $1,000,000 Polish treasures case, said yesterday that Premier Duplessis of Quebec is trying to "swear" the Quebec members of the Federal cabinet on the treasures issue.

But Mr. Duplessis came back last night in the Quebec legislative assembly with a new charge of R.C.M.P. "infringement" on provincial rights.

As members of his Union Nationale party applauded, Mr. Duplessis said a recent Canadian newspaper story alleging R.C.M.P. violation of a religious cloister "represented the exact truth." He said there have been "attempts for some time to replace the provincial police of all provinces by the Federal police."

Plan To Force Harriman Give Up Records

WASHINGTON, March 5 —(AP).— The United States Congress may be asked to pass a law forcing Commerce Secretary Harriman to surrender his loyalty records on Dr. Edward U. Condon.

This possibility arose today after the House of Representatives Un-American Activities Committee ran into Harriman's point-blank refusal to produce the documents which gave Condon a clean bill.

The committee insisted it will have a "showdown" on the matter.

Condon is the 46-year-old Bureau of Standards director described by an Un-American Activities sub-committee last Monday as "one of the weakest links" in atomic security.

The bureau tests many of the government's most secret scientific developments.

The full Un-American Activities Commitee had demanded that Harriman produce the records in which the department's loyalty board found "no reasonable grounds exist for believing that Dr. Condon is disloyal to the government."

Review Records.

But Harriman said it would be against the public interest to turn over the papers. However, in view of the public interest in this matter" he is asking the Civil Service Commission's loyalty review board to look at the records.

The House committee had said Condon "knowingly or unknowingly" had associated with suspected Russian spies.

Harriman said the Condon file includes confidential information from other government agencies. It also contains names of people who gave information to government investigators "on the assurance that their action in so doing would not be disclosed."

Consequently, the effectiveness of the government's loyalty program would be "seriously jeopardized" if the records were released.

Police said that Mrs. St. Cyr had been into the police station frequently before to complain about her husband's immoral treatment of her. They had never been able to prepare a case against St. Cyr because she had never been able to get any corroboration of her evidence against him.

No Fire

When police arrived at the home shortly after midnight, there was no fire on in the Quebec heater in the front room. There were no lights in either of the bedrooms. Police had to build a fire and dress the youngsters before they were taken to the Children's Shelter.

The house was in a condition of almost indescribable chaos and lack of attention. In the front room where two of the kiddies slept on the sofa, there was only the sofa, one chair, the heater, a trunk and an old radio.

In the kitchen lay a copy of the St. John Ambulance Brigade text book, "First aid to the injured." Inside, under the heading "treatment" was an illustration of a man with a bandaged arm.

The head had been circled in pencil. On the front room wall was a certificate in the name of Jerome St. Cyr who was qualified to practice first aid.

Soldier Denies Poisoning Wife

ST. THOMAS, March 5.—(CP). —His voice barely audible in the crowded Elgin county assize courtroom here, Joseph Vernon Welch, 24, yesterday denied he murdered his 31-year-old wife, Florence, last Aug. 31, and prepared to hear final arguments by defence counsel today before his case goes to jury.

On the stand four hours, Welch, who said he met and married his wife overseas while both were serving with the armed forces, quietly revealed a subsequently unhappy marital life. He particularly stressed at least one plan he devised to kill himself.

He told Mr. Justice R. W. Treleaven and the jury he was happy after his marriage in England, but after his return to Aylmer, Ont., business problems forced him to dispose of a fish store there.

After his fish business failed, he went to Toronto where he met Julie Parsons, an unmarried woman.

They stayed one night together at a mid-town hotel.

Eventually, Mrs. Welch showed him a letter—bearing the name "Julie Parsons" on the envelope which was sent to the Aylmer apartment.

He said it led to a quarrel, but later he and his wife visited Niagara Falls "on a second honeymoon."

The NCWC News Service says in a dispatch from Rome its information on Pope Pius' refusal of a dispensation came from "very reliable sources here which are entirely unconnected with the Vatican."

Cost Of Living Jumps 1.8 Nearing Record

OTTAWA, March 5 —(CP)—A 1.8-point jump in official cost-of-living index was reported yesterday by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics amid speculation that the all-time high of 150.6 will be shattered when the next report is issued a month hence.

Covering the January period, the bureau reported that the index climbed from 148.3 at Jan. 2 to 150.1 at Feb. 2, bringing the total increase since the outbreak of the Second World War to 48.9 per cent and boosting the advance over the last year—from Feb. 1, 1947, to Feb. 2, 1948 — to 22.3 points.

The bureau attributed more than half of the January rise to higher food costs, notably in meats, cereals and vegetables, and said these individual increases in the food group outweighed seasonal declines for eggs and citrus fruits.

But, while the advance in the main index continued during January, it was noted that the momentum had slackened.

The index, calculated on the stands a half-point away from the historic peak of 150.6 reached in the inflationary period that followed the First World War.

While food prices contributed largely to the January increase, the bureau reported that meat price average at Feb. 2 were down appreciably from levels indicated by a mid-January survey.

Ontario Housing Law May Aid Builders

TORONTO, March 5.—(CP).— A Toronto paper says today that government housing legislation to be introduced in the Ontario Legislature "is expected to help emergency housing construction, private builders, and include special provision for slum clearance."

Quoting a source close to the government, the paper says that where slum clearance projects have run into difficulties due to rising costs, the Provincial government will make money available so that the plans can go ahead.

"As for private building, the government would examine the difficulties of private citizens in getting large enough loans to build their own houses. If loans made under the National Housing Act are not big enough to permit individual construction, the government would make up the difference."

Picton Observes 111th Birthday

PICTON, March 5 — Picton marked its 111th birthday as an incorporated town Thursday, without celebration . On Thursday, March 4, 1837, incorporation papers were issued from the 13th Provincial Pariament of Upper Canada by authority of the Lieutenant-Governor, Sir Francis Bond Head.

Several years earlier, the twin villages of Hallowell and Picton were the scenes of a bitter feud concerning the name of the new town should bear. Some pioneer citizens favored "Hallowell;" others liked "Picton."

The name "Hallowell," honors Sir Benjamin Hallowell, who, as a Loyalist, was banished from Boston during the American Revolution. He afterward became an admiral in the British navy. The name "Picton" commemorates Sir Thomas Picton, Welsh hero, and first military aide of the Duke of Wellington at the Battle of Waterloo. He was a lieutenant at the time.

An Anglican rector, Rev. William Macaulay, is credited with winning a victory for the "Picton" forces. The people of Hallowell insisted the town should bear that name. Rev. Macaulay was equally determined that "Picton" should be its name. He used his considerable influence to secure public buildings for his village, and also gave a large grant of land and cash. His insistence prevailed.

If he were alive today, he would discover that the town is practically surrounded by a township which bears the name "Hallowell."

Rent Question Before Cabinet

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP). — The Cabinet was believed to be considering today what steps it should take in connection with the scheduled decontrol of commercial rentals next Monday.

K. W. Taylor, Prices Board Chief, said he knew of no charge in the policy or abolition of the controls which was announced some months ago. He said many tenants and owners of buildings had made private arrangements in anticipation of removal.

Government action to curb excessive increases was being speculated upon after the Commons' committee on Prices was informed by Ralph Maybank, Parliamentary Assistant to Finance Minister Abbott, that a "possible development" might come within the next 24 hours.

He declined to elaborate but later told a reporter the Cabinet was considering the matter.

Mr. Taylor said the Government had received letters numbering in the scores, most of them predicting jumps in rentals of anywhere from 100 to 300 per cent.

Many Guests Enjoy Rotary Ladies' Night

COBOURG, March 5—(ENS).—Annual Rotary Ladies' Night, held Wednesday was one of the most successful in many years. Guest speaker was Jack Elder, past president of the Rotary Club of Kingston, a humorous Scot who presented a hilarious touch to the program in an address blended with several Scotch stories. He also sang a number of Scottish songs.

President Stuart Webb, welcoming the ladies, said that as long as there was a Rotary Club in Cobourg there would be work to do and as long as there was work to do, the ladies would be cooperating with the club.

Seated at the head table were Mrs. Olive Denton, president of the Kinettes, and Mr. Denton; Bill Booth, prpesident of the Kiwanis Club, and Mrs. Booth; Henry Taylor, president of Kinsmen, and Mrs. Taylor; Madeline Rooney, president of the Professional and Business Women's Club; Mr. and Mrs. Stuart Webb and Jack Elder.

Introduced by Dr. W. Wade, the guests were Mrs. Ruth Harrison, Cobourg; Mr. and Mrs. Charles Pylong, Peterborough; Judge and Mrs. M. A. The toast to the ladies was proposed by Wally Rawcliffe, and responded to by Mrs. Douglas Tait.

Flowers were presented to Mr. and Mrs. Reuben Freeman, who are celebrating their 14th wedding anniversary this week.

In his address to the gathering, Jack Elder commented on the big part which fellowship played in Rotary. The problems facing the world today could be solved if nations could join in fellowship, the speaker said. He declared that he liked to think of service clubs as keeping the spirit of boyhood in man, a boyhood which knew no religious bigotry, no politics; something through which one could drain the dregs of modern life. The speaker was introduced by "Mac" MacPherson and thanked by Douglas Tait.

Winners of the luck number draw were Mrs. Stan Macklin, Mrs. E. M. MacPherson and Mrs. F. Russell. Birthday flowers were presented to Bill Malton, Lester Caughey and Stan Macklin, who are celebrating birthdays within the next few days.

It will fit you because you are a young Canadian. You'll look well in it because you'll feel proud to wear it ...and it will make you think of other fellows who have worn it proudly and served Canada well.

This beret has been around! It's as well-known in other countries as it is here in Canada. To some nations it has meant liberation... to some, law and order... to some, defeat.

There are a lot of "good heads" wearing berets like this one... fellows you'd be glad to know and claim as friends. Chaps who can teach you things that are worth knowing... a trade, for example... or sports... or perhaps just how to hold your head high and be proud that you are serving Canada as they are doing.

If you are seventeen, start planning your future career. Call around at your local recruiting centre or a nearby armoury and see about ordering your beret now!

THERE'S THE RESERVE for those who wish to serve, to learn a trade and share in the fellowship and advantages of army life but are unable to go active. Now is the time to decide... ask for details today.

Painless Childbirth Through Hypnosis

On March 2 we carried a dispatch from London which told of a painless childbirth which had been brought about under hypnosis by a Canadian, Dr. A. P. Magonet. The London Daily Mail spoke of this case as "having made British medical history" but we believe that this is an exaggeration. Although we cannot trace the reference at the moment, we recall having read that hypnosis was used successfully in childbirth almost a century ago. Certainly it was used to anaesthetize patients against the pain of surgery by colleagues of the French physicians Janet and Charcot and was reported to be very successful, and less shocking to the patient than the somewhat crude anaesthetics of that day. Charles Baudouin, in his book Suggestion and Auto-Suggestion, reports the success of a French obstetrician who gave his patients pre-natal treatment by hypnosis in order to ensure easy births and also births at convenient hours of the day! Many a doctor must think longingly of this when making a succession of night calls.

* * *

Hypnosis is not widely used in medicine because its nature is still mysterious, and many people (including many doctors) fear it — and perhaps with reason. It is now generally accepted that the "power" which hypnotists were thought to gain over their subjects is not very great; it is known, too, that hypnotism does not "weaken the will" nor does it imply a weak will if a patient succumbs readily to hypnosis. But the true nature of hypnosis is still in dispute, and there are people who will swallow anything a doctor prescribes for them, and submit to surgery without question, but who refuse resolutely to permit a doctor to hypnotize them. A charge made by many psychiatrists is that cures brought about under hypnosis are neither deep nor lasting, but even if this is true we do not see any objection to the use of hypnosis as an anaesthetic in surgery or in childbirth, and we hope that Dr. Magonet's spectacular success will revive attention to this interesting and neglected subject.

Heating costs have become very high, and a reason that few big houses are now being built hereabouts is that there are no longer big woodpiles near which they can be built.

Canada's Foreign Problems

Gone are the days when our external relations were almost entirely with London and Washington. Canada no longer can or does stand on the periphery of nations and watch the world [illegible] by. Consider, for instance, the special problems confronting the Department of External Affairs this week, problems connected with Korea, Palestine and Czechoslovakia on which the Government has to decide policy.

Canada has membership in the 11-man U.N. Korean Commission sent out to the Far East to facilitate the independence of Korea. Russia has boycotted the Commission. The United States has told the "Little Assembly" (which Russia also boycotts) that the Commission should proceed to hold elections, despite the fact that Russia occupies the northern half of Korea. Canada has opposed this policy. Will, therefore, Canada withdraw its member from the Korean Commission?

The Security Council, over which General McNaughton presided last month, and of which Canada is now a member, has been considering the Palestine situation. If the five permanent members (U.K., U.S.A., U.S.S.R., France, China) decide, according to an American proposal, that the situation in Palestine constitutes a threat to peace, and if the question of sending a U.N. military force is decated, what will Canada's attitude be? Will Canada allow itself to become involved in military action in Palestine?

The third of the week's problems has been brought about by the political upheaval in Czechoslovakia. Canada is not likely to sever diplomatic relations with that country even under the new Communist government, but will we protest the Communist coup? Will we make further loans to Czechoslovakia? Will we withhold the remaining one million of the twenty million dollar loan?

There is 'One World' in the sense that no nation is unaffected by the situation of another. A rich and great trading country like Canada cannot stay on the sidelines, and the problems facing the Department of External Affairs this week show that we are not attempting to do so.

Another Scots Raid

There was a time, not too long ago, when the English complained about border raids in which the Scots stole their sheep; they may now complain that the Scots are snatching their poets, for in a recent letter to the London Observer Hugh MacDiarmid (the Scottish nationalist) refers to Byron as a Scots poet, and links his name with those of Ossian and Sir Walter Scott. This is astonishing indeed, for although Byron's mother was a Gordon, his father's family were Norman English, and Byron was anything but affectionate in his attitude toward Scotsmen during his life. In English Bards and Scotch Reviewers he told Scots critics precisely what he thought of them, and their pedantic Edinburgh Review. And of Walter Scott, with whom MacDiarmid yokes him, he wrote:

And think'st thou Scott! by vain conceit perchance,
On public taste to foist thy stale romance.
Though Murray with his Miller may combine
To yield thy muse just half-a-crown per line?

When he claims Byron as a Scottish poet MacDiarmid does what rabid nationalists do everywhere — he grabs at anyone whom he can attach to his nation, however tenuously. It is precisely this spirit which made Germans try to prove that Shakespeare was a German during the first Great War. But we feel that a man's personal inclinations have a good deal more to do with his national affiliation than ties of blood; if Byron did not want to be a Scot, and disliked Scotsmen cordially, does the fact that his mother was a Gordon license Mr. MacDiarmid to collar Byron and shove him forcibly into the Scotch Pantheon? We think not. Scottish nationalism will fare better if it creates new poets than if it goes robbing English graveyards.

NOTE AND COMMENT

In Detroit a beauty parlour has opened which declares itself to be exclusively for men. It won't last. Women will worm into it, just as they did into barber shops.

A Texas bandit has received a sentence of 100 years, and four more of 10 years apiece. It will be at least eighteen months before that fellow is let out on parole.

"Benes Swears in Red Cabinet" says a headline. We don't blame him, but he wouldn't be able to do a thing like that in Canada without horrified shrieks from the women's clubs.

The Fortnight On Parliament Hill

By A. J. THOMAS

OUR parliamentarians were in good form these last two weeks. The members of the Commons spared no words, particularly in the continuing debate on the Address in Reply to the Speech from the Throne. The Honourable Members of the Senate, which ordinarily sits three days a week, began a fortnight's recess, and will not convene until next Monday.

✧ ✧ ✧

UNTIL Tuesday, February 24th, when it passed out of Committee and through the final third reading, the Foreign Exchange Conservation Bill (Number 3) was the chief business in the Commons. The Opposition fought it steadily and clause by clause and on the third reading all opposition groups voted against it. The Government is not too happy about having to bring down this legislation, for it establishes fairly wide and stringent Government controls of trade and it is in a sense a protective measure for industry and certain types of agriculture. Mr. King, after some general introductory remarks, did not speak on the Bill.

Mr. Abbott has said: "It is the policy of the government to relax and remove the restrictions as soon as the exchange position justifies that action". Most of the restrictions will remain for at least a year. Mr. Howe, who shepherded Schedule III through the House—that is the schedule dealing with restrictions on capital goods—said: "It was not the purpose of the government to use Schedule III as a protective tariff. If any industry . . . is undertaking expansion, or new production, based on the protection it will get . . . it is not unlikely that some import permits will be granted just to discourage that idea".

The inconclusive character of the Bill arises from what an Opposition member complained of—"there is no permanency to the policy", and from the fact that its results can only be guessed at. No one knows of a certainty how many Americans dollars it will conserve (though in fresh fruits and vegetables alone, on which we spent last year 70 million dollars, 40 million are expected to be saved under the new quotas). No one knows of a certainty the negative or positive effects on our economy.

✧ ✧ ✧

AFTER the passing of Bill Number 3, the "Excise Act Amendment" resolution was considered in committee. This will give parliamentary sanction to the 25 per cent tax on many items which was announced by Mr. Abbott on November 17th as "a tax which will be imposed if parliament approves". The Opposition was scathing in its criticism—charging taxation without representation and that taxes had already been collected unlawfully. Mr. Abbott's announcement was the kind of forewarning (leading to prior collection of taxes) which a budget speech gives.

On Friday February 27th Mr. Howe introduced the Wheat Board Act. The most debated point was the control of the selling of oats and barley. Incidentally the Wheat Board's reserves are now 234 million dollars, and the Government is in disfavour with many western wheat growers who feel that they are getting too low a price for wheat being sold to Britain.

In question time a week ago Thursday the ban on margarine and its relation with the Geneva Trade Agreements drew an uninformative reply from Mr. St. Laurent.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE biggest fuss in the House—and the one most widely reported in some sections of the press—occurred over the Government's reluctance to make public the heretofore secret documents about Canada's Hong-Kong force. There is a reasonable feeling that the Government is far too anxious to keep the Duff Commission's report and Mr. Drew's letter out of the public eye. Mr. Drew was opposition counsel during the Commission's 1942 hearings; it is not inconceivable that he now wants to make political capital out of the affair, with a view to eventually leading the Federal Conservatives. We hear from an informed Ottawa source, however, that Mr. Drew is at present out of favour with Dominion Conservative leaders.

A great deal of the House's time and Hansard's space was wasted during the recurring debate on the Speech from the Throne. Too many private members wanted to boost their local constituencies and their own reputations in them.

✧ ✧ ✧

THE Parliamentary Committee investigating the price spreads of the last two months caught the spot-light several times, for instance when evidence was brought that the price of bread rose at a time when the cost of flour went down. This fact was pointed out a month ago in the editorial columns of The Examiner. The Opposition say that "the proceedings of the committee have indicated already that it is a wild-goose chase". We shall see when the Committee has finished its work.

On Monday of this week a six-day Easter recess was promulgated — from Wednesday the 24th to Tuesday the 30th. The western members have objected that this is too short. They want to go home. They have asked for permision to fly (at the public expense). This seems a reasonable request, but they should take an affadavit that when they get back they will not waste days haranguing Hansard.

✧ ✧ ✧

ONE cannot read Hansard without feeling that much sincere hard work and much hard thought was expended on Parliament Hill during the last fortnight, by both Government and Opposition members. Mr. Coldwell's lively and often valuable criticism was noticeably lacking. He has not been in good health. The most habitual absentee, Mr. Denton Massey (Conservative, Toronto), was as habitually absent as usual.

UNCONSIDERED TRIFLE

"I get wonderful recipes over the radio," gushed the bride who was entertaining her family for the first time. "This morning I got one for Egyptian stew and one for a never-fail stain remover."

"Which is this?" asked little Willie, tasting the stew on the plate.

WIDER STILL AND WIDER

Letters To The Editor

THE VOTERS SHOULD BE ASKED

Sir: The City Council, elected on a short term basis, is asking the Legislature for control and disposal rights on about a million dollars worth of property. The control of this property has been the duty of the Sinking Fund Commission for a long, long time.

How well they have managed it is open to wide and honest difference of opinion, but surely it would be wise of the Legislature to ask for some expression of opinion by the shareholders before making so drastic a change?

The voters en masse are often painfully inarticulate, but they are competent to put crosses in the appropriate square if given the opportunity.

GEO. C. SCOTT.

FINANCING ANOTHER RINK

Sir: Under present circumstances when money is scarce and cost of living mounting beyond all man's ability to meet I hereby submit a plan whereby the much talked of secondary rink can be financed, built, completed and put in full operation without costing the Peterborough citizens one cent and in fact will in a short space of eight or ten years become a revenue producing utility which will eventually help to reduce taxation and lighten the present burden of every householder in this city of which we are all so justly proud.

Let 2,000 property owners sign individual notes of $75.00 each made payable to a bonded Rink Committee. This committee in turn borrow $150,000 from a loan company or individual, giving said notes as collateral security. Then build the rink and give the loan company a first mortgage on the building and the revenue from the said rink will each year wipe out the indebtedness. In a matter of 8 or 10 years the property is clear of debt and the notes returned to the maker and the rink has financed itself without cost to one individual.

I may say this plan has been tried out successfully even during the depression and in the end the rink was turned over to the municipality and is producing a yearly revenue. Thanking you. Yours,

SCOTTIE.

PETERBOROUGH BUS SERVICE

Sir: When if ever is something going to be done about the bus service in Peterborough so as the people will know the time to catch a bus, and to where it will take them? You stand in the cold waiting for a bus to come from the South or the North which ever the case may be; after you wait some time the bus comes, but from the opposite direction to what it should, so you get on and ride half way around the town only to be let out half way to your destination, and the bus goes to the barns. The particular route I am referring to is the Byersville; I catch the bus at about Albert and Park Sts. at 11.30 p.m. to get to work at 12 midnight. Everything is fine for a couple of nights, then the next night as far as I get is the corner of George and Charlotte Sts. The time is 11.45 p.m. and the bus goes to the barn. I think the drivers could do with a lot more supervision, and if there is a reason for these changes the public should know about them.

Thanking you,

A WORKMAN.

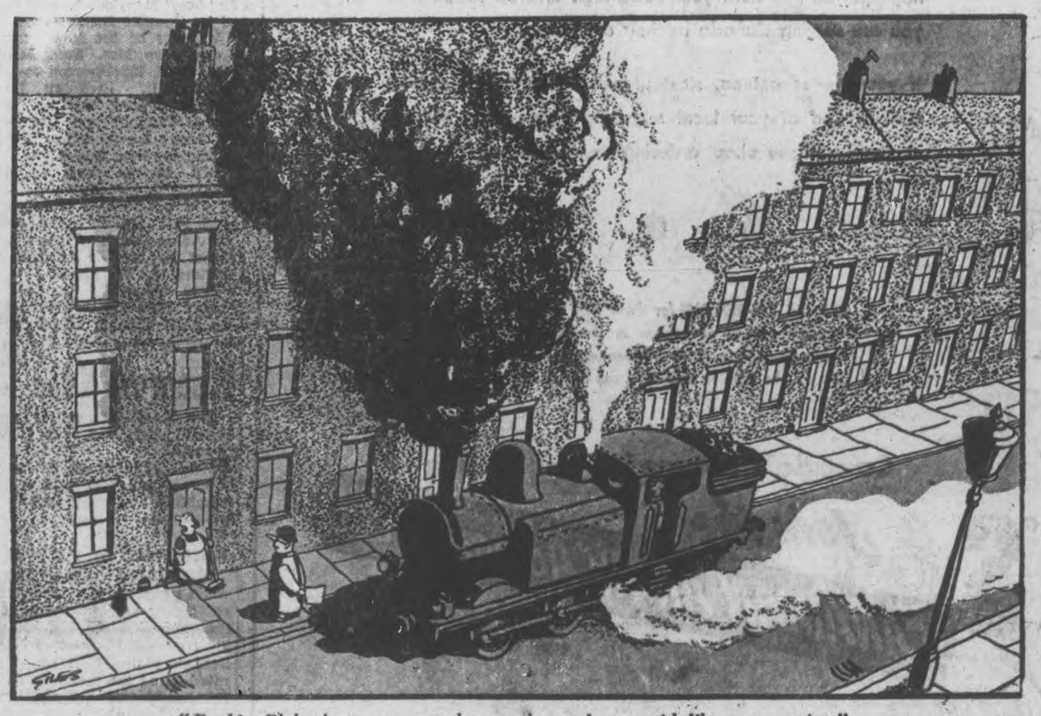
A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

If ye then be risen with Christ, seek those things which are above, where Christ sitteth on the right hand of God. Set your affection on things above, not on things on the earth. For ye are dead, and your life is hid with Christ in God.

When Christ, who is our life, shall appear, then shall ye also appear with him in glory. (Col. 3: 1-4.)

The First Drama Festival In Eastern Canada Secondary Schools



The efforts of every individual and organization which went into the staging of the first Drama Festival held by the secondary schools of Eastern Canada deserve hearty commendation. The plays presented in Convocation Hall, Queen's University, at the week-end were, we hope, an earnest of many plays to come from similar sources in the years that lie ahead.

The life of amateur theatricals, in most communities, is delicate. Far too often it follows a spasmodic course, with bursts of interest followed by periods of utter inaction. It is not surprising that it should be so in many medium-sized or smaller communities, for there may easily be a lapse between appearances in such communities of persons sufficiently interested in the theatre to give the time and energy to help keep it alive. Kingston has passed through this experience on several occasions during the past, but there are now grounds for hope that it may escape such experiences in future, and not the least of these is the Secondary School competition fostered and directed by the Drama Department of Queen's University.

The first Secondary Schools Drama Festival to be held in this city afforded proof that there are young men and women going to high school here and in the region bounded by Ottawa, Peterborough, Cornwall and Belleville who have a decided flair for dramatic work. That some of the plays selected were considered unsuitable or inappropriate should not be allowed to give the Secondary Schools' Drama Festival too black a mark; some of their seniors were criticized for the same weakness at the Regional Festival. The significant features of the Secondary Schools' Festival were that a senior department took pains to help develop young talent, and that youth responded with a degree of enthusiasm and a display of talent that justify optimism for the future of amateur theatricals in this district.

The Secondary Schools' Drama Festival was an encouraging sign that the recently reawakened interest in the theatre will not soon die out. And while containing that promise, the Festival at the same time gave opportunity for expression to the young men and women who are able to offer the best hope for an active and effective interest in the amateur theatre in this section of Canada in future years.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Extend Service Past 65 For Skilled Men

LONDON, Ont., March 5 (CP) —Retirement of skilled tradesmen in the Canadian National Carshops has been suspended indefinitely due to the shortage of suitable replacements, Supt. George McCready said today.

Extensions of service past the usual 65 years of age will be allowed so that the repair depot may maintain its peak operation. Similar policy was in force during the war when the compulsory retirement age of 65 was discarded on account of the labor shortage.

Mr. McCready said the order covers all tradesmen, which make up 60 per cent of the Carshop payroll.

No time limit has been placed on the order since it depends entirely on the labor situation and the amount of work scheduled for the unit.

"We have enough work ahead now to keep the Carshops going at top speed for at least three years," Mr. McCready said. The C.N.R. repair factory has surpassed its wartime peak by some 100 workers and the payroll is over the 1,000 mark.

Pastor And Family Leave Norwood

NORWOOD, March 5 (ENS)—About 100 atended the entertainment and presentation in the Baptist Church Friday evening. Chairman was Roy Nevins. Mr. Pettersen and his daughter Sonja gave a musical selection with flute and piano. A duet by Mr. and Mrs. Homer and a solo by Miss Isabelle Murphy were included.

Rev. A. Homer and family were called and Mr. Nevins read the address and A. Evans of Indian River presented Mr. Homer with leather-bound Bible and a purse of money, Mrs. Dewart, Indian River, presented Mrs. Homer with a tri-light lamp, Mrs. George Baptie presented Joyce with a silver cream and sugar with tray, Neal Telford presented David with an illustrated Bible, and Elsie Clements gave Patsy McClelland a Bible.

Mr. Homer expressed the thanks of his family. Rev. E. E. Pugsley gave a short address. The address of farewell to Mr. Homer and family stated in part:

"Mr. and Mrs. Homer, Joyce and David,—We are gathered here to-night to wish you much happiness and success in your new pastorate. While we regret losing you, whom we have learned to call friends, we realize that in your chosen work you must move on to new fields, where your own particular talents are most needed....We thank you, Mr. Homer, for your co-operation and interest in us, both as individuals and as various organizations and for your work in trying to make Norwood a better place in which to live....We assure you, Mr. and Mrs. Homer, that the young people of the Norwood Church will ever remember your helpfulness and kindness in making them ever welcome in your home .....

Canada Will Not Sever Relations

OTTAWA, March 5 (AP)—Although the Communist government-grab in Czechoslovakia is deplored by the government here, Canada has no intention of breaking off diplomatic or financial relations with Prague, a government source indicated today.

On the contrary, it is possible that a Canadian minister may be named to Cezchoslovakia. Such an appointment is believed to be under consideration, along with ministers to Sweden and Poland and an ambassador to Russia.

At present charges d'affaires are representing Canada in Stockholm, Warsaw, Prague and Moscow.

Meanwhile, it was also learned that External Affairs minister St. Laurent may make a statement in the Commons soon regarding the Communist coup in Czechoslovakia.

How To Control Chick Disease

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP) — A virus disease fatal to young chicks which broke out in Watford, Ont., late in January drew from the Agriculture Department today a circular outlining methods by which it ean be controlled.

Known as Newcastle disease or avian pneumoencephalitis, the Watford outbreak is well under control, the circular said, despite a time lag in reporting it to authorities. Non-recognition of the virus was responsible for the lapse.

Effective slaughter and disposal of affected birds, thorough cleansing and disinfection of the premises are the methods used to combat the disease, source of which is believed to be uncleaned live poultry crates. A more srious outbreak "is quite capable of wrecking or at least very seriously damaging the poultry industry of Canada," the circular said.

It listed these rules:

1. Pay strict attention to quarantine wherever established.

2. Do not withhold information regarding diseases or other matters which may assist officials to locate the possible foci of the disease.

3. Do not permit visitors on your poultry premises unless they are authorized to make inspections.

4. Don't accept chicks, poultry or hatching eggs unless satisfied the original premises are free from disease.

5. Do not permit any live poultry crates on your premises unless properly cleaned and disinfected.

Kawartha collens play Lock Works at eight tonight in the YWCA, a round-robin cage playoff. Only tilt of the night there, but Normals meet Nurses in a senior playoff at eight Monday p.m., with St. Paul's tackling CGE same time Tuesday. At the Collegiate tonight, Oshawa and the junior "B" PCI-ers mix at eight in group finals, followed at nine by Cobourg and the senior "A" PCVS pack in the first of district finals. Both important school jousts. They didn't play last gloaming and the Marines "A" hoopsters are idle till next week when they start on the provincial prowl. Towne Togs go into LOBA playdowns next week, too.

* * * * * *

Ray Pammett's local Lions hit into OMHA bantam "B" finals tomorrow aft at 2.30 in Omemee against Preston. Return tussle of the goals-to-count series will be the following week-end in Preston, down Galt way. 'Tis hoped that the Peterborough boys will draw a big gallery on the morrow for vocal as well as financial support. They've done exceedingly well to reach provincial finals in their class this semester, despite the handicap of no covered rink here. These boys are coming puck stars of OHA calibre and they play fast, exciting hockey right now. They'll have to hustle to pile up a fair lead against the return game in this all-important final series.

* * * * * *

Petes Versus Legion

And the hightlight in hockey tonight is the Petes-Legion scrap at 8.30 in Lindsay. Fourth of their best-of-seven OHA senior "B" group finals, with Legion now holding a one-game edge. A win for 'em tonight will make things look right rosy for Legionnaires and mighty grim for the Petes, so the latter will shoot the works in an attempt to equalize the series. Fifth fray is in Omemee on Monday. The hefty crowds which have seen their previous playoff numbers will testify that the bitter local rivals are really playing for keeps. And turning in some great hockey. They'll pack them in tonight.

* * * * * *

Letter reaches us from a Petes' supporter. It's unsigned so we can't publish it. But he blames Referee Walsh of Toronto for the Petes' loss in Omemee the other night, claiming the losers were given too many "cheap" penalties. We have no axe to grind and agree that some of the penalties were of the cheap variety, but OHA President Panter told Walsh to crack down in this series, and the ref has repeatedly warned both Petes and Legion that they had to stick strictly to hockey or they'd go off. The Petes themselves are not blaming Walsh for the loss, as the penalties weren't that costly. They spent 22 minutes in the sin bin, just three minutes longer than did the Legion. Yet the latter won by five goals. Despite all the penalties, the series is still rought enough.

Just Clearing It Up

Timers, players and fans don't seem to understand the delayed penalty rule yet, and it causes confusion. It occurs when a third player of a team is penalized with two already in the box. Time of this third player doesn't commence until one of his teammates returns to the ice. This third guy goes to the penalty box but his two minutes' penance can't begin till one chap is back, but meantime he is replaced on the ice by a substitute until the penalty time begins on him. Thus, it follows that none of the trio in the box may return to the ice when his penalty is up until play is stopped or until that substitute is removed from the ice. Otherwise, you'd have a guy jumping out of the cooler while his substitute is out there and his team would then have too many men on the ice. Which would call for another penalty.

Civic Arena campaign program was presented to the general committee last night by the finance and publicity sub-committees, and approved. A most comprehensive plan which will be put into operation in a week or so when final details are cleared up. They're out to raise $140,000 for a modern artificial ice arena to be built this year down by the CGE and they're asking for the co-operation of everyone in the drive for funds this spring. It might be pointed out here that over 5,000 fans paid their way into the Oshawa arena on Wednesday to see Windsor eliminate the Generals in junior "A" playoffs, and we'd draw at least as well in this city with proper rink facilities. The need of an area is recognized and if everyone will pitch in we'll have one.

They Keep On Rollin'

Plazas hit 3539 to lead the City Bowling League in pinnage this week, while Jack Mackness of De Laval was top individual trundler with 814 (345), though Norm Gordon of McGillis was right behind with 813 and a single of 316. Fashion-Crafts are out in front of the race with Ramblers placing and Shockey's in the show position. Last week-end saw the Martins taking the Mattucci brothers in a challenge match, rolling a respectable 3,400 as Tom Martin led the way with 788. At 1.30 tomorrow, the Martins take on a full house—three Jacks and a pair of Harolds. Including the Harold Legrows Sr. and Jr., one Jack Legrow and the Jack Legrows Sr. and Jr. Got it?

B.C. Wins First Canadian Curling Title

CALGARY, March 5 (CP). — Swamped by hundreds of telegrams of congratulations, Theo D'Amour and his trail, B.C., rink today are the toast of British Columbia, celebrating its first Canadian curling championship in the 19 years of competition.

D'Amour's powerful quartet gained Canada's highest curling honors last night when they captured their eighth victory against one defeat by downing Quebec's Gaston Amyot 11-10 on the 13th end of the ninth and final round of competition.

Approximately 5,500 fans—said by officials to be the largest ever to attend a Canadian final—applauded consistently throughout the match.

It was a sweet victory for D'Amour's rink, who last year was runner-up as Winnipeg's Jimmy Welsh waltzed through the championship without a defeat.

With all the praise being showered on him, the soft spoken, stocky D'Amour was quick to shove the credit on his teammates —lead Jimmy Mark, second Freddy Wendell and third Bob McGhie.

"They were brilliant," was all he could say.

The final game was a "must" for B.C., as Manitoba finished only one game behind them, winning 11-8 over Henry Hollies of New Brunswick on the final draw. Northern Ontario, going into the final round with a similar record as Manitoba, dropped their contest to Nova Scotia's Gerry Glinz by an 8-6 margin and so slipped to third place in the final standings.

Walkey's Tankard rink of Vics a 12-6 setback for the Cardy Trophy. Percy Skitch of Lindsay won the Westinghouse award for a 16-3 win over Bob Cross of Thistles. Hugh Snetsinger of Hamilton Vics defeated Mel Reid of Glanford 9-7 in the Wilcox Event, and Dr. A. C. Baillie won the Harstone Trophy with a 14-8 victory over C. W. Cassels of Thistles.

Brimsek Is Man of Hour As Bruins Tie Canadiens

By DON HUNT
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Except for a gent named Frank Brimsek, Montreal Canadiens today would still have a good chance of making the National Hockey League's post-season Stanley Cup playoffs.

In Montreal last night, Brimsek, goalie for the fourth-p'.ce Boston Bruins, turned in a sensational performance as the Bruins tied Canadiens 1-1 and kept their six-point lead over the Habs intact.

Playing up to his "Mr. Zero" nickname, Frankie kicked out shot after shot from close range as Canadiens pressed all the way. The draw meant that Canadiens have to pick up an extra six points in seven games to pull even with the Bostonians—a next to impossible feat.

The game, delayed 38 minutes by a late train arrival from Boston, was the only one scheduled last night.

The Bruins, content to earn a tie, played a close-checking game most of the way, opening up only in the first period. Although the draw disappointed the 11,000 Forum fans, the rough-and-tumble contest gave them plenty to cheer about.

Penalties Important

Penalties played an important part in the scoring as both goals were scored while the opposition was short handed. Bruins grabbed an early lead in the first period when Egan brought up the rear of a power play and drove a hard shot that bounced into the open side of the net off defenceman Butch Bouchard's stick.

Canadiens got that one back less than three minutes later with Elmer Lach turning the trick. With Pete Babandi sitting out a slashing penalty, the Canucks put on the pressure and tested Brimsek with several hard shots. Finally defenceman Ken Reardon flicked the puck over to Glen Harmon who shot a sizzler from the blueline. Brimsek stopped the drive but Lach, standing uncovered in front of the net, took the puck off the Boston goalie's stick and dumped it in the open side of the cage.

That ended the scoring for the game as Boston settled back and put up a stone-wall defence in front of Brimsek for the final two periods. Several times, the Boston goalie had to push his own men away from the net as they blocked his view in an attempt to prevent the Montrealers from getting a clean shot away.

Samis Favored To Take Badminton Title

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — Semi-final matches start today in the Canadian badminton championships with indications the final may see John Samis of Vancouver defending his men's singles title against Toronto's Dick Birch, a former champion.

The 29-year-old Samis is favored to knock off Gord Simpson of Montreal, Quebec titleholder, tonight. In the other semi-final, the seeded Birch takes on Al Williams, only Winnipegger left in the draw.

Before the largest gallery in many years to witness quarter-final matches, Samis last night defeated Ted Pollock of Toronto 15-7, 15-11. At the same time Birch, 34-year-old badminton veteran formerly of Vancouver, disposed of clubmate Glen Thomson 15-12, 15-10.

Mrs. Clara Lovett and Mrs. Nora Maw of Vancouver, 1947 Dominion titlists, were eliminated in ladies' doubles quarter-finals, losing 15-12, 15-10 to Marion Armstrong and Edith Marshall of Toronto.

Mrs. Dorothy Walton and Mrs. Ive Roberts upset the Quebec champions, Mrs. Sheila McCarthy and Doreen Clapperton of Montreal, seeded fourth. Scores were 15-3, 15-5.

In the men's doubles defending champions Samis and Jack Underhill of Vancouver moved into the semi-final round with an 18-13, 15-12 win over Leo La Fontaine of Montreal and Daryl Thompson of Vancouver 18-13, 15-12.

The Ontario championship team of Toronto's Roy Smith and Ted Pollock also gained the semi-finals by defeating Roger Banks and Al Hillips, also of Toronto, 15-7, 15-9.

Fox Gets 2nd Chance At Lesnevich Title

NEW YORK, March 5.—(AP). —Billy Fox, knockout winner of 50 of 51 fights, gets his second shot at Gus Lesnevich's heavyweight crown tonight over the routine 15-round distance. The durable 175-pound titlist is a 5 to 8 favorite.

Philadelphia Billy proudly took a ready-made record of 43 straight k.o. victories into his first joust with Gus Feb. 28, 1947. Instead of adding No. 44 he was flattened in the 10th round.

They say things may be different this time. Their argument hinges on ages, for Fox at 22 has at least 10-year advantage in that respect over the veteran Lesnevich. Cagey Gus is 32 according to Manager Joe Vella or 33 according to the books.

Inexperience was costly to Fox in their first fight. He tagged Lesnevich with a right hand in the third that wobbled the champion's legs. Unable to follow up this advantage, the Philadelphia negro wilted under heavy fire. Gus simply was too wise for him.

APPS, YOU BETTER LISTEN—That's Referee Chadwick, with clenched fists, telling Captain Syl Apps of the Toronto Maple Leafs that he'll give him ten seconds to "get going" or else! Apps was defending his teammate, Gus Mortson, who boarded Montreal Canadiens' goalie, Bill Durnan, when the latter skated too far out of his net to clear the puck. Seconds later fists were flying from all over. Chadwick handed out major penalties to a couple of players, including Mortson, who was also the recipient of a minor. Apps, as captain of the Leafs, went to speak to Chadwick about it, but, you guessed it, he accomplished nothing! For his part in the tussle, a penalty shot was given against Durnan. Max Bentley failed to capitalize on the opportunity. The game, played at Maple Leaf Gardens in Toronto on Wednesday night, was a typical Canadien-Leaf feud. The Montrealers ended up on the long end of a 3-2 count, and thus kept alive their hopes of getting into the playoffs.

Fred Wakeman A Bit Dull In First Picture

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 5 (AP). —Robert Montgomery says he expects this criticism to be levelled against his latest picture:

"The player were okay, except for the guy who played the author he was terribly miscast."

The reason for Montgomery's suspicions is that the author is being played by Frederic Wakeman, the man who wrote the novel for the picture, "The Saxon Charm." This guy Wakeman just happened to be in town and the film happened to need someone to portray an author and — well, it just happened that way.

I am not going to try to figure out why Wakeman, who generally works in Bermuda, happened to be in Hollywood at this time. In fact, I am going to treat him gently. You see, he has been accused of putting his acquaintances into his novels, and not in a complimentary light. I'm taking no chances.

Round-Faced Chap

Wakeman is a round-faced chap in his early 30's, who looks more like a college senior. Proceeding cautiously, I directed simple questions.

Had he ever acted before? "No." Did he like what MGM did with his "Hucksters?" "Yes, I thought it was a good picture." Would he write for the stage? "Yes if I get an idea." Is he working on a new book? "Yes, I've done one draft of a sea story—it's about a shipwrecked father and son, whose lives are revealed in flashbacks."

Would he consider acting as a career? "No," he replied modestly, "I still have to learn how to write a novel." Besides, who in his right mind would give up a life of sunning, spear-fishing and tossing off best-sellers in Bermuda?

The author's acting chore consisted of listening while Montgomery, as a play producer, criticized his manuscript unmercifully. He was only slightly self-conscious, which was the part called for. As I say, I'm trying to keep on his good side. I don't want to be the Llewellyn Evans of his next book.

Stage-Struck

Conrad Nagel is acting in Monogram's "Stage-Struck," his first film work in four years. He prefers stage and radio work and returns to New York soon for a new play . . . Valli does her first United States radio show with "Spellbound" on Radio Theatre, Monday . . .

Jack Carson of Carman, Man., plans a European vacation this summer, if he can escape his air show . . .

What Next Dept.: Vincent Price is playing Cardinal Richelieu as a Protestant in "Three Musketeers." It seems the studio couldn't get Roman Catholic approval of the role.

ALL TIED UP IN TAPE — Gordon K. Fraser, MP, for Peterborough West in his address on the speech from the throne given last week in the House of Commons described the National Film Board as "a herd of white elephants running wild." He produced a coil of adding machine paper to show the check he has made on the spending. He set it at $3,000,000.

What's What In Baseball

NEW YORK, March 5.—(AP). —The expected epidemic of sore arms among major league pitchers has failed to materialize so far, but the trainers of the 16 teams nevertheless are ready.

Due to the March 1 embargo on the opening of spring training and the fact that most teams are scheduled to start exhibition games in less than a week, managers and pitchers both were envisioning plenty of sore arms.

However, no pitcher has reported a bad flipper as yet and injuries among players have been few.

Jackie Robinson is the centre of attraction as far as the fans who turn out for the Brooklyn Dodger workouts in the Dominican republic are concerned.

Robinson arrived in camp yesterday and fans cheered his every move during the drill.

The negro first sacker, although 15 pounds overweight, lined three pitches to deep left centre and spent some time around the bag.

Johnny Sain, winner of 41 games for Boston Braves the last two seasons, said the next move in his holdout campaign is up to the club.

"I'm still here (Belleville, Ark.) until I hear from them," said the tobacco-chewing righthander. "I haven't made any plans to go to camp and I won't until Ive signed."

General Manager John Quinn said "we offered him what we thought was a large raise."

After signing Stan Musial to a 1948 contract yesterday, President Bob Hannegan of St. Louis Cardinals was ready for a talk with southpaw Harry Brecheen who is due here today from his Oklahoma home. It is understood that Brecheen is ready to sign. If he does, all Card regulars will be in line, leaving only recruit right hander Ray Rochim holding out.

Two Detroit Tiger rookies, shortstop Johnny Lipon and first sacker Geoerge Vico, will be in the starting lineup when the Bengals face Cincinnati Sunday in their first exhibitnon game at Lakeland, Fla.

Manager Steve O'Neill also announced that pitching duties be shared by Dizzy Trout, Virgil Trucks and Art Houtteman, right handers.

Tried To Hang Brother Youth 19 Jailed

DETROIT, March 5 (CP). — A 19-year-old youth who attempted to hang his younger brother, today was sentenced to 2½ to 5 years in Recorder's Court for a burglary.

The youth, Samuel Hibbett, was arrested Feb. 8 when neighbors called police after hearing the cries of his 16-year-old brother, as Samuel struck him with a club trying to force him to jump from a tree and hang himself. He had tied the boy's hands and then put a wire noose around his neck.

The probation report disclosed the youth as feeble-minded. He had attempted to hang his brother because the latter refused to sell a stolen vacuum cleaner and threatened to tell the police.

Battleship Sunk

PEARL HARBOR, March 5 (AP).—The battleship Pennsylvania, survivor of the Pearl Harbor debacle and two atomic blasts, was scuttled near Kwajalein Feb. 10, the United States Navy announced today.

"Damage received at Okinawa was mainly responsible for the Pennsylvania's unseaworthiness and not damage inflicted during the atomic bomb tests" at Bikini in July, 1946, the Navy said.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Jean Borotra, France's once-famous "Bounding Basque" is going to take another swing at the United States indoor tennis championship he held four times in the years between two World Wars, it was announced yesterday by the United States Lawn Tennis Association. The national indoor tournament opening at New York March 11, once again will have a distinct international flavor. Players from half-dozen foreign countries already have entered the first major net carnival of 1948 and others are expected. Heading the Canadian list is Henri Rochon of Montreal, Canadain Davis Cup player.

Players of New York Rangers yesterday announced their National Hockey League all-opponent teams which included four Detroit stars on the first squad. First team: Goal, Harry Lumley; Detroit; defence, Jack Stewart and Bill Quackenbush, Detroit; centre, Max Bentley, Toronto; wings, Bud Poile, Chicago, and Ted Lindsay, Detroit.

Second team: Goal, Frank Brimsek, Boston; defence, Ken Reardon, Montreal, and Jack Crawford, Boston; centre, Syl Apps, Toronto; wings, Syd Howe, Detroit, and Gaye Stewart, Chicago.

The parents of boxer Sam Baroudi, in a statement to a coroner's jury at Chicago yesterday, absolved manager Mike Spinelli of New York, from all blame in events surrounding the ring death of their 20-year-old son Feb. 20. The statement was presented by Spinelli's lawyer as the jury resumed an inquest into Baroudi's final bout with Ezzard Charles.

French newspaper men yesterday peppered members of the R.C.A.F. Flyers, Canada's Olympic hockey champions, with questions about their trip to Czechoslovakia, during which Communists seized political control of the country.

"We have already had our knuckles rapped for talking about the political situation," one member of the team said. "All we like to say about the trip is that we were wonderfully treated. We've each got a sackful of press [illegible]

Shepherds Needed On Scottish Farms

INVERNESS, Scotland, March 5 (CP). Highland shepherds have asked wages as high as £30 ($120) weekly for work during the lambing season in remote districts, said R. V. Glen of Badnoch.

Good shepherds are scarce and the position became so difficult for sheep-owners that they "polled" available staffs of experienced men.

Glen said the labor problem was caused by the lack of suitable houses and unwillingness of shepherds to take even season work in a remote locality where there were limited school and other facilities.

"Scarcity of good shepherds is also due to the fact that young men appear to have lost taste for the job. Instead of following in their father's footsteps, they take [illegible]

Waterloo Midgets Take Round By 9-4

WATERLOO, March 5 (CP). — Waterloo Midgets defeated Collingwood 5-3 here last night in the second of their two-game points-to-count OMHA midget B series.

They won the round 9-5, having taken the first game in Collingwood last Friday night 4-2. Waterloo now advances to the provincial finals.

The winners opened the scoring early in the first period and went on to outscore their opponents 3-1 in that period. The winners carried on to count the only tally in the second session and earn a 2-1 edge in the third.

Oberle sparked the Waterloo attack, netting two goals and an assist. James Barrett played the best hockey for the visitors, poking in one goal and setting up the major portion of their plays. Morrill Walmsley counted the other two Collingwood goals while Mader, Allenson and Hoffarth rapped in one each for Waterloo.

Member-Share Plan Offered To Golfers

MONTREAL, March 5 (CP)— With an eye to its financial game, the Royal Canadian Golf Association teed off to-day for a banner 1948 and laid palns for its major tournaments two years ahead.

Meeting in annual session last night, the golf-governing body installed Frank N. Robertson of Saint John as its new president and passed on to the provincial organizations a $1-a-year member-share plan to strengthen its financial position.

Announcement was made that the 1949 open definitely will be played over the Toronto St. George Course, the old Royal York Golf Club.

Dates were confirmed for the 1948 amateur tournament, at the Hamilton Golf Club, July 12-17, and the 1948 open at Vancouver Shaughnessy Heights, September 22-25.

Dates For Playoffs

TORONTO, March 5.—(CP). — President Geeorge Panter of the Ontario Hockey Association, announced last night the playoff dates for the best-of-seven series for the Senior A championship [illegible] March 15. [illegible] games if necessary, will be played at Hamilton March 17, at Waterloo March 19, and at Hamilton March 22.

He also announced that the all-Ontario championships will start by March 24 at the latest. The Northern Ontario Hockey Association representative is yet to be decided.

Figure-skating champions Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa and Richard Button of the United States, made their only London exhibition appearance at Wembley Empire Pool last night before a crowd of 10,000. Both champions skated their Olympic program.

Dick Button, world amateur figure-skating champion from Englewood, N.J., said at London yesterday he is ready "to listen" to professional offers when he returns to the United States. The 18-year-old ice artist plans to attend Yale University next fall, but said he "might be available" if professional offers were made.

Jack Kramer edged Bobby Riggs 8-6 and 9-7 last night in [illegible] on the face and neck. No passengers were injured.

United States Moves To Boost Tourist Trade

WASHINGTON, March 5 (CP). —A growing appreciation of the fact that United States trade with her best customer must be a two-way business has revived interest in tourist travel to Canada and in a bill to permit much larger duty-free purchases by United States travellers in Canada and other foreign countries.

Two instances of this quickened interest this week were:

1. Announcement by Representative Bertrand W. Gearhart (Rep.-Cal.) that he would press for action on his bill to raise to $500 the value of purchases abroad that United States tourists may bring home duty-free.

2. A statement here by Donald Gordon, Deputy Governor of the Bank of Canada, that United States moving picture companies, in their own interest, would produce films designed to encourage tourist travel to Canada.

Gearhart's bill would raise the duty-free tourist purchase limit from the present level of $100 where is has remained since 1897. It is widely supported by tourist and other organizations.

Gordon's statement on motion pictures came during a talk here before a gathering of national business paper editors.

He was asked what steps Canada was taking to encourage a larger inflow of American dollars to meet the current shortage. He said efforts were being made to increase exports to the United States.

Also, he said, United States moving picture companies, seeing the possibility that the dollar shortage might necessitate curtailment of import of United States films, were voluntarily moving to encourage greater travel from this country.

They would make and show films here describing the attractions of Canada as a vacation-land and encourage Americans to spend their vacation dollars in that country.

Gordon said that on a per capita basis each Canadian spent $220 in the United States, compared to $12 spent in Canada by each American.

The Gearhart Bill would permit each United States citizen visiting Canada to bring back purchases up to the value of $500 once in each six months.

Catholic Action Moves To Block Communism

VATICAN CITY, March 5 (AP) —Authoritative cources said today Italian Catholic Action has undertaken an intensive drive to avert a Communist victory in Italy's April 18 elections.

This campaign is evidenced by Catholic Action's distribution of a Vatican decree directing Roman Catholics to vote only for candidates who "will respect the rights of the Church."

Catholic Action counts more than 4,000,000 members, of whom 3,225,000 are of voting age.

The Vatican decree, issued by the Consistorial Congregation of the Vatican two years ago, was re-affirmed March 31, 1947. It admonished Roman Catholics throughout the world to vote for candidates who would defend the Church's rights. Catholic Action last week distributed the decree through its news service to more than 100 diocesan periodicals.

A spokesman for the organization said, however, it was depending even more upon the spoken word in Italian parishes to make Roman Catholics "aware of their duty to vote."

Italian dailies published the Vatican decree yesterday.

Mayor's Good Deed Saves 1,200 Jobs

WINDSOR ,March 4 (CP). — Mayor Arthur J. Reaume's good deed for the day saved 1,200 persons from being thrown out of work in Hespeler, Ont.

Recently Mayor A. R. Wilford of Hespeler called Windsor's chief magistrate asking his assistance in clearing a large truckload of oil across the Ambassador Bridge.

One of Hespeler's large industries needed the load in order to keep operating, but bridge officials had a regulation against allowing the oil to cross the bridge because it constituted a fire hazard.

Mayor Reaume, dispatched a city fire truck to the Ambassador Bridge to act as an escort for the oil truck, and the load was allowed to proceed.

Mayor Wilford in a letter of thanks to the Windsor Mayor said had the oil not arrived when it did 1,200 of the town's 3,600 persons would have been laid off.

Laundry Man Dies Refused Medical Aid

KIRKLAND LAKE, March 5— (CP).—Found in emaciated, half-frozen condition in an unheated room at the rear of his laundry, Seto Coch, aged about 70, died in hospital here today.

Police believe the man had not eaten for about two weeks. They said they were called to his laundry a week ago and were informed Coch, also known as Sing Lee, had suffered a heart attack and refused to be taken to hospital.

Tuesday night police were called again and found Coch covered only by a shirt, his legs and feet swollen from frost bite. Coch still refused to be take to hospital. He was removed to a local cafe, from where he finally was taken to hospital.

Dr. E. R. Harris, Medical Officer of Health, said he had no authority to order the man to hospital under these conditions.

Find Adobe Walls In Pioneer Home

ST. THOMAS, Ont., March 6 (CP). — Workmen probing the century-old walls of a house at nearby Port Stanley have uncovered evidence of the pioneer's art as a house-builder. Behind the quarter-inch plaster, electricians found foot-thick adobe walls — still as solid as the day an early Canadian poured straw-mixed clay into wooden forms.

From the street, white-painted lap siding gives the house a modern appearance. But beneath stair wells and in the cellar hand-hewn oak, walnut timbers and hand-split lath betray its great age.

W. H. Williamson, present owner of the 12-room building, says the adobe walls make his home comfortable despite the fact that it is perched on a hill overlooking the village and the harbor.

Strike Blow To Papers

INDIANAPOLIS, March 5—(AP)—An executive of the American Newspaper Publishers' Association told a federal judge yesterday that if more newspapers are hit by printers' strikes they will not be able to continue publication the way the papers in Chicago and elsewhere have done.

File Second Protest

LONDON, March 5 —(CP) — Russia has filed a second protest against the activities of American airplanes in the Far East, Moscow radio said last night. A broadcast heard in London said Russia had made a new protest over "continued violations of the freedom of merchant shipping" by United States planes off Japan.

Calves Gaining While Cattle Prices Ease Off

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — Cattle prices opened 25 cents a hundredweight higher but eased off toward the close of the Livestock Market this week, while calves gained $1 a cwt. and hogs 25 cents a cwt. Sheep and lambs remained unchanged.

Trading on cattle was brisk at the opening but slowed up by the close. A fairly good clearance was made on later arrivals. Receipts totalled about 4,600 head.

Top for weighty steers was $16.75 for a few head with others from $16.50 downward to $14.50. Butcher steers were $12.50-$15.50 and a few choice at $16. Heifers sold mostly from $15.25 downward. Butcher cows were $9.50-$12.50, with canners and cutters from $5.50-$9. Bulls sold from $10.50-$12.50 cwt. and fed yearlings brought mostly $15-$17.50. A few lots of plain to good stockers brought $11-$14 6cwt. Ordinary huality milkers and springers were from $[illegible]-$145 each.

Held For Theft

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — Theresay Sourty, 18, was arrested last night on charges of theft of three watches and sums of money amounting to $39.35 from purses in the nurses' residence of Western General Hospital. Police said one watch, reported stolen, was worn by the girl when arrested, a second watch and pawn ticket for a third were found at her rooming house.

CIO Opposes Radio Privilege

WASHINGTON, March 5 (AP) —On grounds that radio is "big business" and would reflect the view of industry, the CIO yesterday opposed letting radio stations editorialize on the air."

Henry C. Fleisher, assistant director of publicity of the CIO, told the Federal Communications Commission that unions have had "endless trouble" buying radio time for their views. He said that "makes us sceptical of the good intentions of many broadcasters in connection with public service programs."

The Commission is holding hearings on whether to reverse a seven-year-old rule which forbids networks or stations to take sides in politics or matters of controversy.

Civil Marriages Favored United Church Board Says

TORONTO, March 4 (CP). — A request that Provincial Legislatures which have not already done so, make provision for civil marriages "to relieve ministers of any obligation to participate in marriage proceedings which are not in accordance with the teachings of the church" was passed to-day at the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada.

Civil marriages were also favored by the Board "to avoid the necessity of persons not desiring Christian marriage with its obligations participating in such vows and declarations as the church requires."

The Board also urged all Provincial Governments to pass legislation requiring compulsory social investigation of divorce applicants where young children are involved. The custody of infant children would be determined by the Judge and if neither parent is found to be fit custodian, the children should be committed to the custody of an organized Children's Aid Society. The resolution further asked for the appointment of a proper officer whose duty it will be to protect the rights of children's custody as effectively as rights of property now are protected.

Another resolution urged that beneficial products of nuclear fission such as radioactive isotopes should be made available to all nations through the United Nations. They recommended further development of atomic research under civilian rather than military control.

The Board endorsed action of the Ontario Association of Agricultural Societies by opposing the pari-mutuels at Ontario agricultural fairs.

It was reported that the United Church of Canada had sent 55 tons of clothing and 100,000 tons of food to Britain and Europe in the last three months. Increasing amounts are going to Germans and France.

$9,000 Needed To Meet Fund Objective

With one more day to go the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Funds needs $9,000 before it can assure local citizens that the objective has been reached. The figure stood at $51,000 when cash receipts and pledges were added up on Thursday night.

Organized canvassing will end Friday night but individual contributions will stil be welcomed, say Community Fund officials. When the dinner-meeting for all Community Fund workers is held Friday evening in the CGE cafeteria it will mark the official closing of the week-long campaign to raise $60,000 for the benefit of 12 established social agencies. At this meeting it is hoped final figures will be available showing the success of the drive.

The Industrial Division is believed well over the top with 11 of 37 firms having exceeded their quotas.

Donors may specify the particular agency to which they wish their money to go if desirous of doing so. The 12 are: Canadian Red Cross Society, Peterborough Humane Society, Children's Aid Society, YMCA, YWCA, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Victorian Order of Nurses, Ontario cancer Treatment and Research Foundation, Navy League, Salvation Army, St. Vincent's Orphanage, and Peterborough Visiting Homemaker Service. Other agencies are also beneficiaries.

One day to go! Nine Thousand Dollars to be raised! Those who haven't donated are asked to do so if these worthy organizations are to be maintained during the present year.

Gay Carnival Lasts Two Days

It may be winter weather, but there's a carnival in the city Friday and Saturday nights. No, there won't be any tents set out in snowdrifts, because it's the annuol Indoor Carnival sponsored by the Peterborough Y's Men's Club, held in the Armories. Proceeds go toward an extensive program of Y's Men's social services —in particular renovation and enlarging of Camp Kawartha, the boys' camp on the east shore of Clear Lake.

Bingo, games of chance, a $50 attendance prize drawn each night, and a host of other entertainment features are promised to please all members of the family.

A doll with 50 one-dollar bills pinned on will be raffled off on Saturday night. These are some of the games and prizes.

If you wish to help some boys have a real holdiya this year, or if you are interested in entertainment alone, the two-day Indoor Carnival of the Y's Men's sounds like a good place to go.

PETTICOAT FEVER—Miss Irene Tucker, Left, shows a bit more of her plaid taffeta petticoat than is necessary but then it is very pretty. She is allowing it to be both seen and heard beneath her navy wool ballerina suit with basque jacket and very full skirt. The hat is straw, of course, and the hollow filled with roses. Miss Ruth Frost, Right, is showing a good bit of her dainty white organdie petticoat with plaid bows, but is completely hidden when she stands. She is wearing a charming ballerina date-frock of navy taffeta with whirlpool skirt and fitted bodice buttoned up to the small collar. Her straw hat is flower trimmed with ribbon streamers. The fashions were seen last evening in the Jeanette Scott Chapter, IODE, 13th annual spring review at the Summer Gardens.

Home Building Costs High In This Area

City Council Will Be Seeking More New Houses

Building costs in Peterborough were said by members of the council last night to be at a higher level than in most of the other cities in Ontario. Proximity to the wood belt provides no premium in lumber prices—not that lumber gets all the blame for the cost of the house that Jack built, or rather that Central Mortgage and Housing are building for him.

Ottawa, it was said, is top-drawer in the building cost list, up with Peterborough but still secondary. Place Ottawa at the 100 level, according to the cited and repeated story of a lumberman, and Hamilton, for instance, gets down the list somewhere in the 80 group. But, Peterborough, according to the same source, was seven points up on Ottawa.

Members of the finance committee remained last night seated around the long table in the board room talking about housing and the persisting housing problem in Peterborough.

Check Salary Group

Out of the conversation emerged a proposal that action be taken to demand of Central Mortgage that houses being built with the assistance of the municipality to rent at $37.50 shall be rented to heads of families in that salary group and not to those who can afford to pay more, even to buying their own homes. Complaint among members was that representatives of the Crown housing company are concerned only about getting returns on the money expended for housing, that applicants are not selected for tenancy with sufficient consideration of the point of ability to pay.

City council is opposed to continuing in the housing business, it was said, but there are such considerations as necessitous appeals of ex-service men for accommodation for their families, housing requirements for employees of local industries, petition from the Canadian Legion, inadequacy of private building and especially on a price basis. When these and other influencing conditions are weighed by the council, the members find themselves virtually being forced by circumstances into the decision of accepting Central Mortgage terms for another block of houses.

"It looks as if Peterborough will still be building houses for the next couple of years," said one of the aldermen.

"The council showed where it stands by doing all we could for the two young contractors who took on the Arndon subdivision," said another. "We are willing to help wherever we can. We don't like this housing expedient we are into, but we can't sit still when there is something we can do to help people out of conditions of overcrowding."

The six members who lingered after the meeting drifted into the housing subject. The council has yet to sign an agreement with Central Mortgage and Housing, and by that time the members will be set to insist that "low-rental" houses shall be reserved for men for whom as a group they were built.

The city provides the land for those houses, and also lays sewers and water mains and other services, and is now going to demand that Central Housing set a preference for tenants whose earnings are around the figure of $37.50 a week. The weekly wage is regarded generally as the maximum of rent that can be paid out of those earnings.

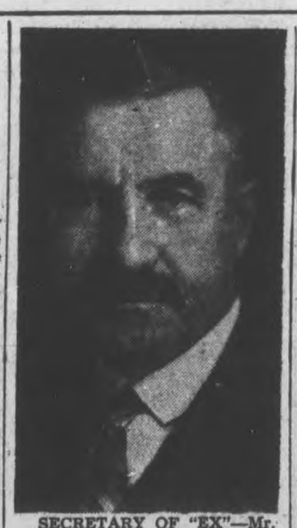
Jas. Hamilton Talks To Ys' Men



Mr. James Hamilton spoke at the regular meeting of the Y's Men's Club Thursday evening on the local cancer research organization of which he is president. He urged an active support for this worthy activity from the group members.

Three representatives of the Club attended a Camp Leaders Conference in Toronto last weekend and chairman Allan Henry reported on their findings. In a discussion that followed confusion prevailed among club members as to where the contribution from the Community Chest would be placed. It was pointed out that none of monies would be applied to the promotion of Camp Kawartha, the Y's Men's Carnival profits were the only funds available for camp unkeep and maintenance.

Rambling Reporter

"THE WAGES OF SIN"

Another contribution has been made to the host of tales describing the Ontario attude toward drinking. At a rerecent So-Ed meeting a professor of French from Queen's University was guest speaker, and he contrasted the difference between the so-called "Ontario view" and the French. He pointed out that Frenchmen sit at tables on the open boulevard and sip their wine. In Ontario he said, the drinker guzzles beer in a hidden retreat sealed from public gaze by frosted windows. In a 10-cent glass of beer he pays "two cents for the contents, and eight cents for the delicious sense of sin that accompanies it."—D. W.

SECRETARY OF "EX"—Mr. G. A. Gillespie is accepting the post of secretary-treasurer of the Peterborough Exhibition. He is taking the place of Stan Lowe who as one of the veteran directors wished to help in reviving the show, supervised the work of restoring the grounds during the last two years, and recently has been asking that someone be appointed in his place.

Braden Bullock Badly Hurt In Odd Mishap

The condition of 22-year-old Braden Bullock, who was injured Monday evening, is reported by the hospital this morning to be "slightly improved." The youth has not fully regained consciousness since the time of the accident.

According to the account given by Charles Dunford, Lakefield, the injured man had been standing on the running board of his car while he leaned forward to try to hear the cause of some knocking in the engine.. Dunford was driving the car for his friend while this was going on. Apparently, a jar in the road threw Bullock to the ground, where he struck his head. He was taken to his home nearby, where he lives with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Howard Bullock, R.R. 2, Lakefield. Medical assistance was called and he was removed to St. Joseph's Hospital here. He has not as yet been able to give police his account of how the accident occurred.

5 Traffic Charges Bring Light Fines

Police court was short this morning, and the following minor cases were disposed of by Magistrate W. R. Philp: Weslie Monahan, Apsley, was fined $15 and $4.50 costs when he pleaded guilty today to a charge of illegal possession of liquor.

Arthur Earnshaw, Apsley, was fined $5 and $2.50 costs for failing to carry proper lights on his vehicle.

Reginald Liscum, Coe Hill, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs for failing to report the purchase of a motor vehicle in the time allowed.

Earl Shewen, Mount Julian, was fined $5 and $2.50 costs for not having proper car lighting.

Lorne W. Duguid, 59 Jackson Ave., Toronto, was fined $2 and $1 costs for overtime parking.

LEGION SERVICE BUREAU

Service Bureau, (Kingston District), of Canadian Legion, Branch 52, BESL, is headed by D. A. Ferguson as chief officer. He plans to be in Peterborough the first Monday of each month to discuss Legionnaires' social problems. Canadian Legion secretary reports that the first visit held March 1 was not as largely attended as anticipated but trusts that in future, interest will increase.

Secondary Rink Campaign To Start March 18 Seek Aid From Jr. Chamber

The drive for the proposed Civic Arena will get under way March 18, and the Junior Chamber of Commerce will be asked to provide the chairman and organization of the finance committee to work with the general committee. This was decided at a meeting of the publicly-appointed committee Thursday night to receive the completed and concrete plan of activities which have been worked out.

The move for new leadership was made necessary by the resignation, by letter, to the meeting, of Douglas Vaisey, chairman of the finance committee, who will continue to act on the publicity committee. It was also given out at the meeting that Alderman Douglas Miller, who had been chairman of the building committee, had resigned at the previous week's meeting.

There was lengthy and at times fiery discussion of the type of building which will be built. After a cross-fire of suggestions and counter-suggestions, the general meeting agreed upon a broad plan of construction. The building will have an ice surface of 80 by 180 feet, will seat 3,200 persons and, with standing capacity, be able to hold about 4,000. Of cement block siding, it will have a galvanized iron roof.

Well-Planned Campaign

The plan of operation for the campaign presented to the meeting was approved and will be recommended to the bodies which undertake it. Comprehensive in its scope, the plan will entail individual projects for fund-raising by every organization in the city. The meeting delegated work to each member in contacting groups throughout the city. They include: service clubs, women's organizations, church groups, lodges, Boy Scouts, sports clubs, business and professional groups, schools.

General nature of the campaign will be to have each such cooperating organization handle the work of a selected project, with the proceeds turned over to the rink fund.

Some of the items listed are carnivals, radio shows, mile-of-pennies, cash register jars, bingos, auctions on a giant scale, projects entailing co-operation of theatres, entertainment groups and public places, drives requiring support from various civic organizations.

An important step was taken when plans were laid for a meeting on Tuesday night of representatives of the industrial concerns of the city, who will be asked to meet with the committee to discuss ways and means of raising the required amount.

With an original objective of $140,000, the committee accepted a motion of Charles Kingan that the main objective to erect a building for natural ice and that, if the amount raised is sufficient, to instal artificial ice. It was pointed out that the important factor was to "get started and get something up." The opinion was expressed that, if the project reached the stage of a tangible form of a building that public support would be large enough to ensure the ice plant installation.

Alderman Hurrell Dodds, new chairman of the building committee, was also in favor of "setting the sights a little lower." He said that it would be unwise to have architect's plan for a $140,000 structure drawn up until the money to pay for it was assured. He said that he was not pessimistic about the scheme but felt that the expense of planning for a rink which might later prove too large would be unwise.

Chairman Dick Ouimet, during the discussion on the type of building to be studied by Alderman Dodds' committee, added: "We have all confidence in your ability."

Frank Buckland said that he felt "we are on a merry-go-round—the finance committee feels it must have a building decided on to be able to have something "concrete" to sell the supporters and the building committee wants to know how much money it will have before it decides on the type of building."

Stanley McBride, chairman of publicity, who presented the detailed campaign, said that his committee was "ready to put it into operation as soon as the new finance committee says go."

The motion to have the Junior Chamber of Commerce approached was made by Frank Buckland. It was stressed that this would mean that the JayCees would be asked to help the general committee in the campaign and take a major part in its administration, through its membership.

Humane Society Convention Next September

Plans were made Thursday night for the entertainment in September of close to 100 delegates from all parts of the province who will come to Peterborough for the provincial convention of the Ontario Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals. Details of the entertainment were discussed at a meeting of the local society, with Fred Holmes chairman.

The provincial convention was last held here 10 years ago.

Mrs. E. S. Martin, Mrs. Fred Holmes and Mrs. Mark Burnham were appointed nomination committee to present the new slate of officers at the annual meeting, April 1.

The annual meeting will feature the presentation of the silver medal of the society, for bravery, to guide Charles Jones of Green Lake, who risked his life in attempting to save a dog. It is the highest award of the provincial organization.

Humane Society Inspector Gerald Dunford reported that 50 dogs and 27 cats have been disposed of and that 10 dogs were killed by traffic on city streets. Nine dogs were picked up lost, of which eight have now been returned to their owners.

Blame Mitchell Hepburn For Power Shortage Now

TORONTO, March 5 (CP). — With the Throne Speech debate adjourned until next Tuesday, The Ontario Legislature turned to-day to measures placed before the House by both the government of Premier Drew and the Opposition.

The first round of the Throne Speech debate wound up yesterday with the address in reply moved by Thomas Pryde (PC-Huron) and seconded by William E. Hamilton (PC-Wellington South).

Mr. Pryde, in his maiden speech in the Legislature discussed and lauded the legislation proposed by the government of Premier Drew covering immigration, agriculture, Education, travel facilities and hospitals.

Mr. Hamilton followed with a lengthy discussion of government Hydro proposals in which he laid blame for the present power shortage in Ontario to the former Liberal administration of Mitchell Hepburn.

The Progressive Conservative Government is blameless for the current shortage, he said. Mr. Hamilton quoted letters from Premier Hepburn to Prime Minister King sent in 1938 in which the Ontario Leader said the province was not interested in production of further Hydro power.

Clear Cut Program.

Mr. Pryde spoke glowingly of the government's program which he described as "clear cut" in contrast with what he called "negative policies of the Opposition."

He spoke of the "imperative" need for hospital accommodation and said the government could be given credit for instilling fresh encouragement into members of the small hospital boards through grants and interest in their affairs.

W. J. Grummett, CCF House Leader, introduced a Bill to protect certain civil rights.

The general purpose of the Bill it was explained, is to "protect by statute the rights of freedom of religion, speech and association, and more specifically to prohibit discrimination against any person by reason of race, nationality or religion in such matters as employment, education, right of access to any place serving the public."

Sections of the Bill would carry fines for conviction in cases of offence against the proposed Act.

Amend Health Act.

G. I. Harvey (CCF-Sault Ste. Marie) introduced an Act to amend the Municipal Health Services Act. It would eliminate the present need for reaching agreement with the Ontario Municipal Health Services on every plan for municipal health services.

A 40-hour week and vacations with pay of two weeks would be required in a Bill to amend the Hours of Work and Vacations with Pay Act, 1944, presented by R. H. Carlin (CCF-Sudbury). He would also add a section to limit overtime work to eight hours a week and 100 in a year and require time and a half for overtime. No reduction in weekly pay would be connected with any cut in hours under the Act.

The CCF's legislative proposals also included an amendment to the Rights of Labor Act, 1944, which would prevent applications for injunctions in any court in connection with a strike or lockout except with consent of the Ontario Labor Relations Board.

CSU Signs New Pact Gets $25 Month Raise

TORONTO, March 5—(CP)—An agreement which provides for a $25-a-month wage increase was signed yesterday between the Canadian Seamen's Union and the Upper Lake and St. Lawrence Transportation Company, it was announced jointly by union and company officials here.

Payment of time-and-a-half for Sunday work and improved working conditions are included in the agreement, C. Sauras, vice-president of the union said. Terms reached are similar to those concluded last month with the Canada Cement Company, the Quebec Ontario Transportation Company and the Algoma Central Steamship Company.

NEWSMEN WHO WOULDN'T TALK — News Editor Douglas V. Clarke, left, and Reporter Charles L. Leonard, of the Newburgh News, who were freed from jail at White Plains, N.Y., and paroled in custody of their attorney pending a court decision on their appeal against being sentenced for refusal to tell the source of information for a gambling expose. The two newsmen, jailed for ten days and fined $100 each on contempt charges, had refused to tell the grand jury at Newburgh how they obtained lottery tickets which were reproduced in the newspaper.

Defeat Non-Confidence Vote As MP's Attack Communism

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, March 5—(CP).—By a vote of 173 to 38, the Commons turned aside a CCF motion of non-confidence in the Government yesterday in the lingering Throne Speech debate. But the division, coming traditionally on an amendment to the main motion for adoption of the Throne Speech, was thrust into the shadows by a larger and more dominant issue — a growing demand by Opposition members that the Government take effective steps now to crush the development of Communism within Canada.

The attack on Communism was spearheaded by Donald Fleming, energetic, 42-year-old Progressive Conservative member from Toronto Eglinton, and taken up by C. E. Stephenson (PC—Durham) and Maxime Raymond (B—Beauharnois).

With the rejection of the CCF motion, the Chamber promptly found itself faced with a Social Credit amendment, moved by F. D. Shaw (SC-Red Deer) which asked the government to raise income tax exemptions, eliminate the eight-per-cent sales tax and reduce excise taxes, increase family allowance and old age pensions, provide adequate payments for disabled persons and pay selective subsidies on the necessities of life.

In defeating the CCF motion, which expressed regret that the government had "failed" to use its powers to control prices, the Administration drew support from the Progressive Conservative Oppostiion, J. I. Hamel (BP-St. Maurice Lafleche), Mr. Raymond and a lone Social Crediter—Patrick Ashy (SC-Edmonton East). The remaining Social Credit members sided with the CCF party.

Treasures in Museum

At the House opening, External Affairs Minister St. Laurent confirmed reports that the Polish art treasures now are in the Quebec provincial museum and termed statements attributed to Premier Duplessis in connection with their movement a "clumsy but deliberate" attempt to smear federal ministers from Quebec.

Opening his attack on Communism, Mr. Fleming criticized the government for "belatedly" awakening to the threat of Communism and said it was necessary only to read the speeches of Tim Buck, Labor-Progressive party leader, to realize that Canada was on the list of the Communist revolution. If the Marshall plan was delayed and France and Italy fell to the Communists, there would be a grave threat to every man, woman and child in this country. He challenged the government, which was on the "slippery slide to Socialism" to a general election on the issue of its trend toward centralization and a "Socialistic tyranny."

One-Way Ticket

Mr. Stephenson said the time had come for Canada to follow the example of the United States and give Communist-paid agents a "one-way ticket to the land of their dreams in the U.S.S.R." Canada, he charged, had been following a policy of appeasement.

Mr. Raymond held that the government's policies of scarcity and austerity would engender the growth of Communism in Canada.

These policies, he said, developed the government's practice of placing the needs of Britain ahead of those of Canada, with the result that Canadians were facing scarcity in a land of plenty. All Canadian policies were being made subservient to British needs by a federal cabinet which was imperialistic in its outlook.

Mr. Bracken, speaking on the CCF motion, said his party would have supported the amendment had the word "inflation" been substituted for the word "prices." His party believed that price controls could work only if everything was controlled.

Mr. Drope said the eight-per-cent sales tax, because of its effect on the cost of living, should be reduced or abolished and that income tax exemptions should be increased, possibly to $1,200 for single persons and $2,000 for those married. To permit tax reductions, governmental expenditures should be curbed.

DRESSED TO KILL—Armed to the teeth here is Hafez Barakat, reputed leader of the Arab bands operating in the old city of Jerusalem. Missionary Dies

PARIS, Ont., March 5—(CP)—Miss Bertha Weir Robson, for 21 years a Presbyterian Church missionary in India, died yesterday at Glenmorris, north of this Brant County centre. A native of Glenmorris and a graduate of Queen's University, Kingston, Miss Robson was associated with the late Rev. John Buchanan, former moderator of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, in Indian mission work. She returned to Canada in 1933 because of ill health and was a member of Central Presbyterian Church, Galt.

Mitchell Lauds Labor For Legislation

OTTAWA, March 5— (CP). — Labor Minister Mitchell told a Trades and Labor Congress delegation that "almost without exception" every piece of labor and social legislation enacted in Canada has had its origin in a resolution adopted by organized labor.

His words were echoed by Prime Minister Mackenzie King who added that the fact most such legislation has come in the last 25 or 30 years of Canada's 300-year history, indicates "the pace hasn't been so slow."

The Congress, presenting an annual brief to Mr. King and his Cabinet, said the Dominion has "urgent need" of an "all-embracing social security program."

The Labor Minister, noting the Congress brief asked that immigration be the exclusive responsibility of government, said he considers immigration of displaced persons has been "on a humane plane" and to the "distinct advantage" of Canada and of the immigrants.

Transport Minister Chevrier, replying to a Congress submission that the Canada Shipping Act be amended, said the government proposed to do so. The changes would include certification of officers and engineers, shipping of seamen, steamship inspection, provision of the right for seamen and passengers to institute proceedings against owners, and inclusion of international conventions to which Canada has agreed.

Finance Minister Abbott reiterated that it is "not feasible, practicable or desirable to go back to an overall system of price controls."

Predict Shoe Prices To Drop

TORONTO, March 5 — (CP). — Does the price you pay for shoes pinch your purse?

Breathe easy, because yesterday merchants of pedal-extremity gear here said: retail prices are expected to drop from three to 10 per cent "in the near future." That is if buyers—that's you—resistance continues.

Robert Hedley, Toronto shoe manufacturer, said the big 10 per cent drop will probably come from tanning companies with an overabundance of raw stock material because of slack buying — you again."

Mr. Hedley, for one, plans to reduce his price to retailers by five per cent.

However, a spokesman for another manufacturing firm said he "doubted" any reduction, and that it would be "bad policy" for manufacturers to release such information even if it were true, because of the effect it would have on retailers.

Must Pay Duties

TORONTO, March 5—(CP)—Proceds of a $50,000 life insurance policy left in trust under a will does not constitute an annuity, and beneficiaries are liable for succession duties, the Ontario Supreme Court ruled here yesterday. The court dismissed appeals of trustees under the will of Arthur William Carr, Toronto, against assessment of upwards of $7,000 in duties levied by the Ontario ogvernment

Believe Prices May Be Lower

By The Canadian Press

This year's crop of financial statements emphasize the awareness of industry that the assets side of the balance sheet, which today show substantially greater value than in previous years, very often is inflated by high-price inventories.

Examinations of a few of these reports shows that management concedes the possibility that prices may be appreciably lower in the current business year. Reserves against future decline in inventory values show sizeable increase.

Harding Carpets, Lt., in its consolidated balance sheet for the year ended Oct. 31, 1947, reports such reserves as $503,050. This compared with $54,383 for the previous year.

Sarnia Bridge Co. Ltd., includes in its report $25,000 reserve for contingencies, whereas there were no such reserves at the end of the previous business year.

Paralleling such increases in reserves are reports that purchasing departments are exercising greater caution in business transactions. Buyers today are said interested primarily in day-to-day purchases and are prepared rather to go short than overbuy at current prices. With a buyers' market steadily coming into its own and competition making itself felt in business, management sees even a small drop in prices converting a profitable inventory into a loss.

Drama Officials Plan To Meet March 21

LONDON, March 5.—(CP). — Dr. Allan Skinner of London, Ont., honorary director of the Dominion Drama Festival, announced yesterday that a meeting of the Dominion Drama Festival executive will be held in Toronto March 21 to receive the report of Robert Stuart, adjudicator of regional drama festivals.

Mr. Stuart will judge the final regional in Toronto during the previous week and on the basis of his report invitations will be issued for the national finals to be held at Ottawa starting April 26.

Dr. Skinner said the winner of a regional festival does not automatically enter the Dominion contest, but it is the hope of the festival committee that this would be true in every case.

Robert Speaight, who was named some time ago as adjudicator for the Dominion festival, will fly from England, arriving in Ottawa April 24.

25,000 Men Laid Off At Ford Motor Plant

DETROIT, March 5 — (CP) — Manufacturing changes for 1949 models of the Ford Motor Company will result in the layoff of about 25,000 Rouge plant production workers for periods ranging from two to six weeks.

The company said yesterday that plans to hold the layoffs to a minimum included alternating shifts and providing other employment for the workers.

Currently the company employs about 107,000 hourly rated workers, about 65,000 of them at Rouge. Another 8,000 in other United States assembly plants also will be laid off.

The company's announcement follows a week's layoff of about 17,000 Kaiser-Frazer workers at Willow Run, and brief layoffs by other manufacturers.

Alberta Chemist Seeking Gasoline From Natural Gas

EDMONTON, March 5 (CP). — The conversion of natural gas to a cheap, high-quality gasoline is one of the problems now being studied by scientists at the University of Alberta research laboratories.

Research men all over the continent have been working at the project for years but as yet none have succeeded in producing a method that will make gasoline cheaply enough to compete with that obtained from petroleum. At the university lab here, gasoline has been made from natural gas but not cheaply enough to make it feasible. The project is particularly important to Alberta with its huge untapped sources of natural gas.

Initial work on the synthesization of gasoline was begun at the university of 1943 by the late Dr. E. H. Boomer, professor of chemical engineering. Since his death, graduate students have been conducting the experiments.

Must Increase Yield.

At present a 23-year-old chemical engineer from Vegreville, Alta., Michael Chmilar, is taking his master of science degree on the prject. So far he has obtained one-quarter of a pound of gasoline from 35 cubic feet of carbon monoxide. Theoretically, twelve that amount should be obtained and he now is attempting to increase the yield so the gasoline obtained can compete with ordinary petroleum gasoline.

Natural gas is converted to carbon monoxide in the synthesis. The carbon monoxide is then combined with hydrogen gas in the presence of granulated cobalt metal at a temperature of about 200 degrees. The big problem at present is to find something besides the cobalt metal to combine the carbon monoxide and hydrogen. It's a big job — but Mr. Chmilar is optimistic about the results.

Red Cross Re-unites Dad, 5-Year-Old Boy

KINGSTON, March 5.—(CP).—Jimmy Jordan, five-year-old English-born son of H. R. Jordan of Kingston, thanks to the Red Cross was today re-united with his father here after an ocean crossing and a planned meeting which misfired in Montreal.

Jimmy, whose mother remained in England, landed in Halifax this week and the Red Cross put him on a train headed for Montreal, where it had been arranged for a meeting with his father.

When his father did not meet the child the Red Cross again went to work. They learned he had an aunt, Mrs. Edith King, here, they arranged for Mrs. N. G. Simmons, local Red Cross Society secretary, to meet Jimmy and take him to his aunt's house.

On learning the details, Mr. Jordan returned from Montreal, and today was busy explaining Canadian life to Jimmy.

He's On A Spot

LYTHE, Yorks., England, March 5—(CP).—When Vic Frost, bricklayer and fireman, found his chimney on fire, he called out the local fire brigade and mounted the roof with a hose which he aimed down the chimney. There were yells of rage from below as water gushed — he had put the hose down the chimney of the next door. Who lives there? His mother-in-law.

Labor Security Program Pleases Mr. King

OTTAWA, March 5 — (CP). — Two more of organized labor's annual submissions to the federal cabinet are on record today and Prime Minister Mackenzie King has reiterated his belief in an "all embracing social security program."

Briefs were presented yesterday by the Trades and Labor Congress and the joint legislative committee of the Railway Transportation Brotherhoods. The TLC presentation was open to the press but reporters were excluded from the cabinet's meeting with the railway men.

Social security highlighted the Congress' brief—and this section won unqualified support from the Prime Minister. He said there was nothing, in the 3,000-word brief with which he agreed more wholeheartedly.

Contributory Scheme

The TLC said it favors social security legislation "on a contributory basis to cover all citizens, regardless of income." It should include, "with our unemployment insurance now established, a full and comprehensive health insurance scheme, accident and hospitalization benefits, old-age pensions, mothers' and widows' allowances."

The railway men urged that their equity in pension plans be "considered and preserved" in any social security scheme the government may introduce.

Both delegations advocated amendments of old-age pension legislation, reduction of income tax and study of prices, immigration and housing. The TLC urged a national labor code and the railway men asked a national transportation policy ensuring "the service upon which producers, trade and citizens must depend." They "deplored" the lack of regulations and controls allocating each type of transportation "to the service of which they are most capable."

Wolf Sits Close By While Herd Of Deer Feeds On Foliage Of Tree

APSLEY, March 5. (ENS) — As the bus load of students who attend Lakefield High School was returning home Tuesday night, about 12 miles south of Apsley they saw a herd of 15 deer feeding on the foliage of a fallen tree. Coming on a distance of two hundred yards they spotted a large timber wolf sitting a short distance from the highway, evidently waiting to attack the deer.

Wolves are reported very numerous and becoming so bold that they play and tussle with farmers' dogs.

Howard Conley of Lasswade saw three on Monday in the field near the house and succeeded in shooting one of them, while he was standing in the kitchen door.

PRINT AN' POLKA DOT — Perennial spring favorites with the New Look that is so delightfully lady-like and yet simple and practical were shown in the annual spring fashion review presented by Jeanette Scott Chapter, IODE, Thursday evening at Brock Street Summer Gardens. Miss Barbara Lawrie, Left, is wearing pretty print for summer wear that has a draped apron front, but the back is the "thing" with a low vee and draped panels. Sheer black lace edges the drapery, falling below the hemline at the points. Her cartwheel hat is black straw with taffeta ribbon bow. Mrs. Ken Robertson, on the Right, looks very trim in the favorite navy with white polka dot and crisp white pique touches. It is a two-piece dress with flaring peplum attached to the top and another on the skirt, giving a two-tier effect that is one of the new silhouettes. Her half-crown hat is of white straw with flower trim.

Flares, Frills and Flowers Milady in Spring Attire Steals Tricks of Gay '90's

They came, they saw—and they went home to throw out everything in the wardrobe. It was the New Look, all the way, at Jeanette Scott Chapter, IODE, Spring Fashion Review last night. Simple, soft and feminine from top to toe. Flower-garden millinery creations with yards and yards of veiling were tilted to reveal handsome coiffures with the shorter swept forward trend that seems to go with fuller skirts and gently rounded hiplines. "Waistline," this season means the whole exposure from bosom to hipbone and it is moulded skin tight in a princess line, emphasized in suits with a sharp curve, jutting out in flared ripples below, or wrapped in a wide wide cummberbund, which may be of contrasting color. Wide hip-bands on afternoon dresses were relieved by huge taffeta bows at one side. Paler colors, as Rosewood and mist grey are in vogue and the new prints are light designs on a dark background. But designers seem devoted to navy for spring and for the basic costume nothing is more suitable. Red is ever-popular and was shown in toppers, suits and accessories. But applause was greatest for the vivid intense raspberry shade of an elegant suit with fly front skirt and scalloped jacket front.

Two thousand women in Brock St. Summer Gardens were amused to see models swinging gay parasols—one christened "Winston Churchill" had a polished curved handle. They welcomed back the cape, lots of them this spring to go over and over, varying from crisp shoulder capelets to long flowing affairs. But the practical shortie is still good and goes to all lengths. The 36" topper with flaring lines is a nice compromise and variations of it were in bright red and pastel shades. Juniors love the plaid coat with very full back and hood to wear up or draped as a collar. A short-length jacket in light brown was long on style, straight-cut with brass buttons and a half-way belt at the back. One of the new "wrapped" coats was a reminder of the '20's with tuxedo lines in front and cutaway effect, but very becoming to the matronly figure. Gorgeous furs, mostly full-length coats, topped many costumes and with Easter so early this year, they will be the features of boardwalk parades. For evening wear, fur wraps are waist or hip length and show novel pockets and sleeve design.

"Ballerina" is the song that topped the hit parade and it is tops in style for spring, too. The name applies to separate skirts, suits, delightful after-five tea-dancing dresses, and then steals the show for evening wear. It is beloved by the lass who has assumed the demure, lady-like air and delights in dropping her plaid taffeta petticoat about an inch below the hemline. Incidentally, petticoats are worn under all the full skirts this year, whether they peep or not. They are ever so dainty in white organdy with colored ribbon bows nestling in the frilled hemline and you go around hoping for a chance to let it show. The ballerina skirt in plaid wool had a built up waist band. In suits the jacket was the thing and could the basque fitting with a flaring peplum or hang straight from the shoulders. Whirlpool skirts highlighted the date dresses, and taffeta is a "must" for this style, and for evening when it is combined with shadowy back lace to edge a bertha collar, or diagonally inserted in a full skirt.

Lady-like charm in after-while dresses was achieved by subtle draping. Newest variation is the "equestrian" drape in which fullness in concentrated around the hipline of the skirt, but is straight and slim at the knee. Unpressed pleats and wing sleeves in dusty blue patterned in white looked wonderfully cool for summer. Discreet black, always correct, was shown in several basic dresses that use pearls or jewelled clips for relief and in crepe combined with taffeta, or sheer lace. Extremely full skirts were in light-on-dark prints, and a most striking effect was produced by fan pleats in a very full bias-cut skirt of navy with white polka dots. Bodices are plain and figure-hugging this year with the point of the vee going a little deeper than previously giving a wonderful opportunity to wear jewellry. The square and wide low-cut neckline is relieved with flaring bias treatment, or deft folds of self-material. The crisp white touch of pique at high necklines is again the interest point on dark dresses and ruffled lingerie edging trimmed the neck and wrists of a black faille suit.

All suits this year are dressmaker models. They can be slightly tailored if you desire, but not man-tailored. The skirt must flare a little and the collar must be soft. The lady-like trend was beguiling in pastel pink with brief jacket and flared skirt. Unusual buttons caught the eye on many jackets, and every one boasted some form of pocket treatment that was outstanding. A dressy black suit to appeal to the older woman had jet trim on large patch pockets and was worn with a forward tilted sailor, accented with a smart leather bag with the new deep handle. Grey is classic in suits for old and young alike. You can be all grey from hat to shoes as one model showed wearing a wrist-length cape to match the skirt and jacket, or you can use romantic pale pink as a color accent. The younger set choose red accessories and have feathers pointing to the sky on their berets. The "background suit" is simple black or navy and can be casual or dressed-up as you see fit. The deciding point could be a pert straw sailor or a cloche trimmed with white gardenias.

Commentator Mary Louise Whitmore did not once mention the length of skirt in the suit story, showing the longer length is accepted, and is stabilized for the present at 13 inches from the floor. Dresses, of course, can go to any length. When buying a suit this spring you are most interested in learning what the skirt is like, straight and slashed, flared or pleated. Nipped-in jackets make the waist even smaller by contrast with the fullness beneath. Bell-hop's jackets have been copied and look marvelous with double rows of brass buttons. Military braid gives the handmade look. One suit shown was of orchid wool gabardine, an important color to manufacturers this year, but it did not seem to catch the fancy here.

Junior models made their final entry wearing navy, one a crepe with fine horizontal tucks on a gored skirt, highlighted with a circlet of cerise flowers and ribbon, the other in swirling taffeta with matching straw trimmed with daisies, and then they became pages for their elders in dinner and evening dress. As wraps were discarded the models revealed stunning original designs using diagonal lines, the equestrian drape, shirred lace and sequin trim for interest. Beautiful colors were coral, gold, cerise and ruby-tone with several in black, and a spring-like print in subtle tones of green and brown on creamy background.

Glamorous hair styles left one undecided whether to choose the new windblown that requires a minimum of time for setting, or retain some of the old length to have it brushed smoothly and severely to one side or parted down the back and brought forward over the ears. The "bang" treatment and the "honey" hairdo complicate matters even more, for they too are delightfully feminine and yet easy to manage. Hats are designed for the hairdos, so you can't buy that sailor, open or closed crown, beret or cloche, or even the popular curving arc with the hollow filled with flowers until you get rid of hair-bulk.

Handbags featured the handy over-arm style, and the bulky squared type with short handles, but the "clutch" bag is newer and follows the softer trend of fashion. White gloves were the final feminine touch to many costumes.

Stage settings for the show made a picturesque spring garden scene with a distant view of lambs and children playing in the fields in the background. A carpeted runway extended to the centre of the arena where a turntable revolved the models, giving every one an all-around view. Mrs. Clifford Boate and Mrs. Don Aitken were in charge of the work which was all made by hand.

Hal MacFarlane and his orchestra played tunes befitting the costume type.

Amateur Painters Crowding School for Creative Fun

BY MARILYN LAMBORN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, March 5 —(CP)— Art no longer an unapproachable stranger to the man on the street. Tremendous increase in arts class enrolment show that thousands of Canadian doctors, lawyers, business men and housewives have discovered "dabbling" an absorbing hobby as they become acquainted with easel and brush.

Why? Fred S. Haines, principal of the Ontario College of Art--where more than 600 students now are enrolled, against 160 before the war-- says Canadians turn to art because it represents permanency, contrasted with "the current feeling of insecurity."

Art schools are so crowded many enthusiasts must be turned down, while evening classes have doubled in number in many cases. Reports show former servicemen who never before painted anything but the front verandah want to make art their profession.

"Painting makes you feel like a god building a world of your own—the satisfaction of oration, I guess," said Mr. Haines.

L.A.C. Panton, director of the art department of Northern Vocational 3chool here, thinks art acts as a therapy- "like a person swinging his arms to feel refreshed."

Art A Release

"Art offers a release not found iny anything else," he stated. "A person discovers excitement, interest and his own creative ability."

Design is used in so many different fields, art schools attract everyone from dressmakers to engineers. Design is also one of the first things taught art students because it fosters creative ideas and gives a deeper understanding of why life is not always represented on canvas just as it appears to the eye.

Cleeve Horne, Toronto portrait painter, sculptor and vice-president of the Ontario Society of Artists, insists there is no such thing as a "born artist." Creativeness is developed "through knowledge."

"You need intelligence, perseverance and suitable environmental conditions. And with years of experience you develop the sensitiveness and original thought to be a creative artist."

Business men especially should study painting, says Mr. Horne, because it develops original thought.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Saturday, March 6

ADVERSE planetary conditions make this day a rather disturbing and disheartening state of affairs, especially as it pertains to domestic, social, romantic or cultural affiliations, in which enmity, friction and inharmony seem to reign with crushing force. Under such depressing of disturbance it might be difficult to infuse any sort of enthusiasm in business, financial or other serious efforts. Maintain composure or seek joyous diversion or relaxation of an uplifting sort.

✧ ✧ ✧

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may find themselves in a year in which their main efforts should be directed toward composing differences, mending hurts, side stepping friction, insults and possible scandal or slander. This is the result of carelessness, or over-indulgences in pursuit of pleasure. While the affectional or domestic relations are largely involved, other partnerships, finances, credit and property are likewise adversely aspected. Safeguard standing, prestige and health as well as possessions.

A child born on this day while artistically and socially gifted may not find felicity or progress in life, due to its own careless indulgences or errors.

Dessert Often Most Popular Course Part of Any Meal

BY KAY REX
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 5 (CP).—Just once this column is going to throw sobriety to the winds and indulge in a little "sweet talk"--of the dessert variety.

While it isn't the most important part of a meal, dessert often comes close to being the most popular.

And when Junior comes in asking "What dessert are we having for dinner tonight, Ma?"--why not surprise him with gingerbread, topped with "apple snow" sauce?

The sauce is easy to make and may even be used alone as a "light" dessert, following a heavy meal. Here is the recipe for Apple Snow: ingredients: one egg white; two tablespoons sugar; dash of cinnamon or nutmeg; 1¼ cups apple sauce. Beat egg white until stiff, add sugar gradually and continue to beat until mixture stands in peak. Add spice. Fold in applesauce and chill.

As for the gingerbread part of this dessert, there are any number of recipes, but here is one a little different than the average ingredients one-half cup butter; one-half cup brown sugar; one cup molasses; one wine glass of strong coffee; three eggs, well beaten; one teaspoon cinnamon; one teaspoon mace; one teaspoon nutmeg; one tablespoon soda; juice and grated rind of one large orange; three cups sifted flour.

After butter and sugar is well creamed, molasses is added. Sift in the spices with the flour, and add the orange juice and rind with the soda dissolved in it. Beat well and turn into a loaf tin. Bake in a slow oven.

If guests are coming for dinner and you want to surprise them with something new in desserts, here is a treat which will do those crystal sherbet glasses of yours a special credit.

Heaven's delight--ingredients: one-half pound marshmallows; one-half-pint whipping cream; two cups fresh strawberries (the frozen berries may be bought at most groceterias); one-half cup sugar; one teaspoon vanilla.

Whip cream until thick, add sugar and vanilla, and beat slightly. Cut each marshmallow into quarters, add to whipped cream, and set on ice for at least two hours. Stir several times during this period, and then add strawberries which have been cut into small pieces. Let stand for one-half hour before serving. This concoction should be served with small cookies or plain cake.

Brownies are the rich goodies destined to satisfy those "sweet-toothed" guess at the club or church social.

Ingredients: two squares melted chocolate; one-half cup butter; one cup granulated sugar; two beaten eggs; one-half cup flour; salt and vanilla; one cup nuts. Mix in order given and bake in slow oven. Cut in squares while still warm and roll in powdered sugar. (Bake in an eight- inch-square tin lined with wax paper.)

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

FAMILY SCAPEGOAT
Support of Elderly Mother Falls on Youngest Son.

❖ ❖ ❖

DEAR MISS DIX: I am the youngest of three brothers, the older two are married and have nice homes and good jobs. I have borne all the expense off supporting Mother, and I too want to get married. My brothers never think of contributing to Mother's support or of taking her into their homes for a little while.

Dorothy Dix

My future wife agrees to have my mother live with us, but she wants us to be alone for a few months until we can get settled and adjusted to each other. Don't you think that my brothers should at least invite Mother to stay with them for a few months and let me have a little happiness?

ANXIOUS SON.

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER: You certainly are entitled to have a honeymoon alone and also to have your brothers forced to contribute to their mother's support, if they are not decent enough to do it willingly, for it is just as much their duty to take care of her as it is yours.

Try Shaming Brothers

But your case is not an isolated one. In many families some one member is elected to be the goat and he, or she, has to sacrifice his or her life to the greedy, selfish ones who go scotfree. Perhaps if you shame your brothers and their wives for not being willing to take your mother for even a visit, you can make them come across with their quota of help. Not many people would like to have it publicly known that they refused their mother shelter and to help their youngest brother have a happy wedding.

❖ ❖ ❖

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am 26, single and living at home, where I am very unhappy. I am the oldest daughter and have worked since I was 16, and have always given my mother my full week's pay. I just get sick when pay day comes around and all my mother gives me is a measly allowance. I beg her to give me more than $5, but she refuses and tells me to pack my clothes and get out if I don't like it. Out of my $5 that she allows me I can't even have my clothes cleaned decently, and I am ashamed to go out with men because I am so shabby.

I have a few swell girl friends who are always paying for my eats, and I feel guilty to tell them that I haven't any money. They work for their money as I do for mine. My teeth also need plenty of treatment.

Is there any way that I can make my mother give me a little more of the money I earn?

UNHAPPY GIRL.

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER: Yes, there is a way that you can get all of your pay envelope. Just keep it. She cannot take it away from you by force, or law, for a woman of 26 is a free agent. Evidently you have been trampled-over so long that you have had all of the courage and initiative knocked out of you, but the longer you put up with your mother's tyranny and injustice, the less spunk you will have to fight with.

So my advice to you is to back up and assert your independence right now. If your mother really needs help, make her an allowance, but don't give her everything you earn.

❖ ❖ ❖

DEAR DOROTHY DIX: I am a girl of 19. I have been a bridesmaid twice and now I have been asked for the third time. I would like very much to be this girl friend's bridesmaid, but what is holding me back is the saying, "twice a bridesmaid, never a bride."

Is this true, or is it a superstition? I would hate very much to do anything that would doom me to being an old maid.

MARIE.

❖ ❖ ❖

ANSWER: Don't be silly. Being a bridesmaid has nothing whatever to do with your chances of marrying, and I am surprised that any girl with your education should be foolish enough to pay any attention to such an idiotic old saying.

Wider Power Given Guards

TORONTO, March 5.—(CP).—Outgrowth of rioting by prisoners at Burwash reformatory last fall, a bill to give attendants and reform institutions the power of police officers, was introduced in the Ontario Legislature yesterday by the government.

This would give the custodial employee wider powers to arrest than at present in cases where prisoners escape. The bill is to amend the Department of Reform Institutions Act.

Another bill would allow prisoners on industrial farms to be put on any type of work either on or off the farms, providing the location is sanctioned by order-in-council. A similar provision now applies to reformatories. This would amend the Industrial Farms Act.

The move is the basis for a possible compromise.

Farmers In Britain Will Be Slow Recovering Last Winter's Losses

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

LONDON, March 5 (CP). — Agricultural returns for the United Kingdom have reminded the nation in the midst of a mild winter that it will take years to recover from the shattering losses in the storms of 1946-47.

More than 2,000,000 sheep and lambs were lost last winter, along with at least 30,000 cattle and extensive damage to cropland by frosts and floods.

This year the weather has been temperate and farmers who feared their feed supplies would be insufficient to carry even their reduced herds have reported conditions good with spring and new grass in sight.

But a December census showed the total of sheep and lambs was 8,207,000 in England and Wales and 4,886,000 in Scotland, a total decline of 1,900,000 compared with 1946.

The total of cattle and calves was down 55,000 to less than 7,000,000 for England and Wales but the relatively small decline covered all categories except calves of less than one year.

Aid From Subsidy

Agriculture Ministry officials said it was hoped farmers would be encouraged to keep calves to maturity by a subsidy now effective. Farmers will be able to submit calves for subsidy at nine months old, drawing £4 ($16) a head for steer calves and £3 for heifers.

In Scotland about 2,000,000 cattle were reported with an increase of 24,000 in beef animals and a decline of 10,000 in dairy. Government policy encouraged the production of beef cattle and the Scottish returns indicated this program is taking effect.

United Kingdom hog population declined slightly but officials said they noted with satisfaction an increase in the number of breeding sows. Farmers are hopeful additional feed supplies will result from trade agreements like those with Russia and they have maintained at least a nucleus of breeding stack.

Poultry flocks showed an increase of 6,000,000 for the year but remain far below the total reported in 1938. Further expansion will depend on availability of feed.

PATIENT FALLS 60 FEET

LONDON, Ont., March 5—(CP)—An unidentified male patient suffered serious injuries last night when he fell 60 feet from a fifth-floor window to a snow-covered lawn, Victoria Public Hospital officials revealed yesterday.

Trans-Ocean Planes Refuel In Mid-Air Over Atlantic

MONTREAL, March 5 (CP)—Aerial tests in mid-ocean refueling being conducted now over the Atlantic may prove the biggest forward step in long distance air travel since the introduction of four-engine aircraft.

Termed an "historical step in air travel" by Captain James Percy skipper of the first scheduled air liner ever to refuel in the mid-Atlantic, the plans were originated by the British Ministry of Civil Aviation and executed by the British Overseas Airways Corporation.

Capt. Percy, 38, a veteran of 22 years flying and at least five other historic "firsts" in aviation, is supervisor of the entire experiment.

The principle of the scheme, as he explains it, is that—refueling from "tanker" plane outside Newfoundland and Ireland—a trans-Atlantic airliner would not have to "sit down" at Gander Bay and Shannon airports as it now does to take extra gas—thus saving least four hours flying time.

Another advantage is that the airliner can carry a smaller gas load and thus increase her pay load will pay the additional cost necessitated by having a "tanker" operating.

95-Miles Head Wind

The first test flight this month operated against fierce head winds averaging from 60 to 95 miles per hour. Yet, 600 miles off the Irish coast and at 9,000 feet, the airliner kept its rendezvous with in a minute of scheduled time with the "tanker"—a converted R.A.F. Lancaster bomber.

The operation lasted only 16 minutes. The "tanker" dropped just under the wing of the airliner fired a line at another line trailing from the plane to be refueled. The two lines tangled, were caught by automatic grapplers, hauled in, and a gas hose was attached that fed into the airliner a needed 900 gallons.

While all this was going on, the two aircraft were flying at a ground speed of 180 miles per hour.

The next refueling took place above Gander airport—19½ hours after leaving London. The aircraft reached Montreal airport without having once touched ground,

Proof of the efficiency of the system was pointed out by Capt. Percy: no other Trans-Atlantic airliner flying the London-Montreal route got into the airport that night because of sorm. They had been grounded at the various stops along the way as they went in to be refueled.

Plan To Blow Up Part Of New York

NEW YORK, March 5 (AP)—A copy of a "plan" to blow up the city's railroad stations, ferries and newspaper plants reached the hands of police last night—a half-hour after the time set for the blasts.

Although police hadn't heard even one small explosion during the scheduled period of 5 to 5:30, they rushed the word to the supposed danger spots; Pennsylvania Station, Grand Central Station, the main postoffice, Staten Island Ferry Terminal and South Ferry Subway Station.

The Police Commission Arthur Wallander released a description of the "plan" which he said apparently was the work of a crank.

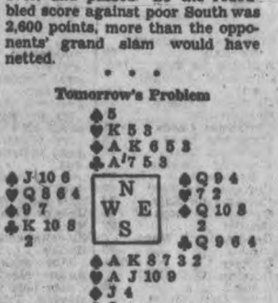
BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

REALLY A FIFTH TYPE

LET'S BEGIN with the four fundamental kinds of hands on which the bidding is opened—1. The sound bid of one in a suit with a fair bit more than average high card strength in the entire hand, 2. The powerful hand justifying a game contract for the pair regardless of how weak the partner may be, 3. The hand extremely weak in high card strength but with such a long suit that an original bid of three or more in it could not be punished too badly and 4. The balanced hand about a trick and a half above average to justify a No Trump opening. Now let's add a fifth type—a hand on which a "psychic" bid should be made.

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 NT	Dbl	Pass	Pass



A "psychic bid" in its most extreme form is what South made on that deal. He was so weak, probably unable to take a single trick, that the opponents, with two-thirds of the remaining cards, were on mathematical probabilities virtually sure to have a game in their hands at some declaration. His 1-No Trump bid was to mislead and obstruct them from reaching their best contract. If they doubled him and beat his head off, their score probably would be less than they could get in a vulnerable contract of their own.

When West doubled this and East passed, South's venture had really borne fruit, if he had stood pat. As it developed, they could take all the tricks, setting him seven for a score of 1,300 points, much less than they could get by playing the deal at a slam of their own. Even a small slam, vulnerable, would have a value of 1,470 with the extra trick, and a grand slam contract would be worth 2,220.

South lost his nerve, however, when he found himself doubled in the 1-No Trump. Instead of passing, he redoubled as an S. O. S. to his partner, asking that the latter take him out in his best suit. North missed the cue, however, and passed. So the redoubled score against poor South was 2,600 points, more than the opponents' grand slam would have netted.

• • •

Tomorrow's Problem

(Dealer: North. Both sides vulnerable.)

After the diamond A, spade A and spade 2 ruffed by the heart K, South finesses the heart J seeking 6-Hearts. Why should West refuse to win?

Alberta Brings Compensation Bill To Session

By The Canadian Press.

Throne speech debates proceeded yesterday in the Ontario, New Brunswick and Brititsh Columbia legislatures while the Saskatchewan House and Quebec's Legislative Assembly continued budget speech debates.

Alberta's Social Credit Government introduced its Workmen's Compensation Act, 1948, one of the major bills of the current session. It incorporates major sections of the existing act, together with the cream of 285 changes suggested in briefs and public hearings by a legislature committee since the assembly's last session. One proposed change would raise minimum basis compensation from $12.50 to $15 weekly.

With the address in reply to the throne speech moved and seconded, the Ontario Legislature adjourned throne speech debate until next Tuesday and prepared to start consideration today of seven government and five opposition bills introduced yesterday.

As budget speech debate continued in the Quebec Legilsature Assembly, the Legislature Council that Province's Upper House, approved the Union National Government's four housing bills and several municipal measures.

Study Housing Problem.

Debated as a group by the Upper House were the housing legislation to sanction a system of housing loans, municipal encouragement of home building housing loans by companies to their employees and a commission inquiry into the housing problem.

Prince Edward Island's legislature approved bills providing $5-a-day salaries for grand juries who previously served without compensation and raised deposit fees of election candidates to $200 from $50.

In throne speech debate at Fredericton, J. E. Connolly (L-Gloucester) appealed for a program of mining development and predicted industrial expansion in New Brunswick.

Youth, 18, Fined Told To Get Job

Raymond Brown, 18, no fixed address, was fined $10 and $2.50 costs or 10 days by Magistrate W. R. Philp in court this morning. He pleaded guilty to a charge of vagrancy.

The youth told the magistrate, in reply to questioning, that he had just returned to the city about a month ago after serving a term at Guelph Reformatory.

"In another 10 days, the weather may be more spring-like," said Mr. Philp, "and I want you to get a job."

It was stated in court that the accused had been sleeping in the railroad stations, restaurants and other places since his return.

NO MAJOR FIRES

Thursday night's cold dip doubtless caused furnaces to be stoked a little higher but no major fires resulted. In mid-afternoon on Thursday a chimney fire was reported from 26 Wolfe St. residence of Stewart Grant. At 9.49 p.m. another chimney fire at 785 Water St., residence of Wilbert Bell caused an alarm to be sent in. No damage in either case.

Obituary

ROBERT G. WINTERS

MARMORA, March 5—(ENS)—Funeral services were held Sunday for a former resident of Marmora, Robert Guy Winters, who died in Oshawa General Hospital on Friday.

A short service at his late residence in Oshawa was followed by a service at St. James' Church, Sutton. Burial took place in Briar Hill Cemetery under Masonic auspices.

Mr. Winters, who had been the CNR station agent here for about seven years, became the agent at Oshawa about 18 months ago.

While in Marmora, he and Mrs. Winters were active members of St. Paul's Anglican Church. He was a member of the vestry council and was past president of St. Paul's Laymen's Association.

He was a member of the Masonic Order. He had been in failing health for some months. He is survived by his wife, formerly Anne Kathleen Birch, of Sutton.

Canada Has Grave Misgivings About Partition Enforcement

By WALTER O'HEARN

LAKE SUCCESS, NY.—It is not an over-statement to say that the position General McNaughton took on Palestine this week rocked the United Nations. Canada, rightly or wrongly, has been regarded here as one of the staunchest advocates of partition.

However, McNaughton came out for Big Five conciliation before any endorsement of partition by the Council. While he said "it would be natural for them to take the General Assembly (partition) resolution as a starting point" he believed that "acceptance of the first paragraph of the US draft should be postponed until the five permanent members have had an opportunity to consult one another and the parties directly concerned.

The first paragraph of the U. S. draft, which the Soviet Union announced it would support, would commit the Council to accepting the principle of partition and the scheme of partition as laid down by the General Assembly.

The Canadian's stand yesterday killed defintely any chance of this immediate acceptance of partition by the Council. Even with Soviet and American backing, it required seven votes. But although it will not be voted upon until tomorrow —a vote may never be taken—it has already been demonstrated that the seven votes are not there.

The United Kingdom will not support it, but will probably abstain. Syria certainly will vote against any mention of partition.

View "Reasonable"

Belgium, Canada and China will vote against it. The Chinese delegate and chairman of the Council, Dr. T. F. Tsiang, made his announcement yesterday after McNaughton had spoken and based his stand on the Canadian's speech, which he found "eminently reasonable." Even without the unpredictable Latin delegates, Alfonso Lopez of Colombia and Jose Arce of Argentina, and even overlooking the fact that China has the power of veto there are enongh votes to kill the immediate adoption of the Assembly's resolution.

Does this indeed mean a Canadian withdrawal from the line taken by Canada before the General Assembly to determine whether it does or not, it is important to go back to November 28 to the final speech of the matter made before the General Assembly by Rt. Hon. J. L. Ilsley.

Mr. Ilsley saaid at that time that the Canadian delegation "with heavy hearts," would support partition" as the best of four unattractive alternatives." He "foresaw bloodshed and violence." Indeed he made it perfectly clear that Canada was not in the least optimistic about a peaceable splitting up of Palestine.

Prior to that speech Lester B. Pearson had taken a leading part in the working group which drew up a partition plan and in the ad hoc committee on Palestine, his whole efforts were directed to getting a maximum agreement between the United States and Russia on the mechanics of partition and in convincing them that they must face up to the interest of the security council in this problem.

A careful reading of the McNaughton statement yesterday does not reveal any abandonment of these essential positions. Canada still favors partition as a starting point in any conciliation discussions— presumably with a heart even heavier than it was in Novemebr. Canada still stressed the need of Big Five agreement—which in this case means US-Soviet agreement—as it did in the General Assembly committees.

But, it may be argued, America and Russia are agreed — on the Security Council adopting partition. They are to that extent, but they are not agreed even on the nature of Big Five consultations and they are seriously at odds on the business of enforcement, if all the rumors here are of any value.

The Canadian position, as taken by the General yesterday, was that it is the proper business of the Security Council to conciliate before it starts to put down breaches of the peace. That responsibility falls most heavily on the Big Five members of the Council and in their discussions they "should not be restricted by any prior decision of this Council."

It may be speculated that Canadians in government and diplomatic circles have, to some extent, revised their opinions in the feasibility of the whole General Assembly plan on partition.

A key to this plan is the phrase used by General McNaughton yesterday "the position taken by Canada is not to be interpreted as in any way repudiating or abandoning the recommendations of the General Assembly on partition with economic union."

That may be taken at its face value. But it is safe to assume that many delegations, the Canadians among them, have the gravest misgivings about the enforcement of partition with economic union at this time. Any sort of economic union, so necessary in the long run to the economy of the Holy Land, requires co-operation. The Arabs, in the mildest interpretation of their stand, require co-operation. The Arabs are intransigeant about economic co-operation with the Jewish state.

The Canadian statement may have been made in the hope that the Big Five after consultation, will still support some kind of partition but a partition formula which cannot be so easily sabotaged by the Arab population.

"The events of the last five months have underlined the necessity of an agreed solution, if bloodshed and strife are to be halted and peace and security established," General McNaughton said.

A Logical Growth

It would be pleasant to report that this view, so reasonably stated, was accepted here in the same reasonable spirit. However, it would not be true. Correspondents here who exaggerated Canada's devotion to the partition are now exaggerating her plea for caution. Viewed in the light of Pearson and Ilsley positions, the Canadian position can be seen as a growth, even a logical growth. Certainly there is no blatant contradiction here. But such impartiality is not frequently found here when a hotly debated issue is before the Council. Pro-partitionists, who wanted at all costs to see their solution approved by the Security Council now, are not at all happy about this plea for delay.

Many Recruits Joining 50th Heavy AA

Gunners of the 50th Anti-Aircraft Regiment, RCA, were hosts to the remainder of the active force of the regiment last evening at an enjoyable smoker held in the gunners' mess. Capt. H. R. Hammell, chairman of the gunners' mess committee, was in charge of arrangements and the informal gathering was well attended by members and their friends.

Games, including volleyball, cribbage, euchre and darts occupied the lads' time during the evening following short preparations for the regiment's second mobile run of the year on Sunday. Refreshments were served by the regimental catering staff during the evening.

The regiment will parade on Sunday morning at 10 o'clock, for a day's training which will include a mobile run to Lakefield, dinner at the Armoury, and the setting down of equipment in the Market Square for further action training, weather and road conditions permitting.

The strength of the local gunners has been increasing by leaps and bounds and already this month some 13 recruits have been documented, bringing the present strength up over 110 strong. Recruiting is continuing on Sunday and on the regular parade nights, Tuesday and Thursday evenings at 7.45 o'clock.

Included among the new recruits are a number of high school cadets of eligible age, who will take the regular unit training as reserve force soldiers, as a group and who will constitute a standing reserve for NCO and officer personnel in the years to come. In addition, many inquiries are being received from the young men of the city who have completed schooling, and from former to keep their hand in in military active service soldiers who want training.

Lindsay Mill Rate Jumps One To 38

LINDSAY, March 5 (ENS). — Lindsay's mill rate for 1948 was struck at 38 mills at a meeting of Town Council Thursday night. The 1947 rate was 37 mills. It was pointed out the chief reason for this increase was due to an $11,000 increase in the estimates of the Lindsay Board of Education. Much of this increase is to go for public school teachers' salaries, as well as for various improvements at the Collegiate, including fluorescent lighting in some rooms and additional lockers for students. It is estimated the lockers will cost $1,000.

Will Double Immigration Quota In '48

Will Allow 100,000 To Enter Canada, Transports Arranged

By KEN KELLY

HALIFAX, March 6 (CP). — Resources Minister Glen today announced Canada's 1948 immigration policy which will virtually double the number of displaced persons and Britons permitted to enter the Dominion.

In an interview, the resources minister, whose portfolio covers administration of Canada's immigration policy, said approximately 100,000 persons will be admitted to the Dominion. Last year 54,687 immigrants came from overseas and a group from the United States.

Mr. Glen said the liner Aquitania is scheduled to make 11 trips to Halifax from England this year and will provide priority bookings for 12,100 British subjects. In addition, the Empress of Canada and the Ascania also will bring priority groups from the United Kingdom.

IN FATAL CRASH—Sidney Trowbridge, 43, CGE employee, shown Left,. was instantly killed when a car driven by William Howes, Right, a night foreman of the CGE, crashed into a standing CNR freight near Omemee this morning. Howes, 48, lives at 373 Queen Street, and is in Ross Memorial Hospital, Lindsay, with serious injuries.

Sidney Trowbridge Killed In Crash Near Omemee, Coming From Hockey Game

Howes Badly Injured, Believed Driving Car Almost Totally Wrecked; All Men Employees At Canadian General

Sidney Trowbridge, 43, Peterborough, died and five others were injured at 1.30 this morning when a Peterborough-bound car, returning from the hockey match at Lindsay, crashed into a standing freight train at the level crossing, about two miles east of Omemee, near the Emily Cemetery.

The car struck a box-car about midway between the wheels, and the impetus of the motor vehicle drove it under the wooden part of the train as far as the windshield, completely demolishing the car. The freight had been on the siding north of the crossing waiting for a south-bound freight to pass. It had backed south across the highway and the engineer was apparently waiting for the brakeman to close the switch when the accident occurred.

The dead and injured:

Sidney Trowbridge, 43, 309 Maitland Ave., killed.

William Howes, 48, 373 Queen St., possible fractured skull, broken arm, and other injuries, in hospital at Lindsay.

Edward Curtin, 284 McGill St., fractured leg and shock, in Lindsay hospital.

Jack Taylor, Port Hope Highway, face cuts, shock, at his home.

J. Ryan, 501 Donegal St., cuts and shock, at his home.

Thomas Martin, Albert St., internal injuries, shock, at his home.

Hospital authorities at Lindsay reported at noon today that Howes and Curtin were both conscious and they were optimistic that both would recover. X-raying of the patients to determine the exact extent of the injuries had not been done at press time.

Totally Demolished

The six men had attended the Legion-Peterborough hockey game at Lindsay, and were returning to Peterborough after the game when

New Wheat Pact Will Cover 5 Crop Years

OTTAWA, March 6. (CP) — Trade Minister Howe announced today that agreement has been reached among representatives of 36 countries on the terms of an international wheat agreement which will be opened for signatures at Washington today.

Mr. Howe said the agreement was in the nature of a multi-bulk contract. Operations would extend over five crop years starting Aug. 1, 1948.

Prices on specified quantities would be within the following price range for Canada, one of the three exporting countries affected:

Basis No. 1 Northern in storage at Fort William and Port Arthur: 1948-49, $2-$1.50; 1949-50, $2-$1.40; 1950-51, $2-$1.30; 1951-52, $2-$1.20; 1952-53, $2-$1.10.

Mr. Howe said equivalent prices were to be fixed on wheat on other locations and other countries.

Canada, the United States and Australia, the three exporting countries, agreed to sell 500,000,000 bushels to the 33 importing countries, if required by them, at the ceiling prices. Canada's share of this would be 230,000,000 bushels.

Czech Army Purged By Communists

PRAGUE, March 6 — (AP). — A purge of Czechoslovakia's army was disclosed today in the Social Democratic newspaper Pravo Lidu.

The newspaper published this paragraph:

"Action committees are not going to intervene in the purge going on in the army. In the case of intervention or doubt, action committees should apply directly to the ministry of defense, and at the same time report to the chairman of the defense committee of parliament."

The paragraph was signed "Slansky." This indicated Rudolf Slansky, secretary-general of the Communist party in Czechoslovakia, was directing the purge.

The Communists took control of the government Feb. 25. Action committees have been purging political parties, parliament, industry, police and cultural bodies, but the army apparently had been let alone up to now.

Alois Petr, minister of transportation, said The Netherlands had halted negotiations to sell Czechoslovakia four-engined airplanes. The country plans to establish an airline to South Africa and Asia.

Three Children Die

OAKVILLE, Man., March 6 — (CP). — Two children lost their lives yesterday when fire destroyed a farm home near Oakville, 35 miles west of Winnipeg. The dead: Russel, three, and Georgina Nicholls, five. Two-year-old Charles Cordell of Port Dalhousie, Ont., smothered to death yesterday when fire gutted the upstairs apartment of Mr. and Mrs. Lawrence Cordell.

Breeches Buoy Saves Crew Trapped On Wrecked Ship

NAUSET ON CAPE COD, Mass., March 6—(AP).—Five of nine crew members were rescued today by a breeches buoy which carried them to this wintry coast across roaring surf after the New Bedford schooner Cape Ann went aground and split at the stern. Four men, including the ship's master, were waiting their turn for rescue on the breaking 82-foot vessel, the United States Coast Guard reported.

The breeches buoy was rigged on the beach after heavy seas had forced back lifeboats trying to reach the battered schooner.

A Coast Guard lifeboat station at Chatham reported the ship broke at the stern and "took quite a lot of water."

The wrecked vessel was not far off shore but the Coast Guard said the men could not try swimming in the huge seas that were running.

A Coast Guard cutter, the General Greene, was unable to get her lifeboat closer than 200 yards from the fisherman.

Motor powered ducks, the amphibious craft used in the war, were also useless.

As the ducks and lifeboats were forced back, Coast Guardsmen on shore set up the historic escape line of sea to shore rescue.

The buoy line was shot aboard the Fisherman and the crew swung one at a time in the rocking canvas seat from the deck to safety on shore.

The Coast Guard said the rescued were "wet and cold but outside of that all right."

Russians To Release All Nazi Prisoners

FRANKFURT, March 6 — (Reuters). — Russia has notified the Allied Control Council that all German prisoners-of-war detained by Russian authorities will be released before the end of 1948, the British Control Commission for Germany disclosed in its January report. A German search-service report published last December said about 750,000 German prisoners-of-war then remained in the Soviet Union.

Flyer Knifes Into Freight

THAMESVILLE, Ont., March 6 — (CP). — Four persons were injured, none severely, last night when a crack Canadian National Railways passenger train knifed into a freight train near the station about 15 miles northeast of Chatham.

Railway men here said the flyer, carrying week-end travellers from Toronto to Detroit, was running 40 minutes late when it apparently hit an open switch and lurched at between 40 and 60 miles an hour into the rear of four empty boxcars attached to the freight engine.

The three rear cars of the Windsor-bound freight absorbed the impact but were smashed to kindling. The passenger locomotive tore for 200 feet through the freight train but halted before it reached the freight engine.

Albert Staley of Windsor, engineer of the passenger train, suffered hand cuts and shock and brakeman Bud Hayes of London, had minor cuts, bruises and a shaking up. Ina Williamson, a schoolteacher returning from Toronto to her Windsor home for the week-end, suffered a forehead gash and a shaking up and another woman passenger, not immediately identified, was cut by flying glass. Staley and Miss Williamson were taken to Chatham General Hospital.

Cabbie Captures Two Robbers

PITTSBURGH, March 6 (AP) —Two house robbers sought in a night-long search by police were captured today still handcuffed together some 10 miles from the scene where they shot down and wounded two radio patrolmen.

The robbers had made their way overland through the hamlet of McMurray where they hired a taxicab. The driver noting they were handcuffed became suspicious and drove into an open gasoline station where two state policemen were checking cars in a widespread search for the gunmen.

One of the robbers was wounded in the right shoulder. Detectives C. S. Johnson identified the men as John Wilson, about 26, and Edward D. Pfi, who was wounded.

Officers Joseph Chymslinski, 26, and George Kercher, 46, were the victims of surprise gunfire from two men they had captured looting a home. The robbers were shackled together and were being herded in patrol cars when one whipped out a revolver and blazed away.

Montreal Firemen Fight 2 Bad Fires

MONTREAL, March 6—(CP)—Fire of unknown origin early today levelled MacVicar Memorial Presbyterian Church in suburban Outremont. Damage was estimated at $300,000.

Shortly after Montreal firemen answered their first three-alarm fire in more than a year, they were called out a second time for a $5,000 blaze at the Biological Institute of McGill University.

Both fires were reported under control at 8:45 a.m. EST. No one was reported dead or injured.

National Liberal Parley To Choose New Leader Will Be In Ottawa Aug. 5

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP). — The national convention to select a new Liberal leader will be held in this city Aug. 5, 6 and 7, it was announced today. The formal convention call, detailing regulations and the qualifications of the delegates, was issued today by Prime Minister Mackenzie King, as party leader, and J. Gordon Foco, president of the National Liberal Federation.

While the announcement gave no inkling of the site in the capital, Federation officials disclosed that the convention will be held in the Coliseum of Ottawa's Exhibition Grounds, where the 73-year-old Prime Minister was chosen as leader 29 years ago in the party's second national convention.

The announcement indicated that in addition to deciding the question of the future leadership the convention also will be asked to consider the party's platform and to discuss the vital matter of the party's organization.

But, while these two questions rank in importance, the spotlight will be held by the historic act of choosing a new leader to succeed Mr. King, who told the Federation's advisory council in January that he felt it wa time a new party head was selected.

In that statement, made at the council's annual meeting, many

5 Tons Arms Seized In Paris

PARIS, March 6 — (AP). — Police said today they have seized five tons of arms destined for Palestine and arrested 15 persons.

They said the chief of the band was Louis Rawa, 26-year-old Polish Jew, who told them he belonged to Irgun Zvai Leumi, Palestine Jewish underground group.

The arms were found in the garage of a moving van company. Police said the company was to take them to Marseille for shipment to Palestine.

The newspaper Paris-Presse said the arms included machineguns, a bazooka, bombs, mines, grenades and 150 rifles.

Map Defence Strategy For Dominions

LONDON, March 6 —(CP)—A system of co-operation "which will measure up to the needs of modern defence strategy" has been established by the exchange of service liaison staffs between the United Kingdom and the dominions, said a British government white paper on defence.

The staffs, appointed to facilitate the exchange of information on defence and for the common study of defence problems, were set up during last year in Canada, South Africa and Australia and soon will be established in New Zealand.

Dominions' liaison officers have been posted to London.

Commonwealth officers and scientists attended November meetings of the commonwealth advisory committee on defence science when "valuable results were achieved."

"It is intended that meetings of the committee shall be held at regular intervals in the several countries of the commonwealth, and these will foster the growing understanding between them of the problems of defence science," the report added.

The white paper said the potentialities of new weapons enhanced the need of greater defence co-operation within the commonwealth.

Schuman Government Wins Seventh Vote

PARIS, Mar. 6 —(AP)— Premier Robert Schuman's government won its seventh vote of confidence early today with the defeat of a bill which would have cancelled France's forced-loan plan.

The assembly rejected the cancellation proposal of Communist Leader Jacques Duclos by a 301 to 285 vote.

The forced loan plan is part of France's "austerity program". It requires Frenchmen to buy 130,000,000,000 francs' ($1,092,000,000) worth of government bonds or pay the same amount in taxes. Finance Minister Rene Mayer designed it to drain off surplus purchasing power.

Dr. MacNamara Dies

TORONTO, March 6.—(CP).—Dr. J. W. MacNamara, clerk of the General Assembly of the Presbyterian Church in Canada, died last night at his home of coronary thrombosis. He was 83. One of the Dominion's best known churchmen, he had been clerk of the General Assembly since 1925 and as minister held pastorates at Drayton and Port Colborne in Ontario.

EXTRA!

OWEN SOUND—Allan Crowe of Owen Sound died in hospital here early today less than two hours after he had been admitted with a knife wound in his neck. Police arrested Arthur Hooey of Owen Sound in connection with the stabbing, but no charge has yet been laid. Mrs. Viola Hooey, mother of the accused, told police Allan Crowe came to their home about two a.m. accompanied by George Currie and Earl Crowe. She said they wanted to go through their home into the adjoining house on the north side, the home of William McComb. Arthur Hooey, who was sleeping on a couch near the door, refused to let them. A scuffle followed in which Allan Crowe was stabbed. Mrs. Hooey said her son went to school with the three youths.

Jews Shell Arabs Near Haifa Harbor

JERUSALEM, March 6 (AP).— Jews in Haifa killed five persons and damaged three buildings severely by firing three-inch mortar shells at Arabs in the harbor area today, police said.

The police report said the fire ripped into the Arab business district near the entrance to Haifa port.

Gen. Sir Alan Gordon Cunningham, British high commissioner, has appealed for the safety of United Nations personnel in Palestine. But the Arab higher committee says they may need more protection.

Six members of the UN secretariat arrived here Wednesday as an advance party of the Palestine partition commission. They have been closely guarded in a "zone within a zone."

Decide Role of Germany Under Recovery Program

LONDON, March 6 —(AP)— The United States, Britain and France have agreed upon international control of the Ruhr and close co-operation to enlist western Germany's assets in the Marshall Plan.

In conferences here the western powers also agreed that western Germany should have a federal form of government, providing adequate central authority but protecting the rights of the various states.

British and American spokesmen have reported "good progress" on plans for expanding Germany's production.

Most of the decision reached will be sent back to the capitals of the three countries for review before being put into effect. These are expected to play a major part in the conference of 69 countries on the Marshall Plan opening in Paris March 15.

The Benelux countries—Belgium, the Netherlands and Luxembourg—sat in on most of the discussions, which began on Feb. 23.

The conference dealt with proposals for merging the French occupation zone with the co-operating United States and British zones and for various forms of control for the industrial Ruhr valley. It took up also the problem of tying Germany's economy into the Marshall Plan for European recovery.

Second Conference

The 16 European countries in the project are to begin a second conference in Paris March 15.

While big-power representatives have been meeting here on Germany, foreign ministers' deputies of the United States, Great Britain, France and Russia have been trying to work out principles for an Austrian peace treaty and agree on what to do with Italy's pre-war colonies.

Informants said their session today will be given over to efforts to break a deadlock on how to give other countries a voice on the Italian colonies, now largely under temporary British administration.

Leave Partition To US And Russia

LAKE SUCCESS, March 6 — (AP) — Solving the Palestine problem seemed today to have been left mainly to the United States and Russia.

After two weeks of cautious debate, the United Nations Security Council late yesterday called on the five major powers to find a method of carrying out partition of the Holy Land into Jewish and Arab states, recommended by the assembly Nov. 29.

Britain announced off the floor that she would not take part in the consultations. China has abstained from much of the voting while France has been reluctant to take a stand.

Princess Elizabeth And Barbara Ann Meet Chat Like School Girls On Palace Visit

LONDON, March 6.—(CP).—Princess Elizabeth and Barbara Ann Scott of Ottawa met Friday in a plush drawing room at Buckingham Palace, giggled and chatted like a couple of school girls, drank tea and talked about skating and horses "and things."

"I curtsied and said 'How do you do! So glad to meet you'," saaid Barbara Ann, Canada's Olympic figure skating champion. "From there on, things went swimmingly. She makes one feel so much at ease. So then we talked about skating, horseback riding (both are expert horsewomen) and the mysterious 'things'."

Barbara Ann went to the palace, accompanied by her mother, for the 15-minute interview at the request of Princess Elizabeth.

In ankle-length chiffon with the "new wholesome look," she dashed from the palace to a Canada House reception and then to the "Hellzapoppin" show.

(The Women's Research Guild of New York recently voted Princess Elizabeth and Barbara Ann among the six most wholesome women of 1947.)

Barbara Ann will fly home to Canada, arriving at Montreal, Sunday.

Finn Parliamentary Groups Split On Russian Pact

HELSINKI, March 6.—(AP).—Finland's parliamentary groups were split today on whether to negotiate with Russia. A government spokesman stressed that the final decision rests with President Juho Paasikivi, who consulted them on their attitudes.

The influential Agrarian party told the president in a letter published last night that it "cannot recommend negotiations" on the basis of Prime Minister Stalin's proposal of nearly two weeks ago for a treaty of friendship and mutual assistance.

The line-up now is:

Four of the six parliamentary groups, representing 101 of parliament's 200 votes, favor negotiations, but oppose any far-reaching military alliance. They are the Social Democrats, who hold 48 seats; the Conservatives, 29 seats; Liberals, nine seats, and the Swedish People's Party, 15 seats.

One group, the Communist-dominated Popular Democrats, support a full military alignment with the Soviet Union. This bloc has 51 seats.

The Agrarians, with 48 seats, oppose any negotiations. A spokesman said that if "we agree to the talks we automatically must agree to pacts such as Hungary and Romania signed."

A government minister said the statements of the various parties should be regarded as "merely reflecting public opinion" in Finland. The president alone, he said, must make the decision on the question of beginning the talks.

Paasikivi had asked the parliamentary groups for their opinions on the treaty negotiations. Any treaty concluded must be ratified by parliament.

A foreign office spokesman told reporters the government's foreign affairs committee will meet today.

Finnish informants predicted that the government would speed deliberations to "take the punch out" of any planned Communist-inspired demonstratons in support of the pact.

Mental Health Clinics Needed Badly

OTTAWA, March 6 — (CP).— Canada is in desperate need of mental health clinics as well as a more comprehensive understanding by the public of the magnitude of the mental health problem in the Dominion, Dr. C. G. Stogdill, Chief of the Health Department's Mental Health Division, declared yesterday.

He addressed the closing session of the second Dominion-Provincial Conference of Health Educators and stressed the necessity for mental health clinics of which there were few in Canada. The main drawback was the lack of trained personnel.

"Many provinces have voted money for the establishment of these clinics, but have to wait until personnel have been trained," said Dr. Stogdill. "We must develop increased training facilities to meet this demand."

Little for Research.

The lack of public understanding of the seriousness of the mental health problem was indicated by Dr. Stogdill in the fact that "although $30,000,000 will be spent this year in the maintenance of mental institutions, less than $30,000 is being spent in research."

The speaker believed the public had little knowledge of the advances made in the treatment of mental sickness and said that 60 per cent of admissions were now being discharged within six months and 78 per cent within a year of admittance. Only a small proportion were returned for further treatment.

Certain mental health "misconceptions" should be eradicated, the mental health expert added. These were that mental illness is a disgrace, that it is hereditary, that it happens suddenly and that "once insane, always insane."

Jury Convicts Welch Manslaughter Count

ST. THOMAS, March 6.—(CP) —Convicted of manslaughter in the poison death last August of his 31-year old wife, Joseph Vernon Welch, 24, will be sentenced next Tuesday.

At the end of his four-day trial on a murder charge, Welch late yesterday accepted the jury's verdict without the flicker of an eyelid. As the jury filed in, he sat stoically in the prisoner's dock, his hands clenching and unclenching.

The only time he showed any emotion during the trial was when he described in the witness box his short-lived summer love affair with a 20-year-old Toronto girl, Julie Parsons. He said his wife's discovery of his friendship with the girl led to bitter quarrels and that his own unhappiness drove him to the brink of suicide. As he recounted events of the day immediately before his wife's death, his voice broke and tears streamed down his face.

King And Queen Will Make Australian Visit

LONDON, March 6 — (CP). — The King and Queen, who visited Canada in 1939 and South Africa in 1947, will tour New Zealand and Australia early in 1949, Buckingham Palace announced Friday night.

Princess Margaret, who travelled with Princess Elizabeth and their parents to South Africa, will also make the Antipodes tour, but Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, will not go.

The tour is in response to invitations from Prime Minister Fraser of New Zealand and Prime Minister Chifley of Australia, issued in the same way Prime Minister Mackenzie King issued his invitation to the King and Queen in 1939 and as Prime Minister Smuts of South Africa did for last year's trip.

The visit, the first of a reigning sovereign to the Australasian Dominions, will make history as did the visit to Canada a few months before the Second Great War began.

The palace statement said:

"In response to a suggestion made by his Prime ministers in New Zealand and Australia, the King has graciously consented to visit these countries in the early part of 1949.

"His Majesty will be accompanied by the Queen and the Princess Margaret."

the tragedy occurred. Apparently the driver of the car who is presumed to be William Howes, as he owned the car, did not see the train standing on the crossing, and the car crashed into it, being almost totally demolished as the chassis slipped under the box-car frame.

Trowbridge was killed instantly, and William Howes, the most seriously injured of the other five, was pinned in the wreckage for some time, before motorists, and the train crew were able to release him.

Howes had to be cut from the wreckage of the car by means of a hacksaw, used by Smithson Nurse, Omemee garageman.

Other hockey fans, following the car hurried the injured to a nearby farmhouse on the south side of the highway, and Dr. Earle of Omemee was called.

All of the men are employees of the fractional motors dept. in the Canadian General Electric Company, where William Howes is night foreman. Mr. Howes formerly worked in the steam plant at the Quaker Oats.

Jack Taylor, Port Hope highway, a supervisor in the CGE is believed to be the least seriously hurt. He had four stitches in his face, and may have some cracked ribs. He drove to the game with a friend, also from the CGE, William Powderly but at the last minute decided to ride back with the Howes' party.

Wreckage of the car was towed to Nurse's garage at Omemee and spectators marvelled at the fact that anyone could come out of the crash alive.

Sidney Trowbridge was formerly employed at the Bank of Montreal and was well-known as a lawn bowler and five-pin bowler.

Mr. Trowbridge was born in Salbury, England, son of the late Alfred Trowbridge. His mother is living. He came to Canada when about three years of age and was educated at Tara, Ontario.

Mr. Trowbridge has been in Peterborough for the past 12 years, employed for five years with the Bank of Montreal and for the past seven at the Canadian General Electric Co.

His wife is the former Ola Parker. There are no children.

An ardent sportsman, he was a member of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club, and on the games committee this year. He played on the team which won the first city trophy some years ago. He was also a member of the City Alley Bowling League and bowled on the CGE team.

Coroner Dr. W. R. Crowe of Lindsay said an inquest will be held.

party adherents felt Mr. King had left the way open for his re-nomination but yesterday he made it even more clear that he plans to quit political life. The picture still was dark as to his possible successor.

Exter Affairs Minister St. Laurent ay has declared that he will s a leadership candidate, providing there is no objection on religious or racial grounds, and is conceded the best chance thus far of winning the approval of the convention.

It is believed Mr. King hopes to preside over the convention that will choose his successor and he is expected to make one clear-cut statement — before the convention opens—turning definitely aside any suggestion that he be re-nominated.

While the leadership question will lead the convention agenda, the issue of party organization also is expected to spark convention debates.

Decide Representation

Today's announcement said representation at the convention would be on the following basis:

1. All Liberal members of the Senate and Commons, and where any consituency is not now represented in Parliament by an adherent of the Liberal party, the Liberal candidate defeated in the last Dominion election, or if a new Liberal candidate has been nominated on or before June 30, such new candidate.

2. Leaders of the Liberal party in the nine provinces.

3. Presidents of the National Liberal Federation of Canada, the National Federation of Liberal Women of Canada and the Young Liberal Federation of Canada.

4. Presidents of the nine provincial associations, presidents and two other officers of each of the provincial organizations of Liberal women and young Liberals; and the president and two other officers of each of the university Liberal clubs in Canada.

5. Three delegates from each Dominion constituency who will be elected at a local convention, to be called for that purpose.

6. Liberal members of each provincial assembly and the Liberal candidates defeated at the last provincial assembly election in each province or new candidates nominated, acting jointly, shall have the right to select from among themselves a number of delegates equal to one-fourth of the total number of representatives in each provincial assembly.

Drew Supports Ottawa In Drive Against 'Reds'

TORONTO, March 6.—(CP).— Ontario government hopes that the Dominion will use its powers effectively to keep Communists out of Canada and to expel those already here in the records today.

Premier Drew outlined his position in the Legislature yesterday in an address which gave approval to the Dominion action to ban Communits from the country. The Premier added only that the move was long overdue.

He spoke in reply to requests that Ontario take steps to prevent any interference with union organizers in the province.

"In spite of carping criticism from some quarters, the truth is that nowhere in the world today are the legitimate interests of organized labor better assured and better protected than they are here in Ontario."

To this reply the Premier added a counter-charge in which he said many displaced persons on arrival in Canada were being intimidated and were subjected to persuasion by Communist officials of certain unions. He implied that he wanted protection for these persons, saying that most of them had come to Canada for the specific purpose of escaping Communism.

Only Pretence

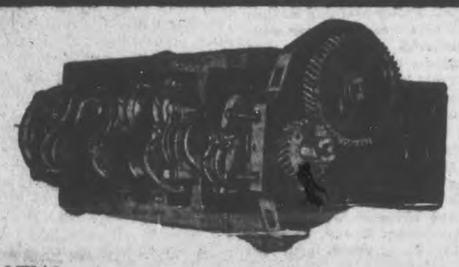
Premier Drew charged that not one of the Communists wants real labor security or industrial harmony despite their surface pretence. They are attempting to undermine the free Democratic system, he said.

He suggested dedication to the task of aiding European countries in freeing themselves from Communism while making certain that it is stamped out in Canada.

The Legislature was told by reform institutions Minister Dunbar that the report on the Burwash reformatory riots would be tabled in the House.

The information was in reply to a question by J. B. Salberg (LPP—St. Andrew), and was coupled with a denial by Mr. Dunbar of a reputed statement that the report would not be tabled.

Eleven bills from the opposition benches — three from the C.C.F., seven from the Labor Progressive group and one from Alex Parent (Ind.—Essex North) supported by the Labor Progressives — were given first reading in the House.



Three government measures dealing with reform institutions, the industrial farms act, and the hotel act, were given second reading.

Power Didn't Believe War Likely With Japan In '41

OTTAWA, March 6 — (CP). — Hon. C. G. Power (L-Quebec South) disclosed in the Commons yesterday that he had told the Royal Commission inquiring into Hong Kong in 1942 that he had not thought war with Japan was imminent before it broke out in December, 1941. At that time he was Acting Minister of National Defence.

In making this disclosure, he was answering a statement made in Toronto last Tuesday by Premier Drew of Ontario to the effect that dispatches received in Ottawa left no doubt of the threat of war, and that Mr. Power had placed this interpretation on them.

Mr. Drew quoted Mr. Power as saying to the Royal Commission: "I felt, perhaps without any sound basis except having read these dispatches, that there was a very good chance of war breaking out with Japan."

After reading this in the Commons, Mr. Power said: "Now, in the very next line of my evidence, in reply to a direct question if I thought war was imminent, I said: 'No, war with Japan is not imminent.'"

An Opposition member objected to Mr. Power making this disclosure from the still-secret evidence of the Royal Commission. He thought it should all come out at once.

"I am in entire agreement," replied Mr. Power. "Premier Drew as well as others concerned should have waited."

90 Attend Tea At Millbrook

MILLBROOK, March 6—(ENS)—The home of Mrs. A. R. Payne was the setting for a spring tea on Wednesday afternoon, when about 90 guests were entertained. Mrs. P. I. Bentley received at the door, and Miss Josie Sutton acted as cashier.

The house was lovely with spring blossoms, and Mrs. McQuade poured tea.

Serving were Mrs. Gordon Baker, Mrs. H. R. Edmunds, Mrs. Lawrence Winslow, Mrs. H. W. Gray and Mrs. H. D. Bigelow; making the tea were Mrs. J. Rowland and Miss Ethel Hatherly. A hot supper was served at 6:30 p.m. at which 10 couples sat down, and the whole party added $35 to the funds of the association of which Mrs. Payne is president, with more money yet to come in.

A business meeting preceded the tea, with the hostess in the chair, when arrangements were made for a baking sale on April 10 with afternoon tea served. A rummage sale will be held in Peterborough on May 15.

Appointed as canvassers for the April event were Mrs. J. H. Might, Mrs. Clarence Ball, Mrs. T. Douglas, Mrs. L. Winslow, Mrs. Edmunds and Miss Sutton. Mrs. McQuade took the opening worship. Mrs. Rowland read the lesson. Mrs. Bentley offered the closing prayer.

Forced Landings Don't Worry Vet

KENTVILLE, N.S., March 6 (CP).—George D. Johnson, an RCAF veteran, considers himself lucky to be walking around these days after subjecting himself to two forced landings in less than a week.

Flying his ski-equipped Piper Cub aircraft here from Caledonia in Cape Breton, Johnson was forced down on Paradise Lake by a bad sleet storm. He had to spend the night on the lake and took off again for Kentville.

A few days later he was down again, this time with engine trouble.

"I was on a trip from Parrsboro, N.S., to Kentville, easing along at about 6,000 feet when suddenly my engine conked out," he said. "But I managed to glide six miles to a landing on the frozen dikeland."

The plane came to a gentle rest a few yards from the Cornwallis River bridge, about a five-minute walk from the centre of this town.

When repairs were made he climbed into the plane and took off again. He had a short taxi run and the engine faltered as soon as he cleared the ground. The plane shot between a woodworking plant and a foundry.

But his luck was still with him. He finally got straightened away and landed uneventfully at the airport he owns and manages at Waterville, N.S.

Treacherous Ceiling Keeps Members Always On Guard

By DOUGLAS HOW
Canadian Press Staff Writer

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP)—A member of parliament and a reporter were having dinner in the sedate and treacherous parliamentary reastaurant.

The report asked the member—off the record—what he thought of the political leadership of his party. The member gave a cold, unflattering appraisal.

Then, his face suddenly dismayed at something he had seen, raised his voice and launched a complete rebuttal of everything spoken. The reporter, suspicious, turned around and spied the leader sitting two tables away. There was no sign that he had heard the original statement, but the member wasn't taking any chances.

Not beneath that majestic screwball of a ceiling.

It does things with words. It picks conversations up and lays them down, sometimes in the most embarrassing places. It makes the politicians, reporters and high civil servants unusually discreet.

The trouble is that the ceiling has five large circular domes carved into it, like inverted saucers.

Because of their shape, someone sitting at a table immediately beneath one extremity of a dome may have his words heard with surprising clarity by someone sitting at the other extremity, a couple of tables away. Meanwhile, the table in between hears nothing.

For reporters, this is a situation not without its possibilities. They secretly cherish dreams of the day the majestic screwball will bear them tidings of a cabinet secret or some other moist tidbit.

But apparently somebody thought of that years ago. The cabinet, usually in a solemn, single-file procession, walks day after day to one of the alcoves in the room and is seated around a large, reserved table of its own. There, they are safe from the traitor domes.

As for Prime Minister Mackenzie King, he doesn't even take a chance. He always eats at home.

STRIKE BLOW AT PARTITION PLAN—Joseph Nisot, Belgian delegate to the UN, left, and A. G. L. McNaughton, Canadian delegate, chat in security council chamber at Lake Success, N.Y., just before the latter addressed the body and told the security council that partition and implementation of Palestine should be postponed until the Big Five make the "supreme effort" to reconcile Jews and Arabs. Nisot was in complete accord with the Canadian's suggestion.

New Atom Bomb?

NEW YORK, March 6 — (AP). — Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, famous atomic scientist, disclosed last night that the first small pieces of a new kind of atomic bomb and fuel metal have been manufactured. The new metal is uranium 233, made by changing the heavy metal thorium into uranium. This statement means the atomic ovens which change uranium into plutonium, also can bake more than one kind of atomic metal.

Reserve Force Of 50,000 Men

SYDNEY, Australia, March 6 (CP).—Preparations for the establishment of a new Citizen Military Force of 50,000 men to supplement the Australian regular army are well in hand.

The army's vigorous recruiting campaign for part-time volunteers for the new force is expected to reach its peak by July this year. As part of this drive Army Minister Chambers has announced that the CMF pay and allowances will be the same as for the regular army.

Making the announcement, Mr. Chambers said he hoped the good conditions and increased rates of pay offered would attract more men to the force.

Army publicity chiefs are using pay as one of their brightest baits to get recruits, but former commander-in-chief of the Australian army, General Sir Thomas Blamey, scorns the idea and believes it will have no useful bearing on Australian defence.

"Total Mobilization"

"It is just a window-dressing move," said General Blamey. "It won't solve any of our problems because it is not fundamentally sound . . . Everybody knows the only defence plans that make sense in these days are plans that provide for the total mobilization of a nation — plans for the most effective mobilization of everyone in the community."

Daily rates of pay for single men of the CMF are: private, $1.60 to $2.40; corporal, $2.08 to $2.72; sergeant, $2.88; staff sergeant, $3.12; warrant officer (2nd class) $3.36; warrant officer (1st class) $3.52.

Rates for officers are: lieutenant, $4.16; captain, $5.12; major, $6.24; lieutenant colonel, $8 to $8.64; colonel, $10.24 to $11.04.

Non-commissioned officers from the rank of sergeant up get an allowance of 24 cents a day for skill and an extra eight cents a day after serving two years in the ranks.

Marriage and other allowances provided for by army pay regulations will be paid to CMF members when at training camps or on instruction courses.

ARABS IN READINESS—A huge Arab convoy has been reported gathering in the hills of Syria, just across the border from northern Palestine. Sources in Damascus indicate an invasion is near. Short Course In 'Art' Ends With Dunking Strip-Tease Dancer Gets Dumped In Pond

BATON ROUGE, La., March 6 —(AP) For her revealing enterprise in offering university students here a short course in a very liberal art, "Stormy," the strip-tease dancer, got dunked.

"Stormy," whose real name is Stacie Lawrence, came up from New Orleans to present a few bare facts to students at Lousiana State University. She even brought a band along.

Using the visual instruction technique while some of the boys yelled "take it off," Stormy" got down to a bra and a pair of panties.

At this point a group of muscular young men hustled "Stormy" off and dumped her in a knee-deep pond.

She emerged to cloak herself in a fur coat and comment that "boys will be boys." Finally, "Stormy" took refuge in a campus police sub-station. At this point she was rescued by members of the football squad and the police.

In the ensuing melee the band had its piano smashed and the truck in which it was carried pushed away. When last seen a group of students were merrily shoving it around and singing. Later one wheel was found on the second tier of the football stadium.

Some students said they resented "Stormy's" performance of a strip-tease in the presence of coeds.

The Peterborough School Reports

We have received and read with interest the Inspector's Report on the Peterborough Public Schools for 1947, and the Principal's Report on the Peterborough Collegiate and Vocational School for 1946-47. Detailed comment on these reports is not necessary in these columns, but we are happy to tell those among our readers who have not direct access to the reports that they contain a record of excellent activity carried on under difficulties. Both our public schools and our high school are too small for the numbers of pupils who attend them, and although additions are now near completion at two of our public schools they will not ease the strain completely.

* * *

Further building plans for the extension of our local schools will have to await the findings of the Royal Commission on Education. It may be that the solution for our difficulties here will lie in the building of an Intermediate School—that is, a school which accommodates those children in Grades 7, 8, 9 and 10 who do not mean to go beyond the tenth grade in their education. There are many children in our schools who intend to leave school as soon as they are sixteen years old—that is to say, as soon as they can legally do so. The education which they require can be given to them less expensively in an Intermediate School than in the P.C.V.S. This is not to say that they would receive inferior education in an Intermediate School; but such a school could attend to their needs less expensively than the larger school which is adjusted to suit the demands of children who intend to complete their academic or vocational education. Children who mean to leave school when they are sixteen do not, as a rule, enroll for vocational education, and they slow the pace of the academic classes.

* * *

The city's growth has greatly increased the work of our schools, and we are faced with the task of giving the best education possible without embarking on too ambitious a building program. Perhaps an Intermediate School would remove the necessity for further large additions to our public schools, and an extension to our collegiate.

The 1948 Session Of The Ontario Legislature

The Ontario Legislature opened on Wednesday with the usual lack of pomp except for the Lieutenant-Governor's cocked hat and ceremonial raiment. Lieutenant-Governor Ray Lawson's Speech from the Throne forecast the business of the session as devised by the Drew Administration: increased expenditures on education, an extension of the geological survey program, the Hydro plans, highway construction, enlarged forestry research activities, assistance to gold mining communities, establishment of a permanent Research Council for Ontario.

These last two items lead us to wonder if the Ontario Government is not nibbling too far afield. Gold mining in Canada is not an Ontario monopoly. Even if Mr. Drew was disappointed that the Federal Government did not devaluate the Canadian dollar for the benefit of the mining interests, he should not attempt to create special Ontario subsidies for them. Research is an increasingly important and urgent activity which requires government support. The National Research Council has great tasks and copes with them greatly. It would seem better to have research centralized, and if the Ontario Government wishes to encourage research work, we suggest that it could better be done by co-operating with the existing National Council than by establishing a permanent Ontario Council.

The present session of the Legislature will be as lively and important as the Conservative members make it. It is unfortunate that the Liberal and C.C.F. representation is so small as to provide no really effective Opposition. A strong Opposition is vital to parliamentary government. It will be interesting to see how long the session lasts. There is a pronounced tendency for provincial legislative sessions to become shorter and shorter. The result is that more of the government is being carried out by orders-in-council and ministerial direction. It is a regrettable trend.

Of Human Rights

Words and declarations of rights cannot alone create political freedom and guarantee human rights. Magna Charta would not have been the great instrument it was and is, had the barons at the field of Runnymede not been able to force King John to accept it. The Declaration of Rights of 1688 would have been a document of little worth if Parliament had not gained power over the Stuarts and established, under it, William of Orange as a constitutional monarch. Nevertheless, long after the disappearance of the conditions which made Magna Charta and the Declaration of Rights imperative instruments, these documents still remain potent bulwarks of freedom and clarions of justice.

The Commission on Human Rights established by U.N.E.S.C.O. drafted last December both a Declaration and a Covenant. The first is a call for freedom; the Coverant is designed for governments to sign and abide by. The conditions of the world make neither the Declaration nor the Covenant immediately practicable. They may even make them seem quixotic. Nevertheless, like Magna Charta and the Declaration of Rights, the Covenant can play a long-term role in the struggle of men and nations for freedom.

A Sub-Commission appointed to consider Freedom of Information met in January at Lake Success. In conformity with the main Declaration and Covenant, this group of publishers, editors and journalists (including C. V. Ferguson of the Montreal Star) attempted to draw up a document to frame that freedom which, according to the words of a General Assembly resolution, is the touchstone of all the freedoms to which the United Nations are dedicated.

The Declaration states:

> Everyone shall have the right to freedom of thought and expression: this shall include freedom to hold opinions without interference; and to seek, impart and receive information and ideas by any means and regardless of frontiers.

The Covenant is a formulation of the Declaration in specific terms. The most debatable clause begins with the sentence "The right to freedom of expression carries with it duties and responsibilities", and includes restrictions on the absolute freedom of the press. The American representatives objected to these. This is understandable because the British - American - Canadian tradition and experience is that the press itself exercises a high degree of responsibility. The Europeans, ardent liberals who forced the inclusion of the limiting clauses, learned before and during the war that many of their papers had no sense of social or patriotic responsibility. They had seen the dangers from their own fascists and wanted safe-guards against them.

Declarations of freedom have little direct force against fascists or communists. They are beacons for liberals; they can kindle hopes and ideals; they can rouse men who are shackled and give them strength to resist oppression. They have to do with ideas and the realm of the spirit and therefore have a validity which will outlast and surpass political cliques and dictators. Canadians nurtured in a free society have difficulty understanding the power of ideological documents; Europeans who have experienced bondage value them.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Almost any day's news offers evidence that it is just as easy to beat swords into plowshares as it is to turn a price spiral into a toboggan slide.

A Chicago woman is trying to get others to join her in fasting, as a protest against the high cost of living. We refuse. We like food better than we like money.

"Hydro" comes from the Greek word meaning water. Therefore, any relation between the Hydro System and the hydra—the fabled many-headed snake—is purely political.

March's entry could hardly be described as leonine, so if there's any truth in the old saying its exit will not be lamblike. However, since the month did come in like a bad-tempered wildcat, it should depart as gently as a yearling ewe

Diary Of Winter Depression

By SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

SUNDAY: Saw a Dalmatian dog today—one of those curious spotted animals which used to be called "blotting-paper dogs" when I was a boy. They used also to be called Coach Dogs, presumably because it was the smart thing to have one bounding along the road after one's coach, getting even more spotted from the spatter of the wheels. But of the three names I like "blotting-paper dog" best. It suggests that a Dalmatian has literary qualities not given to other dogs—that it lends itself to use as an auxiliary penwiper, or to rolling gently on large manuscripts. The average dog is a nuisance to a writer, as it lies on his feet, snuffling, coughing and having bad dreams, while he tries to collect his thoughts. No dog has ever whispered poems into its master's ear, as was the case with Victor Hugo's cat, but at least the Dalmatian has tried to make itself useful in the study.

✧ ✧ ✧

MONDAY: Was talking this evening to an nineteenth century Liberal who accused me of being an eighteenth century Tory. This was because I had been holding forth at some length about the conspiracy against the home life of our nation on the part of the medical professional and the nurses. There was a day when a man took pride in the fact that he was born in the house in which he lived, and looked forward with confidence to dying in the same house, and perhaps even in the same bed. This gave a richness of association to a dwelling which has entirely been destroyed by modern medical usage. Babies are now born in hospitals, and there is a powerful and subtle move on foot to persuade everybody to die in hospitals. My desire is to die in my own bed, leaning back on a heap of pillows, wearing a becoming dressing-gown and a skull-cap, blessing those of whom I approve, gently rebuking my enemies, giving legacies to faithful servants, and passing out clean handkerchiefs to the weepers; I should also like a small choir to do some really fine unaccompanied singing within earshot. But will I be able to stage such a production in a hospital? Never! I'll be lucky if the nurse answers the bell in time to jot down my last words.

✧ ✧ ✧

TUESDAY: Every year at this time I am seized with despair and taedium cordis because of the length and dreariness of the winter. I like winter well enough. When the first snow falls I clap my hands and jump up and down as merrily as any child. But after three months of cold weather I have had enough, and I long for mild winds and daffodils. In our winter we live in the atmosphere of a nineteenth century steel-engraving, in which everything ranges between black and white in tones of grey, and in which every twig stands out against its background with the scratchy clarity of a bad etching. Everybody must be familiar with those horrible steel engravings of Winter which our grandfathers admired so much. In them tiny figures of men and women, bundled up against the severity of the frost, seem dwarfed by gaunt trees and smothered by billows of snow. I can live in such an atmosphere for a time, but in March my heart sinks, and I begin to wonder if I shall live till Spring — which may confidently be expected in Eastern Ontario about the 15th of June. The expression of anguished despair which is characteristic of Canadians may be attributed to this yearly struggle, I think.

✧ ✧ ✧

WEDNESDAY: Feeling as I do about the Winter, I do not respond too well to the propaganda in favour of the Appeal for European Children which is appearing everywhere. These pictures of starved boys and girls and dying babies make me feel very badly, but they do not encourage me to give to the cause; they discourage me, in fact, from doing anything but sit in the ashes of my hearth, groaning and wailing. I had to make a very determined effort today to drag myself to the bank in order to add a pittance to the fund....I think that a lot of propaganda fails in this respect. Instead of concentration on the positive aspects of a worthy effort—pictures of hungry children being fed by competent workers, for instance, or babies getting the milk they need—they harrow us with pictures of horrors. Being harrowed does not make me loosen my purse strings. Only the consciousness that something good is being done to which I can contribute does that. Propagandists take note.

✧ ✧ ✧

THURSDAY: Fetching in my garbage can today I slipped on a bit of ice, did a neat somersault in air, and landed smack on my can, crushing it right out of shape; heavy work with a crowbar will be needed to open it again, and I may be driven to the extremity of buying a new one. It is to this degree of ineptitude that winter depression has brought me....Did a shameful thing today; I own several elegant fountain pens, the gifts of kind folk who wish to ease my labours. Some of them have flashlight attachments for writing in the dark; one will write on the bedsheets, so that I can make notes in the night if I please without getting my hands cold; the very meanest of them will write under water (so that I may scribble bright ideas on the floor of the bath tub). But, cranky wretch that I am, I do not like any of them, for their nibs are not flexible enough to suit me, and so today I rushed forth and bought a cheap pen with a nice squishy nib, and am happy at last. People who merely sign their names to typewritten documents don't need flexible pens. But I do.

FRIDAY: Train journey today through the hinterland of Eastern Ontario; left the Cannon Ball (35 m.p.h.) at Sharbot Lake, and took the Rocket (6 m.p.h.) which proceeded at the pace of a glacier to Tichborne and there came to rest for the better part of an hour. Quite enjoyed this journey, which I take at least once each year, and which enables me to read two or three of those meaty Victorian novels which cannot be tackled unless one has a great deal of time at one's disposal. Read "Middlemarch" and "The Mill on The Floss" and was just getting toward the end of "Adam Bede" when the train drew into Kingston.

✧ ✧ ✧

SATURDAY: The city of Kingston, I find, is in a state of uproar about some pigeons which have been making their home there. The enraged citizenry want these birds driven away. I think that this is a mistake; after all, Venice rests much of her fame as Queen of the Adriatic on her pigeons, and the Queen of Dead Man's Bay might come to do the same, in time. Personally I feel that pigeons have an honoured place in any democratic society, and every time a pigeon drops a good juicy mess on the graven image of a politician, or the dome of a cathedral, or the office of an insurance company, we are all reminded of the vanity of human aspiration, and of the biological limits which Providence has imposed upon our spiritual ambitions. Indeed, if the pigeons are to be chased from Kingston, I suggest that they be taken to Ottawa and encouraged to fly about wildly in the Commons chamber. The politician who can preserve his dignity and equanimity under such circumstances is obviously a leader, whereas he who trembles before a trifle of guano is a poltroon, and will never survive the hurly-burly of a statesman's life.

THE SHADOW ON THE DOOR

Letter To The Editor

DISPUTE IN ALLIED LABOUR COUNCIL

Sir: As Past President of the Allied Labour Council of Peterborough, I thoroughly condemn the attitude of the Council Publicity Committee, and the Recording Secretary for allowing the controversial motion; (re—the expression of views in the Examiner by Rev. Dr. Semple, Rev. Morgan and Rev. Moore) to be sent to the press for publication.

The motion was an open letter on the matter be sent to the Examiner was decisively defeated; therefore, that ought to have ended the subject.

However, it would seem that there are various ways being used to put before the public the opinions of certain members of the council, while withholding the expressed views of those opposed.

Democracy is a grand expression of an ideal of living, therefore, I assume that it is my privilege to express the views of those who spoke against the motion.

"Let us stop talking in riddles. Let us face the truth and call things by their names", so said H. Leggett in his opening remarks; "there will always be wars and rumours of wars"; which drew a comment from Mr. Southgate that "We scrap the "United Nations". Let Russia look after Russian affairs, Canadians have the freedom of looking after theirs.

Mr. Whibbs said that he "would not criticize Rev. Dr. Semple's remarks", but did not say that he supported his views, his meaning was that he supported the views of those who opposed the motion.

The function of the Council is to deal with the economic and labour problems of the workers in Peterborough and co-ordinate our efforts with like-minded groups of citizens for the social well-being of all; let us not lose sight of the democratic ideals upon which the Allied Labour Council was formed, and let it be used as a doormat for the introduction of ideals and opinions that are foreign to our way of life; none of us desire war, but let us not lose sight of the fact, that expansionists build upon the ruin and charred bones of the fallen.

It will be better for the workers in Peterborough and in Canada if they concentrate their efforts to the present problems which confront them, without being fooled into division by demagogic ideals which promise to bring about Utopia overnight.

Yours truly,
JOHN BEGGS.
President Local 293, U.P.W.A., Quaker Oats.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The report of the Allied Labour Council meeting was not, as Mr. Beggs seems to think, sent to this paper, but was written by a member of our staff who was present. For some time The Examiner has sought permission to report these meetings, as they are of interest to a great number of our readers.

A Bible Message

(From the Authorized Version)

Then answered Jesus and said unto them, Verily, verily, I say unto you, The Son can do nothing of himself, but what he seeth the Father do: for what things soever he doeth, these also doeth the Son likewise....I can of mine own self do nothing: as I hear, I judge: and my judgment is just; because I seek not mine own will, but the will of the Father which hath sent me. (John 5: 19, 30.)

✧ ✧ ✧

Jesus went unto the mount of Olives, And early in the morning he came again into the temple, and all the people came unto him; and he sat down, and taught them....

Then said they unto him, Who art thou? And Jesus saith unto them, Even the same that I said unto you from the beginning. I have many things to say and to judge of you: but he that sent me is true; and I speak to the world those things which I have heard of him....

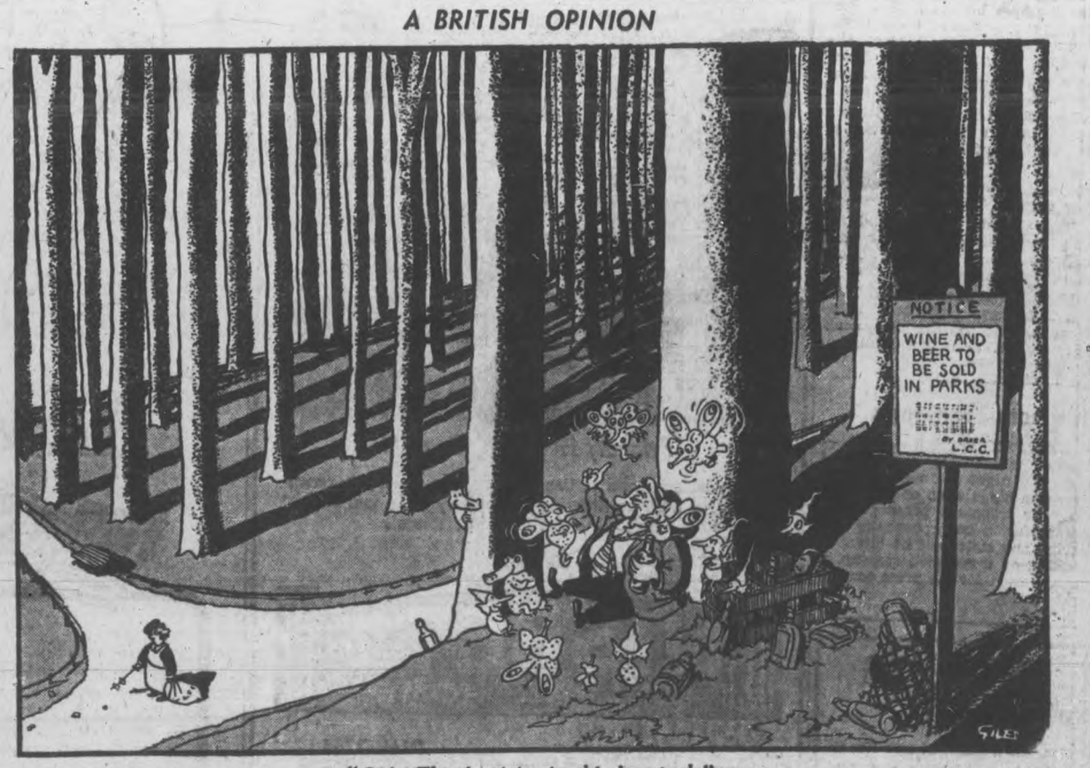
Then said Jesus unto them, When ye have lifted up the Son of man, then shall ye know that I am he, and that I do nothing of myself; but as my Father hath taught me, I speak these things.

And he that sent me is with me: the Father hath not left me alone; for I do always those things that please him. (John 8: 1, 2, 25, 26, 28, 29.)

✧ ✧ ✧

And such trust have we through Christ to God-ward: not that we are sufficient of ourselves to think any thing as of ourselves; but our sufficiency is of God. (II Cor. 3: 4, 5.)

Leather Ration



All ideologic differences aside, we can't help being sorry for the undernourished Russians these days.

Their terrible plight comes straight from the horse's mouth—if we may refer to dear old Pravda, the Commie broadsheet, in this informal fashion.

"Footwear being manufactured these days," grumbles Pravda, "is not only shoddy, it is frequently tasteless, also."

Of course, if only it is tasty, there is nothing more enjoyable for the "piece de resistance" of a Russian dinner than a nice, boiled boot. But with the taste gone, what have you? Nothing more than a soggy mess of soles and (ahem!) 'eels....—Windsor Star.

A BRITISH OPINION

"Oi! There's pixies in this 'ere park."

Indulging In Pastime of Gossiping Or Buying an Airgun, Contrary To Law

By BOB BUCHANAN

The average "law-abiding" Canadian adult, it may surprise some to learn, is a consistent law-breaker. Mr. Average Citizen, in the normal course of his existence, manages to commit an asounding number of offences against the Criminal Code, the Highway Traffic Act, the Bylaws of his city and county, and various other tomes which contain the rules which govern our activities with varying degrees of control.

Nor does John and Jane Doe commit these offences with any intention of doing wrong. They are of the opinion that they are fine, "solid," law-abiding citizens, secure in that belief, because they have never been called to task for their sins. The majority of these wrong-doings are not prosecuted because they do not, in reality, constitute any danger to the peace or serenity of the community.

The reason for this is not due to laxity on the part of the law-enforcing bodies. The police must govern themselves by common sense, in effect, they must "wink" at the thousands of daily deeds which may run contrary to the letter of the law, but which do not offend the spirit of that immense valume of "dos and don'ts" which make up our written law.

Airguns Are Illegal

Doubtless, many doting aunts would be shocked if they were compared to Al Capone, but they are at least in the same book with the Scarface when they present 13-year-old nephew Johnny with a shiny new airgun. The Criminal Code says, most decidedly — it illegal.

It is not only the law of safety which is offended when some enterprising hunter demonstrates a hair-raising woods adventure by pointing a gun at his listeners. The Code take a "dim view" of the whole performance, too. The fact that it is unloaded makes no difference. A court is empowered to give a month in jail to anyone who wishes to make an issue of the thing.

While on the subject of firearms, it might be well to warn imaginative gun-owners who read the "comics" that it is also unlawful to put a silencer on a gun, unless you have a mighty good reason and can prove it.

It is not wise to play too well the role of the obliging friend in regard to your guns, either. The law thoughtfully provides another penalty for lending a weapon to an unlicensed person. The lender, as well as the borrower, stands to be convicted.

Year For Gossiping

The prevalent and popular pastime of gossiping — (and what person doesn't indulge!) — can earn for a zealous practitioner of the art a solid year of contemplation at government expense and tax-free. Section 136 of the Code provides this stiff jolt to any who spread "false news" whereby "injury or mischief is or is likely to be occasioned to any public interest." That broad definition could fit a lot of cases.

This section, taken from the Criminal Code of Canada, should be of interest to those misguided "practical jokers" (known with affection by every reporter) who take keen delight in giving newspapers false news which may be taken — and printed — in good faith. This dangerous practice, which is, in most cases, detected before it is published, can cause embarrassment to the persons concerned and, in ome cases, financial loss to the newspaper. This may add to the "fun" which the instigator of the tale derives, but his laughter may be short-lived if this section should be charged again him.

It is not generally known, also, that advertisements or notices sometimes displayed, bearing the "no-questions-asked" clause can be rather expensive — $250 for each such notice. The reasoning behind the provision is that, in effect, the notice is a means of telling someone who has committed a criminal offence that the advertiser will "look the other way" in regard to his duty to see that the criminal is brought to book for his offence.

Summer or winter, our allegedly law-abiding citizen may be breaking the laws of the land. In the summer, a little fling of "back-to-nature" sunbathing in the privacy of the backyard may bring a charge of indecent exposure if some sensitive soul should chance to spy you there.

Fishing Through Ice

In the winter, where fishing laws permit, the sport of fishing through the ice can break the serenity of the Criminal Code. It may appear "killjoy-ish" to mention it, but Section 287 grimly threatens jail or a fine — or both — to anyone who cuts a hole in ice "on any navigable or other water open to the public" and leaves it there unenclosed. (At this point, the Code assumes the role of a How-To-Do-It volume by detailing just what sort of an enclosure the learned legislators had in mind to be built around the ice-hole). If the hole concerned is large enough to create a danger of anyone "falling, riding, driving, walking or skating" into it, the law can call up the guilty person to answer for his act.

The persons — there is one in every office — who have the initiative and organizing ability to arrange those commonplace little hockey draws, baseball draws, weather draws, and what-not draws at 25 cents per ticket — are usually upright member of the community, and very nice people, in the biased opinions of their friends and acquaintances. However, unknown perhaps even to themselves, they are double-dyed scoundrels according to section 236 of the omnipresent Code, which allows the sizeable punishment of two years' imprisonment and a $2,000 fine for this heinous offence.

(This case perhaps best illustrates the mentioned reason for these nominal offences not being prosecuted — the letter of the law, but not the spirit, has been violated. To enforce such petty incidents would require a policing force twice the size of the policed population).

Undoubtedly, the leader on the "Hit Parade of Unlawful Things Done By Lawful People" is Section 39 (3) (a), which, being interpreted, is the paragraph dealing with coming to a full stop before entering a through highway. The wording is clear, and there are no execeptions. In other words, here is at least one law which is broken thousands of times every day. And it makes most of the motorists petty law-breakers.

Have you ever made a train trip and passed the time in the smoker with your travelling companions with a few innocent hands of poker? If so, consider yourself one of a league of fugitives from justice — in this case, the justice of 23 4(a). Designed to protect the unwary traveller from the professional card shark, it is worded, necessarily, to include everyone, and, except for the commonsense application which our policing services make, it could embroil thousands.

The sections of the Code dealing with gambling, its control and punishment, are lengthy and stern. A cynic would probably find food for thought in them, noting that the men who wrote the law must have been club-members. At any rate, a club is the most privileged spot in regard to gambling under these regulations, which detail some of the conditions under which gambling can take place.

Law Permit Use of Strap

It will probably come as a stroke of bad news to all school-age readers to learn that the law permits the use of that evil weapon — the strap. Teachers are protected in their rights to use reasonable force as a corrective measure.

The slip-shod motorist who does not wash his car may think that to be his business and would be quite indignant if the law tried to take part in a cleanliness drive directed at his jalopy. In at least one respect they can, though. The Highway Traffic Act makes it an offence to allow dirt to accumulate on license plates so as to obscure the numbers. Nor is one permitted to carry any load which may hang down and hide the digits.

In the matter of lights, the motorist is definitely restricted in applying any artistic trend he might have towards color schemes. For example, if he, in his wisdom, decided on headlights which threw a light pink beam on the left and a pretty turquoise blue on the right, he might hear about it from the traffic cop. The Act tells us we have a choice of three colors for our headlight: white, green or amber. On the back, only a red light is permitted.

It is also illegal to carry a red light on the front of the car. This privilege is reserved for such vehicles as ambulances, fire and police and emergency vehicles of public utilities.

You may not believe it from the noises heard in the night along most streets at some time or other, but it happens to be against the law to drive a car without a muffler. The authors of the Highway Traffic Act have shown a working knowledge of the mechanics of nuisances of the road. They specify: " . . . and no contrivance for leasing such muffler shall be attached to the motor vehicle so that it may be operated from any seat in the motor vehicle . . ."

The examples given and many others which are similar in their scope — and their almost universal practise — were written to take care of conditions which might arise and which would give police the authority to act to correct the conditions.

They do have full force, however, and can read to a conviction when they are proved, which would be a simple matter in many cases if the police decided to use them.

If you haven't heard of some of them, and if the police should bring you up on a charge under any one of them, there will be small comfort in Section 22 of the Criminal Code:

"The fact that an offender is ignorant of the law is not an excuse for an offence committed by him . . ."

At least, there is one law of which everybody has heard!

Outdoors

With PETE McGILLEN

EVER HEAR OF the "borrowed days"? Well, the Irish setlers in this country had a story that March couldn't kill the old cow in its allotted 31 days, so borrowed three more from April to finish her off. The old-timers had a healthy respect for the vagaries of this month, the tricky period between winter and spring. Old people in particular would get close to a south window to soak in the sunshine, but they stayed indoors. Nowadays too many people take the sharp March sunshine as proof positive that spring is here. They lay aside the vitamins, the cod-liver oil, the rubbers and goloshes. Some even change to light underwear. They forget that some brigand of a germ is lurking on a nearby lamp-post or perched on their desk ready to spring. Before they know it, the microbe has a stranglehold on them, and they are laid out for a few days. "Beware the Ides of March"—Tsk, Tsk. It should read beware all of March.

STILL IT'S HEARTENING to see the warm sun spearing its sharp beams into the drifts along the north side of the roads and railways. The old earth is warming, ready to throw off its wintry mantle and blossom forth with its benediction of green. The rabbits and muskrats are mating, the sap is flowing in the sugar maples, the crows are calling from the swamps. Huge chunks of ice are breaking off the serried edges of the main floes in the rivers, and the channels get a little blacker with open water every day. In the bayous of Louisiana and Florida, along the lower Mississippi and on the Gulf of Mexico, the wild ducks are getting restless, spurred by an instinct which says "head north and find a loved one". Soon the little groundhog will be born deep in some hillside burrow, there will be many blessed events in the skunk family, and the wolves and bears will be engrossed in the manifold cares of motherhood. The great Canada Goose, monarch of game birds will be stretching their necks and sending whoops to the heavens. These birds will head north, many of them widows or widowers, for the noble bird mates but once, and then for life. The mateless ones act as pilots for the younger birds and as sentinels during the nesting season.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

A PETITION is being circulated urging that the deer season be changed to open the first Monday in November. Why all the hullabaloo? Why not just pick the man who can anticipate the weather from November 1 to November 15 and let him set the opening date. A lot of these old-timers should get a kick in the britches. They have been hunting for 40 seasons and even when the season opened on November 1, there were times when they had to break ice to get out of camp. What's biting these jokers? Maybe they are just roaring to hear themselves roar, but did they ever stop to consider that any man who decides to cross a chain of five or six lakes to reach his hunting ground must realize he is taking a chance on the weather. When a petition bobs up, most people would like to tell the truth, but they'd rather be courteous—so they sign.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

PETITIONS ARE A LOT of plain guff. Why I recall one time a petition was circulated in the city to unseat an alderman. One woman asked the alderman to sign it, not knowing who he was. He signed and didn't even look at it, which should prove something. Here's another angle. Why get a bunch of signatures from men who wouldn't know a 30.30 from a wambeazle, or a buck from a Hereford bull? If a true expression is required, questionnaires could be sent to every man who bought a license in 1947—the names are on the license stubs. But what would that prove? No, sir, the Minister of Lands and Forests and his veteran colleagues can pick the best dates they know, and still some people will howl blue murder. Last year the season opened in this area on the Monday nearest Nov. 10, which happened to be November 10. Following the same rule the season would open this year on Nov. 8. What's wrong with that? If we have a fall like the last one it will be perfect—but it could be miserable. That's in the lap of the gods—and the officials of the Dept. of Lands and Forests are men—not gods.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

UP IN PARRY SOUND its another story. I believe those people have a legitimate complaint. If the Monday nearest Nov. 10 in this area is too late, what about that northern section. The big outfitters and the Chamber of Commerce at Parry Sound will ask the Department for an earlier open season and they get a supporting vote from me. There is a sour note from the north, though, and the wiseacres who are asking that the game preserve be thrown open might well hearken to it. Len Fisk, secretary of the Chamber of Commerce writes me that the deer population in the north is dangerously low. They have no Crown Game Preserve to assure them of an adequate deer population. The demand according to the information from Parry Sound will be for a half-season, one week instead of two. All the hunters from the Peterborough district, and there are many who hunt near Pakesley, Loring or the Pickerel river section recognize that deer up there are being slowly but surely exterminated. They are unanimous, too, in a demand for a season starting not later than the first Monday in November.

✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦ ✦

LAST WEEK I REPORTED on pickerel and mentioned that there were none of these in Haliburton. That was an error. I have been driving into Haliburton for years always by the Lindsay route and in that portion of the county the waters have no pickerel. However, if one drives north on Highway 28, to Paudash lake which is also in Haliburton, there are pickerel. The fish are also found in Elephant lake, and Benoir's lake. Three well-known anglers pointed this out after reading the column. All of them reported, too, that introduction of pickerel to the northern lakes ruined the lake trout fishing. A quarter of a century ago, Paudash lake, that beautiful stretch of water paralleling the highway was one of the finest trout lakes in the country. Today, it is just so-so, as a spot to get a feed of lakers. Fishing is permitted during the winter in Haliburton and this does not help the situation any.

MANY ENQUIRIES have come in, asking for information on the National Sportsmen's Show being held in Toronto soon. This show consists of two parts. Each afternoon and evening there will be a vaudeville show at a huge swimming pool and platform built in the Coliseum at Exhibition Park. Here will be shown the cream of bests acts from American shows. The entire performance takes about two and a quarter hours. Before and after the program, visitors can spend two hours viewing the various exhibits which run into the hundreds. The idea of a sportsmen's show is to assemble in one place the latest in boats, motors, guns, fishing tackle, clothing, trailers, traps, and a dozen other articles. The wild animal and live fish exhibits will delight the young and old alike. The show opens on Saturday, March 13, and ends Saturday, March 20. Tickets may be obtained from Bob McCabe and Jack Baldwin of the Peterborough Fish and Game Association, and the local club makes 35 cents on each ticket sold. This money will boost their conservation fund.

RANDOM CASTS: An 8½ pound speckled trout from Munro lake in Northern Ontario won first prize in the Field and Stream, 37th annual fishing contest. The bait was a Williams wobbler. Ontario took seven of the ten awards in speckles, with Quebec and Wisconsin getting the other three. Nipigon failed to produce any over 7½ pounds. . . . Irvin Schwartz, 12931 Shaker Heights, Cleveland, took first prize in the Parry Sound fishing contest with a muskie weighing 32 pounds. Second prize went to another Ohioan, Mrs. Francis L. Robbins, 702 North Main street, Dayton, Ohio. She hauled in a 24-pounder. . . . John Ahr, Fernleigh Lodge, who is spending the winter in Florida writes: "I have more reservations now than I ever had; so it looks like a very good year to me". This same story is being told by resort owners in this district, the bookings will be heavy.

Feeding of Birds During Heavy Snows Best Protection They Can Be Given

By JUNE N. FRASER
Kawartha Conservation Ass'n

More can be done by the citizens of Canada towards attracting, sheltering and feeding birds in winter than at any other season. Our help is most effective during heavy falls of snow and encrusting ice storms, when the natural food of birds may be inaccessible to them for days. Trees and bushes at such times become laden with snow or sheathed with ice and whatever assistance we can provide during periods of stress may be sufficient to tide many birds over until their customary food again becomes available. At other seasons it is seldom necessary to provide food for wild birds.

Food is the most important consideration in the life of a bird. Despite popular belief to the contrary, few perish from the effects of adverse weather alone. Providing food is obtainable, they can withstand surprisingly low temperatures and unusual depths of snow. Although a heavy toll of winter bird-life is taken by sudden storms and extended periods of inclement weather, the idea that normal Canadian winters cause them any particular hardships is based on a misinterpretation of the known facts concerning bird behaviour. Anyone who has gone into the fields, woods or marshes will testify to the fact that the Canadian country side, even in mid-winter, is far from being destitute of bird-life. Although birds are then at their lowest ebb in this latitude, one may always find the year-round residents — birds like partridge, downy woodpeckers, black-capped chickadees, etc., and a varying number of birds from more northern areas—grosbeaks, crossbills, siskins, snow buntings, etc. Then, too, particularly in the more southern parts of Canada, one will find a few (robins, flickers, song sparrows, etc.). In open seasons, the number of these lingerers will be greater than during severe winters.

Following the autumn exodus of birds from Canada, our fields, woods and gardens seem relatively destitute of feathered inhabitants, but the number of kinds of birds which normally winter in Canada is a revelation to many people.

Other winter birds can be drawn to gardens by the provision of suitable shelter and food. Blue jays, juncos, tree sparrows and cardinals cherish cracked corn or nuts and the scattering about on cleared patches of poultry scratch feed, screenings, bread crumbs, hemp seed and millet seed will attract almost all of the smaller winter finches. Many of them will feed from window-ledges, if the food is placed there and sheltered from the wind. Loose chaff, scattered about the edges of weedy fields sometimes will induce horned larks and snow buntings to come close to habitation.

Despite human antipathy towards poison ivy and ragweed, these plants provide valuable seed food for birds, as they protrude above even deep snow. In many southern localities, the former attains shrub proportions and both harbor good crops of seeds.

Heat-producing suet, or beef fat, tied to the trunks or hanging from the branches of trees, will entice woodpeckers, nuthatches, chickadees and creepers to feeding stations. The late Owen Merriman, at Hamilton, found that downy woodpeckers still obtained nourishment from a piece of suet that had hung in his garden on the escarpment for 18 months.

Planting Natural Food

Fruit-eating birds, like waxwings, mocking birds and various thrushes may be attracted to one's premises by the planting of elderberries, barberries, wild grapes, mountain ash, mulberries, hawthorns, sumacs, junipers and dogwoods. The importance of the placing out of suitable shrubs and trees, which bear fruit during the lean months of winter, to the would-be feeding station operator, cannot be over-stressed.

In our cities, towns and villages, among the greatest concentrations of birds, in winter, will be found in the vicinity of carefully-maintained feeding stations, whose operators have designed them not only to provide the maximum amount of shelter and food and sand for birds (sand is to help the birds digest their food) but to attract the maximum number of avian borders.

Effective bird-sanctuaries never look like model gardens. Bush-piles, dead trees and non-ornamental shrubs, good for birds, will not be found illustrated in any of the garden manuals.

Cone-bearing trees, like spruce, pines, cedars, and hemlocks, prove attractive to a great variety of finches, among them, on occasions, crossbills and siskins.

The problem of eliminating or discouraging predators will have to be faced by the would-be operator of a successful winter-bird sanctuary. Vagabond domestic cats stand high on the list of bird-killers. One cannot expect many birds on one's premises if cats are allowed to roam about at will. Squirrels, troublesome if numerous can be circumvented by suspending the feeding trays from fine wires.

You can perform a useful service to the birds by providing food and shelter for them during times of stress, when their normal food becomes temporarily inaccessible, this little service will repay you three-fold in pleasure achieved.

Roasted 60 Tons of Peanuts Vendor Bit Fed Up With Job

A rambling reporter wandered into a George Street shop which sells peanuts and other nuts. He said to the man behind the counter: "A dime's worth of those." The man stopped stirring a cauldron of simmering peanuts to measure out the dime's worth. The man turned out to be Benjamin Epston who operates the shop.

Mr. Epston said: "A person gets a bit fed-up roasting peanuts after doing sixty tons of them."

"I suppose so", said the reporter mildly.

Mr. Epston is a youngist man of middle height and middle weight, with an etched moustache which points up ever so slightly to the placid humour-creases at the outer corners of his eyes. He wasn't busy — except with peanuts — and as the reporter didn't know beans about peanuts he asked where the shop got its stock.

"From the States", said Mr. Epston. "It's the only dependable market now."

"Do they grow there?"

"Oh, yes. The States is just about the largest producer of peanuts in the world to-day. Of course before the war we used to get them from India and China and—"

"From China?"

"Oh, sure. The best peanuts are Chinese peanuts. We used to get them from France and England too."

"But they don't grow in England."

"I mean they come from English countries — like places in North Africa. But all those foreign markets are no good today. You put in an order for good stuff. They bill you for good stuff. And all you get, if you do get it, is second-rate stuff. So we buy everything from the States. Expensive though. Their peanuts are four times the prices of the ones we used to get from India and China."

The reporter munched his dime's worth of peanuts and Mr. Epston continued to stir his pot, bubbling and peanut-oily and redolent. (Why do people say roasted peanuts when peanuts are broiled?)

He said: "Maybe if they get that big development going in Africa we will buy their nuts."

"What big development?"

"The British are getting big plantations started somewhere down in Africa." Mr. Epston seemed quite happy about the prospects. He seemed to trust the British to deliver the goods — the good peanuts. "It will be about the biggest thing in peanut growing."

The reporter had by this time so gorged himself on peanuts that he felt the need of liquids. He made for the door.

"Do you really mean it when you say that you have cooked sixty tons of peanuts?"

"Well, that's a rough figure," Mr. Epston said apologetically. "But we've sold eight tons this year."

The reporter, stuffed with peanuts, could not stomach the thought of Peterborough people eating eight tons of them — this year, last year or any year. He did not question the eight-ton figure but fled Mr. Epston and the peanuts.—A. E.

Ernie Nicholls Paces Legions To 7-2 Playoff Win Over Petes

Led by Ernie Nicholls—who scored four goals—the Legionnaires hammered out a 7-2 victory over the Petes before 1,500 fans in Lindsay last night. The win gave them a 3-1 edge on games in their OHA Senior "B" best-of-seven group finals, the next game being in Omemee on Monday night. Striking fast, Legion rolled up a 4-0 margin in the first frame. The Petes fought back for an even 2-2 second chukker, and Legion got the only marker of the third. The winners looked better most of the way, and the Petes appeared disorganized a good part of the contest. They were minus the services of Honey Tompkins (with an injured knee) and Art Heal. It was a clean, fast fixture throughout on good ice.

Ernie Hot

Ernie Nicholls was the Legion sparkplug with a fine effort. He notched four smart counters and nearly clicked on several more, teaming up nicely with Ace Nicholls (who had three assists) and Al Burns. Bob Parnell scored a pair in a good showing, while Ned Vitarelli and Johnny Godfrey were each in on a pair. The Rochetta-Crowley-R. Greenlaw line was always dangerous, too, and Ross Nicholls was steady in the cage. Ray Harding had another busy night and was tough to beat. Red Creighton battled hard on defence and on the attack for the Petes, and they all worked strenuously up front, but couldn't get in there enough to really threaten over any length of time.

Rochetta counted in less than two minutes on a forward pass from Godfrey, scoring at close range. Ernie Nicholls soon made it 2-0 with a slap shot after passes from Ned Vitarelli and Ace Nicholls. Horton went off for holding —two referees handled the game —but was back with no damage done. Kingdon and Montgomery swept in for a neat try, and H. Greenlaw tested Harding. Floyd Parsons was gated for hooking and Parnell slapped in Ned Vitarelli's neat pass in close to make it 3-0. Floyd got back and Harding was penalized for cross-checking, Blewett serving it. Ernie Nicholls got another right in on Godfrey's passout. Parnell went over for charging and H. Greenlaw followed for handling the puck as Garvey came close on a nice rush. The Petes pressed at the end.

Got The First

Montgomery got the Petes' first marker early in the second on a pass from Fred Mortimer at close quarters. Ernie Nicholls got it right back from Ace Nicholls with another slap shot which gave Ray no chance. This pair almost tallied again and then Parnell's looping angle faceoff shot fooled Harding and the count was 6-1. Legion pressed for a space with Ray busy kicking out thrusts by Bob Greenlaw, Crowley and Rochetta. But Joe Blewett added one for the Petes on a picture play, racing up fast with Red Creighton's pass and pulling the goalie out to count. It was speedy and pretty even at the finish.

Legionnaires had an edge on territorial play most of the third and kept Goalie Harding hopping, though the Petes threatened several times and R. Nicholls had to step. Ernie Nicholls got the last marker on a forward pass from Ace Nicholls, going right in and finishing it off smartly. A Burton-Blewett rush tested Ross as it was fast and even. Then the Legion first line peppered Harding for a space but he was kicking them out nicely. Bun Kingdon tested Nicholls again and Burns pulled a neat return try. Doug Mortimer rushed fast but was blocked by Ray and Parnell's shot hit H. Greenlaw in the Petes' cage as they pressed hard for a minute. It was slower and more even later, with Crowley making the last good try of the game.

The teams:

Petes: Goal, Harding; defence, Jopling and R. Creighton; centre, Blewett; wings, J. Creighton and Garvey; alternates Kingdon, F. Mortimer, Montgomery, J. Mortimer, Horton, F. Parsons and Burton.

Legion: Goal, R. Nicholls; defence, Godfrey and N. Vitarelli; centre, Rochetta; wings, Crowley and R. Greenlaw; alternates, E. Nicholls, A. Nicholls, Burns, Parnell, D. Vitarelli, H. Greenlaw and D. Mortimer.

Referees, J. McEachern and A. Bellemee.

SCORED TWO—Though not the leading scorer (Ernie Nicholls was) for Legion in Lindsay last night, Bob Parnell counted a couple of goals and turned in a good effort as his side won 7-2.

TO MEET McCREADY—Wee Willie Davis, pictured above, will tangle with Earl McCready in the main bout of next Wednesday's wrestling show at the Brock Arena. Davis is one of the toughest matmen in the business today, but big Earl has been meeting and beating most of the toughies. Earl was disappointed in not getting a bout with the Mask (who is on the injured list) but readily agreed to meet the hooded one's team wrestling partner. Two other high calibre bouts are being arranged.

Lakefield Wins Semi-Finals Ovr Sundridge

LAKEFIELD, March 6 (ENS)—The Sea Scouts whipped Sundridge 11-2 here last night in the return game of their OMHA semi-final "C" series, taking the round 16-8. They now meet the winner of Port Dalhousie and Elmira in provincial finals, the first game being here on Wednesday. Last night's game drew a sellout crowd with a number turned away.

The Sea Scouts turned in a fine effort in a fast, clean game, soon wiping out their one-goal deficit and rolling up the count. Spike Sloan starred with four goals while Gord Coyle got three, with Swift adding a pair. Pearson on defence notched two with one disallowed. Neil Wasson's poke check drew applause. The whole team clicked well. Wingett was solid in goal. It was 3-0 in the first frame and 8-1 going into the third. McCreary was outstanding for the losers, as Gleason and Smith turned in a good chore, the game being closer than the score indicates. The teams:

Lakefield: goal, Wingett; defence, Pearson and Pue; centre, Swift; wings, Coyle and Sloan; alternates, Hunter, Brown, Spencer, Wasson, Mathews, Heffernan and Wilson.

Sundridge: Goal, Smith; defence, Purdon and Daub; centre, McCreary; wings, Allard and Gleason; alternates, Percival, Ulrich, Gaudaur, Paul, McDougall, Johnstone and Haggerty.

Two Collegiate colleens' cage squads, senior and junior, are off today for Bowmanville and a district tournament. Miss Doris Fenner and Miss Marion Bell, PCVS coaches, have high hopes they will come through the zone series on top. Towne Togs are billed to commence LOBA intermediate "B" semi-finals at Oakwood Collegiate on Wednesday against Toronto DuVals, return joust being here next Saturday. And, still speaking of the lasses, Normals mix with Nurses at eight Monday in a senior round-robin playoff, with St. Paul's playing CGE at eight Tuesday in the YWCA. Re the men, it looks like Marines "A" champs will have to wait another week or so ere going into OABA semi-finals against the Toronto-St. Kitts' intermediate "A" winners. There'll be a tourney for minors here next month.

One of the important steps to be taken by the Civic Arena committee at an early date is to meet with local industrial heads and ask for assistance in the financial drive to build the rink. Success of the whole project depends on the response of the firms of the city. Some 80 or more industries of varying sizes here and it is certainly hoped that they will realize the importance of this project and give it their blessing and their assistance. Clubs, merchants and the public generally will assist if the manufacturers will. Sports are important to a community — as these firms have always recognized—and it is also important to keep money in the municipality.

As They Play It There

Hockey in England is pretty fast and they go for open play, according to Percy Nicklin, who visited Ottawa the other day ere flying back to London. They have a few different rules over there, one being that attacking players cannot bodycheck past the centre red line. Do you remember how Don Crowe nearly always wound up a rush by bouncing an unsuspecting defenceman about 20 feet on the southend of his spine? In England they've also eliminated icing the puck, even when a team is shorthanded, claiming fans don't go to hockey games to see the puck shot down the ice. Nicklin thinks combination can be overdone and no play is any good if it doesn't result in at least one shot on the net. He's got something there.

Noted a file of 10 years ago yesterday when Niagara Falls were beaten by the Petes 5-3 before a record crowd in the Brock Arena. It was the first game of their OHA senior "B" semi-finals, but the locals lost, alas, by a 4-1 count in the return tilt and were eliminated. Ray Harding was in goal then, with Doug Brennan and Barney Barnes on defence. Bill Calladine at centre was flanked by Eddie Starr and Ned Vitarelli. They could dress but five subs then, and they were Shrimp McDougall, Bun Kingdon, Honey Tompkins, Red Creighton and Archie Weir. It was a rough series and two refs handled the return go at the Falls, before nearly 5,000 fans.

Legion And The Petes

And this year's OHA senior "B" group finals scene shifts to Omemee on Monday night when Legionnaires and Petes clash again at 8.30 by your ticker. Ice ought to be okay at that time and no doubt another big crowd will be sardined in the arena. We trust enough limbs of the law are on hand to maintain order as the series waxes warmer and warmer as it progresses toward a finale. The players are travelling faster than a humming bird's wings as they go all out every game in this money series, and every scrap packs as much color as the Chateau Laurier's famed "peacock alley". You can't afford to miss that Monday melee, mes amis.

* * * * * *

After that 7-2 Legion win in Lindsay last night, the Petes simply have to pull up their sox (not socks) and get in there Monday. Or they'll be hanging up the skates and gear till next winter. They've got to win the Monday melee, or else. Legion weren't fooling last eve. They tore in from the start and had a 4-0 margin the first frame. Still had an edge on play the rest of the way, but it was much closer. Petes certainly missed Honey Tompkins—out with an injured knee — and hope he'll be okay to go the first of the week. Art Heal didn't play last p.m. either, and the Creighton crew looked disorganized much of the way. A fast, clean contest with two Toronto referees handling it well. Some 1,500 fans on deck for the duel.

Squad Clicked Neatly

Ernie Nicholls was hotter than 98 in the shade, scoring four goals and coming close on several more. He and Ace clicked like castanets, and the whole squad worked smoothly. Ross Nicholls wasn't as busy as Ray Harding, but he kicked 'em out handily while Ray couldn't look up but two or three Legionnaires were flipping the burnt biscuit around his doorstep. He did a good job under the circs. Red Creighton nearly fought his head off but to no avail. The Petes kept battling to the last, Blewett, Burton, Kingdon, Garvey and others coming close — and Montgomery got a nice one — but it was Legion's night to howl and they made a lot of racket in the process. They're scenting a group title and will be pretty tough to stop now.

PORTLAND, Ore., March 6.—(AP).—Big Jack Kramer downed Bobby Riggs with ease here last night, 6-2, 6-2, in their transcontinental professional tour. The victory put Kramer ahead in matches, 27 to 16. In a preliminary, Dinny Pails of Australia, defeated Pancho Segura, 7-5, 7-5, to take a 21-13 match lead.

GRECO WINS SPLIT DECISION

Canadian Welterweight Champion Johnny Greco had an unexpectedly tough time pounding out a split decision over Danny Boy Williams of Detroit in a 10-round bout at Detroit Olympia last night. Lesnevich Stops Black Jack Fox In First Round

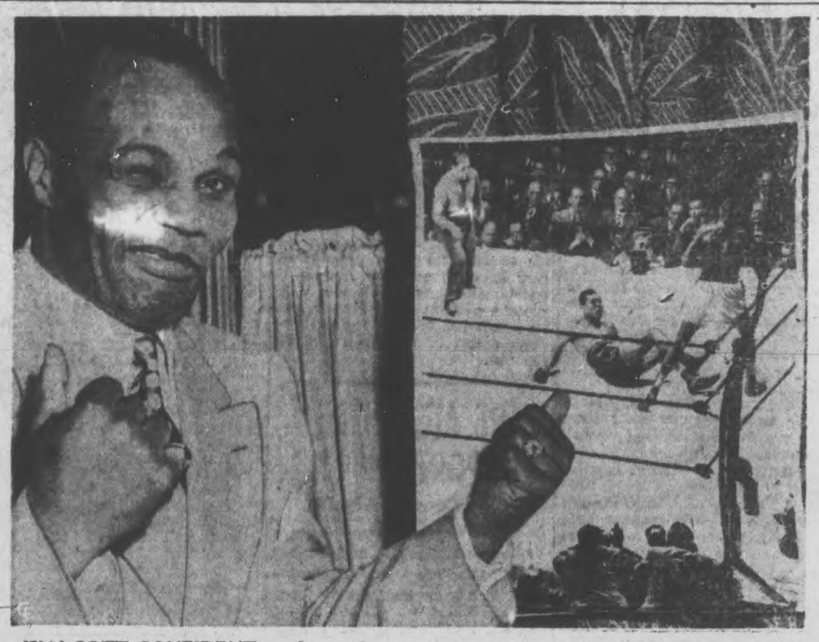
NEW YORK, March 6—(AP)—The new Gus Lesnevich, a so-so boxer turned ring tiger, is the hottest thing around the fight game. Now he can call his own shots.

At the age of 32 when most fighters are looking for the carpet slippers, the durable light-heavyweight king can write his own ticket for the future. He used to be a hit-and-get-away guy. Now he pegs bombs, righthanded.

The sell-out crowd of 18,453 which paid $149,519 got a big bang out of Gus' power display.



Six straight right hands to Black Jack Billy Fox's head sent him down for a count of six after a minute of fighting. He barely wobbled to his feet as the champion from Cliffside Park, N.J., tugged at Referee Frank Fullam trying to get at him.

Cagy Gus surged over Fox and draped him across the bottom rope with another terrific right. Fox rolled to the canvas and was counted out for the second time in his life.

Fox had won his 50 previous fights, except for a kayo by Lesnevich, all by the knockout route.

After a few seconds of slow sparring, Gus staggered Fox with a right to the jaw. The 22-year-old lad backed away and slipped in retreat, falling on all fours. There was no count and he was soon back up there, facing those bombs the champ was pegging.

Thus did Durable Gus, who seems to get better with age, score a stunning kayo over the highly-touted challenger. Seldom has he earned an easier dollar.

WALCOTT CONFIDENT — Jersey Joe Walcott is shown displaying a picture of his surprise jolting of heavyweight champion Joe Louis in their first fight last December, and expressing confidence that he will do even more to the champ when he meets him in Yankee Stadium at New York June 25. Walcott had just signed for the return go with Louis under the auspices of the 20th Century Sporting club when this picture was snapped.

Rockets Pound Flyers 5-3; Play 5th Game

By The Canadian Press

Those Galt Rockets are still fighting for a place in the Ontario Hockey Association's junior final.

On their own ice at Galt last night the Rockets pounded out a 5-3 victory over the Barrie Flyers, deadlocking their best of five semi-final at two games apiece and forcing a fifth game at Barrie tonight to decide who'll meet Windsor in the junior final.

The senior finalists of course are all settled, with Hamilton Tigers ready to ice a full team against the Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen Monday in the start of their best-of-seven playoff. Clarence Shillington and Tommy Tindal, Tiger stalwarts injured earlier, will be back to aid the fight against the K-W squad.

One of the NOHA senior finalists were also decided last night when Sault Greyhounds beat Sudbury's Sacred Heart College 5-2, taking the best-of-five semi-final in three straight games.

That was a rugged battle at Galt in the night's only OHA playoff. Barrie drew 12 of the 21 penalties as the players forgot the puck every once in a while to use their sticks on the opponents. Wiggie Wylie, Galt's centre, was target of two charges by Ray Gariepy, and Pidherney of Galt was knocked out by a charge from Mousseau as the final bell rang.

Marchand of Galt scored the only goal of the first period. Gibson made it 2-0 before Long got Barrie's first, then Tyachuk's goal put Galts ahead 3-1 as the second period ended. In the last frame Pidherney's goal was followed by two Barrie counters from Barrett and Reid, and Marchand's second goal for Galt was the final counter with six minutes left.

Samis to Meet Birch In Finals

TORONTO, March 6.—(CP).—Vancouver's badminton stars today looked like sure bets to cop at least one Canadian championship, with finalists placed in four of the five divisions.

Vancouver players and the sections they play in, starting at 1.30 p.m. EST; Johnny Samis, men's singles; Mrs. Claire Lovett, women's singles; Samis and Jack Underhill, men's doubles and Lois Reid and Alan France, mixed doubles. Toronto has the women's doubles cinched wtih two entries from that city.

Samis is favored to whip Dick Birch, former Dominion titleholder from Toronto after defetaing Montreal's Gordy Simpson, Quebec champion, 15-5, 15-4 yesterday. Birch advanced into the singles final by downing Al William of Winnipeg 15-6, 13-15, 15-6. Vancouver's Mrs. Lovett advanced to within one step of retaining her women's singles Canadian championship by defeating Doreen Clapperton of Montreal, Quebec champion, in two straight matches 11-5, 11-3. She meets Margaret Mapp, Toronto, in the finals. The Toronto girl eliminated Lois Reid of Vancouver yesterday 11-8, 11-8

Trying To Make More Realistic Moving Pictures

By BOB THOMAS

HOLLYWOOD, March 6—(AP)—How realistic can movies get? Producer Bryan Foy seems to have the answer; he is making a picture as close to actuality as anything yet tried.

Hollywood's camera eye has been getting more acute and searching in the last year, particularly since the rise of the semi-documentary film. Pictures are getting less glamor-ridden and more realistic. Foy, Eagle-Lion boss and members of the famed theatrical company, is going whole hog—he will shoot a Colorado prison break almost exactly as it happened. Here's how the project came about:

Here's How

Last year Foy met Roy Best, head man of the Colorado State penitentiary. "I'd like to shoot a picture at your prison sometime," said Foy, who knew of the area's scenic beauty. "Okay," said Best.

On the night of Dec. 30, 12 long-term convicts broke out of a cell block tagged "Little Siberia," clubbed two guards and kept four others as hostages. Using guns they made themselves, the prisoners escaped and fanned out over the Colorado countryside. Within 61 hours, a 200-man posse had captured 10 escapers, killed two.

On the day after the break, Foy called Best. "This is the day," he said. "How about it?" The warden agreed and the studio boss dispatched writer-director Crane Wilbur to round up the story. Wilbur has finished the script, and next Tuesday a film crew will fly to the prison to start shooting the picture.

Actor-Prisoners

Foy, just back from the prison, told me that nearly all of the picture will be shot in its actual locale—the prison cell block and mess halls and the homes, offices and farms of Canon City. Many of the convicts will portray themselves, as will Warden Best and Governor William Lee Knous of Colorado. The prisoners will be paid regular actor's wages and Foy said several have had acting experience.

Hollywood actors will substitute for convicts who can't act or don't want to be in the picture, but Foy is striving for unfamiliar faces.

The story will be filmed almost exactly as it happened Foy claims. There will be at least this one deviation: One of the escapers will die by falling from the Royal Gorge bridge. I guess Foy is permitted one Hollywood touch.

Fires 108

At Inglewood, Calif., Clint Russell of Duluth, Minn., yesterday fired a 108 to take the lead at the end of the first round of play in the International Blind Golfers' tournament here. Dr. Will H. J. Oxenham of Toronto was third with 116 behind Bill Gilman of Portland, Ore., who shot a 110.

CANADIAN BOWLERS IN AUSTRALIA — A team of bowlers from British Columbia visited Canberra, the Australian national capital recently, and were received by the Australian prime Minister, Mr. J. B. Chifley at Parliament House. They later played matches against local bowling clubs. Here Dr. F. A. Keillor (Edmonton, Alberta) is shown in action. The Canadian high commissioner in Australia, Mr. K. A. Greene, OBE, in white hat, awaits his shot.

Warsaw In Finals With Westwood

NORWOOD, Mar. 6. (ENS) — Westwood defeated Norwood 2-1 in the play-offs on Thursday night in Norwood Arena, and will meet Warsaw next Tuesday evening in the Peterborough Rural Hockey League.

V. Warr, Westwood, got the only goal of the first period, after two and one half minutes of play taking a nice pass from T. Woods and B. Thompson.

Norwood started the second and third periods with a man short. Close checking by both teams and the good work of young Parcels kept the second period scoreless.

Woods from V. Warr gave Westwood their second counter and four minutes later in the third Bedore of Norwood tallied with Andrews assisting. Norwood tried hard to tie the game but Westwood played a good defensive game. Tempers flared, and the third period saw three fights start and as quickly end, when they were sent to the penalty box. The game ended with only eight players on the ice.

Westwood—Goal, Renwick, defence, Shearer and Mortlock, centre T. Woods, wings B. Thompson, V. Warr, alternates B. Graham, L. Sargent, Simpson, B. Warr, Morris.

Norwood—Goal, R. Parcels, defence J. Robson, G. L. Stackhouse, centre, Bedore, wings, D. Andrews, B. Edwards, alternates, "Bay" Webb, L. Starke, T. Brown, K. Cuthbertson, A. Spring, A. Fairfield.

Referee—Archie Weir, linesman—Hartley Morrison.

Summary—First Period

Westwood, V. Warr (Thompson, Woods) 2.30
Penalties—Sargent, Andrews.

Second Period

No score.
Penalties—Brown, Warr, Stackhouse.

Third Period

Westwood—Woods (V. Warr) 4.00
Norwood—Bedore (Andrews) 8.05
Penalties — V. Warr, Starke, Simpson, Andrews, Thompson and Edwards.

Two Weekend Road Games Make or Break Canadiens

By FRED ROBERTS
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

Now that the artist who drew this year's National Hockey League playoff picture is applying the finishing dabs, there appears little chance of a retouching job as all clubs in the circuit swing into action this week-end.

The Montreal Canadiens play in the Motor City to-night against the Detroit Red Wings, while the New York Rangers move into the Maple Leaf Gardens where they clash with the Leafs.

To-morrow night Canadiens move on to Chicago with Toronto playing in Boston and Detroit in New York.

Now that Detroit, Toronto and New York have nailed down the playoff positions the most pessimistic gentry around Montreal refuse to count Canadiens, National Hockey League champions for the past four years, out of the picture. They point out that it can be done, providing the Boston Bruins just about collapse. But after Bruins held Canadiens to a 1-1 deadlock Thursday it is hardly likely that they will give any ground at this stage of the race.

Deciding Games

Meanwhile interest in centred around the games involving Detroit and Toronto. Both clubs have been exchanging the league-leadership all season and are currently tied for first place.

A double victory for either club this week-end may well decide this year's league winner.

While the teams are battling it out for loop positions plenty of interest will focus on the individual scoring championships which may be settled this week-end.

As matters stand now, two former team-mates are running one, two atop of the NHL scoring heap. Pony-sized Buddy O'Connor, who came to New York this year in a straight sway for Hal Laycoe, Joe Bell and George Robertson from Canadiens, has headed the league ever since he took the honors away from Syl Apps a little over a month ago and doesn't appear ready to relinquish it. Elmer Lach, O'Connor's, closest rival, has astounded the experts who proclaimed that he was washed up for good last year when he suffered a concussion and is currently riding along in second place, four points behind O'Connor.

City Carpetball

Very few results received up to date of writing this column. Reckon the cold snap got into some of the porcelains. One game of the doubles was played in which the Sims-Wilson pair eliminated the Price-Foster combine two straight, 7-4 and 10-2.

In the regular league games, the Old Sweats managed to play one of their back games and showed good form when they held the Big Bens to even points making it all square on the round. Results 5-11, 11-7, the total round score being 48-35 in favor of the Big Shots.

The Thistles are slowly receding from the top place and will be running outof the prize money if they are not careful. This week they divided points with the Busy Bees who took the first game 10-8 but let the honey get away from them in the second 3-17.

The Weary Wanderers met up with East City Wardens and repeated the action of the first half by splitting points 15-5 and 3-19 with the total score on the round pointing well toward the Wardens 52-36.

In the other game played King Billie and his orange squeezers tried hard to push out the Paper Dolls and although they won the first 17-11 they got all wrapped up in the second with the Dolls dancing away to the tune of 16-5, giving them a two-point edge on the season of 43-41.

We understand that the treasurer is looking out for several of the doubles players and we urged you get settled with that worthy man before he sends the firemen after your hide.

The semi-final game between Big Bens and Wardens for the President's cup has not yet been reported as played but probably the Big Fellows are wondering how they can catchup with all the games.

Following games should be played in the doubles:

H. Clapham, H. Nokes vs. F. Bell, McMahon.

E. Nickel, E. Holden vs. D. Metcalfe, G. Whitehead.

C. Joyes, J. Cridland vs. H. Moscrop, F. Hopgood.

Regular schedule with first three games to be played first: LOL vs. Big Bens 10; BESL 6 vs. BESL 8; SOE 2 vs. BESL 8; Wardens 9 vs. BESL 6; BESL 8 vs. LOL 4, BESL 7 vs. LOL 3; BESL 5 vs. Wanderers 1, SOE 2 vs. Big Bens 10; LOL 4 vs. Wardens 9, SOE 2 vs. BESL 7; Wanderers 1 vs. BESL 8, Big Bens 10 vs. BESL 6.

Bobcaygeon Boys Eliminate Hastings

HASTINGS, March 6 (ENS).—Hastings Juveniles met defeat in their meeting with Bobcaygeon on Campbellford ice by the score of 9-4. B. Herrington scored all four goals on assists from J. Morrow.

The local boys had won the championship of Eastern Ontario, nosing out Newcastle and Lyndhurst in home-and-home games, Hastings played their games on Campbellford's ice.

Karloff No Longer Villain Tries Professor's Role Now

By PAT USSHER

NEW YORK, March 6 (CP).—J. B. Priestley's "The Linden Tree," a quiet little character study of a university professor who resists the efforts of the authorities and of most of his family to make him retire, came to Broadway this week.

Boris Karloff, familiar to movie goers as a monster in one form or another, doffs these sinister roles to appear at the Music Box Theatre as the mild but stubborn history professor who is determined to go on teaching in a drab little English university town.

Karloff, who began his stage career in Kamloops, B.C., and later played in Prince Albert, Sask., acts with sincerity and conviction the part of Prof. Linden. One of the best things in the play is the bit part of Uno O'Connor as a sharp-tongued servant with some observations on life as pertinent as those of the professor.

Canadian in "Macbeth"

Three Canadian-born actors will be seen in "Macbeth" which has opened a North American tour at London, Ont., next Thursday with Flora Robson and Michael Redgrave in the lead roles. Those Palmer, who plays Caithness, was born in Toronto and educated at Ottawa, where he made his first amateur and professional appearances. The first was with the Little Theatre as King Perivale in A. A. Milne's "The Ivory Door" in 1926, and the second with the Oscar O'Shea stock company in "Disraeli" in 1932. Paul Mann, cast as Monteith, is also Toronto-born but has spent most of his acting career in New York. Blair Cutting, who plays an old man, was born in Peterborough. His first acting appearance was in a Toronto production of Noel Coward's "Hay Fever" in 1933. That was an amateur show, and three years later he made his professional debut in the same city, playing the male lead in a ballet based on "Romeo and Juliet."

Maurice Chevalier is back in town again, proving once more that he is a superb showman. He holds an audience with a program consisting merely of 11 songs and numbers. Judging by the demand for encores he is as popular as ever even though the routine is little changed from his last visit about a year ago. Chevalier and his straw hat are making a four-week stand at the John Golden Theatre.

Likes Canucks

By The Canadian Press

Conn Smythe, managing director of the Maple Leafs, said in an interview at Toronto yesterday he believes Montreal Canadiens still have a chance to reach the National Hockey League playoffs. The Habitants have only seven games left in the regular schedule, but the word from Smythe is:

"Don't count those Canadiens out yet!"

He advanced two reasons for the Montreal troubles this season.

"In the first place, they hate us so much they put everything into the Toronto games and it usually takes them two or three contests against other clubs to recover. The other reason is that the fans practically demand that recruits from the Montreal Royals be given a chance. Everyone knows that senior amateur players are not good enough for the big league."

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

Clarence Shillington and Tommy Tindal, Hamilton Tigers' players injured in a game in Hamilton Monday night, will be back in action Monday when the Senior A team of the Ontario Hockey Association meets Kitchener-Waterloo Flying Dutchmen in the opener of a best-of-seven playoff series, it was announced last night. Shillington suffered a neck injury, Tindal a chest injury.

Lloyd Johnson of Edmonton last night became Alberta's 1948 senior speed-skating champion, defeating a field of 90 competitors to capture the title.

Four Ottawa District hockey teams are vying for the honor of meeting the Maritime champions in the first round of the Allan Cup playdowns this season. In the district league, Renfrew Lions, Upper Valley League winners, hold a one-game edge in a best-of-three series with Kemptville, the St. Laurence League titleholders; while in the city league, Hull Volants hold a three-to-one edge over Ottawa Army in a best-of-seven battle.

Clarence Campbell, president of the National Hockey League, said yesterday at Chicago he will make a full report Monday on his investigation of player gambling charges. He said his report will be made public at Lansing, Mich., after he confers with Governor Kim Sigler. Campbell who left by plane for New York, said earlier this week he had received evidence sufficient to warrant expulsion of two players from the league.

A compact field of eight colts, topped by William G. Helis' Salmagundi, was named yesterday for the $100,000 Santa Anita Derby. The Arcadia, Calif., track winds up its 1948 meeting today.

Jake Lamotta, New York middleweight boxer, yesterday withdrew his motion in New York State Supreme Court to void a suspension handed him by the State Athletic Commission after his Nov. 14 fight with Billy Fox of Philadelphia. The motion was filed Feb. 13, the same day the Commission suspended him until next June 21 and fined him $1,000 for what it described as concealing facts about his physical condition prior to the Fox bout. He lost to Fox by a technical knockout.

What's What In Baseball

By The Canadian Press

NEW YORK, March 6 (AP).—The curtain lifts to-day on seven solid months of major league baseball.

Two exhibition games in the West are the first of more than 1,700 scheduled contests involving the 16 major league clubs between now and October.

In the openers, Chicago Cubs meet Chicago White Sox in Los Angeles, and New York Giants tangle with Cleveland at Tucson, Ariz.

There will be 376 other exhibition games before the major league seasons begin April 19.

Out in Los Angeles, the only thing familiar about the two Chicago teams will be their names. Manager Charley Grimm of the Cubs said he planned to use all rookies except second baseman Ray Mack and shortstop Don Johnson. Sox Manager Ted Lyons followed suit with rookies named for all but three jobs.

In the Dominican Republic, Brooklyn Dodger manager Leo Durocher says it is too early to determine where he will use Cookie Lavagetto and Arky Vaughan. "First let them get in shape," said the Dodgers pilot, "then we'll decide." The two veterans worked out yesterday for the first time.

Philadelphia Phils are in the market for pitchers. President Bob Carpenter said to-day the club "would be willing to consider a trade, but not unless we get a number one pitcher in return."

Fritz Bernardi, a rookie pitcher who wanted $5,000 to sign with the Philadelphia Athletics, has ended his holdout and is en route to camp.

A stiff drill was scheduled for Detroit Tigers to-day at Lakeland, Fla: Yesterday's workout was cut short by rain.

Manager Bucky Harris declared to-day at the St. Petersburg, Fla., camp that New York Yankees are a better ball club than the Boston Red Sox, at least before the season starts. He rated the Yanks stronger than the Sox in the field and in two of the three outfield posts.

OWNER CROSBY TURNS CATCHER — Bing Crosby, who sometimes sings in addition to serving as vice-president and part owner of the Pittsburgh Pirates, put on a Pirate uniform and took his turn behind the plate while Homerun King Ralph Kiner batted at the club's spring training camp at Hollywood, Calif. Crosby showed his shrewdness by picking clean-up hitter Kiner to catch behind. Kiner doesn't miss very many. This one was high and inside, however, so Kiner let it pass and gave Bing a chance to catch.

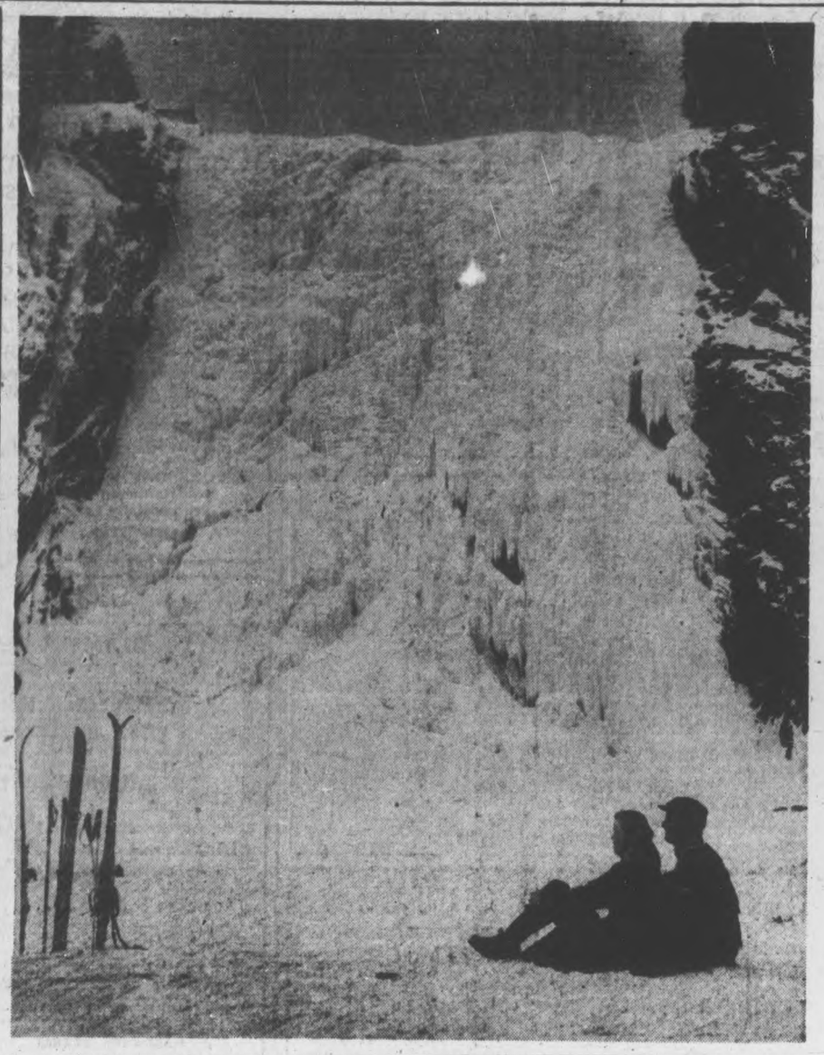
Weatherman Lonely On Remote Island

SYDNEY, Australia, March 6 (CP).—One of the Empire's loneliest jobs is undertaken each year by three volunteers from the Australian Commonwealth meteorological bureau.



The three men go out to the meteorological station on Willis Island, a tiny dot in the Pacific about 275 miles east of the North Queensland coast and remain there without direct contact with the outside world for 12 months.

Each year a patrol boat visits the island to take three men to relieve the occupants and bring enough food — and two new canopeners — to keep the newcomers alive during their 12-months' stay.

Every three hours of each day the meteorologists flash the latest weather reports back to Australia. Other than that there is nothing for them to do but cook, sew, repair and maintain the station and its equipment — and count the days left before the patrol boat comes to take them back to civilization.

HANDY ADAPTATION

The woodcock, the only bird in the western hemisphere whose upper bill is movable, used his beak like a pair of tweezers to grasp food below the ground.

MIGHTY MONTMORENCY SILENT—For the first time within the memory of man, Montmorency Falls, near Quebec City, has become frozen solid, indicative of the water shortage in Quebec. This has reduced the amount of power available to Ontario.

Pleads Not Guilty Abduction Count

BROCKVILLE, March 6 (CP). —John Henry McClentic, 27, under remand on a charge of abducting a 14-year-old Brockville girl, pleaded not guilty today on a second charge of having carnal knowledge of the girl during the period of last July 1 to Aug. 24.

McClentic had admitted guilt previously on the first count and was remanded today for another week.

McClentic was arrested in Port Hope, Feb. 25, after being missing for six months. The Brockville girl was located later the same day in Lindsay.

Police said McClentic left the girl a few days previously and made arrangements to go to Port Hope with a 17-year-old girl who was later charged with vagrancy.

Veteran Shipping Magnate Harry Mathers 32 Years Old

BY WYN RHYDWEN
Canadian Press Staff Writer

HALIFAX, March 6 (CP)—In an unpretentious oak-panelled back office near the waterfront, quiet Harry Isaac Mathers directs the helm of a shipping realm that is potentially one of the world's largest.

A second-generation Canadian and native Haligonian, Harry as he is called by all his employees, is only 32 and certainly doesn't look the part of a shipping magnate.

But in 1951 he expects to be operating a fleet of 80 10,000-tons freighters and one tanker. Already he has 13 cargo carriers plying the shipping lanes of the seven seas, This summer he will take delivery of nine more along with the tanker, which, he admits, may well be the start of a fleet of oil carriers. The remainder are on order.

Three years ago, even then a veteran in the shipping world, the young man inherited a family firm started 76 years ago by his grandfather. Harry branched out and organized as a shipowner in 1941.

Just two years ago his company bought its first ship, the former Lakeview Park, and renamed it the Halifax County which at the moment, is in Australian waters. All his ships have been named after Nova Scotia and British Columbia counties. When he runs out of names there he may include counties of other provinces.

Although he never went to sea, Harry absorbed as much of salt spray and ships as could be had from a dockside. At 17 he left King's College School at Windsor N.S., to take a stenographer's job in his father's office.

Shipping is in Harry Mather's blood. I.H. Mathers and Sons of which he now is president was organized by his grandfather after he arrived in Halifax from Ireland. At one time the firm operated schooners, but with the advent of steam the fleet slowly dwindled and became only a managing and agency business.

Organized Company

The urge to operate ships to foreign ports as his grandfathers had done was strong in young Harry and it was while a director of I.H. Mathers and Son, of which his father was then president, that he organized Acadia Overseas Freighters Limited.

During the war years Acadia operated ships on a charter basis. With the end of hostilities it began to buy up all the Canadian-built Park ships the government had for sale.

Harry learned the shipping and stevedoring business the hard way. After a fling at stenography his father put him to work on the docks and he had to slog it out with the other workers.

"I had all kinds of jobs," he smiles now. "I worked at just about every job on the docks and in the office."

Today he is president of 10 firms, director of four others.

Curling is his number one hobby. A member of the Ashburn Golf Club, he does not play golf; a member of the Nova Scotia Yacht Club, he does not sail.

"I don't really know—so much it is invested," he says of his personal wealth which he would rather not discuss anyway. "Somebody told me the other day I was worth at least $5,000,000. I thanked him very much."

Considerable of the backing for his shipping empire was provided by private Greek financial interests. As well as interest from his investments the young president draws a regular salary from the firm.

In politics Harry is a Liberal. His uncle, Federick Francis Mathers, K.C., was at one time lieutenant-governor of his native province.

"THERE'S NOTHING NEW . . "

Hero, of Alexandria, invented a whirling steam-actuated engine. Twenty-one centuries later in 1883, it reappeared as the Parsons steam turbine.

King Emphasizes Decision For Retirement

By ROSS MUNRO

OTTAWA, March 6 (CP). — Prime Minister Mackenzie King today reiterated his intention to retire from the leadership of the Liberal party.

Speaking to delegates of the Canadian Congress of Labor, which had presented its annual representations to the government, the Prime Minister said:

"It does give me a feeling of deep regret that the time is coming to change the order of one's life. I have felt increasingly since the war that the task has not become any easier. In times like these, younger men are taking over posts in government.

"This is the reason that I felt I should inform the party that the time had come that it should choose another leader."

Firmer Declaration

The several hundred delegates present generally interpreted Mr. King's statement as a somewhat firmer and clearer declaration on his retirement than the lengthy and rather equivocal one he made to the National Liberal Federation here last January.

This was the first time that the Prime Minister has mentioned his retirement publicly since that time.

Mr. King went on to say that in his retirement he hoped to do some of the things he had wanted to do for a considerable time.

Out of politics, he hoped to be able to survey some of the broad trends of the times.

"I went into public life from Labor and when I retire my interests in Labor will not be forgotten."

Badly Wounded Girl Rallies In Hospital

TORONTO, March 6.—(CP).—Mrs. Margaret (Mickey) Meredith, attractive, 23-year-old, Sudbury-born waitress, shot through the head in a downtown restaurant Monday, rallied yesterday to talk with detectives. Police refused to disclose statements made by the girl. Authorities at the downtown hospital, where Mrs. Meredith is fighting for her life, reported her condition slightly improved and doctors now give her a 50-50 chance for recovery.

ROSENEATH, March 6 — (ENS).—Subject of discussion at the YPU meeting on Wednesday was, "How Young People Can Keep Their Belief in the Bible From Becoming Skeptical." Alec Horner led the discussion.

Findings were: read the Bible regularly; go to church regularly; secure assistance when puzzled. The meeting was held in the parsonage and Howard Lemon presided.

It was decided to invite Hastings YPU to attend the meeting on April 7 in the town hall.

April 16 was set as the date for the presentation of a play. The regular Bible quiz was conducted by Rev. R. C. White.

ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

Scripture—Acts 8:26-39

By Alfred J. Buescher

In a time of great persecution, the angel of the Lord appeared to Philip, saying, "Arise, and go toward the south unto the way that goeth down from Jerusalem unto Gaza."

Philip obeyed the message, and on his way he encountered a eunuch, an Ethiopian, one who had great authority with the queen, sitting in his chariot reading the prophet Esaias.

The eunuch asked Philip to get into the chariot and explain a certain passage to him. Philip did so and then he "opened his mouth and began to preach the Gospel of Jesus."

As they went their way they came to some water, and the eunuch suggested that he be baptized, so both men went into the water and Philip baptized him.

MEMORY VERSE—John 20:21.

Knowing What God Is Like Saves Much Horror and Pain

The Lord Jesus Said: Learn Of Me. St. Matthew 11; 29 Jesus Spake Unto The Republicans And Sinners And Said: What Man Of You Having A Hundred Sheep, If He Lost One Of Them, Goeth After That Which is Lost Until He Find It.

St. Luke 15; 9

Your little son wants to know what God is like. Can you tell him in simple words so that he may have a clear mental image of God, which he will develop in days to come. Unlike this writer he will not have the horror and agony of a wrong mental image of God, the God of his fathers. In the days to come he will thank you.

The Master Teacher has before Him simple people, the common people who heard Him gladly. In this well known parable He tells them what God is like; giving for the time being simply three thoughts that they might absorb and desire more later, as they were able to bear it. The Master Himself invites you to "learn of Him", whose knowledge of God is complete and clear. His teaching is generally very simple and He rarely argues. He states facts.

What does a shepherd think of? He is speaking to pastoral people who can give the answer. The good shepherd is the man who thinks about his sheep. "What man of you having a hundred sheep, if he has lost one of them, doth not leave the ninety and nine in the wilderness and go after that which is lost till he find it?" As the Master utters these words heads of His listeners nod approval. Every good shepherd would do that. He thinks very much of the sheep that is lost. That is what matters, how natural and human.

What is the lesson? Intense devotion. We belong to the heavenly Father. One goes astray and He is full of love for that lost sheep or lamb.

God seeks for that which is lost. He puts his devotion into practice with the hope that He will find it. The shepherd spends time and energy till he finds the sheep. The lesson is that you belong to God. God feels your loss though there are the ninety and nine. You are all important. What a helpful truth for your soul to take to heart that God is full of desire to find the lost lamb.

"When he hath found it he layeth it on his shoulder—a place of safety—rejoicing". Intense joy. What a revelation of character. You meet a man full of joy and you ask him what he is rejoicing over. "I cleared a thousand dollars" he exclaims. By this you know that money is his god. Apply the principle to your self. The answer will be self revealing.

But this shepherd not only rejoices but he desires others to share in his joy. "When he cometh home, he calleth together his friends and neighbours, saying unto them; rejoice with me; for I have found the sheep that was lost". Your son can not only understand that God rejoices but that He desires others to share in His joy.

This is the Master's own conclusion:—"I say unto you that joy shall be in heaven in the presence of the angels over one sinner that repenteth.

Would you care to pass these simple, yet sublime thoughts to your son? That God loves him intensely. The God will seek earnestly for him if he goes astray. That God rejoices intensely when He finds him.

The Lord God Saith:
I Will Draw Him With The Cords Of Love.

Personal Witness Found By Philip in Ethiopian

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Lesson on the above topic for March 7 is Acts 8:26-39, the Memory Verse being John 20:21, "Jesus said... as the Father hath send Me, even so send I you.")

IF YOU do not quite remember the apostle Philip, he is one of the seven in the early Christian church in Jerusalem to supervise the distribution of alms to the widows of the congregation. He was a very devout man and seems to have been held in great esteem by the apostles of the church in Jerusalem, for the entire eighth chapter of Acts is devoted to his ministry.

Philip received a visit from an angel of the Lord, who told him to go "toward the south unto the way that goeth down Jerusalem unto Gaza: the same is desert." Gaza was an ancient Philistine city, made famous in the story of Samson. It was a strong fortress two miles from the sea, at the southernmost end of Palestine, toward the Egyptian border.

Philip wasted no time after getting the message, but started at once for this distant place over rough roads, no doubt, and desert. Now as he walked along a man came by in a chariot, and as he rode he read from the prophet Isaiah.

This man was a eunuch, an Ethiopian returning from Jerusalem where he had been to worship. He was a man "of great authority," it is written, who held a position of great trust under Candace, queen of Ethiopia, "Who has charge of all her treasure." Candace, we are told, was not the queen's name, but her title, like governor, tetrarch or pharaoh.

Philip Approaches Chariot

Prompted by the inner spirit, Philip approached the chariot and heard the eunuch read part of the scripture. He asked the eunuch if he understood what he read. The eunuch said, "How can I, except some man should guide me?" and he asked Philip to get in the chariot beside him. Philip did so, and this was the scripture which he read: "He was led as a sheep to the slaughter; and like a lamb dumb before his hearer, so opened he not his mouth:

"In his humiliation his judgment was taken away: and who shall declare his generation? for his life is taken from the earth." Isaiah's prophecy of the coming Christ and His trial and death.

The eunuch asked who this referred to, the prophet or some other man? "Then Philip opened his mouth, and began at the same scripture, and preached unto him Jesus." Probably the Ethiopian had never heard of Jesus, but he eagerly listened to what Philip had to say, and believed in his message.

So eager was this man to become a Christian that, as they rode along and came to some water (some think it was Philip's Fountain, socalled), he said, "See, here is water; what doth hinder me to be baptized?"

Philip answered him, "If thou believest with all thine heart, thou mayest. And he answered and said, I believe that Jesus Christ is the Son of God." He commanded the chariot to stand still, and both went down to the water, Philip and the eunuch, and Philip baptized him.

After the baptism, Philip was miraculously snatched away and the eunuch "saw him no more: and he went on his way rejoicing."

We know no more about this Ethiopian. He is never mentioned again, and we also hear no more of Christianity in Ethiopia until the fourth century when Christian laymen started a mission there.

Ethiopia was much in the news in recent years as the country attacked by the Italians before World War II, and conquered by them in the late Mussolini's mad ambition to enlarge the Roman empire. The Italian armies, with modern weapons of war, conquered the country, but the occupation was short. Haile Selassie, king of Ethiopia, fought with his armies until the cause was hopeless, then went to the League of Nations for help. Not getting it, he retired to England, and after the defeat of the Italians by the British, Haile Selassie was restored to his throne.

How did the eunuch happen to be "worshipping in Jerusalem?" He was the queen's treasurer, and as such might easily have met Jews through business and financial transactions. He was what was called a "proselyte of the gate." He could not enter into the inner temple because of being an eunuch, but his devotion to the Jewish religion is proved by his journey of some 200 miles to worship in the holy city.

Ask Builders Share Onus With Owners

TORONTO, March 6.—Board of Control has requested Building Commissioner Gillies to report on a proposal that the city seek legislation to make contractors liable for any breach of the building by-laws jointly with an owner.

The proposal was advanced by Con. Roelofson, who condemned the practice of builders proceeding with work on the authorization of an owner when no permit had been secured, though they were aware that it was contrary to regulations.

An owner was reported by Building Commissioned Gillies to have instructed a contractor to proceed with the erection of a second storey to a building in contravention to the building by-law.

Mr. Gillies recommended at the time that the city proceed with legal action to compel the owner to demolish the second storey and the recommendation was approved by council.

Con. Balfour asked reconsideration pointing out that housing accommodation was being made available in the second storey for eight families.

"If we are going to have by-laws they should be followed. These people knew their permit only covered the one storey, yet they deliberately built a second storey without a permit," Con. Roelofson countered.

Community Fund Objective Of $60,000 Over-subscribed

As canvassers scanned the blackboard during the "Victory Dinner" in the CGE cafeteria on Friday night, they learned that the Peterborough Red Cross and Community Fund campaign had mounted to $61,500—some $1,500 over the objective. This brought to an official close the week-long campaign lasting from February 27 to March 5.

Chairman Ross Dobbin pointed out that this did not show final results; in fact it was said that fully one-third of the Retail Division was yet to be heard from. Canvassing would continue in this division for several more days to make up the deficiency.

Thus the 12 registered social agencies receiving financial support from the fund are assured of their budget figures, enabling these valuable services to continue for another year.

Thus in the last two days of the campaign more than $20,000 had been subscribed. The total stood at $39,370 when the canvassers met on Wednesday afternoon in the second storey of the Grafton store. In previous campaigns the mid-week meeting had always taken the form of a luncheon. However, this year things were changed and through the kindness of W. C. Hughes the canvassers met in the Grafton store where afternoon tea was served and reports made in a most informal manner.

A breakdown of the total shows that the Industrial Division under Ian McRae collected $28,200; or $3,200 over the mark.

In the absence of Mr. McRae, Mr. Larry McQuade gave the industrial report. Of 36 firms, he said, 18 reached their quota or beyond. While the largest factories in the city have been the major contributors to the Fund, smaller plants have done their share. The example of Lucky Strike Bait Works was cited. Employees gave $139.68, or more than 200 percent of last year's contribution.

Mr. Gordon Matthews reported on Special Names, receipts of more than $18,200 were chalked up. This would give an over-subscription of $200.

Commenting on the campaign, Mr. Matthews said: "It was harder going during the last two days than we've ever experienced since the Chest started."

Due to the absence of W. C. Hughes, chairman Retail Division Benjamin Meyers was spokesman for that group. With a third of the prospective donors still to be heard from, he said that $9,74[illegible] of the $13,000 objective had been accepted. Because of this the grand total will not be known for another few days.

Special mention was given to Charles Lacheur and his three-man team for raising $1,359.

Despite a $1,500 boost in their objective, cold weather, and a toll of winter diseases, the Women's Division under Mrs. W. E. Fanning with an original figure of $4,000 collected $4,579.

Clare Collins said there had been a decrease in the Public School penny-drive receipts. They were down to $443.08, compared to $610 last year. He told of one schoolboy, David Foster, who saved pennies for a year, finally contributing $1.13 of the school's total of $6.75.

H. L. Garner, publicity chairman, re-emphasized the fact that the intention of the Community Fund in creating a penny-a-day drive was for the sake of publicity, not primarily for the revenue derived. With but a couple of exceptions he said the window displays of local merchants this year had not supported the campaign.

Mr. Dobbin announced the $61,500 figure and then said the budget amounted to $72,000 to $75,000, part of which would be covered by a previous year's surplus. He expressed the hope another $5,000 would be pledged before the campaign ended.

After thanking approximately 180 workers gathered for the fund windup, he said: This is the end of the eighth campaign. It would be too bad for this city if we didn't have a Community Fund."

He intimated the budgets of the several agencies were expanding and he forwarded the opinion that next year's drive would be for an extra $10,000.

Seated at the head table were Benjamin Meyers, Gordon S. Matthews, Mrs. W. E. Fanning, Ros Dobbin, Clare Collins, Larry McQuade, and H. L. Garner.

The Salvation Army under Bandmaster Gerald Routly played during the dinner period.

Jas. Clysdale Buys Gillespie Farm

James Clysdale of Otonabee has purchased the Gillespie farm at Villiers, and is receiving the Crown deed of the property this week.

The farm has been in the Gillespie family since 1836 when it was obtained from the government by the grandfather of Mr. G. A. Gillespie, who arrived in Canada from the Old Country in 1820.

The property consists of 150 acres. The management of it for years has been in the hands of Mr. G. A. Gillespie who decided to sell it.

Mr. Eastwood Twice Elected Trust Chairman

City Trust Commission has had three chairmen. James Stevenson, the first incumbent, was nominated once to that position, and continued as chairman for 30 years without reappointment. W. H. Moore was chairman 20 years, and was appointed only once, presumably in accordance with the custom which had been set up, and was never questioned.

This information was received today by the Examiner. In more recent times Mr. Vincent Eastwood has been chairman. He was twice elected, but otherwise, it appears from the same source, that the Commission was simply following the precedent of the founders of the Trust and its members for more than half a century.

There was a recent suggestion from city hall quarters that the Commission had not been properly electing its chairman, and consequently that store leases on George St. were not valid above his signature. It transpires that Trust procedure has not changed, as the records indicate that the etsablished procedure had been followed, with the exception that Mr. Eastwood had been twice elected to the position instead of only once in the long service of both Mr. Stevenson and Mr. Moore.

COMPLETE PRIZE LIST

Peterborough Exhibition directors Friday night completed the preparation of their prize list for this year's show, will review the details at another meeting and send them on to the printer.

Rambling Reporter

LEGION PREFERRED, PETES INACTIVE.

Habitues of the Stock Market find little consolation these days in watching ticker recordings and board mark-ups as their pet stocks persist in lying dormant. You can hear lengthy discussions on every topic under the sun, except stocks, for they have run out of explanations as to why the Board won't budge. Some men tell their sordid life's cycle in daily instalments, other talk of the weather and the snow removal situation, rinkless Peterborough and how they would correct the issue. Things were so dull Friday the management said they wouldn't be surprised to see stocks listed in the paper in the Obituary section. But, there was one live issue, a hockey pool chalked up for Friday's game, Legion-Petes at Lindsay.

Posted on the board beside the dwindling volume of stock sales figures, it was a ray of hope, or something.—N.N.

Car, Truck Crash On Highway 7 East

Two drivers received a shaking up, and a few minor cuts late Friday afternoon, when a car owned and driven by Wesley Wilson, Campbellford, crashed into a truck owned by Earl Clarke, Hastings. The accident occurred at the Daisy Dee cheese factory corner on Highway 7, about two miles west of Norwood.

According to the police report Clarke failed to signal a turn to the left, and the Wilson car, travelling in the same direction, could not be stopped in time to avoid striking the truck.

So far, no definite word has been received from the Peterborough Fish and Game Protective Association or the Kawartha Conservation Association on whether or not they would have delegates at the meeting in the Parliament Buildings.

PRACTICAL PLANS FOR THE HOME YOU WANT AND HOW TO PLAN IT

Garage Doors Left Open Often Mar Whole Picture

Possibly the greatest change made in house design during the past twenty years has been the increasing popular practice of tying up the garage and house in one unit, causing the garage to merge gracefully with the picture as a whole. Too often, however, the picture is spoiled when garage doors are left open on a scene of disarray, turning the garage inside out for all the world to see.

Don't Make It A Junk Room.

It's sad, but too true, that there are few worse eysores than a garage with flung-back doors revealing a floor space cluttered with all manner of miscellaneous articles. In most garages . . . if the wall have any finishing coat at all . . . it's probably a scanty coating of whitewash against which any dust or cobwebs stand out in full force, while big black grease spot mottle the concrete floor.

Have you ever thought that more persons view the inside of your garage than the inside of your house, thereby establishing their first impressions of your neatness or heedlessness, as the case may be?

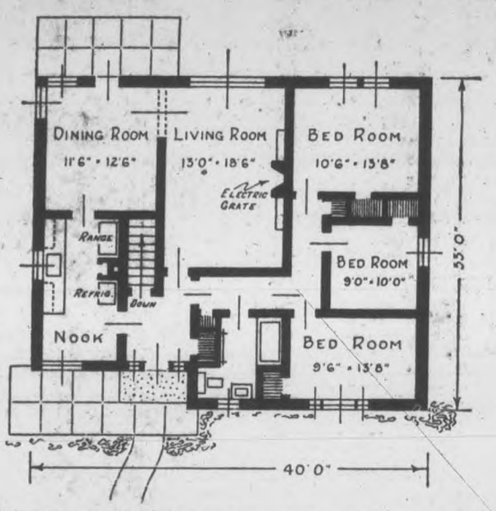
You owe it to yourself to keep your garage looking its best. One way is to decorate it with colors that blend or contrast with the exterior color scheme of your house. If the attractive architectural details of your house are given emphasis with color, the garage may take this emphasizing color for its walls or it may benefit by a third or harmonizing tint.

Style Garage With House

The use to which the garage is put depends on its size and construction. If the house is modern in type and the flat-roofed garage follows the same architecture, a sun deck can be made available by running a stairway up the outside wall. An additionad decorative touch is the pergola partially shading the roof, composed of a square frame with cross slats. This wooden framework may be painted to match the body color or the trim.

If your garage has more room than is needed for car space, cupboards and a workbench at one end of the garage will prove invaluable. Paint them some attractive hue in keeping with the colour scheme of the building. If the garage has a sloping roof, this leaves considerable storage space available for screens, storm sash, or packing boxes.

Sometimes it is preferable to install a pair of laundry tubs instead of a workbench, if the garage is piped for water. This is not necessarily for doing the family wash, but rather for incidental purposes, such as bathing the dog, cleaning the car and sundry other tasks. Attach a hinged, divided top which can be used as a worktable when necessary. Such a table is especialy handy for potting bulbs or other plants and arranging flowers.



To Keep The Floor Clean

To help keep the garage floor neat, fasten a square framework to it. Fill this with sand or gravel, to catch the drip from the car. An occasional raking will keep it from unsightliness, while the rest of the floor remains clean.

There are many trick ways of turning the garage lights on and off . . . from the electric eye method that operates at the glint of light from your headlights to what is known as the "marktime" switch. In the latter case the lights remain on after the switch is snapped off until you have time to leave the building . . . and perhaps reach the house. And speaking of headlights, a simple way to check whether they are straight is to paint a stripe across the back wall of the garage at the proper level for the light and then make sure they always focus.

It is no longer a problem to paint concrete. Paints have been perfected which adhere readily to the surface. If the floor is new, neutralize the alkali present by applying a solution of zinc sulphate prepare by dissolving three pound of zinc sulphate crystals in a gallon of water. After the floor is dry, rinse several times and again let dry thoroughly. Paints especially manufactured for cement floors should always be used.

A DREAM COTTAGE—A sparkling white cottage was the dream many a war-weary soldier had overseas. But this house is no illusion . . . it's the real thing! It was erected by Carl Harstrom, builder, in the Mount Royal section of Calgary, Alberta. Not only has this little home an exterior which is as pretty as a picture, but it is blessed with an efficient floor plan as well. On one side of he house are the three bedrooms and bath, while on the other we find the living room, dining room and kitchen. Built on a site which slopes steeply to the rear, full use is made of the basement area, which includes the garage and a splendid game room. Eric Jones designed this home and further information as to plans are available from Home Building in Canada, 372 Bay St., Toronto, or The Examiner.

Urge Midwifery School

TORONTO, March 6—(CP)—Midwifery schools for Canada were suggested by Mrs. Irving Robertson, president of the Canadian Mothercraft Society, at the Society's annual meeting here last night.

Sound Roof Retains Heat

Uneven heat rather than too little heat makes many homes uncomfortable in winter. Temperature at floor level may be 50 degrees cooler than at the ceiling in older houses. This is often due cracks around windows and doors and poor insulation rather than poor heating systems.

Save fuel and assure comfort; building authorities claim, by keeping winter outside the home with weatherstripping and proper caulking around windows and doors. Hot air always rises, and if it is allowed to escape through the roof, more fuel is needed to keep the house warm. Prevent this waste by making sure that the roof is in good condition, and if possible, a good grade of insulating material covers the attic floor.

Had Burglar Tools Gets 7-Year Term

HULL, Que., March 6 (CP). — Douglas McAvilla, 30, of Toronto, today was sentenced to seven years in penitentiary for illgeal possession of firearms and burglar's tools, and a companion, William Campbell, 23, of Hamilton, was given three year son a similar charge.

The pair pleaded guilty last week. McAvilla received three years for illegal possession of firearms and four additional for having burglar's tools in his possession.

The two men were arrested with what police described as a "small arsenal" in a Hull hotel last Feb. 12.

Oshawa Worker Dies Hit By Stock Case

OSHAWA, March 6—(CP)—John Tureski of the glass-handling department of Duplate Canada Ltd. was killed in the plant here today when a case of stock toppled on him. Born in Poland 54 years ago, Mr. Tureski came to Oshawa in 1913. He is survived by his widow, two daughters and three sons.

SIMPLE DESIGN ADDS BEAUTY TO HOME, MAKES DOLLAR STRETCH

Well Planted Home Grounds Increase Property Value

Few things pay such great and continuous divdiends of genuine satisfaction as well planted home grounds. There is the joy of creating beauty, the knowledge that the appearance of your home place is such that it will bear inspection of friends, neighbors and passers-by. Moreover, there is a tremendous satisfaction in knowing that your grounds give unmistakable evidence of good taste, culture and refinement These, together with the joy of living amid beautiful surroundings, repay you a hundred-fold for the small investment of money and time required.

Increases Property Value

It is interesting to know that, in addition to the enjoyment derived from well planted grounds, every tree, hedge, plant and vine you plant adds far more to the value of your property than its cost. In fact, you are actually paid for making your home attractive, not alone by the added pleasure and satisfaction of living in cheerful surroundings, but in actual dollars and cents. By making your property more attractive, you make it more valuable. Any real estate authority will tell you that a well planted place will bring far more money, if offered for sale or for rent, than the same place unplanted or poorly planted.

With the great wealth of plant material which the nurseryman can offer today, you can be sure of achieving beautiful and individual planting effects.

The modern way of planning is to plant the whole grounds, not just the foundation alone. Where space permits, the lot is divided by planting into such portions as the front yard or public area, side yard or semi-public area, the rear yard of private area and the service area.

Plan Before You Plant

To plan the grounds in this way you should make a little sketch plan, for it is easier to make changes with an eraser than to move plants after they are established. It need be only crudely drawn, but let it represent your own idea of how your place can be developed. Later your idea can be given to your nurseryman who will advise and assist you in achieving your ideal.

You will be surprised to see how much farther the dollar goes in buying plants for outdoor furnishings as compared to buying furnishings for the house.

Most houses appear bare and cold without the softening influence of planting about the house foundation. Use graceful flowering shrubs and other plants to take away the abrupt and harsh separation of house and grounds. The fragrance of flowers, the color and texture of foliage, the contrast of twig and berry are but part of the beauty you will enjoy from plants in the foundation planting. Every home needs careful planting.

N.H.A. DESIGN-OF-THE-MONTH

First in a new series of popular Canadian house plans, this "N.H.A. Design-of-the-Month" is a 1½-storey type in which the functional planning has allowed for variation of use to suit individual requirements. Comprising five standard rooms and bathroom, the plan provides a living room, kitchen-dinette and three bedrooms but has been arranged to allow use of the first floor bedroom as a dining room or as a childrens' playroom which could serve as a guest room when necessary.

Financial assistance in building new houses such as the one illustrated, is available to Canadians under the terms of the National Housing Act, 1944.

The kitchen fixtures are planned on the single wall or straight line basis, except for the position of the electric range which is at the rear of the kitchen. All the rooms have large windows providing adequate light and ventilation. The bathroom is on the first floor, a feature which is gaining popularity with Canadian home-owners. Complete privacy is afforded since access from the second-floor bedrooms to the bathroom is by means of the stair hall.

The photograph illustrates one type of construction for this design, brick veneer walls with wood siding on the gable ends. The owner made one change from the standard plan, substituting a group of three windows in the front elevation for the two windows shown in the sketch.

While this particular house is brick veneer, the working drawings are designed so that construction may be solid brick, block or wood frame with stucco, siding or shingle finish. This permits selection of an exterior finish to suit the individual.

Depending on the type of finish, the exterior dimensions are approximately 26 feet by 26 feet. For estimating costs, the floor area may be considered to be 1170 square feet.

Complete construction drawings for this plan, known as Design No. 502A, are available from Central Mortgage and Housing Corporation at minimum cost.

Division Bell Rings Three Times As Non-Confidence Vote Beaten

By GEORGE KITCHEN

OTTAWA, March 6—(CP). — The Commons talked itself into a confusing muddle of ballots yesterday as the division bells shrilled three times over Opposition non-confidence motions. The tests of strength, each ending in victory for Government forces, developed as the lengthy Throne Speech debate waned and sagged and revived again with a spirited Opposition demand that the Government extend expiring commercial rent controls.

Here, as the debate progressed, is the record of the divisions:

1. The Chamber first voted 107 to 89 to sustain Speaker Gaspard Fauteux in his ruling that a Social Credit sub-amendment to the main motion for adoption of the Throne Speech was out of order because it conflicted with another Progressive Conservative amendment.

2. The Chamber then voted 101 to 85 to defeat the Progressive Conservative amendment, which suggested that the Administration had failed to retain the confidence of the people.

3. The third division—108 to 74—came as members again supported Speaker Fauteux in the ruling that the Social Credit amendment, introduced a second time and calling for tax reductions and increased old age pensions, was out of order, this time on the grounds it involved the expenditure of public moneys, which can be proposed only by a minister of the Crown.

Conservatives Split

This third division was significant in that it produced an unexpected split in the ranks of the Progressive Conservative Opposition, with 12 members of that party voting with the Government to support the Speaker. A lone Liberal — James Sinclair (Vancouver North)— voted with the Opposition against the Speaker.

The side debate on rentals was touched off by M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, who earlier had lost out in an attempt to have the House adjourn its regular business to discuss the Government's plans to lift the commercial ceilings Monday.

Urging the Government to extend the controls, he expressed disappointment at Finance Minister Abbott's statement at the House opening that the Government would rely on the "just and reasonables" clause of the Prices Board regulations to holds down commercial rents once the ceilings were removed.

There still was time, he held for the Government to take action which would prevent small merchants from going out of business.

John T. Hackett (PC-Stanstead) said he did not believe ins 'dallying with sins" and pressed the Government to abandon all controls over rentals and let the provinces, who have jurisdecision over this feld in normal circumstances, take the appropriate action.

John Probe (CCF-Regina City) called on Mr. Abbott to go on the radio and announce that commercial rent controls will continue.

Use Daylight Bulbs To Ease Housework

Daylight bulbs for the home laundry centre make for better laundering more easily done.

The white light given off by these bulbs of blue glass is much more like natural daylight than the yellowish light from ordinary bulbs. It makes spots and stains easier to detect, and it reduces scorching during ironing. The first yellow tinge of a scorch shows up more clearly. A daylight bulb is often an advantage in sewing also, for it shows up true colors in thread and material.

Daylight bulbs nowadays come in either fluorescent or regular incandescent fixtures, and they cost only a little more than ordinary bulbs. To get the same amount of light from a daylight bulk as from a regular one, wattage must be increased by one half. When a 100-watt ordinary bulk has been satisfactory over the washer or ironing board, for example, a 150-watt daylight bulb will be needed.

Coldwell Denies CCF Working With LPP

OTTAWA, March 6 — (CP). — M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, reiterated last night in the Commons that his party will not collaborate "directly or indirectly" with the Labor-Progressive or Communist party in Canada.

There has been suggestions recently that the CCF and the Labor-Progressive parties were collaborating, said Mr. Coldwell, during continued debate on the throne speech. He read to the Commons a press statement he issued Jan. 22 to explain CCF views on attempts of the Labor-Progressive party to switch its support.

"We have always been opposed to dictatorships in each and every way," said Mr. Coldwell in reading from his statement, which went on to say that experience showed Communists were opposed to Socialist governments.

The move of the Labor-Progressive party to get behind the CCF was "simply a manoeuvre to liquidate" the CCF.

THINGS AREN'T SO BAD—That's the impression Prof. Arnaud Denjoy, of the University of Paris, said in an interview in Montreal. He said that Western Europe probably would not be able to stand up against Russian military might, but added he did not believe the USSR "is planning to begin a new war, either now or for some time." France, also said the mathematician, can get back on her feet—and without any major political upheavals. The Frenchman, 64-year-old Professor Arnaud Denjoy, one of France's mathematical "greats," is in Montreal for a four-day visit as part of a tour which has taken him to Romania, Bulgaria, Turkey, Haiti and the U.S. in the past four months.

Hitler Alive? No Comment

MUNICH, Germany, March 6—(AP). — United States army officials declined to express an opinion yesterday on a former German pilot's claim that Adolf Hitler escaped alive from Germany.

One high official said the story "sounds fantastic." But official comment was withheld until the pilot and his story have been carefully checked.

Arthur Friedrich Rene Von Angelotie-Mackensen told the story to United States officers in nearby Wolfratshausen Thursday.

The pilot said in a signed statement that Hitler and Eva Braun flew to Denmark in a Junkers-52 transport plane as the war ended. The last he saw of them was when they took off from Denmark by plane toward Spain, Mackensen said.

The German claims to have been an SS officer in Hitler's personal bodyguard.

Legislature Members To Visit Reformatories

TORONTO, March 6 — (CP). — A "wonderful" job is being done in the operation of provincial reform institutions and "I want you all to see it," Hon. George H. Dunbar, minister for that department, told members of the Ontario Legislature yesterday.

He was extending an invitation to them to visit the junior reformatory at Brampton next Tuesday. At unstated future dates Mr. Dunbar wanted them to pay visits to institutions at Bowmanville, Galt, Cobourg, Guelph and even Burwash if they cared for the long trip.

He wanted the views of the members on how the various institutions were being operated.

PUERTO RICO DEVELOPS HYDRO POWER — The $10,000,000 Caonillas Hydro-Electric and Irrigation project is the first step in Puerto Rico's move to change her principal source of power from steam-generated by expensive, imported oil to hydro-electric power. The 230-foot high power dam, shown here, nearing completion, is the island's proudest possession. It was financed all the way on a strict pay-as-you-go basis by the island's 2,000,000 population and is part of a $100,000,000 "industrial comeback" started by the Puerto Rican government which is causing a mild boom.

WINS FIRST — A Montreal artist who paints in the modern, expressionist vein has won first place in the Canadian judging of Olympic paintings. Fritz Brandtner, took top place with his oil painting "Breaking Away," a picture of two Canadian hockey players in motion which will be on exhibit in London this year, together with other international sports pictures. The artist, however, complains of the treatment of artists by Canadian sportsmen. "An artist gets little cooperation from sport people. An artist has to be around the players. He must catch their expressions and movements when they come out of play; when they finish a period; when they return to the dressing room. An artist cannot afford to buy all the tickets necessary for all the games. I tried to arrange with officials for a pass so that I could observe the thing I wanted to paint, but they thought I was just one of those people who wanted free tickets.

Abstract Art Contributive Teacher Explains its Nature

One of the most controversial subjects of the day "Abstract Painting" was taken up Friday afternoon at the studio meeting of the Women's Art Association in the YWCA. Mr. Percy M. Gardiner, artist and teacher of art in Toronto, was prepared to defend the cause of so many heated discussions during the 20th century. However, the audience listened attentively while he described the nature and development of the art. Abstract pictures by Picasso and his contemporaries on the screen were greeted with dismay, puzzlement and then amusement, but no opinions expressed.

Probably it was wise. The speaker reports reputations have been made and ruined by arguments on abstract art; there have been lawsuits; associations, and probably homes, have been broken up. The range of feeling today is from intense appreciation, to doubt, to anger.

"Abstract is a loose term in this connection," said Mr. Gardiner "but it covers these works of art, showing the impulse away from nature." There are three classes of paintings, some showing only slightly distorted natural forms, others almost non-recognizable and the non-objective type which has no form in nature. Taking the latter as an example, the speaker described the work as an effort by the painter to shift emphasis away from natural art and place it on plastic values—line, color, form, design, texture. "There is line and quality in all art," he said, "but in the abstract it is unattached and often unrelated to to the forms in nature."

"Art of a period is generally a reaction to what has gone before" partly explains the development. "When the designer is no longer the producer, there is a tendency to produce cheap and shoddy articles," Mr. Gardiner pointed out, noting that during the 19th century people seemed to have little time for the arts and began to take intense delight in the most obvious. Artists of that period seemed satisfied with the mundane and prosaic forms of nature."

About 1900 artists started a trend to put their own sentiments across and went ahead to paint scenes as seen in intense light. Reaction to the attempts was public opinion that they were trying to conceal art. Break of the impressionists led others into the two major directions — abstract and non-objective forms of art.

Two currents of thought are noticeable. First the attempts of the artist to analyze forms, and not imitate them, but make symbols on the canvas; to analyze shapes of nature to a geometrical conclusion; the desire to understand through a net set of terms. There is an intentional distortion of forms, often exaggerated to drive home the point. Using the three dimensions of space and aerial perspective, the cubists boil natural forms into geometrical designs which the casual observer may never be able to understand, even as to top or bottom.

Second, the romantic trend emphasizes feelings of line, color and quality. With twisting lines and distortion of shapes the painter expresses his emotional tendency. His work has a high-pitched staccato note and gives the idea that something was driving him to get it on the canvas. Color appears to have been put on in a form of shorthand when the artist was intensely aroused.

Two symbolical paintings that Mr. Gardiner included in the collection dealt with a world of symbols, intelligible to the artist alone.

To evaluate these works of art would require a scale of values fitting all aspects of life into one gigantic whole. Use of abstract painting in the work of architects was illustrated in the picture of a large school. Patterns in linoleum and wallpapers are taken from such designs. Many handicapped persons have taken it up as a therapy and find solace in producing.

To conclude, Mr. Gardiner said "Abstract art has made a tremendous contribution to the creative work of the past few decades."

Mrs. N. D. Seaton, president, introduced the speaker.

GIRLS' WORK BOARD

At a meeting of the CGIT Girls' Work Board this week Mrs. D. Bruce Gordon, convener of the camp committee suggested that folders be distributed to CGIT girls which are called "Coins for Camp" to enable them to save money for the holiday. She also reported buying a volley ball for the camp.

Discussions were held on the annual tea and it was decided it would be the only money-raising event of the year. It was agreed that if the girls desire to make articles for the bazaar table they should be urged to do so.

Miss Marion Pogue reported on the recent CGIT rally which was attended by Miss Elizabeth Kerr of Toronto. It was decided to send a letter of appreciation to Mrs. A. G. L. Nealands, chairman of the Ontario Girls' Work Board. Also to the merchants who cooperated and the radio and newspaper.

Reporting for the finance committee, Mrs. Charles Allen presented a budget for 1948 which amounts to $314. Plans were made for sending delegates to the Toronto CGIT convention this week-end.

It was agreed that in future seven members would be required to constitute a quorum.

Scotland Suffered Much At Hands of Film-makers

BY JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, March 6 —(CP)— Scottish members of parliament, who complained that neither England nor America film-makers understood their country, lost a House of Commons fight for an advisory committee to examine films to be shown in Scotland.

Col. Alan Gomme-Ducan, Conservative member for Perth, unsuccessfully moved an amendment to establish the committee during debate on the Cinematograph Films Bill. Willie Gallacher, Committee member for West Fife, was among those who supported him.

Col. Gomme-Duncan said Scotland had suffered much at the hands of film-makers.

"I warn members that there is another terrible one, called 'The Swordsman,' coming from Hollywood, and dealing with the highlands of Scotland. It will put anything that has gone before into the shade. The hero is called Larry.

"I understand that hitherto he has taken no part in Scottish life and affairs in the film industry and has been concerned more with thuggery and the wild west, which happy things he is now going to bring into the peaceful atmosphere of Scotland.

"This is indicative of the dangers that exist unless films are properly examined before they are put out to the public.
